HIS ROYAL HIGHNESS
THE PRINCE RÉGENT.

SIR,

AMIDST the numerous distinctions which confer extensive and permanent glory upon a Monarch, the encouragement of Literature and the advancement of Science will always prove the most illustrious. The present Volume is indeed a very simple monument in itself, but it exhibits a record which cannot find a parallel in the annals of any other nation ancient or modern. And yet even this collection of literary memoirs is no more than a slight sketch of the exalted triumph which Human Knowledge has gained in this country during the life of your Royal Highness, and under the auspicious protection of your august Father. If in that long and eventful period, the world has been distracted by wars and convulsed by revolutions, it is satisfactory to reflect that the utmost boundaries and remotest regions of the earth have been explored by British enterprize, and derived improvement from British genius. Such is the beneficial effect of our regulated freedom and the blessing of our constitution, that where our arms have been felt, the influence of our laws has commanded respect, and our scientific superiority has excited emulation. Thus have Morals and Letters con-separated what Victory has achieved and Commerce extended ; and thus it is that the intellectual energy of the National Character reflects lustre upon the GOVERNMENT from whose liberality it derives strength, and from whose wisdom it acquires continual opportunities of calling into active employment individual merit for the general good.

That your Royal Highness may have the satisfaction of seeing your firmness in the public councils productive of a lasting peace ; and the effects of your attention to the interests of Literature and the Arts spreading universally for the glory of these realms and the happiness of mankind, is the earnest prayer of

most dutiful

and devoted Servants,

THE EDITORS.

PREFACE.

NO person who has had any acquaintance with books can be insensible to the difficulties which obstruct the inquirer in his search after information concerning the lives and productions of those who have enlarged the sphere of science, or who have contributed to the stock of rational amusement. Even of such as have attained the highest degree of reputation, we have frequently to lament the want of correct and minute intelligence, the knowledge of which would increase our admiration and improvement, by enabling us to form a more exact estimate of their moral and literary character than can be drawn from the meagre memorials which have been handed down to us by their contemporaries. Few are the names recorded in the history of literature, of whom it can be said that biography is exhausted ; for of numbers whose works yield instruction and entertainment, not the least record can be found. Modern industry indeed has been usefully employed in rescuing forgotten merit from total oblivion, and in restoring to their proper owners valuable pieces, which either ignorance or want of taste had cast aside amidst the lumber of the schools and the extravagancies of fanaticism. Still much remains to stimulate the diligent to fresh exertions ; for such has been the carelessness of the two preceding centuries, with respect to their brightest ornaments, that no one who shall devote a portion of his time to the task of illustrating their personal history, or of ascertaining the number and description of their writings, will labor in vain. But at least the negligence of which we complain affords a lesson of caution with regard to existing genius, that those who come after us may not have reason to bring against us a similar accusation.

The advanced state of knowledge, with the consequent multiplication of books on all subjects, and the facility that is given to every species of inquiry, may truly be said to constitute the triumph of literature ; but, like every other honorable triumph, it brings in its train as many duties as trophies, that what has been laboriously acquired may become permanently beneficial. In proportion, therefore, as science is extended and the love of it increases, it is necessary to provide helps for those who want immediate information on the pursuits and merits of the numerous candidates for literary fame. With this view was formed the project of publishing a yearly report exclusively devoted to the actual state of Literature and the Arts; comprehending a separate Dictionary of Authors, another of the Professors of Painting, Engraving, Sculpture, &c.; and one of Musical Composers. It was also intended to have followed these leading departments with a statistical account of learned establishments and scientific institutions, in various parts of the British empire; notices of inventions and discoveries; and in short to have concentrated, in a moderate compass, an exact register of all matters connected with the progress of human knowledge. But however useful such a design appeared, and much as something of the kind is wanting, it was at length found that the compass proposed would not admit of satisfactory detail; and therefore it became expedient to make some alteration in the plan by detaching the Biographical divisions, and forming them into separate publications. The Dictionary of Living Authors is accordingly now offered to the Literary World, in a much more substantial form than it could have possibly been if confined to the limits it was originally intended to occupy. It will occur to the intelligent reader that the idea of such a work is not new, for there have been at least three attempts made towards a collection of this description in our own country, and within our remembrance; but what is singular and worthy of observation, the scheme approximating the nearest to that which now waits the public approbation, was one projected by an enlightened foreigner, and published at Berlin in 1791, with this title: "Das Gelehrte England oder Lexicon der Jeztlebenden Schriftsteller in Grossbritannien, Irland, und Nord-Amerika nebst einem Verzeichnis ihrer Schriften, V. Jahr 1770 bis 1790. Von Jeremias David Reuss, ordentlichen Professor der Philosophie und Unter Bibliothekar bey der Universitæts—Bibliothek zu Gottingen. 2 vols. 8vo." This "Alphabetical Register of all the Authors living in Great Britain, &c. with a catalogue of their publications;" met with so favorable a reception as to induce Professor Reuss, in 1804, to publish a Supplement to it in two volumes. It is surely not a little extraordinary that the plan of so useful a catalogue as this should never have occurred to any of our enterprising countrymen; but it is still more unaccountable that the biographical lists of Living Authors which have appeared among us should fall far short of the German work in extent and accuracy of information. The last, it is true, consists of a mere index of names, and a register of publications without memoir or observation; but the best of the English compilations passes over without notice many writers of the first order, and gives a very slender and imperfect account of others. The essential articles of dates, anecdotes, professions and pursuits, are slighted for splenetic remarks and idle criticism. Forgetful that a Dictionary of this class is principally valuable as a book of reference, and that as such it cannot be too copious in its facts, and simple in the narration; these compilers have related nothing where the subject required detail, while they have been prolix where they ought to have been silent.

With such errors and deficiencies in the collections of those who have preceded them in this course, the editors of the present volume have been careful to give as complete a catalogue of existing authors, accompanied by brief but accurate sketches of their memoirs, and a correct list of their publications, as could be obtained. It must be evident, upon the most hasty and superficial observation, that such a body of information could not possibly be collected and systematized without great labour and assistance. Much of what was necessary to be concentrated lay scattered in various directions; and it frequently happened that after a long and fatiguing search the object of inquiry was numbered with the dead.

Perfection is not in the pursuits of literature, any more than in the practice of morals; and it would be preposterous to look for an unerring guide in what depends upon human testimony. The Editors are aware that after all their efforts and caution, inquiry and diligence, many omissions may be detected; and that several mistakes have been committed, which they rely upon the liberal to excuse and the intelligent to rectify. In the progress of the work through the press, some lapses have been discovered, the correction of which has occasioned a Supplementary Alphabet, where many important additions will be found concerning living authors, and brief notices of others who have no longer a title to that distinction. But as it is of importance to the general reader that the register of existing writers should be accompanied by one of departed genius, it is intended to publish, at no distant day, A DICTIONARY OF DECEASED AUTHORS OF GREAT BRITAIN, corresponding in plan and arrangement with the present.

It may also be proper here to observe that the proposed "Dictionary of Living Artists, as Painters, Engravers, Sculptors and Architects," which was to have occupied a leading department in the Literary Calendar, will, for the same reasons as those which have led to an expansion of this volume, be published in a separate state. The materials for that work have already accumulated beyond what could have been well expected, and as no delay will retard the appearance of the volume beyond what may be requisite to render it accurate and complete, timely communications for that purpose are respectfully solicited on the behalf of our publisher.

There yet remains another division of the original plan which it is expedient to mention in this place, for the gratification of those persons who have been pleased to indulge an expectation of a variety of information respecting persons celebrated for their genius and talents. It was certainly intended to have given in alphabetical order Memoirs of the Musical Composers of the present day, with an arranged account of their published performances; but the necessity of such a work as that in the form of a Dictionary has been wholly superseded by the appearance of two volumes under the appropriate title of "Musical Biography;" upon which the approbation of the scientific world and the public at large has been already stamped, in the demand for a second edition.

Thus the deviation from the original plan leaves ample room for the execution of a periodical work, devoted to the sole object of Literary Information, while at the same time it provides distinct books of reference by which even the utility of such a Miscellany will be considerably increased.

But to return to the immediate object of the Register which is now submitted to the friends of literature. Independent of the general advantages resulting from the intelligence conveyed with respect to those persons who have eminently distinguished themselves in the world of letters; and which cannot but be serviceable to future biographers; it will be seen that the very list of publications given under each article, arranged according to the order of time in which they appeared, and the editions they have gone through, must be of incalculable benefit to AUTHORS, BOOKSELLERS, and the PUBLIC. The literary industry of the former is here exhibited in a conspicuous point of view, and many of those pieces which perhaps are regarded by the writer with parental affection as among his best efforts, but which by some means or other have been neglected, will stand a chance of attracting the attention of those who are best qualified to appreciate their merit. This of course must be in the same degree beneficial to publishers by bringing to light and promoting the sale of performances which, notwithstanding their intrinsic value, are now fast sinking to, or are absolutely buried in oblivion. To the studious and inquisitive also these separate catalogues will be peculiarly acceptable by enabling him to discover without any difficulty what has been printed on particular subjects by persons of whose talents as writers he has formed a high opinion.

It remains only to observe by way of explanation, that a few foreign names have obtained admission into this Dictionary on the ground that, as some of their works originally appeared in this country, or have been republished here, which is particularly the case with American productions, they may be considered as legally naturalized.

While thus the Editors submit their labours to the favourable judgment of the friends of Literature, with a confidence that the volume will be of some use as a Directory in giving ready information to those persons who wish for some intelligence concerning the present race of Authors and their works, they beg leave to solicit indulgence for unavoidable errors, and the communication of corrections and additions directed, free of expense, to their publisher.

A New System of Agriculture and Feeding Stock, 8vo. 1810.

ADAMS, JOHN, LL.D. one of the most active founders of the independence of the United States of America, was bred to the Law. At an early period of the war between those states and the mother country, he was appointed Ambassador to the Court of Versailles, and afterwards sent as Minister Plenipotentiary to Holland, where he exerted himself with such effect as to draw that republic into the alliance against Britain. After the establishment of American independence, Dr. A. was deputed Ambassador to several of the European powers. In 1789, when General Washington was elected President of the new republic, Dr. A. was chosen Vice President, and on the resignation of the former in 1796, he was advanced to the office of Chief Magistrate, which he held till 1800. Besides two Pamphlets, the one on Canon and Feudal Law, and the other of a political tendency, Dr. Adams is known in Europe as the author of

A Defence of the Constitution of Government of the United States of America, 3 v. 8vo. 1787-8, a new edition of which was published with the title of:—History of the Principal Republics in the World, 3 v. 8vo. 1794.

BELL, Rev. WILLIAM, D.D. Prebendary of St. Peter's, Westminster. He was educated at Magdalen College, Cambridge, was some time a Fellow of that Society, and afterwards became Domestic Chaplain to the late Princess Amelia, aunt to his Majesty, through whose interest he obtained his present preferment. In 1810, Dr. Bell transferred £15,200, 3 per cent. stock, to the University of Cambridge, in trust, to found eight new scholarships, for the sons, or the orphans of Clergymen of the Church of England, whose circumstances are such as not to enable them to bear the whole expence of sending their sons to the University. The first of Dr. B.'s publications was one of the Dissertations to which the prizes given by Lord Viscount Townsend to the University of Cambridge, were adjudged in 1756. He has written:

A Dissertation on the Causes which principally contribute to render a Nation populous, 4to. 1756.—Enquiry into the divine missions of John the Baptist and Jesus Christ, 8vo. 1760. 2d edit. under the title of:—Arguments in proof of the authenticity of the Narratives of the extraordinary Conception and Birth of St. John the Baptist, and the miraculous Conception and Birth of Jesus Christ, 8vo. 1795.—A Sermon preached in Lambeth Chapel at the Consecration of Dr. Thomas, Bishop of Rochester, 4to. 1774.—An attempt to ascertain and illustrate the authority, nature and design of the Lord's Supper, 8vo. 1780.—Supplement to the preceding, 8vo. 1790.—Last Sentiments of P. In 1791 he obtained the vicarage of Earlsam with Bowthorpe annexed, and in 1796 the rectory of Allhallows. He was for some time assistant librarian of the British Museum. In the preface to vol. vi. of his last publication, The Anecdotes of Literature, Mr. Beloe says: "Of works of this description and perhaps of every other, I shall on this occasion take my leave; and he who has written and published not less than forty volumes, which is my case, may well congratulate himself, first, that Providence has graciously spared him for so long a period; secondly, that sufficient health and opportunity have been afforded; and lastly, that he has passed through a career so extended and so perilous without being seriously implicated in personal or literary hostilities." He has written:—

Ode to Miss Boscawen, 4to. 1783.—The Rape of Helen, from the Greek of Caluthus, with notes, 4to. 1786.—Poems and Translations, 8vo. 1788.—The History of Herodotus, from the Greek, with notes, 4 v. 8vo. 1791.—Aldiphron's Epistles, from the Greek, 8vo. 1791.—The Attic Nights of Aulus Gellius translated, 3 v. 1795.—Miscellanies, consisting of Poems, Classical Extracts and Oriental Apologues, 3 v. 12mo. 1795.—Arabian Nights' Entertainments, from the French, 4 v. 12mo. . . .—Joseph, from the French of Bitanbé, 2 v. 12mo. . . .—Anecdotes of Literature and scarce Books, 6 v. 8vo. 1806—1812.—Mr. B. in association with Rev. BERKELEY, (MARY,) Countess Dowager of. This Lady, whose case has recently occupied so large a portion of public attention, was one of the daughters of William Cole, a butcher, of Wootton, near Gloucester, who died in 1783, in such low circumstances, that his children were obliged to go out to service. She had previously attracted the notice of the late Earl of Berkeley, whose family mansion is in the neighbourhood of her native place; and a marriage is asserted to have taken place between them in 1785. Their first child was born in 1786, and was always styled and treated as heir apparent to the Earldom. Another marriage took place at Lambeth, in 1796, but for above a year afterwards, the Lady still went by the name of Miss Tudor, which she had assumed at the commencement of her connection with his Lordship; so that it was not till 1797, that she was acknowledged as his wife. The Earl died in 1810, leaving several children. On this event the claim of the family honours by the eldest son became the subject of parliamentary investigation; the alleged marriage in 1785, was not admitted, and the first-born son after the second union, was declared the legitimate successor to the title. After this decision of the House of Lords, the Countess published a statement for the purpose of vindicating her character, and producing additional testimony in behalf of the legitimacy of her eldest son. It is entitled:

An Address to the House of Peers of the United Kingdom, 8vo. 1812.

BERWICK, Rev. EDWARD, Vicar of Leixlip, Co. Dublin, and Rector of Clongish, Co. Longford, Ireland; a native of the County of Down, educated at Trinity College, Dublin. While a student in that seminary in 1775, Mr. B. was distinguished for his spirited and successful opposition to the arbitrary proceedings of the then Provost, Hutchinson, who deprived him of his scholarship for refusing to vote in favor of a candidate of his recommendation to represent the University in Parliament. Mr. B. appealed to the visitors of the College, who, in the absence of the Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor, are the Archbishops of Armagh and Dublin. During three days the prerogatives of the Academical Sovereign, and the privileges of the freeholders were solemnly discussed in a crowded Hall, and by the deliberate sentence of the judges, Mr. B. was in the most honorable manner restored to his situation in the College. Soon afterwards he entered into holy orders, and was collated by the late Dr. Percy, Bishop of Dromore, to the Vicarage of Tullylish, Co. of Down; which he resigned in 1795, on obtaining his present preferment. His publications are:

BICKERSTAFF, ISAAC, a native of Ireland, and one of the most successful modern dramatic writers. He was born about 1735, was appointed one of the pages to Lord Chesterfield, when Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in 1746, and was afterwards an Officer of Marines. We are informed by the Editor of the last edition of the Biographia Dramatica, (Mr. Stephen Jones) that "he is said to be still living at some place abroad to which a deed without a name has banished him, and where he exists poor and despised by all orders of people." He is the Author of:—

BIDLAKE, JOHN, D. D. Chaplain to the Prince Regent and the Duke of Clarence, and many years Master of the Grammar School, Plymouth. Being the son of a jeweller at Plymouth, he was educated at that seminary, and afterwards at Christ Church, Oxford. He was appointed Bampton Lecturer in 1811, and while in the pulpit delivering the third of his discourses, he was seized with severe indisposition which terminated in total blindness. He is now not only without preferment, but has been obliged by this misfortune to resign the curacy of Stonehouse, from which the principal part of his income was derived, and the measure of his afflictions has been filled up by a recent attack of paralysis. A statement of his case was made public in June 1813, and a new edition of his Bampton Lectures announced, in order to produce a fund for his future support. He has written:

A Sermon preached at Stonehouse, Plymouth, Oct. 1786, before the Subscribers to a Sunday School, 4to. —A Sermon on the laying of the Foundation-stone of St. George's Chapel, East Stonehouse, 4to. 1787.—Elegy supposed to be written on re-visiting the place of a former residence, 4to. 1788.—A Sermon on the Slave-trade, 4to. 1788.—A Sermon before the Society of Free and Accepted Masons, Sept. 28, 1790, (the day appointed for the interment of the Duke of Cumberland, Grand Master of England) 4to.—Poems, 4to. 1794.—Sermons on Various Subjects, v. 1, 8vo. 1795, v. 2, 1799, v. 3, 1808.—The Sea, a poem, 8vo. 1796.—The Country Parson, a poem, 8vo. 1797.—Eugenio, or the Precepts of Prudentius, a moral tale, 12mo. 1799.—The Summer's Eve, a poem, 8vo. 1800.—Virginia, or the Fall of the Decemvirs, trag. 8vo. 1800.—Youth, a poem, 8vo. 1802.—Poetical Works, cr. 8vo. 1804.—Introduction to the Study of Geography, 12mo. 1808.—The Truth and Consistency of Divine Revelation, with Remarks on the contrary Extremes of Infidelity and Enthusiasm, in 8 discourses preached at Bampton's Lecture in 1811, 8vo. BINGLEY, WILLIAM, A. M. F. L. S. of Christchurch, Hants, and late of St. Peter's College, Cambridge, a native of Yorkshire, who being left an orphan at a very early age, was designed by his friends for the profession of the law, in which he was for some time educated. His own inclination, however, leading him to prefer the church, he went in 1795 to Cambridge, and whilst an undergraduate there, made two Tours in Wales, which furnished the subject of his first publication. Of his Animal Biography there are two German translations, and one in the French language. A few years since Mr. B. edited the "Correspondence between the Countesses of Pomfret and Hertford," all the copies of the second edition of which were destroyed by the fire that consumed the printing office of Mr. Gillett. He has for several years past been engaged upon a "History of Hampshire," undertaken under very powerful patronage and support.

BLAGDEN, FRANCIS WILLIAM. In 1805 this gentleman suffered an imprisonment of six months in the King's Bench, as the author of a suppressed pamphlet with the signature of Aristides, reflecting on the naval administration of Earl St. Vincent. In 1809, Mr. B. launched still farther into the tempestuous ocean of politics, and commenced a Sunday paper under the title of the Political Register, in avowed opposition to that of Cobbett, but was ruined by the speculation. He long had in his possession a copy of The Book, as it was emphatically denominated, and announced his intention of publishing its contents in his paper, but was prevented by an injunction from the Lord Chancellor. Besides some anonymous pamphlets, he has published:

Modern Discoveries or a Collection of Facts and Observations principally relative to Natural History, 2 v. 12mo. 1802.—(In Association with the late Rev. F. Prevost) *Mooriana, or Select Extracts from the works of Dr. J. BLIGH, ARTHUR, Esq.

Poetical Works, 1806.

BLIGH, WILLIAM, Esq. Rear-Admiral of the White. In 1787, being then a Lieutenant, he was appointed to the command of his Majesty's ship Bounty, fitted out for the purpose of conveying young plants of the bread-fruit-tree from Otaheite to the West Indies. The ship arrived without accident at Otaheite, and had sailed away laden with plants when a mutiny broke out, headed by Fletcher

Christian, the master's mate. Captain Bligh, with such of the officers and seamen as would not join the malcontents, to the number of eighteen, was forced into an open boat, without arms, and a very scanty stock of provisions. After suffering incredible hardships, the sixteen survivors at length reached Batavia. The Captain on his return to England published an account of these transactions. In 1805, he was appointed governor of New South Wales. The colony was then in great distress, to alleviate which he found it necessary to enforce regulations that excited great discontent in many individuals. In Jan. 1808, he was deposed by the military, headed by Lieut. Col. Johnston, who, however, was brought to trial on the arrival of the parties in England in 1811, and sentenced to be cashiered. Admiral B.'s publications are:

Narrative of the Mutiny on board his Majesty's ship Bounty, and the subsequent voyage of part of the crew in the ship's boat from Tofoa, one of the Friendly Islands, to Timor, 4to. 1790.—A Voyage to the South Sea in his Majesty's ship Bounty (including the preceding), 4to. 1792.—Answers to certain Assertions contained in an Appendix to a Pamphlet, entitled "Minutes of the Proceedings on the Court-martial held at Portsmouth, Aug. 12, 1792, on ten persons charged with Mutiny, on board his Majesty's ship the Bounty," (this Appendix was written by Mr. Edward Christian, brother to Fletcher C.) 4to. 1794.—In the 12th volume of the Trans. of the Soc. of Arts, are three papers by Capt. B. respecting the plants conveyed by him to the West Indies.

which county he is also a Magistrate. He is a native of Nottingham, where his father was a schoolmaster, who by four wives had thirteen children: four of these were sons, to whom he gave the names of the four evangelists. Dr. B. was for many years minister of St. Edmund's, a Chapel of Ease in Dudley, and on leaving it in 1806, to enter upon the rectory of Tedstone Delamere, was presented by his congregation with a valuable piece of plate "as a token of their affection and esteem for his long, zealous, and faithful services." In 1812 he returned to the former parish, on being presented by Lord Viscount Dudley and Ward to the living of Dudley. In 1810 Dr. B. had the affliction to lose his eldest son, a promising youth, nearly fourteen years of age, in consequence of an accident occasioned at school by gunpowder. He is the author of:

BREE, ROBERT, M.D. a native of Warwickshire, educated under Dr. Thomas Edwards, of Coventry, and at Univ. Coll. Oxford. After attending the hospitals and lectures in London, he went to Edinburgh to complete his professional education. In 1781, he was elected physician to the county hospital, at Northampton, and afterwards removed to Leicester, where he was chosen physician to the general infirmary. This office he resigned in 1793, on account of an asthma with which he was attacked; and in prosecution of a plan which he conceived likely to prove beneficial in that disease, he took a captain's commission in the Leicestershire militia, and joined that regiment in 1794. From this change he received such benefit that he determined the following year to return to the exercise of his profession, and settled at Birmingham, as physician to the general hospital in that town. Dr. B. has published the result of his observations and researches respecting the disorder which he successfully combated in his own person, under the title of

A practical Inquiry on disordered Respiration, 8vo. 1797. 3d edit.

BREWER, GEORGE, son of Mr. John B. well known in his time as a connoisseur in the arts. He was born in 1766, and early in life entered the navy as a midshipman. In 1791, he obtained the rank of lieutenant in the Swedish service; but on the prospect of a long peace he was prevailed upon to engage at home in the profession of the law, which he has since followed as an attorney. He has written:

BROOKE, N. M. D. of Bath. This gentleman left England in 1785 to make an investigation by authority, of the commerce of Italy with Great Britain; but on the invasion of the former country by the French, he was obliged to leave it with the loss of considerable property. Since the publication of the letters which he wrote on that occasion, Dr. B. has been afflicted with blindness. Before he left this country, he presented to the Chancellor of the Exchequer a plan for the improvement of our foreign commerce, which, during his absence, was carried into a law, and produced an important accession to the revenue. In his publication, Dr. B. has expressed a hope, that his service might experience some reward, at a time when it would be peculiarly acceptable. His work is entitled:

Observations on the Manners and Customs of Italy, with Remarks on the vast Importance of British Commerce on that Continent, 8vo. 1798.

BROTHERS, RICHARD, a native of Placentia, Newfoundland, formerly a Lieutenant in the Navy. This crack-brained fanatic, about twenty years ago, excited a considerable share of public attention. In his first publication, he declared himself to be the nephew of the Almighty, and the Prince of the Hebrews, who was to restore the Jews to their ancient privileges, and to lead them to the land of Canaan. He also predicted the destruction of the city of London by an earthquake, and many other absurdities. Extravagant as were these pretensions, there were not wanting persons distinguished for abilities, who openly asserted the divinity of his mission. Among these the most conspicuous was Nathaniel Brassey Halhed, Esq. a Member of Parliament, and a gentleman eminent for his extensive attainments in classical, and particularly in oriental literature. Several pamphlets were published on the subject, and such was the infatuation of a few deluded persons, that they sold all they possessed, in order to be ready to accompany the prophet to the Holy Land. This mad enthusiast was at length properly noticed by government, and confined as a lunatic. His publications are:—

A Revealed Knowledge of the Prophecies and Times, Book I. wrote under the direction of the Lord God, and published by his sacred command; containing with other great and remarkable things, not revealed to any other person on earth, the Restoration of the Hebrews to Jerusalem, by the year 1798, under the revealed Prince and Prophet, 8vo. 1794.—A Revealed Knowledge of the Prophecies and Times, Book II. containing the Sudden and Perpetual Fall of the Turkish, German, and Russian Empires, 8vo. 1794.—An Exposition of the Trinity, with a farther Elucidation of Daniel, chap. xii. one letter to the King, and two to Mr. Pitt, 8vo. 1795.—A Letter to Miss Cott, the recorded daughter of King David, and future Queen of the Hebrews, 8vo. 1798.—A Description of Jerusalem, with the Garden of Eden in the centre, 1802.—A Letter to his Majesty and her Majesty also, a poem, 8vo. 1802.

BROUGH, ANTHONY, Esq. a merchant of London.

BROUGHAM, HENRY, Esq. F. R. S. Barrister at Law, M. P. in the last Parliament for Camelford, and formerly a co-operator in the Edinburgh Review. By his exertions while in Parliament, for procuring the repeal of the Orders in Council, and his opposition to the Leather-tax, Mr. B. acquired great popularity; and during the recent proceedings respecting the Princess of Wales, he acted as the professional adviser of her Royal Highness. Besides some papers in Nicholson's Journal, and the Phil. Trans. he has written:

An Inquiry into the Colonial Policy of the European Powers, 2 v. 8vo. 1803.—On the State of the Nation, 8vo. many editions.—Two Speeches by him have been published, viz. Speech in the H. of Commons on the State of Commerce and Manufactures, 8vo. 1812.—Speech to his Friends assembled at Liverpool, (for which town he offered himself a Candidate at the General Election,) Oct. 16, 1812, 8vo.

BRYDGES, Sir SAMUEL EGERTON, eldest surviving son of Edward Brydges, late of Wootton Court, in Kent, Esq. by Jemima, daughter and co-heir of the Rev. William Egerton, LL.D. 3rd son of the Hon. Tho. Egerton, of Tatton Park, in Cheshire, Esq. who was third son of John, second Earl of Bridgewater. He was born at Wootton, Nov. 30, 1762; was of Queen's College, Cambridge, from Oct. 1780 to Jan. 1783; entered of the Middle Temple in June 1784, and called to the bar in Nov. 1787; succeeded, on the death of his elder brother, in Oct. 1807, to the high family claims of inheritance; was elected a Knight of the Chapteral Order of St. Joachim in Nov. following; and chosen representative in Parliament for the borough of Maidstone at the general election in Oct. 1812. Sir S. E. B. has distinguished himself in almost every sort of polite literature, but more particularly as a critic of English poesy, in which character it is not too much to say that he stands unrivalled by any living author. His published works are:

Sonnets, and other Poems, 8vo. 1785; 4th ed. 1808.—Mary de Clifford, nov. 8vo. 1792; 2d. edit. 1800.—Arthur Fitz Albin, nov. 2 v. 1798; 2d edit. 1799.—Tests of National Wealth, 8vo. 1799.—Theatrum Poetarum Anglicanorum, being a new edition, with additions, of a work under the same title, by Edward Philips, nephew of Milton, 8vo. 1800.—Le Forester, nov. 3 v. 8vo. 1802.—Memoirs of Peers in the reign of James I. 8vo. 1803.—Censura Literaria, 10 v. 8vo. 1805-1809.—The British Bibliographer, (in conjunction with Joseph Haslewood, Esq.) 3 v. 8vo. 1810-1812.—Collins's Peerage, with large additions, 9 v. 8vo. 1812.—The Sylvan Wanderer (the first work printed at the private press of Lee Priory, Kent) roy. 8vo. 1813.—The Ruminator, a Series of Moral, Critical and Sentimental Essays, 2 v. 8vo. 1813.—And a multiplicity of articles, chiefly biographical and antiquarian, in the Gentleman's Magazine.

BRYDONE, PATRICK, Esq. F.R.S. Lond. and Edin. F.A.S. Comptroller of the Stamp Office. This gentleman, formerly in the army, was travelling preceptor to Mr. Wm. Beckford of Somerly, to whom he addressed the Letters of which his Tour through Sicily and Malta consists. Besides that work, published in 2 v. 8vo. 1773, he is the author of some papers in the Phil. Trans.

BUCHAN, (DAVID STEWART ERSKINE) EARL OF, elder brother of Lord Erskine, succeeded his father in 1767. This nobleman, while Lord Cardross, commenced his political career under the patronage of the late Earl of Chatham in the diplomatic department; but he has passed the greater part of his life in literary retirement, and was particularly active in procuring the institution of the Scottish Soc. of Antiquaries in 1780. He married in 1771, Margaret daughter of William Fraser, of Frasersfield, Esq. but has no issue. His lordship is the anonymous author of various pieces of fugitive poetry and some letters in which he warmly embraced the cause of Mary Queen of Scots against Dr. Robertson, and has published:

A Speech intended to have been spoken to the Peers of Scotland, Oct. 17, 1780, 4to.—Essay on the Lives and Writings of Fletcher of Saltoun and the Poet Thomson, 8vo. 1792.—His Lordship has also contributed several papers to the Trans. of the Soc. of Antiquaries of Scotland.

BUCHANAN, CLAUDIUS, D. D. Memb. of the Asiatic Society. This divine, who left England in 1796 for India, was Viceprovost of Fort William, Bengal, and since his return has distinguished himself by his zeal for the propagation of Christianity in the British territories in the East. In 1804 he gave 200 guineas to the Univ. of Cambridge as a prize for the best English prose dissertation on the best means of civilizing the British empire in India, and of diffusing the light of religion through the Eastern world. Dr. B. married Mary, youngest daughter of Henry Thompson, Esq. of Kirby Hall, Yorkshire, who died in 1813. He has published:

The First Four Years of the College of Fort William in Bengal, 4to. 18.—A Memoir of the Expediency of an Ecclesiastical Establishment for British India, 4to. 1805. 2d edit.—The Star in the East, a Sermon for the Benefit of the Soc. for Missions to Africa, and the East, 1809. 8th ed. 1813.—Three Sermons on the Jubilee, 8vo. 1810.—The Light of the World, a Sermon preached before the Soc. for Missions to Africa and the East, June 12, 1810, 8vo. 3d ed. 1813.—Christian Researches in Asia, 8vo. 1811. 5th ed. 1813.—The Three Eras of Light, being two Discourses preached before the Univ. of Cambridge, 1811. 2d ed. 1813.—The Healing Waters of Bethesda, a Sermon preached at Buxton, June 2, 1811.—Sermons on interesting Subjects, 8vo. 1812.—A brief View of the State of the Colonies of Great Britain and of her Asiatic Empire, in respect to religious instruction, 8vo. 1813.—A Letter to the Hon. E. Ind. Comp. in Reply to the Statements of Charles Buller, Esq. M.P. concerning the Idol Jaggernaut, 8vo. 1813.—An Apology for promoting Christianity in India, 8vo. 1813.

BUCHANAN, FRANCIS, M. D. F.R. and A. S. Lond. and Fell. of the Asiatic Soc. Calcutta, in the medical service of the E. Ind. Comp. Besides several papers in the Asiatic Researches and the Trans. of the Linnean Soc. he is the author of: A Journey from Madras, through the Countries of the Mysore, Canara, and Malabar, 3 v. 4to. 1807.

BUCHANAN, REV. JOHN LAMNE, a native of Menteith, Perthshire, N. B. educated at the Grammar School at Callendar, and the Univ. of Glasgow. He was many years assistant to the Rev. Mr. Menzies, minister of Comrie, on whose death he went as missionary minister to the Isles from the Church of Scotland. He afterwards came to London and devoted himself to the study of Celtic antiquity. The first of his works was prepared for the public eye by Dr. Wm. Thomson, from a very large mass of materials, and occasioned a quarrel between Mr. B. and his literary assistant, the former being highly displeased with the latter for not giving the world a folio instead of an octavo, on which an appeal was made by both parties to the editors of the European Magazine. His publications have been: Travels in the Western Hebrides, from 1782 to 1790, 8vo. 1793.—A Defence of the Scots Highlanders in general, and some learned Characters in particular, 8vo. 1794.—A General View of the Fishery of Great Britain, drawn up for the Consideration of the Undertakers of the North British Fishing, 8vo. 1794.

BUCKNER, Rt. Rev. JOHN, LL. D: Bp. of Chichester and Rector of St. Giles's, Middlesex. This prelate, a native of Chichester, or its immediate vicinity, was educated at the Charter-house and the Univ. of Cambridge; he was afterwards domestic Chaplain to the late Duke of Richmond, and officiated in the same capacity with the regiment which his Grace commanded at the taking of the Havannah in 1762. It was through the interest of that nobleman, as it is believed, that Dr. B. was elevated to the mitre in 1797. His only publications are:

A Sermon preached at St. Peter's, Westminster, before the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, on the Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 29, 1798, 4to.—A Charge delivered to the Clergy of his Diocese at his Lordship's primary Visitation, 1798, 4to. 1799.—Sermon before the House of Lords, Feb. 5, 1812, 4to.

BURDETT, Sir FRANCIS, Bart. M. P. for Westminster, was educated at Westminster School, and for a time assumed his mother's name of Jones on succeeding to certain estates which devolved in the female line. In 1793, he married Sophia, youngest daughter of Thomas Coutts, Esq. an eminent banker, and in 1797 succeeded his grandfather in his title and estate. In 1796 he commenced his parliamentary career as representative for Boroughbridge; in 1802 he was returned after an extraordinary contest for Middlesex, and since 1807 has been one of the members for Westminster. Sir Francis has been a steady opponent of administration, and has uniformly vindicated the cause of those who have suffered from what he conceived an undue stretch of prerogative or power. With this feeling he penned the Address mentioned below, which occasioned his confinement in the Tower by a vote of the House of Commons—a measure which produced an extraordinary ferment in the metropolis. Many of his speeches in parliament have been printed, but the only production of his pen that has been given to the public is:

Address to his Constituents in a letter dated Mar. 23, 1810, denying the power of the House of Commons to imprison the people of England, 8vo.

BURDON, WILLIAM, M. A. Welbeck Street, Cavendish Square. This gentleman was born at Newcastle upon Tyne 1764, and educated at the Free Grammar School of that town, whence he removed to Emanuel College, Cambridge, 1782; A. B. 1786; Fellow and A. M. 1788. Not chusing to take orders he resigned his Fellowship in 1796, and in 1798, married the daughter of Lieut. General Dickson, who died in 1806. As a coal-owner he resides part of the year at Hartford, near Morpeth, and the remainder in London. He has published:

Three Letters to the Bishop of Landaff, 8vo. 1795.—Examination of the Merits and Tendency of the Pursuits of Literature, 2 parts, 8vo. 1799.—A Vindication of Pope and Grattan from the attacks of an anonymous defamer, 1799.—Various Thoughts on Politics, Morality, and Literature, 8vo. 1800.—Materials for Thinking, 8vo. 1803. 2 v. 8vo. 1812.—Unanimity in the present Contest recommended, 8vo. 1803.—Advice addressed to the lower Ranks, 1803.—The Life and Character of Bonaparte, 12mo. 1804.—Letters on the Affairs of Spain, 1809.—A Constitution for the Spanish Nation, from the Spanish of Estrada, 1810.—Introduction to the History of the Revolution in Spain, from the Spanish of Estrada, 1810.—Treatise on the Privileges of the House of Commons, 8vo. 1810.—Examination of the Dispute between Spain and her American Colonies, 8vo. 1811.—Letters on the Annual Subscription to the Sons of the Clergy, 8vo. 1811.—Cobbett and the Reformers impartially examined, 1813.

BURGES, Sir JAMES BLAND, Bart. LL.D. only son of George B. Esq. by the Hon. Anne Wichnoure, daughter of James Lord Somerville. He was born at Gibraltar 1752, educated at Westminster School and University College, Oxford, which he left in 1773; and devoting himself to the study of the law, was called to the bar in 1777. In 1787 and 1790 he was elected M. P. for Helston, Cornwall; in 1789 appointed one of the Under-secretaries of State for the Foreign Department; in 1794 one of the Commissioners of the Privy Seal; and in 1795 having resigned the secretaryship was created a baronet, and appointed Knight Marshal of his Majesty's Household for life. Sir James has been thrice married, 1. to the Hon. Elizabeth Noel, sister of the present Viscount Wentworth, who died in 1779 without issue; 2. to Anne, third daughter of Lieut. Col. Montolieu, by whom he has a numerous family; and 3. in 1812 to Lady Margaret Fordyce, sister to the Earl of Balcarras. His publications are:

BURGESS, THOMAS, D.D. Bishop of St. David's, and Prebendary of Durham, F.R.S. & F.A.S. son of a grocer at Odiham, Hants, where he was born about 1755. He was educated at Winchester School, and at Corpus Christi Coll. Oxford, of which he became Fellow and Tutor. An early display of extraordinary literary abilities introduced him to the notice of the Bishop of Durham, who gave him a prebend, first in the cathedral of Salisbury, (over which see he then presided), and afterwards at Durham. Here he continued till the administration of Mr. Addington, who had been his cotemporary at Winchester and Oxford, and who unsolicited conferred on him, in 1802, the vacant see of St. David's. With the most exemplary attention to the concerns of his diocese, his lordship has planned and formed a society for the foundation of a provincial college within it for the education of ministers for the Welch church, who have not the means of an university education. In 1796, Dr. B. married Miss Bright, of Durham, half sister of the Marchioness of Winchester. His publications are:

BURNEY, CHARLES, Mus. D. F.R.S. Member of the National Institute at Paris, and Organist of Chelsea Hospital, born at Shrewsbury in 1726, educated partly at the Free School of that town and partly at Chester. In 1741, he returned to Shrewsbury and studied music under his half brother, Mr. James B. till in 1744 he was sent to London and placed for three years under the tuition of Dr. Arne. He was afterwards for nine years organist at Lynn, Norfolk, and in 1760 returned to London, where, from the zeal of his friends, and the astonishing performances of his eldest daughter, then only eight years old, he entered upon his profession with great reputation and profit. The university of Oxford conferred on him the degree of Dr. of Music in 1769; and the following year he set out on his travels through France and Italy, with a view to collect materials for a history of music which he had projected; after which he made another tour for a similar purpose through the Netherlands, Germany, and Holland. Dr. B. has been twice married, and had eight children, several of whom have exhibited public proofs of very superior talents. He has published:

The Cunning Man, op. from Rousseau's Devin du Village, and adapted to his music, 8vo. 1766.—Essay toward a History of Comets, 1769.—The present State of Music in France and Italy, or the Journal of a Tour through those countries, 8vo. 1771.—A Letter from the late Signor Tartini, with the original Italian, 4to. 1771.—The present State of Music in Germany, the Netherlands, and United Provinces, or the Journal of a Tour through those countries, 2 v. 8vo. 1773.—General History of Music from the earliest ages to the present period, 4to. v. 1. 1776. v. 2. 1779. v. 3 & 4. 1789.—An Account of the Musical Performances in Westminster Abbey in Commemoration of Handel, 4to. 1785.—Memoirs of the Life and Writings of Metastasio, 3 v. 8vo. 1796.—In the Phil. BURNEY, CHARLES, D.D. LL.D. F.R. and A.S. King's Chaplain, Rector of St. Paul's, Deptford, Vicar of Hern Hill, Kent, Professor of Ancient Literature in the Royal Academy, and Honorary Librarian to the Royal Institution. This gentleman, a son of the preceding, married a daughter of the late Dr. Rose, Master of the Grammar School, Chiswick, which he also kept for some time; he afterwards conducted an academy at Greenwich, which he relinquished about two years ago in favor of his son. He is one of the most distinguished Greek Scholars of the present day, and has afforded some capital specimens of his skill in several masterly criticisms in the Monthly Review. He has published:

Appendix ad Lexicon Græco-Latinum, a Joan. Scapula constructum, et ad alia Lexica Græca, e cod. Manuscripto olim Askeviano, in lucem nunc primum vindicata, 8vo. Mr. B. is a gentleman formerly commanded a regiment of cavalry in the service of the Roman Catholic, but not a man of weight among those of his own communion. He was Nabob of the Carnatic. In his journey, has been characterized by Dr. Milner, which was made over land to India, and as "a decided enemy to the hierarchy of which he has published an account, his church." His publications have been: he met with extraordinary difficulties and hardships by land, and encountered the horrors of shipwreck by sea in his passage from Goa to Madras. Having escaped these perils, he had new sufferings to endure from Hyder Ali, on whose coast he was thrown, and by whom he was made captive. At length he was released by General Matthews; afterwards proceeded to Bengal, visited various places in the East Indies, and finally returned from China to England. He has published:

A Journey over land to Indie, comprahending his shipwreck and imprisonment with Hyder Ali, and his subsequent transactions in the East, 4to. 1795.—(An abridgment of this work was published in 12mo. in 1796, but apparently without the consent of the author.)—Letter to the Marquis of Lorn, on the present times, 8vo. 1798.

CANNING, Rt. Hon. GEORGE, M. P. for Liverpool, son of George C. Esq. barrister at law, a branch of the Cannings of Garvagh, in the county of Londonderry, but who settled at an early period of life in London. His son, born about 1770, was educated at Eton, and Christ Church College, Oxford. Whilst a senior scholar at the former seminary, he was a principal contributor, in association with Messrs. J. and R. Smith, and J. Frere, to the Microcosm, a well known periodical paper, written entirely by Etonians. The papers by him are signed B. At the university Mr. C. gained several prizes by his compositions, and was, with Messrs. Frere and Ellis, a principal conductor of the Antijacobin, or Weekly Examiner, in 1798. On leaving college, he commenced the usual studies for the profession of the law, from which he was soon diverted into the field of politics. In 1793 he obtained a seat in parliament for Newtown, I. of Wight; in 1796 was elected for Wendover, and appointed one of the under secretaries of state, and receiver-general of the Alienation Office. In 1801, on the retirement of Mr. Pitt from power, Mr. C. resigned his situations, and was the following year returned for the Irish borough of Tralee. In 1803, when Mr. Pitt returned to the helm, Mr. C. became Treasurer of the Navy, which office he resigned on the death of his patron in 1806, when he was elected M. P. for Sligo. In 1807, on the formation of Mr. Perceval's administration, he was returned for Hastings, and became secretary of state for foreign affairs; but in 1809 a misunderstanding with his colleague, Lord Castlereagh, respecting the conduct of the fatal expedition against Walcheren, occasioned his resignation, and a duel, in which Mr. Canning was wounded. Since that time he has not filled any public station: he is supposed to be politically attached to the Marquis Wellesley, and at the general election, in 1812, was chosen one of the representatives of Liverpool. Mr. C. is married to a daughter of the late General Scott, sister to the Duchess of Portland, with whom he received a considerable fortune. Most of the speeches mentioned below were published without his sanction :

CAREY, WILLIAM, LL.D. Professor of the Sungskrit, Bengalee, and Mahratta Languages in the College of Fort William, Bengal. Till his 24th year, he was a working-shoemaker; received ordination among the Calvinistic Baptists, and went in 1793 as a Missionary to Bengal. The literary labours of this industrious man and his colleagues have recently been interrupted by the destruction of the printing-office established in the Mission-house, at Serampore, which in March 1812 was consumed by fire together with 2,000 reams of English paper, and founts of type in fourteen languages besides English. Within a few months after intelligence of this disaster was received in England, a sum sufficient to repair the loss, estimated at 12,000*l.* was raised by voluntary subscriptions. Dr. C. has written :

An Enquiry into the Obligations of Christians to use means for the Conversion of the Heathen, 8vo. 1792.—A Grammar of the Sungskrit Language, fol. 1806. (In association with Joshua Marshmao.) The Itamayana of Valmeeki, from the original Sungskrit, with Notes, 4to. Vol. I.

Soc.* and in the Phil. Trans.

CARLISLE, (FREDERIC HOWARD) EARL of, K. G. born 1748, succeeded his father 1758. He was educated at Eton, and at King's College, Cambridge, and at an early age was distinguished for his classical attainments and poetical talents. In 1777 he commenced his political career as Treasurer of his Majesty's Household, and the following year went to America as one of the Commissioners for the purpose of negotiating with the Colonies. In 1779 he became first Commissioner of Trade and Plantations, and in 1780 was appointed Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, which situation he held till the change of ministry in 1782. His lordship married in 1770 Lady Caroline Gower, sister of the present Marquis of Stafford. Besides many pieces of poetry to be found in the Asylum for Fugitive Pieces, he has written :

Poems, 4to. 1773.—The Father's Revenge, trag. and other Poems, 8vo. 1783. and in 4to. in 1800. CARTWRIGHT, CHARLES, Esq. Accountant-general to the E. Ind. Company.

Abstract of the Orders and Regulations of the Court of Directors relative to Commanders and Officers of Ships, 8vo. 1788.

CARTWRIGHT, EDMUND, D.D. Rector of Goadby Merwood, Leicestershire, and Prebendary of Lincoln. This gentleman, the younger brother of the subjects of the two succeeding articles, was born at Marnham, Nottinghamshire, 1743. He was educated under Mr. Clark of Wakefield, and Dr. Langhorne, till he was sent in 1760 to University College, Oxford. In 1762 he was elected a Demy of Magdalen Coll. and in 1764 a Fellow of that society. In 1779 he was presented to the rectory which he still holds, and in 1785, went to reside at Doncaster, where his extraordinary mechanical talents first discovered themselves in various inventions, particularly of a loom worked by machinery, and a machine for combing wool, for which as well as for an improvement in the steam engine he obtained a patent. In 1796 he removed to the metropolis, and on the death of Mr. Moore offered himself as Secretary to the Soc. of Arts, but voluntarily withdrew in favor of a competitor, whose practical knowledge in the manufacturing line promised to be highly serviceable to the society. In 1801 he was invited by the late Duke of Bedford to superintend his very extensive farming concerns at Woburn, and likewise a kind of agricultural college which that enlightened nobleman designed to establish; but this project was suddenly frustrated by the death of the Duke. In 1807 his invention for weaving by machinery was beginning to be generally adopted, but as his patent right had expired several years before, it was then too late for him to reap any benefit from the circumstance: however, some of the principal merchants and manufacturers of Manchester and its vicinity addressed a memorial to the Lords of the Treasury, setting forth the benefits which Dr. C. had conferred on his country, and praying a remuneration of his eminent services. The result was a proposal from Mr. Perceval, then Chancellor of the Exchequer, to parliament to grant Dr. C. 10,000*l.* which was unanimously agreed to. Dr. C. married first in 1772, Alice, daughter of Richard Whitaker, Esq. of Doncaster, who died in 1785; and secondly, in 1790, Susannah, youngest daughter of the Rev. Dr. John Kearney, precentor of Armagh. His publications are:

Constantia, an elegy to the Memory of a Lady (Mrs. Langhorne) 4to. 1768.—Armide and Elvira, a legendary tale, 4to. 1771.—The Prince of Peace and other poems, 4to. 1779.—Sonnets to Eminent Men, and an Ode to the Earl of Effingham, 4to. 1783.—A Memorial read to the Society of Arts, Dec. 18, 1799, and a Speech delivered to the same Soc. CARTWRIGHT, GEORGE, born at Marnham, Nottinghamshire, 1739. At the age of 14 he was appointed a Cadet in the Cadet Company at Woolwich, and the following year embarked for the East Indies, whence he returned in 1757 as ensign in the 39th regt. Being promoted to a lieutenancy, he attended the Marquis of Granby to Germany as aid-de-camp. Through the interest of his patron he afterwards obtained a company in the 37th regt. of foot, which he joined at Minorca, but was obliged by ill health to return to England. The Guernsey, of which his brother John was lieutenant, was then lying at Spithead under sailing orders for Newfoundland, and he obtained permission to make a voyage in her for the recovery of his health. This gave rise to his subsequent voyage to the coast of Labrador, which was afterwards five times repeated, and led to a long residence in that inhospitable country. He has published:

A Journal of Transactions and Events during a residence of nearly sixteen years on the Coast of Labrador, 3 v. 4to. 1793.

CARTWRIGHT, JOHN, Esq. brother of the two preceding, a well-known advocate for parliamentary reform. He was born in 1740, and entering in 1758 into the royal navy was present at the taking of Cherbourg, and shared in the glorious victory gained in 1759 by Sir Edward Hawke. He attained the rank of lieutenant, but quitted the navy about 1770, and then entered the militia of his native county, of which he became major in 1775. On account of his political principles his right of succession to the vacant lieutenant-colonelcy of this regiment was on five successive occasions set aside by the Duke of Newcastle, then lord lieutenant of the county, and he was at length finally dismissed in 1792. It is a singular fact that about 40 years after this gentleman's retirement from the navy as a lieutenant, his promotion to the rank of master and commander was announced in the Gazette. In 1780 Mr. C. married the eldest daughter of Samuel Dashwood, Esq. of Well, in Lincolnshire; and in 1788, having disposed of his estate in Nottinghamshire, he purchased another in the county of Lincoln, of which the township and manor of Brothertoft form the principal part. Here he soon afterwards fixed his residence, and here he divides his time between agricultural improvements, and political and literary speculations. His exertions are still steadily directed towards the accomplishment of parliamentary reform. During a visit to Huddersfield in January, 1813, for the purpose of procuring signatures to a petition to this effect, Major C. was apprehended as a suspicious person, and carried before a magistrate to be examined. Of this treatment he afterwards complained in a petition to the H. of Commons. He has written:

American Independence the Interest and Glory of Great Britain, 8vo. 1774.—A Letter to Edm. Burke, Esq. controverting the Principles of Government laid down in his Speech of Apr. 9, 1774, 8vo. 1775.—Take your Choice, Representation and Respect, Imposition and Contempt, Annual Parliaments, and Liberty, Long Parliaments and Slavery, 8vo. 1776, (reprinted 1777, under the title of, The Legislative Rights of the Commonwealth Vindicated.)—A Letter to the Earl of Abingdon discussing a Position relative to a fundamental Right of the Constitution, contained in his Lordship's Thoughts on the Letter of Edm. CARYSFORT, (JOHN JOSHUA PROBY,) EARL OF, K. P. M. R. I. A. F. R. S. F. S. A. born in 1751, educated at Eton and at Trinity Coll. Cambridge. He succeeded his father as a Baron of Ireland in 1772, was advanced to the earldom in 1789, and created an English peer in 1801. His lordship has occupied several public situations, having been joint post-master general in England; Joint Keeper of the Rolls in Ireland, 1789; envoy to Berlin, 1800; and ambassador to Russia, 1801. In 1774 he married Elizabeth, only daughter of Sir Wm. Osborne, Bart. of Newton, Co. of Tipperary, who died in 1783; and secondly Elizabeth, sister to the late Marquis of Buckingham and to Lord Grenville. His eldest son, Lord Proby, died at Surinam, in 1804, while captain of the Amelia frigate. He has published:

A Letter to the Huntingdonshire Committee, to shew the Legality as well as Necessity, of extending the Right of Election to the whole Body of the People, and of abridging the Duration of Parliament, 8vo. 1780.—Thoughts on the Constitution, with a View to the proposed Reform in the Representation of the People and the Duration of Parliaments, 8vo. 1783.—Dramatic and Miscellaneous Poems, 2 v. cr. 8vo. 1810.

CASTLEREAGH, (ROBERT STEWART,) Viscount, Secretary of State for the Foreign Department, Lord of Trade and Plantations, Official Trustee of the British Museum, a Commissioner for the Affairs of India, Governor of the County of Londonderry, F. R. S. M. R. I. A. M. P. for the County of Down. His lordship, the eldest son of the Earl of Londonderry, by his first wife, a sister of the Marquis of Hertford, was born in 1769, and educated at Armagh under Archdeacon Hurrock, till, in 1786, he went to St. John's College, Cambridge. When scarcely of age, he obtained a seat in the Irish parliament for the county of Down, after a contest which lasted three months, at an expense to the sitting member of 25,000*l*. When Lord Camden, whose sister was his step-mother, became viceroy of Ireland, he acted as his chief secretary, and continued to hold the same office under his successor. After the union, in the accomplishment of which his lordship took a very active part, he was returned to the imperial parliament. He was nominated a privy counsellor and President of the Board of Control. This office he retained during the administration of Mr. Addington, and when Mr. Pitt resumed the direction of affairs, Lord C. became minister at war. On the death of Pitt, his lordship with his colleagues retired from office; but on the accession of Perceval to power, he regained his former post. His misunderstanding and duel with Mr. Canning, already adverted to, (see CANNING,) occasioned the resignation of the latter, and the removal of his lordship to the department for foreign affairs. In 1794 Lord C. married Amelia, youngest sister of the present Earl of Buckinghamshire. Several of his speeches have been published, but whether by his authority is doubtful.

Speech, Feb. 5, 1800, in the Irish House of Commons, on offering certain Resolutions proposing a complete and entire Union between Great Britain and Ireland, 8vo. 1800.—Speech in the H. of C. CAYLEY, ARTHUR, Jun. Esq. nephew of Sir George Cayley, Bart. of Brompton, near Scarborough, formerly of Trinity Coll. Cambridge, where he is reported to have been refused a fellowship on account of the detestation of the jacobinical principles of the day, which he had expressed in two elegant English orations, composed by him as college exercises. Mr. C. is said to have written some ingenious epistles from a bathing place in the manner of the Bath Guide, the second edition of which in 12mo. appeared in 1798, also an anonymous pamphlet, and to have been a contributor to the Antijacobin Review. His avowed publications are:

The Life of Sir Walter Raleigh, 4to. 1805. 2d ed. 2 v. 8vo. 1805.—Memoirs of Sir Thomas More, with a new Translation of his Utopia, 2 v. 4to. 1807.

CHAMBERLAINE, WILLIAM, Member of the Roy. Coll. of Surgeons, and Fell. and late Secretary to the Med. Soc. London; resident in Aylesbury Street, Clerkenwell. The father of Mr. C. was a magistrate for the county of Dublin, and maternal uncle to the Rt. Hon. R. B. Sheridan. He was born in the Irish capital in 1752, placed in 1764 at Harrow School, and finished his education at Trinity College, Dublin. His father dying in Jamaica, he turned his views to surgery, and after serving his apprenticeship, went to Jamaica, where he resided nine years. He then returned to Europe, married the eldest daughter of Thomas Tandy, Esq. of the county of Meath, and settled in London as a surgeon and apothecary in 1784. Mr. C. laudably distinguished himself in association with Dr. Squire in the establishment of an institution for the relief of the widows and orphans of medical men dying in indigent circumstances in London and its vicinity, and for eight years gratuitously officiated as secretary to that society. He has published:

Treatise on the Efficacy of Stizolobium or Cowhage, in Diseases occasioned by Worms, 8vo. 1784. 10th ed. 1812.—The History of the Medicine Act of 1802, 8vo. 1803.—Tirocinium Medicum, or a Dissertation on the Duties of Youth apprenticed to the Medical Profession, 1812.—*Life of T. CHRISTIAN, EDWARD, Esq. of Gray's Inn, Barrister at Law, Chief Justice of Ely, Downing Professor of the Laws of England in the University of Cambridge, Professor of General Polity and the Laws of England in the E. Ind. College, Hertford, and a Commissioner of Bankrupts. It is said to be owing to the instigation of this gentleman that the University of Cambridge has recently stepped forward to enforce in the behalf of its own and other public libraries, the oppressive demand of eleven copies of every work printed in the British dominions, which by the statutes for the security of copyright are directed to be deposited previously to publication at Stationers' Hall. This heavy tax upon literature, which has hitherto been considered as optional, it is the object of Mr. C. and his coadjutors to render imperative and unavoidable. He has published:

Examination of Precedents and Principles, from which it appears that an impeachment is determined by a dissolution of Parliament, 8vo. 1790.—Dissertation shewing that the House of Lords in cases of judicature is bound by precisely the same rules of evidence as are observed by all other courts, 8vo. 1792.—Blackstone's Commentaries with notes and additions, 12th ed. 4 v. 8vo. 1795. 16th ed.—A Syllabus of Lectures delivered in the University of Cambridge, 8vo. 1797.—Charge to the Grand Jury at the Assizes held at Ely, Mar. 9, 1804. 4to.—Account of the Origin of the two Houses of Parliament, with a Statement of the Privileges of the H. of Commons, 8vo. 1810.—Origin, Progress, and present State of the Bankrupt Laws in England, v. 1. 8vo. 1812.

CLANNY, WILLIAM REID, M. D. of Sunderland. This gentleman has recently invented a lamp for affording a clear and steady light, and yet preventing those dreadful explosions in coal-mines which, notwithstanding the advantages of ventilation are still so common and destructive that within the last seven years upwards of 200 miners have suddenly perished by them in the neighbourhood of Sunderland alone. He has published:

An Analysis of the Mineral Waters at Butterley, near Durham, 12mo. 1807.

CLAPHAM, Rev. SAMUEL, M.A. Vicar of Christ Church, Hants. and Rector of Gussage St. Michael, Dorset: born at Leeds, Yorkshire, 1755, educated by his father in his native town, and at Clare Hall, Cambridge, M. A. 1784. In 1790, he undertook the curacy of Yarm, in Yorkshire; and in 1797 was presented by Lord Loughborough, then Lord Chancellor, to the living of Great Usburn, near Knaresborough. As a remuneration for his abridgment of the Bishop of Lincoln's Elements of Christian Theology, that prelate obtained for him the vicarage of Christ Church, where he resides, and in 1807 he was presented to the rectory of Gussage. He is an acting magistrate for the county, and is at present diligently employed in compiling an Index to Burn and Williams's Justice, Addington's, Blackstone's, Bott's, Hawkins's, &c. Works, so that whatever case or subject may be wanted, reference may be had at once to these several authors. His publications are:

A Sermon preached at Sunderland for the benefit of the Charity School there, 1792.—A Sermon on Sunday Schools, 1793.—On the Duties of the Clergy, a Visitation Sermon preached at Skipton, 1794.—A Sermon preached before the Volunteers at Knaresborough, 1794.—How far Methodism conduces to the interests of Christianity, and the welfare of Society impartially considered, a Visitation Sermon at Boroughbridge, 1794.—A Fast Sermon preached at Stockton upon Tees, 1795.—A Sermon preached at Knaresborough on occasion of a form of prayer being presented for the abundant harvest, 1796.—A Sermon on the General Thanksgiving for the Naval Victories, Nov. 1798.—A Sermon on Psalmody, preached at Wakefield, 1798.—The Sinfulness of withholding Corn, a Sermon, 1800.—An Abridgment of the Bp. of Lincoln's Elements of Theology, 8vo. 1802.—Sermons selected from minor and scarce authors, 3 v. 8vo. 1803-4-11. CLARKE, REV. EDWARD DANIEL, LL.D. Professor of Mineralogy in the University of Cambridge. This celebrated traveller belongs to a literary family, his grandfather, father, and brother (Rev. James Stanier C.), having each attained considerable reputation by their publications. He was educated at Jesus Coll. Cambridge, took the degree of B.A. 1790; M.A. 1796; and became senior fellow of that society. Previously to the commencement of the revolution in France, he made an excursion in that country and Italy. He became acquainted at College with Mr. J. M. Cripps, with whom, in 1799, he set out on an extensive tour through Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Lapland, Finland, Russia, Tartary, Asia Minor, Syria, Palestine, Egypt, Greece, and Turkey, and returned from Constantinople, in 1802, through Hungary, Germany, and France. In the course of his travels he collected a magnificent cabinet of minerals, together with a valuable assortment of manuscripts and ancient marbles, the latter of which, including the famous Eleusinian Ceres, he deposited in the Public Library at Cambridge. He was also an agent in obtaining for this country the celebrated Alexandrian sarcophagus, and the trilingual inscription, known by the name of "the Rosetta Stone." Not long after his return to England, Dr. C. married Angelica, daughter of Sir William Beaumaris Rush, and being already in holy orders, was instituted to the rectory of Harlton, Cambridgeshire. In 1806 he commenced lectures on mineralogy in the University of Cambridge; in 1808, a professorship was founded for the encouragement of that science, and he was appointed to the chair. His publications are: Testimony of different Authors respecting the Colossal statue of Ceres, placed in the vestibule of the Public Library at Cambridge, with an account of its removal from Eleusis, Nov. 22, 1801. 8vo. 1803.—The Tomb of Alexander, a dissertation on the Sarcophagus, brought from Alexandria, and now in the Brit. CLARKE, MRS. MARY ANNE, daughter of a Mr. Farquhar, who was corrector of the press at Hamilton's printing office in London, where, or in its vicinity, she was born about 1775. At fifteen she married Mr. Joseph Clarke, son of a builder on Snow Hill, by whom she had several children, but has long been separated from him. Her connexion with the Duke of York, from 1803 to 1806, is notorious, from the parliamentary investigation in 1809, which led to the temporary retirement of his Royal Highness from the chief command of the Army. After this investigation Mrs. C. announced her intention of giving to the world a narrative of circumstances relating to that connexion, which was actually printed, but suppressed by the author, on consideration of her receiving 10,000l. in ready money, and an annuity of 600l. The whole edition of 10,000 copies was accordingly committed to the flames, with the exception of one copy, which was deposited in Drummond's banking-house. A misunderstanding, which afterwards arose between her and Colonel Wardle, occasioned the publication of the first of the following works; and on account of the second, which is most severe, she is at present under prosecution for a libel.

The Rival Princes, or a faithful narrative of facts relative to the acquaintance of the author with Col. Wardle, Major Dodd, &c. 2 v. roy. 12mo. 1810.—A

Lit. Cal.

Letter to the Rt. Hon. Wm. Fitzgerald, Chancellor of the Irish Exchequer, &c. 8vo. 1813.

CLARKE, REV. RICHARD, M.A. formerly Lecturer of Stoke Newington and St. James's Aldgate. He is the author of the following religious works, which must be classed with those of Jacob Behmen, Baron Swedenborg, and the numerous enthusiasts of the present day:

A Warning to the World, or prophetic numbers of Daniel and John calculated. . . . A Second Warning . . . Glad Tidings to the Jews and Gentiles, 8vo. . . The Gospel of the Daily Service of the Law, 8vo. . . Refutation of Eternal Misery and Universal Salvation, 8vo. . . Emblematical Representation of Paradise, 12mo. . . . Prophetic Records of the Christian æra, sacred, moral, and political, 8vo. 1813.

CLARKE, RICHARD, M.D. formerly surgeon in the royal navy.

Plan for Increasing the Naval force of Great Britain, by rendering the service a more desirable object, 8vo. 1795.—Medical Strictures, an effectual method of treating most diseases, 8vo. 1799.

CLARKE, STEPHEN, a coal merchant.

The Poison Tree, dram. 8vo. 1809.—The Torrid Zone, dram. 8vo. 1809.—The Kiss, com. 8vo. 1811.

CLARKE, THOMAS BROOKE, D.D. Sec. for the Library to the P. Regent, educated at the University of Dublin. About 1784 he came to England, where his political productions introduced him to the acquaintance of the celebrated Dean Tucker. He soon afterwards went to the continent, and devoted himself for some time at the University of Göttingen, to statistical and diplomatic studies. Having, while abroad, attentively witnessed the commencement and progress of the French revolution, Dr. C. on his return to England, assiduously employed his pen in warning his countrymen to beware of its principles, and afterwards warmly advocated the necessity of an union with Ireland. With him also originated the plan of a Naval Asylum for the orphans and children of seamen and marines, which was instituted in 1801, and to which he is auditor. This office, however, has caused him to be deprived of benefices worth 1200l. per ann. on account of non-residence, though he was expressly exempted from the penalty by a previous act of parliament, as well as by a solemn instrument under his Majesty's sign manual. Dr. C. is the author of:

Letter to Mr. O'Leary, with a short examination into the first causes of the present lawless spirit of the Irish Peasantry, under the signature of Junius Alter, . . . 2d ed. 1787.—The Crisis of the British empire, 8vo. 1784.—Statistical View of Germany, 8vo. 1790.—Statistical View of Europe, 8vo. 1791.—Publicistical Survey of all Forms of Government, 8vo. 1791.—Proofs of Providence, a sermon preached on occasion of the Battle of the Nile, 1798.—The Doctrine of an Appeal to the People and the Right of Resistance, as laid down by Mr. Saurin in the Irish House of Commons, considered and confuted, 8vo. 1799.—A Letter to Earl Cholmondeley, on the Civil Policy of the Ancients, 8vo. 1799.—Union or Separation, 8vo. 1799.—The Political, Commercial, and Civil State of Ireland, 8vo. 1799.—Misconception and Mis-statements of the Rt. Hon. John Foster, Speaker of the Irish House of Commons, proved and corrected, 8vo. 1799.—A Survey of the Strength and Opulence of Great Britain, 8vo. 1801.—The Case of Ireland, 8vo. 1802.—Address to the People of Ireland, 8vo. 1802.—Historical and Political View of the Disorganization of Europe, 8vo. 1803.—Memoirs of the King's Supremacy, 8vo. 1809.

CLARKSON, THOMAS, M. A. of Bury St. Edmund's; born in 1761, educated at St. John's College, Cambridge. His first publication, translated from a Latin dissertation, by which he obtained the first prize in the university in 1785, may be said to have been the first step towards the suppression of the African Slave Trade, as it led to those indefatigable exertions which so materially contributed to that great triumph of humanity, and which Mr. C. has so fully detailed in his History of its Abolition. He has written:

Essay on the Slavery and Commerce of the Human Species, particularly the African, 8vo. 1786.—On the Impolicy of the African Slave-trade, 8vo. 1788.—On the Comparative Efficiency of the Regulation or Abolition, as applied to the Slave-Trade, 8vo. 1789.—Letters on the Slave Trade, and the State of the Nations in those parts of Africa contiguous to Fort St. Louis and Goree, 4to. 1791.—Three Letters to the Planters and Slave Merchants, 8vo. 1807.—The Portraiture of Quakerism, 3 v. 8vo. 1807.—The History of the Abolition of the Slave Trade, 2 v. 8vo. 1808.—Memoirs of the Public and Private Life of William Penn, 2 v. 8vo. 1813.—Mr. C. is a principal contributor to the Philanthropist, a quarterly publication.

CLAYTON, JOHN, sen. formerly a Methodist Preacher, but having quitted that sect, has been for the last twenty years pastor of the Weigh-House Independent Meeting in Eastcheap. He was originally placed in an apothecary's shop, but afterwards removed to Trevecca, one of Lady Huntingdon's colleges in Wales. He married a sister of Mr. Benjamin Flower, printer, of Harlow, Essex, with whom he and his family had a few years since so serious an altercation, as to require the decision of a court of law. He has published:

A Sermon on the Application of the Dissenters for a Repeal of the Test Act, . . . Thanksgiving Sermon for the Peace of Amiens, 1802.—Charges at the Ordination of his sons John and George, and of Mr. Brooksbank, . . . A Counter and Impartial Statement of Circumstances relative to a late Withdrawal from a Dissenting Independent Church, 8vo. 1805.

CLEAVER, WILLIAM, D.D. Bishop and Archdeacon of St. Asaph and Vicar of Northon, Flintshire. This prelate is the son of a clergyman and schoolmaster at Buckingham, and was educated at Brazen Nose College, Oxford, of which he became a fellow, and where he took his degree of M.A. 1764; D.D. 1786. He was tutor to the late Marquis of Buckingham, with whom he went to Ireland, during his viceroyalty. In that country his brother Dr. Euseby C. was promoted to the bishopric of Ferns, and afterwards to the archiepiscopal see of Dublin. The first preferment of any consequence obtained by Dr. William C. was a prebend of Westminster; he was elevated to the see of Chester in 1789, translated to Bangor in 1800, and to St. Asaph in 1806. He married about 1779 Miss Asheton, sister of Wm. A. Esq. of Lancashire, by whom he has several children. His publications are:

De Rhythmo Græcorum Liber, 8vo. 1789.—Pardon and Sanctification proved to be the privileges annexed to the due use of the Lord's Supper, a Sermon, 8vo. 1791.—Sermons on select Subjects, 8vo.

COBB, JAMES, Secretary to the East India Company. He was born in 1756; entered into the secretary's office at the India-House in 1751, and in 1800 married Miss Stanfell, of Fratton, Hampshire. He has produced many dramatic pieces, of which the following have appeared in print:

Strangers at Home, com. op. 8vo. 1785.—English Readings, com. dram. 8vo. 1787.—The First Floor, far. 8vo. 1787.—Love in the East, com. op. 8vo. 1788.—Doctor and Apothecary, far. 8vo. 1788.—Harbored Tower, com. op. 1789.—Ramah Droog, 8vo. 1800.—A House to be Sold, mus. piece, 8vo. 1802.—The Wife of Two Husbands, mus. dram. 8vo. 1803.—Mr. C. also wrote the songs to the Siege of Belgrade, the Pirates, and the Shepherdess of Cheap-side.

COBB, JOHN, D. D.

Eight Sermons preached at Bampton's Lecture, 8vo. 1783.

COBBETT, WILLIAM, son of a farmer, born at or near Farnham, Surrey, 1766, and bred to his father's occupation, till in 1783, he privately quitted his home and repaired to London. Here after being employed a few months in the office of an attorney in Gray's Inn, he went in 1784 to Chatham and enlisted into a marching regiment, which he joined the year following in Nova Scotia. In 1791 it was relieved and sent home, and Mr. C. having in a service of near eight years attained the rank of serjeant-major, obtained his discharge. In 1792 he visited France, whence he embarked for the purpose of settling in America. In that country he endeavoured to support himself by his literary exertions, which were devoted almost exclusively to political topics, and he also opened a bookseller's shop in Philadelphia. His publications ushered into the world under the name of Peter Porcupine, were calculated to counteract the ascendancy of the French interest in the United States, and the freedom of some of his observations subjected him to prosecutions for libels. In 1801 he returned to England, and commenced a daily newspaper under the title of the Porcupine; this undertaking failed, and he began his Weekly Register, which is still continued. The success of the latter, notwithstanding the notorious political tergiversation and occasional coarseness of the author, has raised Mr. C. to affluence, and enabled him to purchase a valuable estate at Botley, in Hampshire, where he resides. For an article in this paper he was prosecuted by way of information by the Attorney General. The trial took place in June, 1810, when he was found guilty and sentenced to be imprisoned in Newgate for two years, and to pay a fine of £1000. In some observations on this event he says: "I have been laboring seventeen years since I quitted the army. I have never known what it was to enjoy any of that which the world calls pleasure. From a beginning with nothing, I have acquired the means of making some provision for a family of six children (the remains of thirteen), besides having for several years maintained almost wholly, three times as many children of my relations." His publications relative to America need not be particularized, as they have been reprinted in London under the title of—Porcupine's Works on the United States from 1793 to 1801, 12 v. 8vo. 1802. His other productions are:

A Summary of the Law of Nations by Martens, translated from the French, (Philad.) 8vo. 1795. The same brought down to 1802, (Lond.) 1802.—Topographical and Political Description of the Spanish part of St. Domingo, from the French of Moreau de St. Mery, (Philad.) 2 v. 8vo. 1795.—Weekly Political Register, 1802-13. 24 v. roy. 8vo.—Letters on the fatal effects of the Peace with Bonaparte, 8vo. 1802.—The same with an Appendix, containing all the Conventions, Treaties, Speeches, and other documents connected with the subject, 8vo. 1802.—The Empire of Germany divided into Departments, from the French, 8vo. 1802.—Letters to the Hon. C. J. Fox on his visit to Bonaparte, 8vo. 1802.—Letters to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, shewing the fatal tendency of the Peace of Amiens with respect to Public Credit, 8vo. 1803.—Parliamentary Debates, 1803 to 1810, (when Mr. C. disposed of his interest in this publication), 16 v. roy. 8vo.—Parliamentary History of England from the Norman Conquest to 1803. v. i—xii. roy. 8vo. 1806—1812.—The Political Proutens; a view of the Public Character and Conduct of R. B. Sheridan, 8vo. 1804.—Essay on Sheep, by R. R. Livingston, with a Preface and Notes, 8vo. 1811.

COBBOLD, REV. JOHN SPENCER, M. A. Ipswich; educated at Gonville and Caius Coll. Cambridge, of which he became a Fellow. He gained the Norrisian prize in 1793 and 1797, by the two Essays that commence the list of his publications:

Essay tending to prove in what sense Jesus Christ hath brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel, 8vo. 1797.—Essay tending to shew the Advantages which result to Revelation from its being conveyed to us in the form of History, 1800.—Reply to the Dissenter's reasons for separating from the Church of England, 8vo. 1804.—A Chart of Sacred History, 1807.

COKE, THOMAS WILLIAM, Esq. M.P. for the County of Norfolk. The paternal name of this gentleman, who in respect to landed property is one of the most powerful commoners in the kingdom, was Roberts, but he assumed that of Coke upon inheriting the extensive estates of his maternal uncle, Thomas Coke, Earl of Leicester, a descendant of the celebrated lawyer, Sir Edward Coke. Mr. C. first obtained a seat in parliament in 1776; he was again elected in 1780, 1790, 1796, 1802 and 1806, but on the latter occasion the election was declared void, and he was chosen for Derby in the room of his brother Edward. In 1807, 3 and 12 he was returned for Norfolk without opposition. In 1775 he married Jane, sister of the present Lord Sherborne, by whom he has two daughters, married to Captain Henry Digby, R.N. and Viscount Anson. Mr. C. contributed a few papers to Young's Ann. of Agr. Whether the following pamphlet was published with his sanction seems doubtful:

Addresses to the Freeholders of Norfolk, 1802.

COLMAN, GEORGE, junior, (for so this gentleman continues to style himself, though his father died in 1794) the son of the late George C. Esq. distinguished as the translator of Terence, a successful dramatic writer and proprietor of the Haymarket Theatre. He was born about 1767 and educated at Westminster School, whence he removed to Christ Church College, Oxford, but finished his studies at King's College, Aberdeen. On his return to London he was entered of the Temple, with a view to qualify himself for the bar, but soon renounced that intention in favor of the muses. In 1789, when his father's mental derangement rendered him incapable of superintending the concerns of his theatre, the management of it was committed to his son, to whom on the death of his parent his majesty was pleased to transfer the patent. The alienation of part of this property has led to misunderstandings which have become the subject of investigation in the Court of Chancery, and occasioned the house to be shut up during the last season. From these proceedings it appears that Mr. C. though he still holds the situation of manager of that theatre, has for some time been an inmate of the King's Bench. He is the author of the following pieces, four of which (marked G) were published under the assumed name of Arthur Griffinhoof, of Turnham Green.

Two to One, mus. com. (songs only printed) 8vo. 1784.—Turk and no Turk, mus. com. COLTON, Rev. C. M. A. Fellow of King's College, Cambridge, by which he was presented in 1801 to the curacy of Tiverton, Prior's Quarter, Devonshire, which may be held together with a fellowship. This gentleman's name has recently appeared conspicuously in the affair known to the public by the name of the Sampford Ghost; and so convinced is he that the occurrences at Sampford are the effect of supernatural agency, that he has deposited in the hands of the late Mayor of Tiverton an instrument by which he is empowered to call upon Mr. C. for the payment of 100*l.* to any one who can explain the cause of the phenomena. It appears also from a note to his Hypocrisy, that though a reward of 250*l.* in the whole has been advertised for any person who can give such information as may lead to a discovery, yet upwards of two years have elapsed without any claimant coming forward. Mr. C. has written:

A Plain and Authentic Narrative of the Sampford Ghost, 8vo. 1810.—Hypocrisy, a satirical poem, 8vo. 1812.—Napoleon, a poem, 8vo. 1812.

COLVIL, SAMUEL.

The Whig's Supplication, or the Scots Hudibras, a mock poem, 12mo. 1797.

COMBE, CHARLES, M. D. F. R. and A. S. of Bloomsbury Square. This gentleman is eminently skilful in the practice of midwifery, and has long been distinguished as a first-rate collector of medals. The edition of Horace by Dr. C. was produced under the following circumstances. He had formed a literary association with the Rev. Dr. Parr and Mr. H. Homer, for publishing a complete and splendid edition of that classic. The vexations and disappointments experienced by the latter in the prosecution of this work are supposed to have hastened his death. Dr. Parr is said to have declined the fulfilment of his engagements owing to prior avocations and other causes, so that the whole undertaking devolved on Dr. C. When the work appeared, many errors were discovered in the Greek quotations which occur in the notes, and these were exposed in a masterly review in the British Critic, justly ascribed to the pen of Dr. Parr. This produced the pamphlet, the title of which is subjoined; it was answered by Dr. P. and here the dispute ended. Dr. C. has published:

Index Nummorum omnium Imperatorum, Augustorum et Caesarum, a Julio Cesare usque ad Postumum, qui tam in Româ et Colonis, quam in Græciâ, Ægypto et aliis locis ex ære magis moduli signabantur, 4to. 1773.—Nummorum veterum Populorum et Urbium in Musæo Gul. Hunter Descriptio, 4to. 1782.—Horatii Opera cum variis lectionibus, notis variorum et indice, 2 v. 4to. 1793.—A Statement of Facts relative to the Behaviour of Dr. Samuel Parr to the late Mr. H. Homer and Dr. Combe, 8vo. 1793.

COMBER, THOMAS, A. B. Rector of Oswaldkirk, Yorkshire, eldest son of the Rev. Thomas C. LL. D. born 1765 at the house of his grandfather at East Newton, in the N. Riding of the county of York. He was educated at the Grammar Schools of Coxwold and Wakefield, whence he removed in 1782 to Jesus Coll. Cambridge, where he remained till he took his degree. In 1788 he was ordained Deacon on a title to the chapel of Dundry, near Bristol, and in 1793 went to reside at Creech St. Michael, near Taunton, the advowson of which living belonged to himself. Here he continued till, in 1813, he was instituted to the rectory of Oswaldkirk, which preferment was left to him thirty years before by the will of Mrs. Thompson of that parish, on the next avoidance which should happen after her decease. In 1792 Mr. C. married Elizabeth, daughter of J. Coote, Esq. a collateral branch of the noble Irish family of that name, by whom he has issue a son and two daughters. He was a constant contributor to the Orthodox Churchman's Magazine during the whole time of the publication of that miscellany, and is author of:

Industry and Idleness, forming part of a new edition of the Works of Hogarth, 1796.

COOKE, EDWARD, Esq. one of the Under Secretaries of State in the Foreign Department, and Keeper of the Parliamentary Records in Ireland; son of the late Dr. C. Dean of Ely, and Provost of King's Coll. Cambridge, who died at Bath in 1797. He was educated at Eton, and King's College, Cambridge. About 1778 Mr. C. accepted the situation of private Secretary to the late Sir Richard Heron, then chief secretary to the Earl of Buckinghamshire, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and during the Duke of Rutland's administration he was appointed to the lucrative office of chief clerk of the Irish House of Commons. In 1789 he became secretary for the military department in Ireland, and at the same time obtained a seat in parliament. In 1795 he was removed from the secretaryship by Earl Fitzwilliam, whose successor, Earl Camden, appointed him secretary to the civil department, and in this office he continued till the Union between the two countries. Mr. C. married a daughter of Colonel Ham Gorges, with whom he obtained a considerable fortune. He is supposed to be the author of many anonymous pieces in defence of the Irish administration; but the following, which also appeared without his name, is his only avowed publication:

COXE, Rev. WILLIAM, M.A. F.R. and A.S. Mem. of the Imp. Econ. Soc. of Petersburg, and of the Roy. Soc. of Sciences of Copenhagen, Archdeacon of Wiltshire, Canon of Salisbury, Rector of Stourton and Bemerton, and Chaplain to the Tower of London; born in London 1747, educated at Eton and at King's College, Cambridge, of which he became a Fellow. His father being a medical man, had designed him for the same profession; but Mr. C. preferring the church, was ordained a priest in 1772, and for some time served the curacy of Denham, in Middlesex. This he relinquished, to superintend the education of the Marquis of Blandford, with whom he remained two years; after which he was occupied as travelling tutor to the Earl of Pembroke, Samuel Whitbread, Esq. J. B. Portman, Esq. and Marquis Cornwallis. In 1787 he was presented by his college to the Vicarage of Kingston-upon-Thames, which he resigned two years afterwards, on obtaining the rectory of Tuggleston-cum-Bemerton, near Salisbury. In 1801 Sir Richard Hoare presented him to the rectory of Stourton; and about the same time his diocesan, Bishop Douglas, nominated him one of the canons of Salisbury cathedral, and archdeacon of Wiltshire. His publications are:

CRAUFURD, Lieut. General CHARLES, Colonel of the 2d Drag. Guards (1807), and Lieut. Gov. of Tynemouth Castle, eldest brother of Sir James C. Bart. In the last parliament he represented the borough of East Retford, and in 1800 married the Dowager Duchess of Newcastle. This gentleman filled the military mission to the Archduke Charles, who then commanded the Austrian army, till he was wounded and obliged to relinquish the post to his brother Robert. With the latter, while they were yet subalterns, he commenced the publication of an English version of a German military work, for which, having been bred on the continent, they were particularly well qualified, but it was left unfinished owing to the want of encouragement on the part of the public. It was entitled :

Translation of J. G. Tielke's Events of the War between the Prussians, Austrians, and Russians, from 1756 to 1763; and a Treatise on several Branches of the Military Art, v. 1 and 2, 8vo. 1788.

CRAUFURD, QUINTIN.

CRAUFURD, Brigadier Gen. ROBERT, younger brother of Sir James, and Lieut. Gen. Charles C. commenced his military career in the 25th reg. of foot. At an early age he passed several years with the Prussian, Austrian, and Saxon armies studying his profession with the utmost diligence in all its branches. He afterwards went to the East Indies in command of the 75th regiment on its being first raised, and commanded it in the field under Lord Cornwallis; but quitted the army in disgust. He was not easy however till he returned to his profession; he served in the Austrian armies under the Archduke Charles and Marshal Clairfait, in 1795, 6 and 7, and after his brother was wounded succeeded him in the military mission to the Archduke. He then became deputy quarter-master-general in Ireland, where he distinguished himself against Humbert; and being afterwards sent by the government to Switzerland he served with the Austrians in the campaign of 1799. At Buenos Ayres he had the command of a division, and headed the light brigade under Sir John Moore in Spain; and has since commanded the light brigade of Lord Wellington's army with the highest distinction. In the parliament which met in 1802, he had a seat for East Retford, for which borough he was elected after a severe contest.

CROFT, Mrs.

Aukerwick Castle, nov. 4 v. 1800.

CROFT, Rev. Sir HERBERT, Bart. LL. B. of Dunston Park, Berkshire. This gentleman, grandson of Sir Archer, the second baronet of this family, was born about 1752, and was an intimate friend of Dr. Sam. Johnson, to whose Lives of the Poets he contributed the memoirs of Dr. Young. He was for some time chaplain to the garrison of Quebec, and succeeded to his title in 1797, on the death of his cousin Sir John. He married first Sophia, daughter of R. Cleeve, Esq. by whom he had three daughters; and secondly, Elizabeth, sister to H. G. Lewis, Esq. of Malvern Hall, Warwickshire, and to the Countess of Dysart. He has published:

A Brother's Advice to his Sisters, 12mo. 1775.—Love and Madness, a story too true; in a series of Letters, 12mo. 1780. [These Letters are given as a correspondence supposed to have passed between Miss Ray, who lived with the Earl of Sandwich, and her unfortunate lover Mr. Hackman, by whom she was assassinated. The latter figures as the historian of Chatterton, of whom a very interesting account is given.]—Fanaticism and Treason, or a dispassionate history of the rebellious insurrection in June, 1780, 8vo. 1780.—The Literary Fly, 1780.—Some Account of an intended publication of the Statutes on a new plan, 8vo. 1782.—Letter from Germany to the Princess Royal of England, on the English and German languages, with a table of the northern languages, [printed at Hamburg], 4to. 1797.—Hints for History respecting the attempt on the King's Life, May 15, 1800.—In 1792, Sir H. issued proposals for publishing by subscription "a new edition of Johnson's Dictionary, corrected without the smallest omission, considerably improved, and enlarged with more than twenty thousand words, illustrated by examples from the books quoted by Dr. Johnson, and from others of the best authority in our own and former times." The subscription was to be twelve guineas, half to be paid on subscribing, and half on the delivery of the third volume; but the design was dropped for want of a sufficient number of subscribers to indemnify the author for the expenses of the proposed publication.

Lit. Cal.

Mr. C. many years Surveyor-general of Dublin; born in 1781, and educated at Trin. Coll. Dublin. In 1800 he was entered a student of Lincoln's Inn, and in 1802, called to the Irish Bar. At the general election in 1807, he was chosen M. P. for Downpatrick; in 1809 he took a prominent part in the parliamentary investigation of the conduct of the Duke of York; and is supposed by the zeal which he then manifested in the ministerial cause to have paved the way to his subsequent promotion; for before the end of the same year he officiated as secretary for Ireland, in the absence of Sir Arthur Wellesley, (now Marquis of Wellington,) and was appointed Secretary to the Admiralty. In 1806, Mr. C. married the eldest daughter of Wm. Pennell, Esq. of Waterford. His publications have all been anonymous; they are:

Familiar Epistles on the Irish Stage, (poetical), 12mo. 1803.—An intercepted Letter from China, 1805.—A sketch of the State of Ireland past and present, 8vo. 1807.—The Battle of Talavera, a poem, 8vo. 1809.

DALBY, ISAAC, Professor of Mathematics in the Royal Military College, Marlow. The eminent qualifications of this gentleman pointed him out as a fit person to co-operate in the trigonometrical survey of England and Wales undertaken by the command of government, on which subject he contributed several papers to the Philosophical Transactions afterwards published in a separate form. Besides other communications to that work he has written:

Account of the late Reuben Burrow's measurement of a Degree of Longitude and another of Latitude in Bengal, 4to. 1796.—An Account of the Operations for accomplishing a trigonometrical Survey of England and Wales, from the Commencement in 1784 to the end of 1796, first published in the *Phil. DALLAS, Sir GEORGE, Bart. of Petsall, Staffordshire, created 1798, second son of the late Robert D. Esq. of Kensington, and younger brother of the Chief Justice of Chester. He married in 1788, the Hon. Catherine Blackwood, youngest daughter of Sir John B. by Baroness Dufferin and Claneboye and sister to the present Lord D. He was early in life in the civil service of the East India Company in Bengal, and was for some time one of the representatives of the borough of Newport. He has published:

A Speech praying redress against an Act of Parliament, 8vo. 1786.—Thoughts on our present situation with Remarks on the Policy of a War with France, 8vo. 1793.—Letter on the Trade between India and Europe, 4to. 1802.—Vindication of the Justice and Policy of the late Wars carried on in Hindostan and the Dekkan by Marquis Wellesley, 4to. 1806.

DALLAS, HON. ROBERT, appointed in 1813 one of the Puisne Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, previously King's Counsel and Chief Justice of Chester, elder brother of the preceding. He was bred to the law, and was brought into considerable notice by being one of the counsel employed by Mr. Hastings on his impeachment. He had a seat in parliament first for St. Michael's, Cornwall, and afterwards for Kirkaldy. He married Charlotte, daughter of the late Lieutenant Colonel Jardine of the Artillery, and afterwards British Consul at Corunna in Spain. The following speech by him has been published:

Speech in the Court of King's Bench on a motion for a new trial in the case of the King v. Picton, 8vo. 1808.

DALLAS, ROBERT CHARLES, son of a physician of Kingston, Jamaica, where he was born. He received the rudiments of education at Musselburgh, N.B. and was afterwards placed under the tuition of the late Mr. James Elphinston, of Kensington. He then entered himself as a student of law in the Inner Temple, and about the time of coming of age made a voyage to Jamaica, to take possession of the property which had devolved to him by his father's death. Here he was appointed to a lucrative office; but after a residence of three years in the island, returned to Europe, and married the daughter of Benj. Harding, Esq. of Hacton House, near Hornchurch. With this lady he again repaired to Jamaica; but her health being impaired by the climate, he was obliged to relinquish his office, and quitted the West Indies for ever. Mr. D. passed several years on the continent, whence he was driven by the French revolution; and afterwards visited America, with the intention of settling in that country. Disappointed, however, in the idea which he had formed of it, he once more returned to England, and commenced a literary career, highly creditable to his industry. His publications are:

Miscellaneous Writings, consisting of poems; Lucretia, a tragedy, and Moral Essays, with a vocabulary of the Passions, 4to. 1797.—Clery's Journal of Occurrences at the Temple, during the confinement of Louis XVI. from the French, 8vo. 1798.—Annals of the French Revolution, from the French of Bertrand

D'ARBLAY, MRS. FRANCES, daughter of Dr. Charles Burney, sen. under which name her first two publications were ushered into the world. She was married, in July 1793, to Alexander D'Arblay, a French emigrant, with whom she some years since repaired to the Continent, but is recently returned to England. As a writer of fictions, this lady is allowed to surpass all her contemporaries. Such was the reputation which she obtained by her earliest performances, that for the last she obtained a subscription of 3000 guineas. They also procured her the particular notice of royalty; and, for some time previous to her marriage, she was one of the keepers of the robes to her majesty—a situation which ill health obliged her to resign. She has written :

Eveline, or a Young Lady's Entrance into the World, 3 v. 1777.—Cecilia, or Memoirs of an Heiress, 5 v. 1782.—Brief Reflections relative to the Emigrant French Clergy, 8vo. 1793.—Camilla, 5 v. 1796.—Mrs. D'Arblay has also produced a tragedy, entitled Edwy and Elgiva, which was brought out at Drury Lane in 1795, but was never printed.

DAVISON, ALEXANDER, Esq. St. James's Square, partner in a banking-house Pall Mall, and formerly Treasurer of the Ordnance. This gentleman having a contract for supplying the troops in the Isle of Wight with coals, was charged in the third report of the Commissioners of Military Enquiry with the production of false statements in his accounts. This matter afterwards became the subject of legal investigation, and terminated in the confinement of Mr. D. in Newgate, which led to his publication of the following pamphlet; Observations on the third Report of the Comm. of Milit. Enquiry, 8vo. 1807.

DAVY, Sir HUMPHRY, LL. D. F. and Sec. R.S. M.R.I.A. F. R.S. Edin. Memb. of the National Institute of France, of the Roy. Acad. of Stockholm, of the Imp. Med. and Chir. Acad. of St. Petersburg, of the Amer. Phil. Soc. and Hon. Memb. of the Phil. Societies of Dublin and Manchester, of the Phys. Soc. Edin. and the Med. Soc. of London. He was born about 1775 or 6, at Penzance, at which place and at Dr. Cardew's school at Truro, he received his education. On leaving school he was placed with a surgeon and apothecary, in his native town. Here his genius for chemistry first displayed itself, and becoming known to the late Dr. Beddoes, that gentleman obtained his assistance at a medical establishment just begun near Bristol. His first publication whilst in that city, and the successful delivery of a course of lectures introduced him to the notice of the Directors of the Royal Institution, and his appointment to the Professorship of Chemistry. A situation so favorable to the cultivation of his favorite science enabled him to make those important improvements and discoveries which have extended his fame as a chemist over the whole civilized world, and raised him to his present eminence. Early in 1812 he married Mrs. Apreece, with a handsome fortune; soon afterwards received the honor of Knighthood from the Prince Regent, and resigned the Professorship at the Royal Institution. In October 1813, he set out with his lady for France and Italy, where he is expected to remain about three years. Besides numerous papers in the Phil. Trans. Phil. Mag. and Nicholson's Journal, he has written:

Chemical and Philosophical Researches, chiefly concerning nitrous oxide and its respiration, 8vo. 1800.—A Syllabus of a Course of Lectures on Chemistry, delivered at the Royal Institution, 8vo. 1802.—A Discourse introductory to a Course of Lectures on Chemistry, 8vo. 1802.—Lecture on a Plan for improving the Roy. Instit. and making it permanent, 8vo. 1810.—Elements of Chemical Philosophy, Vol. I. 8vo. 1812.—Elements of Agricultural Chemistry, in a Course of Lectures for the Board of Agriculture, 4to. 1813.

DAVY, Rev. WILLIAM, A.B. Curate of Lustleigh, Devonshire, formerly of Balliol Coll. Oxford. This gentleman is the editor, printer and publisher of a compilation, intitled: "A System of Divinity, in a Course of Sermons on the First Institutions of Religion—on some of the most important Articles of the Christian Religion in connexion—and on the several Virtues and Vices of Mankind; with occasional discourses. Being a compilation from the best sentiments of the polite writers and eminent sound Divines, both ancient and modern, on the same subjects, properly connected, with improvements; particularly adapted for the use of chiefs of families and students in divinity, for churches, and for the benefit of mankind in general, 26 v. 8vo. 1795-1807. The history of this voluminous work affords an example of perseverance that can scarcely be paralleled in the annals of literature, though so fertile in curiosities. Mr. D. having completed his collection, at first issued proposals for publishing it by subscription; but as he was poor and, for obvious reasons, his theological labours obtained no patronage, he resolved to print it himself, that is, with his own hands. With a press, which he made for himself, and as many worn and cast-off types, purchased from a country printing-office, as sufficed to set up two pages, he fell to work in 1795. Performing, with the assistance of his female domestic, every operation, and working off page by page, he struck off forty copies of the first three hundred pages; 26 of which he distributed among the Universities, the Bishops, the Royal Society and the Reviews, hoping no doubt to receive from some of those quarters, that encouragement to which he thought himself entitled. Disappointed in this expectation, he resolved to spare himself the expence of paper in future; and as he had reserved only fourteen copies of the forty with which he commenced, three of which he mentions as being imperfect, he continued to print that number, and at the end of twelve years of unremitting toil, finished the whole 26 volumes. Disdaining any assistance, he then put them in boards with his own hands, and made a journey to London for the express purpose of depositing a copy in each of the most eminent public libraries of the Metropolis.

DAWSON, JOHN, Hon. Memb. of the Roy. Med. and Phil. Societies of Edinb. and of the Lit. and Phil. Soc. of Manchester, born in Garsdale, in the W. Riding of Yorkshire, about 1733, of humble parentage. He was bred to the profession of a surgeon, and settled at Sedburgh, near Kendal, a few miles distant from the place of his nativity. At a very early age he had manifested an extraordinary predilection for mathematical studies, which, during all his intervals of leisure, he cultivated with such success, that the fame of his abilities reached the University of Cambridge, long noted as the seat of abstruse science. The consequence was, that students, desirous of distinguishing themselves as proficient in the mathematics at their admission to the first degree, resorted to him in the long summer vacations, and their number soon increased to such a degree, that he relinquished his profession, and has for many years attended solely to this occupation. In Dr. Hutton's Miscellanea Mathematica may be seen a controversy in which Mr. D. was engaged with the Rev. Mr. Wildbore, a celebrated mathematician, on the Evacuation of Vessels in Motion; in which under the transposed signature of Watson he completely foiled his antagonist. He was also engaged in a dispute with the late Mr. Emerson on the subject of fluxions, in which he had the advantage. Besides his writings on these occasions, and two papers in the Mem. of the Lit. and Phil. Soc. of Manchester, the following pamphlet is believed to be the only production of his pen; The Doctrine of Public Necessity briefly invalidated, 8vo. 1781. 2d. ed. 12mo. 1804.

DE CHARMILLY, Colonel VENAULT, Knight of the Order of St. Louis, formerly a planter in St. Domingo, Member of the First General Assembly of that colony, and charged by the planters to regulate and sign the capitulation of the island with General Williamson. On its subsequent evacuation by the British troops, the Colonel came to England, obtained rank in the British service, and married an English lady of title. In 1803 he was employed in some kind of agency in Spain; but his conduct there became the subject of severe animadversion in the British parliament, which occasioned the publication of his last two pamphlets. He has written:

Answer to Bryan Edwards, Esq. containing a Refutation of his Hist. Survey of St. Domingo, 4to. 1797.

DE LUC, J. R. Esq. F.R.S. a native of Switzerland, born in 1726. This venerable gentleman has been almost incessantly employed during the whole of his long life with the investigation of one of the most curious subjects connected with natural and even sacred history—the original order, arrangement, and composition of the globe of the earth, together with its subsequent changes and catastrophes. In the pursuit of this investigation he has relied on nothing short of actual observation, and visited most of the countries of continental Europe, where some of the first naturalists of the age, men of science, and even statesmen and crowned heads assisted in his researches; the results of which tend to the complete corroboration of scripture evidence. Besides the work already mentioned (See DE LA FITE.) and numerous articles in the Transactions of different Societies, and in periodical journals, he has written:

Geological Travels in the North of Europe, 8vo. 1810.
—Geological Travels in England, 2 v. 8vo. 1811.

DIBDIN, CHARLES, born at Southampton about 1748, and educated at Winchester with a view to the church; but a passion for music brought him at the early age of fifteen to London, and introduced him to the stage, both as an actor and composer. On quitting it the Circus was built for him, and he was manager of it for two seasons, after which he launched a new species of entertainment, consisting of songs, music, and recitation, of which he was himself the sole writer, composer, and performer. For these exhibitions, which he continued twenty years, he built a neat little theatre in Leicester-street, Leicester-square; but was at length obliged to relinquish it, having involved himself considerably by the speculation. The infinite variety of patriotic songs, naval and military, which he produced in the course of these entertainments, were known to have excited an extraordinary enthusiasm for the service in the lower classes during the war with France, and his merits in this line were justly remunerated by government with a pension of 200*l.* a year, which he enjoyed for some time, till on a change of administration it was cut off. On leaving his theatre he opened a music shop in the Strand, but without success; on which a number of gentlemen taking into consideration the multifarious claims of this old servant of the public, set on foot a subscription by which an annual provision has been made for Mr. D. during his life, the principal being reserved for his wife and daughter after his decease. Besides several dramatic pieces not printed, he has written:

The Shepherd's Artifice, dram. pl. 8vo. 1765.—Damon and Phillida, altered from Cibber, com. op. 8vo.

1768.—The Mischance, int. 8vo. 1772.—The Ladie, int. 8vo. 1773.—The Wedding Ring, com. op. 8vo. 1773.—The Deserter, mus. dr. 8vo. 1773.—The Waterman, op. 8vo. 1774.—The Cobler, or a Wife of Ten Thousand, bal. op. 8vo. 1774.—The Two Misers, mus. far. 8vo. 1775.—The Metamorphosis, com. op. 8vo. 1776.—The Seraglio, com. op. 8vo. 1776.—The Quaker, com. op. 8vo. 1777.—Poor Vulcan, bur. 8vo. 1778.—The Gipsies, com. op. 8vo. 1778.—Rose and Colin, com. op. 8vo. 1778.—The Wives Revenged, com. op. 8vo. 1778.—Annette and Lubin, com. op. 8vo. 1778.—The Chelsea Pensioner, com. op. 8vo. 1779.—The Mirror, or l'Alcequin every where, bur. 8vo. 1779.—The Shepherdess of the Alps, com. op. 8vo. 1780.—Harlequin Freemason, pl. 8vo. 1780.—The Islanders, com. op. 8vo. 1781.—The Marriage Act, far. 8vo. 1781.—The Graces, int. 8vo. 1782.—The Cestus, serenata, 8vo. 1783.—Harlequin, or the Phantom of a Day, 8vo. 1783.—The Lancashire Witches, pant. 8vo. 1783.—Long Odds, ser. 8vo. 1783.—Clump and Cudden, pl. 8vo. 1785.—Liberty Hall, mus. piece, 8vo. 1785.—The Devil, 2 v. 8vo. 1785.—The Bystander, 4to. 1787.—Musical Tour, 4to. 1787.—Harvest Hoine, com. op. 8vo. 1787.—Hannah Hewitt, or Female Crusoe, nov. 3 v. 1792.—The Younger Brother, nov. 3 v. 8vo. 1793.—History of the Stage, 5 v. 8vo. 1795.—Songs, 4 v. 12mo.—Professional Life of Charles Dibdin, 4 v. 8vo. 1802.—Observations on a Tour through England and Scotland, 4to. 1803.—The Harmonic Preceptor, a didactic poem, 4to. 1804.—Henry Hooka, nov. 3 v. 1806.—The Public Undeceived; a statement of facts relative to the Author's Pension, 1807.—Mr. D. is also the author of several musical publications, as the Musical Mentor, Music Epitomized, &c. &c.

DIBDIN, CHARLES, jun. son of the preceding, a proprietor and acting-manager of Sadler's Wells, for which he has written numberless songs, as well as the under-mentioned dramatic pieces:

DIBDIN, THOMAS, son of Mr. Charles D. sen. and brother of the preceding, born 1771. He was apprenticed to Sir William Rawlins, then in business as an auctioneer and upholsterer; but a growing passion for the stage impelled him at the age of eighteen to quit business and commence actor under the assumed name of Merchant. In 1793, he married Miss Hilliar, of the Manchester theatre, and in 1799, his farce of the Jew and the Doctor, brought out at Maidstone, introduced him to the notice of Mr. Harris, who at first engaged Mr. D. as a performer at Covent Garden. The success of that piece however induced the managers to make it worth his while to quit the stage as an actor, and to retain him as an author. His salary, however, was continued, on condition that he should furnish a pantomime every Christmas, and produce, when called upon, any prelude, interlude, or spectacle that public events of interest or notoriety might render fit subjects for the theatre. Besides some pieces not printed, he is the author of:

The Mad Guardian, far. (under the name of Merchant.) 8vo. 1795.—Mouth of the Nile, mus. ent. 8vo. 1798.—Naval Pillar, mus. ent. 8vo. 1799.—The Volcano, pant. DRAPER, REV. HENRY, D.D. of St. Edmund's Hall, Oxford, formerly Sunday Morning and Evening Preacher at St. Antholin's, Watling Street, and Afternoon Lecturer of St. George's, Southwark. In his publication, mentioned below, Dr. D. tells us that he had been engaged in the temporary care of an extensive and populous parish, and that his lectures were preached by him "as a means of confirming the members of our national establishment in their attachment to her pure services." Yet he very soon afterwards deserted that church and joined the Methodists. He then became superintendent of the late Countess of Huntingdon's Chapels, and President of her College at Cheshunt, but having been displaced by the Directors of that institution, he now resides at Peckham, and preaches at a chapel there. He has published:

Lectures on the Liturgy, 8vo. 1806.

DREW, REV. EDWARD, LL.B.

The Duty of defending our Country, a Sermon preached at the Cathedral, Exeter, 8vo. 1803.

DREW, SAMUEL, born 1765 in the parish of St. Austell, Cornwall, of poor parents, and at the age of ten years apprenticed to a shoemaker of St. Austell. He afterwards conducted that trade for a man who carried on in one shop the business of a saddler and bookbinder, together with the manufacture of shoes. In this situation, Mr. D. had an opportunity of indulging a natural desire of knowledge, till he engaged in business for himself. All his leisure, however, is devoted to studies chiefly of a metaphysical kind, and besides three or four pamphlets of a local nature, he has published:

An Essay on the Immateriality and Immortality of the Human Soul, founded solely on physical and rational principles, 2d ed. 1803.—Remarks on the first part of Paine's Age of Reason, 1799. 2d ed. 1803.—Essay on the Identity and general Resurrection of the Human Body, 8vo. 1809.

DRUMMOND, Rt. Hon. Sir WILLIAM, K.C. F.R.S. Lond. and Edin. late Ambassador to the Court of Sicily. This gentleman had a seat in the parliament which was dissolved in 1802. He has written :

A Review of the Governments of Sparta and Athens, 8vo. 1794.—The Satires of Persius, translated, 8vo. 1798.—(In association with Rob. Walpole, Esq.) Herculaniensis; Dissertations concerning a MS. found at Herculaneum, 4to. 1-10.—Essay on a Punic Inscription found in the Island of Malta, roy. 4to. 1811.—Oedipus Judaeus, (not printed for sale.) In this last work circulated only among his friends, the author attempted to consider certain of the histories and other parts of the O. Testament as allegories—some of them as astronomical allegories. It drew down upon him the censure of the Rev. Geo. D'Oyly, who seems to believe the Cause of Christianity in danger from this extraordinary mode of seeking discoveries in Scripture, and who has been answered in some anonymous pamphlets, but whether from the pen of Sir W. or some of his friends is not ascertained.

DRUMMOND, WILLIAM HAMILTON, D.D. Minister of the Presbyterian Congregation of Belfast, Memb. of the Lit. Soc. of that town, and Master of an Academy in the Neighbourhood.

The Battle of Trafalgar, a poem, 12mo. 1806.—The first book of Lucretius trans. into English verse cr. 8vo. 1809.—The 'Giants' Causeway, a poem, 8vo. 1812.

Mr. D. was editor of the Monthly Mirror, a work chiefly relating to the stage, lately discontinued.

DUBOST, —, painter, a native of France. This artist not long since rendered himself notorious by a picture which he publicly exhibited, representing Mrs. Hope, and her husband, Thomas Hope, Esq. (to whose patronage he had been not a little indebted) in the characters of Beauty and the Beast. This procedure was resented by the Rev. Mr. Beresford, brother of Mrs. H. who cut in pieces the obnoxious painting. An action for damages was, in consequence, brought by the artist, who was, however, nonsuited. A statement of the case was given in the Examiner Sunday Newspaper, on which Mr. D. published :

An Appeal to the Public against the Calumnies of the Editor of the Examiner, 8vo. 1810.

DUBOST, CHRISTOPHER.

DUDLEY, F.

Amoroso, nov. 2 v. 1810.

DUDLEY, Rev. Sir HENRY BATE, Bart. LL.D. Chancellor and Prebendary of Ferns, Ireland, Rector of Willingham, Suffolk, and Proprietor of the Morning Herald newspaper. This gentleman, the second of the twelve children of the late Rev. Mr. Bate of Worcester, was educated at Queen's College, Oxford; and at an early age obtained the living of North Farnbridge, Essex, and the Curacy of Letherhead, Surrey. About 1775 he became concerned in the Morning Post newspaper, which he afterwards quitted, and was the original founder of the Morning Herald, which commenced in 1780. In 1781 he purchased the advowson of the living of Bradwell juxta Mare, in which parish he expended nearly 30,000l. in improvements, and obtained the gold medal of the Society of Arts, for embanking and gaining a considerable quantity of land from the sea. On the death of the incumbent, he applied to the bishop to be inducted to the living; a long controversy ensued; legal interference was resorted to, and at length the patron waived his right to the presentation in favor of his brother-in-law. In 1805 he was preferred to the valuable appointment of Chancellor of Ferns, with the rectory of Kilcoran annexed, and in 1812 created a baronet. He took the name of Dudley, in compliance with the will of a friend, who left him an estate; and about 1780 married Miss White. Notwithstanding his cloth, Sir H. was in early life engaged in several duels, particularly with Mr. Bowes, the husband of the Countess of Strathmore, G. R. Fitzgerald, and M. De Morande, a confidential friend of the Chevalier D'Eon. His publications are :

Henry and Emma, interl. 8vo. 1774.—The Rival Candidates, com. op. 8vo. 1775.—The Blackamoor Washed White, 8vo. 1776.—The Flitch of Bacon, com. op. 8vo. 1779.—The Dramatic Puffers, prel. 8vo. 1782.—The Magic Picture, pl. 8vo. 1783.—Remarks on Gilbert's last Bill for the Relief of the Poor, 8vo. 1788.—The Woodman, com. op. 8vo. 1791.—The Travellers in Switzerland, com. op. 8vo. 1793.—Observations on the Present State and the defects of the Poor Laws, 8vo. 1802.—Address to the Primate of Ireland, recommending a modification of the tithes of that country, 8vo. 1808.—Letter to the Rev. R. Hodgson, on his Life of Bishop Porteus (on the subject of the contest relative to the presentation to the living of Bradwell), 8vo. 1811.

History of the Inns of Court in Ireland, 8vo. 1807.

DUIGENAN, Rt. Hon. PATRICK, LL.D.

M.P. for the borough of Armagh, Vicar-General of the Metropolitan court of Armagh, of the dioceses of Meath and Elphin, of the Consistorial Court of Dublin, Judge of the Prerogative Court, King's Advocate-General of the High Court of Admiralty, Professor of Common Law in the University of Dublin, and a Privy Counsellor in Ireland. This gentleman, a native of Ireland, was educated at Trin. Coll. Dublin, called to the Irish bar in 1767, obtained a silk gown as king's counsel, and for many years had a seat in the Irish parliament, where he was the first proposer of an union with Great Britain. Ever since the accomplishment of that measure, he has sat in the imperial parliament for the borough of Armagh, and has distinguished himself by his violent opposition to the claims of the Catholics. It is not a little singular, however, that, notwithstanding the vehemence of the doctor's declamation against Popery, he should have married a lady of the Catholic persuasion, who, after an union of seventeen years, left him a widower. His publications are:

Lachrymæ Academicæ, or the present deplorable state of Trinity Coll. Dublin, 8vo. 1777 (written on occasion of the election of the late Rt. Hon. J. H. Hutchinson to be Provost of Tri. Coll.). . .—Address of Theophilus to the Nobility and Gentry of Ireland, . . .—Speech on the Catholic bill in the Irish H. of Com. 8vo. 1795.—Answer of the Address of the Rt. Hon. H. Grattan to his fellow-citizens of Dublin, 1797.—A fair Representation of the Political State of Ireland, in a course of strictures on two pamphlets, one entitled, "The Case of Ireland Reconsidered;" the other, "Considerations on the State of Public Affairs," 8vo. 1799. (In February, 1800, an action was brought by P. Lettin, Esq. against the publisher of this pamphlet, in which Mr. L.'s conduct is censured, pp. 6, 7, 8, as being the author of "Case of Ireland Reconsidered," and a verdict was given in favour of Mr. L. Damages, 500l.)—Speech on the Subject of an Incorporating Union between Great Britain and Ireland, 8vo. 1800.—Speech in the Irish H. of Com. Feb. 5, 1800, on the motion for approving his Majesty's conduct in declining the negotiation with the French government, 8vo. 1800.—The Nature and Extent of the Demands of the Irish Roman Catholics fully explained, 8vo. 1810.

DUNCUMB, JOHN, A.M. of Trin. Coll. Cambridge, F.A.S. and Rector of Abbey-Dore, Herefordshire. He is descended from the ancient family of that name, long settled at Weston, Tangle, and Shere, in the county of Surrey, of whom Francis D. of Tangle, was created a baronet in 1662. Mr. D. belongs to the branch situated in the parish of Shere, and which has for several generations held the advowson of that valuable benefice, being the second son of the late, and brother to the present rector. His publications are:

A Sermon on the General Fast, 1796. 8vo.—A Sermon preached in the Cathedral of Hereford, for the benefit of the Infirmary of that city, 8vo. 1797.—A Prize Essay, on the best means of applying pasture lands, &c. to the production of grain, and of converting them to grass, as recommended by a committee of the H. of Lords, and by the Board of Agric. 8vo. 1801.—A Survey of the Agricultural and Rural Economy of Herefordshire, drawn up for the use of the Board of Agric. 8vo. 1805.—Collections towards the History and Antiquities of the County of Hereford, v. 1, 4to. 1806. v. 2, part 1, 1812.

DUNDAS, General Sir DAVID, K. B. Colonel of the 1st regt. of dragoons, and of the 95th foot, and Governor of Chelsea Hospital. This eminent military character, descended from the family of Dundas, of Dundas, which claims the rank of chief of that name, was born about 1737 at Edinburgh. His father was a merchant of that city; and by his mother he was cousin to the late Viscount Melville. At the age of eighteen he commenced his professional career under his uncle, General David Watson, then Quarter-Master General. In 1756 he obtained a Lieutenancy in the Engineers, and in 1759 was promoted to a troop in the regiment of dragoons raised by Col. Elliott, afterwards Lord Heathfield, to whom he acted as aid-de-camp in Germany, in the West Indies at the reduction of the Havannah, and till 1770, when he was advanced to the Majority of the 15th dragoons. He was successively appointed Quarter-Master General and Adjutant General in Ireland; Colonel, 1781; Major-General, 1790. In 1793 he commanded a body of troops at Toulon, served in Flanders with great distinction in the campaigns of 1794 and 5, was appointed Quarter-Master General of the British army in 1797, and accompanied the expedition to Holland in 1799. In 1803 he relinquished the Quarter-Master Generalship, and in 1809, on the resignation of the Duke of York, succeeded to the chief command of the British army, which he held till the reinstatement of his royal highness. Sir David occupies a place here as author of

The Principles of Military Movements, chiefly applied to Infantry, 4to. 1788. His Majesty, to whom this work was dedicated, having been pleased to approve of it, directed it to be arranged and adapted for the use of the army in 1792. It was accordingly printed under the title of "Rules and Regulations for the Formations, Field-Exercise, and Movements of his Majesty's Forces," with an injunction that this system should be strictly followed and adhered to, without any deviation whatsoever. The Rules and Regulations for the Cavalry were also planned by General D. so that in this respect the army has been more indebted to him than to any other officer since the days of General Bland, who published the first regular system of tactics in our language.

DUNDONALD (ARCHIBALD COCHRANE), Earl of, a nobleman eminently distinguished by a love of scientific pursuits, and speculations which have impaired his private fortune, while they have contributed to enrich others, and to increase the resources of the country. He was born about 1744, and entered into the naval service, which he relinquished with the rank of lieutenant, and in 1778 succeeded to the family honors, by the demise of his father. His lordship has obtained several patents: 1. for extracting tar from coal, originally designed to pay ships' bottoms, to secure them from worms; but, since the general adoption of copper sheathing, this tar has been used only as a cheap but efficacious covering for out-houses, sheds, fences, &c. 2. for a method of preparing a substitute for gum-senegal and other gums; 3. for methods of preparing hemp and flax, so as materially to aid the operation of the hackles in the division of the fibre. These, and the subjoined list of his publications, shew the subjects to which his attention has been principally devoted. In 1774 his lordship married Anne, daughter of Captain Gilchrist, of the royal navy, by whom he had five sons, two of whom are post captains in the navy, and two are in the army. In 1784 he lost his first wife, and in 1788 married Mrs. Mayne, a widow lady, by whom he has no issue. He is the author of:

The Present State of the Manufacture of Salt Exploined, 8vo. 1785.—On the Qualities and Uses of Coal-tar and Coal-varnish, 8vo. 1785.—A Treatise, shewing the intimate connexion between agriculture and chemistry, 4to. 1795.—The Principles of Chemistry applied to the Improvement of the Practice of Agriculture, 4to. 1799.

DYER, GEORGE, A.B. of Clifford's Inn. This gentleman, a popular writer of considerable genius, and a pleasing poet, was educated at Christ's Hospital, and at Emanuel College, Cambridge. Mr. D. was intended for the church, but having from conscientious motives relinquished all hopes of ecclesiastical preferment, he connected himself with the Baptists and for some years appeared as a preacher in the meeting-houses of various classes of dissenters. He then repaired to the metropolis, where he was at first, for a short time, engaged as a reporter of the Debates of the H. of Commons, and has since employed himself in the business of private instruction, and in writing for Reviews and other periodical works. He is the author of:

An Enquiry into the nature of Subscription to the Thirty-nine Articles, 8vo. 1790. 2d ed. greatly enlarged, 1792.—Poems, 4to. 1792.—The Complaints of the poor People of England, 8vo. 1793.—*An Account of N. EDWARDS, GEORGE, M.D. of Suffolk-street, Charing-Cross. This gentleman advertises himself as "the Author of the Income or Property Tax," which very few would consider as an enviable distinction. His publications savor more strongly of visionary theory than sound reasoning; they are:

The Aggrandisement and National Perfection of Great Britain, 2 v. 4to. 1787.—The Royal and Constitutional Regeneration of Great Britain, 2 v. 4to. 1790.—The practical Means of effectually exonerating the public Burthens, of paying the National Debt, and of raising the Supplies of War without new Taxes, 4to. 1790.—The great and important Discovery of the 18th century, and the means of setting right the National Affairs, 8vo. 1791.—The Description; and Characters of the different Diseases of the Human Body; being the first volume of the Franklinian Improvement of Medicine, 4to. 1791.—Effectual Means of providing against the Distress apprehended from the scarcity and high price of different articles of food, 8vo. 1800.—Practical means of counteracting the present scarcity, and preventing famine in future, 8vo. 1801.—The Political Interests of Great Britain, 8vo. 1801.—Peace on Earth and good-will towards men, or the civil, political, and religious means of establishing the Kingdom of God upon earth, 8vo. 1805.—Measures as well as Men; or the present and future interests of Great Britain, 8vo. 1806.—A plain Speech to the Imperial Parl. of G. All Saints Church, Derby, a poem, 4to. 1806.

EDWARDS, P. H. Esq.

The Imperial Conspirator Overthrowu, a serio-burlesque performance, 8vo. 1808.

EDWARDS, RICHARD, B.A. of Great Russell-street, Bloomsbury; the author of some tracts which create very strong doubts respecting the sanity of his intellects. His character might indeed be collected from the opening sentence of the first of them, where he says:—"This subject must be naturally brief, for, as there were no poems in verse in the English language before those which I have recently written, no rules of English prosody were needed."

Treatise on English Prosody, 1813.—Specimens of English accentuated Verse, wherein the Intensity of Pronunciation only is measured, and the length of the syllable is unnoticed, 1813.—Specimens of English non-accentuated Verse, or Verse measured; with a regard had solely to the length of time required in the pronunciation of syllables, the accent and emphasis being entirely unnoticed, 1813.

ELLISTON, ROBERT WILLIAM, son of a watchmaker, and born in 1774 in Orange Street, Bloomsbury. He was educated at St. Paul's School, at the expense of his uncle, Dr. E. late Master of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, who intended him for the church; but he left that seminary in 1790, without the consent of his friends, and betook himself to the stage. In 1796 he married Miss Rundall, who belonged to the Bath company, and by whom he has a large family. Since 1804 Mr. E. has been engaged at Drury Lane theatre; and, on the recent destruction of that house, he took the Royal Circus, which he has named "The Surrey Theatre." Besides these engagements, he has also upon his hands, according to the public prints, Astley's Pavilion, the Birmingham theatre, and a bookseller's shop at Bristol. He is introduced here as having published:

EMMETT, THOMAS ADDIS, born in Ireland, bred to the law. Having deeply involved himself in the treasonable designs of the United Irishmen, he was one of those who were permitted by the lenity of government, to transport themselves from their native country, on which he established himself in the United States of America, where he now practises as a counsellor at law. His younger brother, Robert, was executed in 1803, as the instigator of the insurrection at Dublin, in which the lives of Lord Kilwarden and several other persons were sacrificed. In association with Dr. William James MacNevin, a worthy colleague in his conspiracy and expatriation, he has published in America:

ERSKINE, CHARLES, Surgeon.

The Institutes of the Medicinal Pathology of Gaubius translated, 8vo. 1778.—The Syphilitic Physician, 12mo. 1808.

ERSKINE (THOMAS ERSKINE), Lord, third and youngest son of the late, and brother of the present Earl of Buchan. He was born about 1750, and educated partly at the High School, Edinburgh, and partly at the University of St. Andrew's. He originally embraced the naval, which he quitted for the military profession, but left that also young; and, after residing for a short time at Cambridge, went to Lincoln's Inn, and qualified himself for the bar, to which he was called in 1778. Here he immediately became distinguished for his oratory at the trial of Admiral Keppel, and rose to that commanding station which he ever afterwards retained during his continuance at the bar. In 1783 he was appointed King's Counsel, and Attorney-General to the Prince of Wales, from which last situation however, he was removed for refusing to give up a professional retainer on the trial of Thomas Paine. To this office he was restored in 1802, and invested with that of Chancellor to his Royal Highness, and Keeper of the Seals for the Duchy of Cornwall. In 1804 he accepted the command of the corps of volunteers formed under the name of the Law Association, and in 1806 elevated to the peerage, and invested with the important functions of Lord High Chancellor, and Speaker of the House of Lords, which he resigned on the change of administration in the following year. In 1770 he married Frances, daughter of Daniel Moore, Esq. who died in 1805, and by whom he had issue, four sons, and four daughters. The eldest of the former was lately Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States of America, and M.P. for Portsmouth, which Lord E. himself represented from 1783 to 1806. It is said that many fugitive pieces of poetry, the production of Lord E.'s pen, are in circulation among his friends; and that while in the army, he wrote on the subject of an increase of its pay. Five volumes of his speeches, when at the bar, have lately been collected and published by Ridgway; but, though unquestionably authentic, they can scarcely be considered as a work of which his lordship may be termed the author, as they were not written by him, but delivered without having been previously composed. His only avowed publication is a pamphlet, which had an unprecedented sale, no fewer than forty-eight editions of it having been printed within a few months after its publication. It is entitled:

A View of the Causes and Consequences of the Present War with France, 8vo. 1797.

ESPINASSE, ISAAC, Esq. of Gray's Inn, Barrister at Law.

FAWCETT, JOHN, jun. Thoughts on Christian Communion, 12mo. 1793.

FAWCETT, JOHN, of Covent Garden Theatre, son of a respectable performer who belonged upwards of 30 years to the Drury Lane company, was born in London 1769, educated at St. Paul's School, and apprenticed to a linen-draper. Conceiving a predilection for the stage he ran away from his master and joined a strolling company under the assumed name of Foote. After performing at several provincial theatres, he made his first appearance at Covent Garden in 1791, and was for several years acting manager also at the Haymarket. Mr. F. first married Mrs. Mills, who died in 1797; and secondly Miss Gawdry, by whom he has a young family. He has produced the following pieces:

Obi, pant. dram. 8vo. 1800.—Pérouse, pant. dr. 8vo. 1801.—The Enchanted Island, dr. bal. 1804.

FENNELL, JAMES, a native of Wales, designed for the bar, from which he was seduced by an unconquerable predilection for the stage. In 1787 he went to Edinburgh, where his success under the assumed name of Cambray, was such as to induce him to repair to London; but as his talents did not excite in the metropolis that admiration which he expected, he returned to Edinburgh. From that stage, however, he was soon driven by a party in the most arbitrary manner, as related in the first of his publications. He had an engagement at Covent Garden in 1789, but being unable to renew it the following year, he commenced a periodical publication entitled the Theatrical Guardian, professedly with a view to redress all theatrical grievances; but it was soon dropped, and the author is supposed to have since emigrated to America. He has written:

Statement of Facts relative to the late Disturbance at the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh, 8vo. 1783.—Lindor and Clara, com. 8vo. 1790.—A Review of the Proceedings at Paris during the last Summer, 8vo. 1792.

He was educated at the school of Perth, and the University of St. Andrew's, whence he proceeded to Edinburgh. In 1745, he took holy orders for the purpose of accepting the situation of chaplain to the 42d regiment, which he held till 1757. He then became private tutor in the family of Lord Bute; but in 1759 accepted the professorship of Natural Philosophy in the University of Edinburgh. In 1764 he was appointed to the chair of Moral Philosophy, which he resigned in 1784, and retired on the salary of the mathematical, in addition to which he enjoys a pension from government. In 1767, Dr. F. married Miss Burnet, niece to the celebrated Dr. Black, by whom he has several children. He resides at Manor, near Peebles. His publications are:

FLOWER, BENJAMIN. In 1783, this gentleman, then a partner in the house of Anstice and Worstead, grocers, London, lost the whole of his property by a speculation in the funds. He was afterwards a printer at Cambridge; where, in 1793, he commenced a weekly newspaper under the title of the Cambridge Intelligencer, with extraordinary success. The freedom of his remarks in this print, however, subjected him to prosecution and imprisonment; his paper declined and was discontinued. He now resides at Harlow, Essex, where he is still engaged in the printing business, and is the conductor of a monthly work entitled the Political Review. He has published:

The French Constitution, with remarks on some of its principal articles, in which the necessity of a Reformation in Church and State in Great Britain is enforced, 8vo. 1792.—*National Sins considered in two Letters to the Rev. FORBES, JAMES, Esq. F.R.S. F.A.S. and Member of the Arcadian Society at Rome, of Stanmore, Middlesex, born about 1748. Having obtained an appointment as a writer to Bombay, he left England before he had completed his 16th year, and travelled in different parts of Asia, Africa and America for near 20 years, during which period he resided for a considerable time among the Brahmins at a great distance from the European settlements in the East Indies. The drawings and descriptions which he made of the principal places, and picturesque scenery of the countries visited by him, of the manners and customs of their inhabitants, and various objects in natural history fill 150 folio volumes, containing upwards of 52,000 pages, all the work of his own hands. About 1784 he returned to England, and in 1803, with his wife and daughter, visited France, where he was detained on the recommencement of hostilities, but released the following year through the interference of Carnot. He has published :

Letters from France written in 1803-4, including a particular Account of Verdun, and the situation of the British Captives, 2 v. roy. 8vo. 1806.—Reflexions on the Character of the Hindoos, and the importance of converting them to Christianity, 8vo. 1810.—Oriental Memoirs, 4 v. roy. 4to. 1813.

FOSTER, Rt. Hon. JOHN, M. P. for the county of Louth, a Lord of the Treasury in Ireland, Custos Rotulorum and Governor of the county of Louth, official Visitor of the College of Maynooth, and a Trustee of the Linen Manufacture. Mr. F. the eldest son of the late Lord Chief Baron of the Irish Exchequer, was born in 1740, educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and called to the bar in 1766. He soon afterwards obtained a seat in the Irish Parliament for the county which he has ever since represented, and distinguished himself by a new system of corn laws which he introduced, and by his attention to the improvement of the linen manufacture. In 1785 he was appointed Chancellor of the Irish Exchequer, but resigned that office in the following year to fill the Chair as Speaker of the House of Commons, in which he continued till the Union. That measure he strenuously opposed. In 1804 he was again invested with the office of Chancellor of the Exchequer for Ireland, which he held with a short intermission during Mr. Fox's administration till 1812. In 1764 he married Margaretta Emilia daughter of Thomas Burgh, Esq. of Birt, Co. of Kildare, who was created Baroness of Oriel in 1790, and Viscountess Ferrars in 1797. By her he has issue the Rt. Hon. Thomas Henry Foster, late Member for Drogheda, and a daughter married to Lord Dufferin.

FRANCIS, Sir PHILIP, K.B. son of the Rev. Mr. F. the celebrated translator of Horace and Demosthenes, was born in Dublin 1740, and educated at St. Paul's School. In 1756 he was appointed to an inferior situation in the Secretary of State's Office; in 1758 was secretary to General Bligh, who commanded the expedition against Cherburg; and in 1760 attended the Earl of Kinnoull, ambassador to the court of Lisbon, in the same capacity. In 1763 he obtained an appointment in the War Office, which he resigned in 1772, and the following year went to India, as one of the members in council for the government of Bengal. He returned to England in consequence of his disagreement with Mr. Hastings, in whose impeachment he afterwards took a very active part. In 1781 and 1784 he was elected M.P. for Yarmouth, in the Isle of Wight; in 1790 for Blechingley; and for Appleby in 1802 and 1806, in which last year also he was invested with the order of the Bath. It seems doubtful whether the whole of the following publications appeared with his sanction :

Original Minutes on the Settlement and Collection of the Bengal Revenues, 1782.—Speech in the H. of Com. 8vo. 1784.—Two Speeches in the H. of Com. on the East India bill, 8vo. 1784.—Speech in the H. of Com. 8vo. 1786.—Answer to the Charges exhibited against the author, Gen. FREY, Rev. JOSEPH SAMUEL C. F. a native of Germany, converted from the Jewish faith to Christianity. He was for some time in the Missionary Seminary at Berlin, came to England about 1802, and was received into the seminary of the society at Gosport, in the expectation that he would devote his future labors to the Heathen in Africa. Mr. F. however, preferred preaching to the Jews at home, and having quitted the Missionary Society, he, in 1809, joined the London Society for promoting Christianity among the Jews, who have taken the French Church, in Spital-Fields, and opened it as "the Jews' Chapel," where Mr. F. officiates. He has published:

A narrative of the circumstances which led to his separation from the Missionary Soc. and his union with the London Soc. for promoting Christianity among the Jews, 8vo. 1809.—Vanderhooght's Hebrew Bible, part I. 8vo. 1811.—A Hebrew Grammar, 8vo. 1813.

FUSELI, HENRY, R. A. Professor of Painting to the Royal Academy, a native of Zurich, in Switzerland, educated at that place and at Berlin, under Professor Sulzer. At an early age he accompanied Sir Andrew Mitchell, the British Ambassador at the Prussian court, to England, and by the encouragement of Sir Joshua Reynolds, devoted himself to the profession of painting. He then visited Italy, and returned to London in 1780. One of his greatest efforts was the production of the Milton Gallery, which was publicly exhibited in 1799. We believe Mr. F.'s first publication was:

Reflections on the Painting and Sculpture of the Greeks; with Instructions for the Connoisseur, and an Essay on Grace in Works of Art, translated from the German of the Abbé Winkelmann, 8vo. 1765.—After which appeared, Lectures on Painting, delivered at the Roy. GARDINER, JOHN, D.D. son of a gentleman of Somersetshire, eminent for his knowledge of agriculture, born near Wellington, 1757, and educated at Tiverton, whence he went to the Univ. of Glasgow, where he studied the civil law. He then entered himself of the Middle Temple, with a view to qualify for the bar. An irresistible impulse induced him to exchange the law for the church, and for this purpose he repaired to Wadham College, Oxford. In 1781 he took possession of the vicarage of Shirley, and rectory of Brailsford, in the county of Derby, the presentation to which had been purchased by his father, with whom he afterwards resided for some years at Wellington, performing gratuitously the duty of curate of that parish. In 1789, he undertook the same office at Taunton, where he continued till his father, in 1796, purchased for him the Octagon Chapel at Bath, where he has ever since regularly officiated. His publications are:—

A Sermon preached on the Fast-day; 1793, 4to.—A Sermon on the Duties of a Soldier, preached at the consecration of the colours of a regiment of Yeomanry Cavalry.—Brief Reflections on the Eloquence of the Pulpit, occasioned by a pamphlet, entitled, Remarks on a Sermon preached on the Fast-day, 1793, by J. GARDNER, LAURENCE PANTING, M. A.

This gentleman, whose name was originally Panting, is of St. John's College, Cambridge, of which he was for some time a Fellow, till he married. He was the first minister of the chapel, South Lambeth, and at the same time Evening Preacher at the Asylum, and afternoon Lecturer of St. Magnus, London Bridge. In 1803, he changed his name to Gardner, agreeably to a will by which he holds an estate, and became Rector of the second portion of Westbury, Shropshire. He divides his time between the duties of this living and those of the metropolis, where he holds the appointments of Morning Preacher at Fitzroy Chapel, and Clerk in Orders at St. George's, Hanover-square. He has published: Farewell Sermon to the Congregation of S. Lambeth Chapel, 1803.—Some Modern Principles of Education considered, in a Sermon preached at the Asylum, 4to. 1812.

GIFFORD, WILLIAM. From a truly interesting biographical account of this gentleman, prefixed to his translation of Juvenal, it appears, that he is a native of Ashburton, Devonshire, and was born in 1757. At the age of thirteen he became an orphan, by the loss of both his parents; was then placed on board a coaster at Brixton, by his god-father, who afterwards bound him apprentice to a shoemaker, with whom he worked till his twentieth year. About this time some poetical trifles which he had produced, attracted the notice of a gentleman who interested himself so warmly in his behalf, that a subscription was raised expressly for the purpose of purchasing the remainder of his apprenticeship, and maintaining him for a short time, while he improved himself in writing and English grammar. Such, however, was his assiduity under the master provided for him, that his patrons extended their views, and determined to send him to the university. The office of Bib. Lect. at Exeter College, Oxford, was procured for him, and thither he removed. About this time he commenced his translation of Juvenal, which he proposed to publish by subscription; but afterwards relinquished that plan, and returned the money which he had received. Accident introduced him to the acquaintance of the late Earl Grosvenor, whose son, the present Earl, he accompanied in two successive tours to the continent, and by whom he was finally placed in ease and independence. His first avowed work was devoted to the chastisement of the poetasters of the Della Crusca school. He is understood to have been the editor of the Anti-Jacobin, or Weekly Examiner, as he is at present of the Quarterly Review; and has published:

The Baviad, fc. 8vo. 1794.—The Mæviad, fc. 8vo. 1795.—These two works have since been re-printed, together with an epistle to Peter Pindar, and other additions, and had reached the ninth edition in 1813.—The Satires of Juvenal, translated into English verse, with notes, 4to. 1802.—Examination of the Strictures of the Critical Reviewers on the translation of Juvenal, 4to. 1803.—A Supp. to the preceding, 4to. 1804.—The Plays of Massinger, with notes, 4 v. 8vo. 1808.—Mr. G. is at this time engaged in an edition of the works of Ben Jonson.

GLENBERVIE, (SYLVESTER DOUGLAS,)

LORD, son of the late John D. Esq. of Feichil, Aberdeenshire. After finishing his education at a neighbouring university, he removed to London, entered himself of one of the Inns of Court, was called to the Bar and appointed a King's Counsel. He soon arrived at considerable eminence in his profession, obtained a seat in parliament, was nominated to a variety of offices in succession, and became a member of the Privy Council both in Great Britain and Ireland. In the latter country he resided for some time in the character of Chief Secretary, and also enjoyed the situation of a Commissioner of the Treasury. In 1801, he was elevated to the peerage, and appointed to the government of the Cape of Good Hope, which he relinquished for the Joint Paymastership of the Forces. He is now Surveyor General of the King's Woods and Forests, to which office he was first appointed 1803, resigned 1806, and re-appointed 1807; also a Commissioner for the Affairs of India, and in the absence of the Earl of Liverpool, President of the Committee of the Privy Council for the Affairs of Trade and Plantations. His lordship married, in 1789, the Hon. Catharine Ann, eldest daughter of Frederick, second Earl of Guildford, by whom he has issue an only son, the Hon. F. S. N. Douglas, (which see). Besides an account of the Tokay, and other wines of Hungary, in the Phil. Trans. for 1773, his lordship is the author of:

History of the Cases of Controverted Elections determined during the first session of the 14th Parl. of G. Britain, 4 v. 8vo. 1777. 2d edit. 1802.—Reports of Cases determined in the Court of King's Bench in the 19th, 20th, and 21st years of George III. fol. 1783. 3d edit. 2 v. roy. 8vo. 1790.

GLENCAIRN, (ISABELLA,) Countess Dowager of, sister to the Earl of Buchan and Lord Erskine. She married in 1770 William Leslie Hamilton, Esq. a gentleman at the bar, who in 1777 went out to the West Indies as Solicitor-General, and afterwards became Attorney-General of the Leeward Islands. In these situations he expended on account of government various sums, estimated in the whole at 15000*l.* After his death various circumstances prevented his widow from immediately preferring her claims; and her second husband the late Earl of Glencairn who looked forward to the inheritance of a large fortune would not suffer his Countess to become a suitor to government for the sacrifices of her former husband. His lordship, however, dying, the fortune to which he was heir passed to another branch of the family, and his relict being thrown back into her former circumstances was obliged to resume the task of urging her claims; but being unable to obtain from the late Mr. Perceval the recommendation of them to Parliament, she made an appeal to the public through the medium of a pamphlet entitled:

A Representation of the Case of the Countess of Glencairn, 1812.

GLENIE, JAMES, Esq. M.A. F.R.S. formerly an officer in the Royal Artillery and Engineers. This gentleman, a native of Scotland, born about 1747, is one of the ablest mathematicians of the present day, and is said to have put to rest, in a paper read before the Royal Society in 1811, the long celebrated problem respecting the quadrature of the circle, the impossibility of which he there demonstrated. He is the author of some papers in the Phil. Trans. and of the following works:

History of Ganoery, 8vo. 1776.—The Doctrine of Universal Comparison and General Proportion, 4to. 1789.—The Antecedental Calculus, or Geometrical Method of Reasoning without any consideration of motion or velocity, applicable to every purpose to which fluxions have been or can be applied, 4to. 1793.—Observations on Construction, 8vo. 1793.—Observations on the Defence of Great Britain and its principal Dock-yards, 8vo. 1807.

GODWIN, WILLIAM, son of Mr. J. G.
Minister of a congregation of Dissenters at Guestwick, Norfolk. He was educated at the Dissenters' College, at Hoxton, and in 1778 began to officiate as minister at Stowmarket, Suffolk, where he continued till 1782, when he laid aside the clerical character, removed to London, and determined to pursue literature as a profession. In 1797 he was united to the celebrated Mary Wollstonecraft, who died the same year. His second marriage took place in 1801. Some years since Mr. G. opened a bookseller's shop in Skinner-street, where he has ushered into the world many very useful works tending to facilitate the instruction of youth. Mr. G. is said to be the author of various publications to which he has not affixed his name; his avowed productions are:

Sketches of History, in six Sermons, 12mo. 1782.—Enquiry concerning Political Justice and its Influence on general Virtue and Happiness, 4to. 1793. 3d edit. 2 v. 8vo. 1797.—Things as they Are, or the Adventures of Caleb Williams, nov. 3 v. 1794.—Censorious Strictures on the Charge delivered by Lord Chief Justice Eyre to the Grand Jury, Oct. 2, 1794, 8vo.—The Enquirer; Reflections on Education, Manners, and Literature, in a series of Essays, 8vo. 1796.—Memoirs of (Mary Wollstonecraft,) the Author of a Viatication of the Rights of Woman, &c. 8vo. 1798.—St. Leon, a tale of the 16th century, 4 v. 1799.—Antonio, trag. 8vo. 1801.—Thoughts occasioned by the perusal of Dr. Parr's Spital Sermon, being a reply to the attacks of Dr. P. GOLDSMITH, LEWIS, Notary Public.
This man, so vehement an apologist for French principles that he could scarcely find a publisher for his first performance, went to Paris to offer his services to Bonaparte, and was employed for some time as editor of the Argus, an English paper established in the French metropolis, for the purpose of vilifying every thing British. Some disagreement having ensued between him and his employers he was displaced, and afterwards acted as law-agent and foreign translator in the French courts of justice till his return to England about 1809; since which time he has established a newspaper under the title of the Antigallican. In this as well as his other publications he has reviled his late masters as bitterly as he formerly did the government of his native country.

GRATTAN, Right Hon. HENRY, M. P. for the city of Dublin, son of a recorder of Dublin, where he was born about 1751; educated at Trinity College, and in 1772 called to the bar. He soon obtained a seat in the Irish Parliament, through the influence of the late Earl of Charlemont, where he acquired such popularity by his exertions in behalf of the independence of Ireland, that the sum of 50,000*l.* was voted to him for his services. He afterwards became the strenuous advocate of the claims of his Catholic countrymen to an equality of rights with their Protestant fellow subjects; but in 1797 retired in disgust from the senate; in which, however, he again procured a seat for the express purpose of opposing the Union with Great Britain. In 1805 he was chosen to represent the borough of Malton in the Imperial Parliament, and since 1806 has been regularly returned for the city of Dublin. Mr. G. married a Miss Fitzgerald, by whom he has had several children. Many of his speeches have been published, but whether with his sanction seems doubtful:

GREATHEAD, HENRY, of South Shields, born at Richmond, Yorkshire, 1757.

His father, who was comptroller of the salt duties at South Shields, apprenticed him to a boat-builder at that place. He afterwards embraced a seafaring life, was for six years in the royal navy, during the American war, and in 1788 was shipwrecked on the French coast. In 1789 a committee of the ship-owners of S. Shields offered premiums for plans of a boat best calculated to save shipwrecked persons, and the preference was given to one proposed by Mr. G. whose invention, under the name of the Life Boat, has been introduced in many places on the British coasts, and in 1802 procured him from Parliament the sum of 1200*l.* In 1786 he married the daughter of Mr. Wood, collector of excise at Norwich. He has published :

GRENVILLE, (WILLIAM WYNDHAM GRENVILLE) LORD, Chancellor of the Univ. of Oxford, Auditor of the Exchequer, LL.D. & F.S.A. second brother of the late Marquis of Buckingham, born 1759. He was educated at Eton and Oxford, where he was distinguished for his classical attainments. From the university he removed to London to study the law, but soon relinquished it for the more brilliant career of politics, which his powerful connexions opened to his ambition. In 1782 he accompanied the Marquis of Buckingham as his secretary to Ireland, and soon after the elevation of his cousin, William Pitt, to the helm, he was appointed Paymaster-general of the Forces. In 1789, being then Knight of the Shire for the county of Bucks, he was elected Speaker of the H. of Commons, but retained that high office only a few months, being nominated Secretary of State for the home department, which he exchanged for the foreign department in 1791. The latter he held in conjunction with the Auditorship of the Exchequer, till the resignation of Mr. Pitt, in 1801. The coalition formed in 1806 between Mr. Fox's party and the friends of his lordship produced the appointment of the latter to the office of First Lord of the Treasury, from which he retired the following year. He was elected chancellor of Oxford in 1810. His lordship was ennobled in 1790, and in 1792 married the Hon. Anne Pitt, only daughter of the first Lord Camelford, and who eventually became sole heir to his large possessions on the death of her brother the late lord in 1804.

HALFORD, Sir HENRY, Bart. M.D. F.R. and A.S. Physician to the King and to the P. Regent. This gentleman, whose name was originally Vaughan, was created a Baronet in 1809; and has published:

Oratio Harvejana habita, 18 Oct. 1800, 4to.—An Account of what appeared on opening the Coffin of King Charles I. in St. George's Chapel at Windsor, (in the presence of the P. Regent,) 4to. 1813.

HALHED, NATHANIEL BRASSEY, a gentleman distinguished for his attainments in Oriental Literature, formerly in the civil service of the E. Ind. Comp. in Bengal. On his return to England, he obtained a seat in Parliament; and afforded a memorable and melancholy instance of the eccentricity of the human mind, by becoming the avowed champion of Richard Brothers, and publicly professing his belief in the pretended mission of that wretched enthusiast. His valuable collection of Oriental MSS. was purchased of him by the trustees of the British Museum. Mr. H.'s publications are at once a monument of first-rate literary talents, and of their deplorable perversion by fanaticism.

HALLORAN, LAWRENCE HYNES, D.D. This gentleman who appears to be a native of Ireland, was formerly master of Alphington Academy near Exeter. He was afterwards a Chaplain in the Navy, and was in that capacity on board Lord Nelson's flag-ship the Britannia at the ever-memorable battle off Trafalgar, and has since held the appointments of Rector of the Public Grammar School at the Cape of Good Hope, and Chaplain to the Forces in South Africa. The last but one in the list of Dr. H.'s publications states the circumstances which obliged him to leave the Cape. It appears that he interfered very warmly on occasion of a duel which took place between two officers about the beginning of 1810, and when the affair was brought before a court-martial, wrote the defence of the accused parties. His conduct was highly disapproved by the Hon. Gen. Grey, who ordered his removal to an outpost called Simon's Town. The Doctor not chusing to quit an establishment which he had formed at the Cape, resigned his office of Chaplain and gave vent to his anger in two acrimonious poems, for which a suit was commenced against him and he was sentenced to be banished from the colony and to pay costs.

the practice of his profession at Wells, in Somersetshire, whence he removed in a few years to Bath where he has ever since resided. He has long been a Magistrate, and about twenty years since served the office of Mayor of that city. Dr. H. is much attached to the kindred pursuits of poetry and music; many beautiful fugitive productions have issued from his pen, some of which have found their way into print, and he has the honor of being the founder of the Harmonic Society of Bath. On quitting the University he married a Miss Musgrave, and had the misfortune, a few years since, to lose his eldest son Sir Edward, who was knighted on presenting an address to the King, in his official capacity of chief magistrate of his native city.

HARROWBY, (DUDLEY RYDER,) EARL OF, Lord President of the Council, High Steward of Tiverton, LL.D. and F.S.A. This nobleman was born 1762, educated at St. John's Coll. Cambridge and commenced his political career as Under-Secretary of State to the D. of Leeds, when only eighteen years of age. He soon afterwards obtained a seat in parl. for Tiverton; and became successively Comptroller of the Household; one of the Joint Paymasters General of the Forces; Treasurer of the Navy, (1801) a Memb. of the Board of Controul, and for a few months in 1804, until obliged to resign through illness, Secretary of State for the Foreign Department. In 1805 he was nominated Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, and appointed Ambassador Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the Court of Berlin, for the express purpose of forming a treaty with Prussia, but the object of his mission was frustrated by the fatal battle of Austerlitz. His Lordship, who succeeded his father in the Barony of Harrowby in 1803, was invested with the Earldom in 1809. Upon the dissolution of the Whig Administration in 1807, he became a Member of the Cabinet without holding any office, if we except his being President of the Board of Controul for a short time in 1809, until the 11th of June 1812, when he was appointed Lord President of the Council in consequence of the arrangements made on the death of Mr. Perceval. He married in 1795 Lady Susan-Levison Gower, daughter of the first Marquis of Stafford, by whom he has several children. One Speech by this nobleman has been published, but whether under his sanction does not appear.

Vestiges of Antiquity, or a Series of Etchings and Engravings of Antiquities in Caoterbury, (12 plates) fol. 1813.

HASTINGS, WARREN, Esq. of Daylesford-House, near Chipping Norton, Oxfordshire, son of the Rev. Mr. H. rector of Churchill, near Daylesford, born about 1732. His father having left him unpro-vided for, he was sent to Westminster School by his uncle, whose executor, Mr. Creswick, an E. India Director, procured for him a writership in India, whither he proceeded in 1749. In 1756 he was one of the English prisoners carried off to Moorshedabad, by order of the nabob of Bengal, Surejah Dowla, on whose deposition he was appointed minister at the court of his successor. In 1761 he became a member of the government of Bengal: and about 1765 returned to England: and it is a singular fact, that on the failure of the remittances of part of his acquisitions, he had not interest to obtain at first his re-appointment to an official situation in Bengal. His examination at the bar of the H. of Com. during an inquiry into the affairs of the Company, led to his nomination, in 1767, as a member of the council of Madras; and in 1771 he was elevated to the government of Bengal, over which he presided till his return to England, in 1785. An impeachment was instituted against him in the ensuing session of Parliament, for mal-administration; his trial commenced in 1788, and seven years afterwards he was acquitted of all the charges preferred against him. His law expenses on this occasion exceeded 60,000*l.*; in consideration of which, and his public services, the E. Ind. Company voted him an annual pension of 4000*l.* for twenty-eight years and a half. Since that period Mr. H. has lived in retirement; from which he was recently called to give evidence at the bar of the H. of Com. on the application of the E. India Comp. for a renewal of the Charter. The term of his pension having expired in 1813, the same sum has by a recent vote been secured to him for life.—Some elegant pieces of fugitive poetry from his pen have occasionally found their way before the public, and he is the author of:

Narrative of the Insurrection at Benares, 4to. 1782.—Letter to the Directors of the E. Ind. Comp. 8vo. 1783.—Letter to the Directors, with remarks and authentic documents, 8vo. 1786.—Review of the State of Bengal, during the last three months of his residence, 8vo. 1786.—Memoirs relative to the State of India, 8vo. 1786.—Answer to the Articles exhibited by the Knights, Citizens and Burgesses in Parliament assembled, 8vo. 1788.—Speech in the High Court of Justice, in Westminster-Hall, 8vo. 1791.

HAWES, REV. THOMAS, LL.D. and M.D. rector of Aldwinkle, Northamptonshire, a native of Truro, Cornwall, educated at the grammar-school of that town, and at Magdalen-Hall, Oxford. Not long after he took holy orders, he distinguished himself as a popular preacher, was appointed assistant-chaplain to the Rev. Mr. Madan, at the Lock Hospital, London, and chaplain to the Countess of Huntingdon; at whose death he became one of the principal trustees of her numerous chapels. His presentation to the rectory of Aldwinkle was attended with circumstances which made a great noise at the time, and involved the Rev. Mr. Madan in a paper war. Dr. H. has been one of the chief promoters of the Missionary Society, and has published: Sermons on Evangelical Principles and Practice, 8vo. 1763.—Evangelical Expositor, 2 v. fol.—The Communicant's Spiritual Companion, 12mo.—Improvement of the Church Catechism, 12mo. 1776.—Scriptural Refutation of the Arguments for Polygamy, 8vo. 1781.—Hints respecting the poor, 8vo. 1788.—Essays on the Evidence, Doctrines, and Influence of Christianity, 12mo. 1791.—Translation of the New Test. from the Greek, 8vo. 1795.—A Word in season, designed to encourage the Missionary Soc. to perseverance 8vo. 1795.—A plea for Peace and Union among the members of the Church of Christ, 8vo. 1795.—Missionary Instructions, 8vo. 1795.—Memoir respecting an African mission, 8vo. 1795.—A Sermon, with an introductory address to the people of Israel, 1797.—*Life of the Rev. HERSCHELL, WILLIAM, LL.D. F.R.S. This gentleman was born at Hanover in 1738, and was brought up to his father's profession which was that of a musician. In 1759 he came to England, and was soon afterwards engaged as a performer on the hautboy in the band of the Durham Militia. He next became organist at Halifax in Yorkshire, and in 1766 obtained a similar appointment at the Octagon Chapel, Bath. His leisure hours while in these situations were devoted with extraordinary assiduity to the study of the languages and the mathematical sciences. Astronomy also engaged his attention and at length absorbed all the time that he could spare from his profession. His observations were made with instruments of his own making, and his discoveries entitle him to the foremost rank among the astronomers of the present day. In 1781 he discovered a new planet in our system to which he gave the name of Georgium Sidus, and the same year communicated an account of it to the Royal Society which unanimously elected him a member and conferred on him the gold medal. The year following his Majesty appointed him his astronomer with a handsome salary, and a house at Slough near Windsor where he has ever since resided. Here he was enabled to accomplish various plans for the improvement of his favorite science; his grand forty feet reflecting telescope in particular is a noble monument of philosophical zeal and princely munificence. It was completed in 1789, and an ample account of it may be seen in the Phil. Trans. for 1795. To that work Dr. H. has ever since his first communication been a regular contributor. In his scientific pursuits he was assisted by his late sister, Carolina, who distinguished herself by her application to the sublime science of astronomy, and by several ingenious reports of her observations to the Royal Society. Jointly with this lady the Doctor has published in a distinct form:

Catalogue of Stars taken from Flamsteed's Observations and not inserted in the British Catalogue, by W. Herschell; to which is added a Collection of Errata that should be noticed in the same volume by Carolina Herschell, fol. 1798.

HERTFORD, (FRANCIS INGRAM SEYMOUR CONWAY,) MARQUIS OF, K.G. F.S.A. born 1748, educated at Eton and Oxford, succeeded his father the late Marquis 1794; married, firstly in 1768 Alicia Elizabeth, youngest daughter of the last Viscount Windsor; and 2dly in 1776, Isabella Anne Ingram, daughter of the last Viscount Irwin. This nobleman possesses a considerable estate in the county of Antrim in Ireland, and whilst he was known by the title of Viscount Beauchamp, he accepted the command of the Lisburn Cavalry on the formation of the Volunteer Corps in that country. On this occasion also he published the following pamphlet which entitles him to a place here:

Letter to the first Belfast Company of Volunteers, by a Member of the Brit. Parl. 8vo. 1782.

HILL, Rev. ROWLAND, A.M. sixth son of Sir Rowland H. the first baronet of this family, educated at Eton, whence he removed to St. Edmund Hall, Oxford. From that university, however, Mr. H. who at an early age embraced the tenets of the Calvinistic Methodists, was expelled in 1768 with five other students for assembling to pray and preach at prohibited times and in unauthorized places—a circumstance which excited no inconsiderable share of public attention. He afterwards finished his studies at St. John's Coll. Cambridge. Mr. H. married the sister of Clement Tudway, Esq. the present M. P. for Wells, and in 1783 commenced the erection of the chapel in Blackfriars-road, at which he regularly officiates. His publications are:

Imposture detected and the Dead vindicated, 8vo. 1777.—Answer to J. Wesley's Remarks upon the Defence of the Character of Whitfield and others, 8vo. 1778.—Sermon preached on occasion of laying the first stone of the Chapel in the Surrey Road, 1783.—Aphoristic Observations proposed to the consideration of the public respecting the propriety of admitting theatrical amusements into country manufacturing towns, 8vo. 1790.—*Expostulatory Letter to W. HIPPISLEY, Sir JOHN Cox, Bart. of Stone Easton House, Somersetshire, LL. D. F. R., and A. S. Recorder and M. P. for Sudbury, a Benchor of the Inner-Temple, and a Manager of the Royal Institution; son of Wm. H. Esq. by Anne, eldest daughter of Rob. Webb, Esq. of Cromhall, in the county of Gloucester. During Lord North's administration, this gentleman, being then in Italy, was enabled to make important communications to government, and in consequence of these services was strongly recommended by the minister to the E. India Company, under whom he held offices of great trust in the kingdom of Tanjore, from 1781 to 1787, when he resigned his employments. In 1790 he was first elected M. P. for Sudbury, which he has ever since represented: in 1792 he returned to Italy, and was again employed there in various important commissions; and in 1795 negotiated the marriage of the Princess Royal of England with the present King of Wurtemberg. As a reward for his services, he was advanced to the dignity of a Baronet in 1796. Sir John married first in 1780, Margaret, second daughter of Sir John Stuart, Bart. of Allanbank, in the county of Berwick, who died 1799, and by whom he has one son and three daughters; and secondly, Elizabeth, daughter of the late Thomas Horner, Esq. of Mells Park, and relict of Henry Hippisley Cox, Esq. of Stone Easton House, Somerset. In his senatorial capacity, Sir John has bestowed considerable attention on the state of Ireland, and the Catholic Question, respecting which he has published:

Observations on the Rom. Cath. of Ireland, 8vo. 1806.—Substance of additional Observ. intended to have been delivered in the debate in the H. of Com. on the Petition of the Rom. Cath. of Ireland, 8vo. 1806.—Substance of his Speech in the H. of Com. May 18, 1810, on the Catholic Question, 8vo. 1810. Speech in the H. of Com. on the motion of the Right Hon. H. Grattan, respecting the Penal Laws against the Catholics of Ireland, Apr. 24, 1812, 8vo.—Letters to the Earl of Fingal on the Catholic Claims, 8vo. 1813.

HIRSCHEL, SOLOMON, Presiding Rabbi of the German Jews in London, where he was born in 1762, at which time his father resided here in the same capacity. Being called, in 1764, to officiate at Halberstadt, and afterwards at Berlin, he took his family with him. The son, after completing his studies in the Prussian capital, was appointed to the ministry at Prentzlau, and invited in 1802 to preside in London. He has published:

A Sermon preached at the Great Synagogue, Duke's Place, on the Thanksgiving-Day, Dec. 5, 1805, 4to. 1806.

HOARE, PRINCE, Esq. Sec. to the Roy. Academy, son of Mr. William H. painter, of Bath. In that city he was born and educated, and at seventeen sent to London, where he became a student of the Roy. Academy. In 1776 he commenced his travels; and, after an absence of four years, returned to England, settled in London, and devoted himself to the practice of his profession. Being obliged, however, by ill-health to suspend this pursuit, he attempted dramatic composition, for his amusement, and with such success as induced him entirely to relinquish the pencil for the pen. He has produced about twenty dramatic pieces, many of which are not printed, and has published:

Dido, Queen of Carthage, op. 8vo. 1792.—The Three and the Deuce, mus. com. dram. 8vo. 1795.—Lock and Key, mus. ent. 8vo. 1796.—Julia, trag. 1810.—The Epochs of the Fine Arts, cr. 8vo. 1813.—To Mr. H.'s pen has been also ascribed:—The Captive of Spilsburg, mus. ent. 8vo. 1799.

HOARE, Sir RICHARD COLT, B.A. of Stourhead, Wilts. F.R. and A.S. son of Sir Richard H. of Barn Elms, Surrey, by Anne, daughter of Henry Hoare, Esq. of Stourhead. After finishing his education he spent several years in foreign travel, and returned home in 1791. Being strongly attached to Antiquarian pursuits and prevented by the political state of the continent from following them abroad, he turned his attention towards the antiquities of his own country. He first passed two or three summers in Wales, with a view to illustrate the very scarce and curious itinerary made through that principality by Giraldus de Barri, in 1188, when Baldwin, Archbishop of Canterbury, made his progress through the country to promote the cause of the Crusades. The work which he produced on this subject contains 60 views of antiquities, portraits, sepulchral effigies, &c. engraved from Sir Richard's drawings by Messrs. Byrne and Basire. At the same time he published a small impression of the original work in Latin, which had become extremely scarce. He has since directed his attention to the antiquities of Ireland, and lastly to those of the county in which he resides. By a persevering, expensive, and minute investigation of the spacious downs with which Wiltshire abounds, undertaken with a view to the elucidation of the earliest period of British history, he has ascertained numerous and undoubted residences of the Britons; and by opening barrows has been enabled to throw considerable light on the ancient customs of our British ancestors. The whole work is richly decorated with views, maps, and plans, and at the conclusion Sir R. has announced his intention of publishing the Ancient History of North Wiltshire, on the same scale and plan. Sir R. married in 1783 the Hon. Hester, daughter of the late Lord Lyttelton, by whom he has one son. His publications are:

The Itinerary of Archbp. Baldwin through Wales, A.D. 1187, by Giraldus de Barri, transl. into English, and illustrated with Views, Annotations, and a Life of the Author, 2 v. 4to. 1806.—Journal of a Tour through Ireland, 8vo. 1807.—Ancient History of South Wiltshire, 3 parts, super-roy. fol. 1810-12.

HOBHOUSE, Sir BENJAMIN, Bart. F.R. and A.S. M.P. for Hindon, Commissioner between the E. Ind. Company, and the creditors of the late Nabob of the Carnatic; son of a Bristol merchant, born 1757, educated at the grammar-school of Bristol, and Brazen-nose Coll. Oxford, where he took his degree of A.B. 1778, and M.A. 1781; in which latter year he was called to the bar by the Soc. of the Middle Temple. He first obtained a seat in Parliament, for Blechingly in 1797, was returned for Grampound in 1802, and has represented Hindon since 1806. In 1804 he was appointed Secretary to the India Board; in 1806, chairman to the committee of supply; and created a baronet in 1812. Sir Benjamin is said to be a partner in a banking-house at Bath and also in the extensive brewery of Whitbread and Co. He has published:

Reply to the Rev. F. Randolph's Letter to Dr. Priestley, or an Examination of Randolph's Scriptural Revision of Socinian Arguments, 8vo. 1793.—A Treatise on Heresy as cognizable by the Spiritual Courts and an Examination of the Statute of William III. for suppressing blasphemy and profaneness (anon.) 8vo. 1793.—Enquiry into what constitutes the crime of Compassing and Imagining the King's Death, 8vo. 1795.—A Collection of Tracts, 8vo. 1797.

HOBHOUSE, J. C. B. A. of Trin. Coll. Cambridge. This gentleman, son of the preceding, was the companion of Lord Byron in his Travels in Greece and Turkey. He has published:

Imitations and Translations from the ancient and modern Classics, together with original poems, 8vo. 1809.—Some Account of a Journey into Albania and other Provinces of Turkey in 1808-9, 4to. 1812. 2d ed. 1813.

HODGSON, REV. HENRY, M. D. born at

Toft, near Market Rasen, 1753, educated at Peter House, Cambridge, where he took his first degree 1775. Having soon after taken orders, he officiated for some time as curate at Market Rasen. Encouraged by the late Dr. Jebb, he was induced to apply himself to the study of medicine, for which purpose he went to Edinburgh, and was admitted to the degree of M. D. While prosecuting his medical studies he had the misfortune to lose his friend Dr. Jebb; upon which, though invited to enter upon the exercise of his profession, and to undertake the pastoral office of either of two of the most respectable congregations in the north of England, yet he chose to return to his native home, and now resides at Market Rasen, serving his own church of Tealby himself. Besides the learned languages Dr. H. is well versed in French, Italian, Spanish, and German. He is the author of several pamphlets written on the whig side of the question during the wars of the American and French revolutions, of which no account has been obtained, and of the following publications:

Letters to Mrs. Kindersley on the Spirit of Popery, 8vo. 1778.—Sermons on Universal Benevolence, 8vo. 1778.—Effusions of the Heart and Fancy, in verse and prose, 8vo. 1779.

HODSON, REV. SEPTIMUS, M. D. formerly of Caius Coll. Cambridge. Having married a relation of Admiral Affleck, he obtained, through the interest of the late Lord Sandwich, the rectory of Thrapstone, Northamptonshire, and became chaplain and secretary to the Asylum, and chaplain in ordinary to the Prince of Wales. These appointments he was obliged to relinquish, in consequence of a discovery particularly disgraceful to his character as a minister of the gospel, a husband, and a father; and is said to have since sought refuge from his infamy in America. He is the author of several single sermons besides the following:

HOLFORD, GEORGE, Esq. M. P. barrister-at-law, and the son of the late Peter Holford, Esq. Master in Chancery. He was educated at Harrow school, and on leaving that seminary became a student of Lincoln's Inn, by which honorable society he was called to the bar, but never practised. He has distinguished himself as a member of the House of Commons, particularly in the committees for enquiring into the abuses of prisons. Several charitable institutions in the metropolis are also indebted to him for his assistance and active exertions. The Philanthropic Asylum, in St. George's Fields, has derived the greatest benefit from his support, and it was chiefly owing to his perseverance that a chapel was added to that institution. His literary productions are,

A small volume of Poems, printed by Bensley, and containing, Invocation to the Harrow Muses; the Cave of Neptune, a dramatic poem on the victory of Lord Howe in 1794; the Storm, a drama, in three acts; Berthier's Dream at Rome in 1798. Of this collection only a few copies were printed for the gratification of the author's friends.—The Destruction of Jerusalem an absolute and irresistible proof of the divine origin of Christianity, 8vo. 1805: anonymous.—Observations on the necessity of introducing a sufficient number of respectable Clergymen into our colonies in the West Indies, and of establishing a college in this country for the education of persons destined to that purpose, 8vo. 1808.—Substance of a Speech on the motion made by him June 14, 1814, for leave to bring in a bill for the better management of the Prisons of London, 8vo.

HOLFORD, Mrs. M. a lady of Chester, who is known by the following pieces:

Neither's the Man, com. performed at the theatre of the above city and printed in 1799, 8vo.—Fanny and Selima, a tale; with Gresford Vale, and other poems, 12mo. 1798.—First Impressions, or The Portrait, nov. 4 v. 12mo. 1801.—Way to Win Her, com. 1814.

HOLFORD, Miss, daughter of the last mentioned, has distinguished herself by the publication of,

Wallace, or the Fight of Falkirk, a poem, 4to. 1809.—Miscellaneous Poems, 8vo. 1811.—She has also been a contributor to the Poetical Register.

HOLLAND, HENRY, Esq.

A General View of the Agriculture of Cheshire, 8vo. 1807.

HOLLAND, (HENRY RICHARD FOX,) Lord, F. R. and A. S. This nobleman is the only son of Stephen Lord Holland, who died in 1774, by Lady Mary Fitzpatrick, and was born Nov. 13, 1773. He received his education first at Eton and next at Christ Church, Oxford, where he was created M. A. in 1792. His lordship has distinguished himself as a leading member of the opposition, having imbibed the politics of his uncle the late Mr. Fox, whose History of the early portion of the reign of James II. he edited with an elaborate eulogy by way of preface. Besides that work he is known as the author of,

An account of the Life and Writings of Lope Felix de Vega Carpio, 8vo. 1806.—Three Comedies from the Spanish, 8vo. 1807.

HOLLAND, Rev. JOHN, a dissenting minister.

A System of Geography, 8vo. 1802. 5th ed. 1813.—Essays on History, 12mo. 1804.—Definitions, Maxims, Proverbs, and Receipts on Grammar, Arithmetic, Natural Philosophy, and Geography, 12mo. 1804.—The Sermons of the late Rev. Ralph Harrison, with a biographical memoir of the author, and a Discourse on the occasion of his death, 8vo. 1813.

HOLLIDAY, JOHN, a naval surgeon who has published,

A short account of the origin, symptoms, and most approved method of treating the Putrid Bilious Fever, called the Black Vomit, which appeared in the city of Havannah in 1794, 8vo. 1795.

HOLLINGSWORTH, Rev. NATHANIEL, of St. John's College, Oxford, where he took the degree of M. A. in 1796. He is vicar of Haltwhistle, in Northumberland, and proprietor of Tavistock Chapel, Covent Garden.

HOLLOWAY, WILLIAM.

Poems on various occasions, chiefly Descriptive, Elegiac, Didactic, and Pathetic, 12mo. 1798.—The Barrow of Landerbrooke, a tale, 12mo. 1800.—The Peasant's Fate, a rural poem, with miscellanies, 12mo. 1802.—Scenes of Youth, or Rural Recollections, &c. 12mo. 1803.—The Minor Minstrel, 12mo. 1808.—The Country Pastor, a poem, 12mo. 1812.

HOLMAN, J. G. a comedian and dramatic writer, was born in London in 1764, and after receiving a classical education at the academy in Soho-square, he removed to Queen's College, Oxford. But in 1784, his love of the drama prevailed over the desire of academical honors, and he appeared at Covent Garden Theatre in the character of Romeo. At the end of the third season he quitted that stage, owing to some dispute about an increase of salary. He then went to Dublin, and afterwards to Edinburgh, where he acquired great popularity which contributed to restore him to Covent Garden; but in 1800 another difference broke out still more violently than the former, and Mr. Holman again quitted the stage that had given birth to his talents. After playing a short time at the Haymarket, he visited Dublin, of which theatre he purchased a share, which he soon relinquished in consequence of the distracted state of the country. In 1798, he married the youngest daughter of the Hon. and Rev. Frederick Hamilton, which lady died in 1810. As a dramatic writer Mr. Holman has distinguished himself by these pieces:

Abroad and at Home, com. op. 8vo. 1796.—Red Cross Knights, a pl. 8vo. 1799.—Votary of Wealth, com. 8vo. 1799.—What a Blunder, com. op. 8vo. 1800.—Love gives the Alarm, com. 1804. This last has not been printed.—The Gazette Extraordinary, com. 8vo. 1811.

HUDDART, JOSEPH, an eminent navigator and hydrographer. He was born in 1741 at Allenby in Cumberland, and in the early part of his life was employed in the herring fishery in the Frith of Forth, also in the Irish and West India trade. In 1773 he entered into the service of the East India company, where he attained the rank of commander in 1778; but quitted that employ in 1788, and retired to enjoy the fruits of his industry. Captain Huddart distinguished himself as a nautical surveyor both in the East Indian seas, and on our own coasts. He has also obtained a patent for the manufacture of cordage, for which purpose he erected machinery at Maryport. The proprietors of East India stock were so sensible of the value of his services, and of his integrity, that they elected him one of their directors. He has likewise been for many years an elder brother of the Trinity House, and a fellow of the Royal Society, to whose transactions he has been a valuable contributor. He married in 1762, and had five sons by that union, of whom only one survives. He has published, besides his Charts, A Sketch of the Straits of Gaspar, a passage between the islands of Banca and Billiton, 8vo. 1788.

HUNT, JAMES HENRY LEIGH, son of the Rev. Isaac Hunt, an American refugee, by a sister of Mr. West the painter. He was born in 1784, and educated at Christ's Hospital, on leaving which he was for some time in the office of an attorney. He next obtained a situation under government, which he was obliged to quit on establishing the paper called the Examiner, in 1809, before which he was the editor of the News. His last speculation was successful, owing to the virulence of its politics, which brought upon him a prosecution for a libel against the Prince Regent, and he is now in confinement in the New Goal, Horsemonger Lane. His works are :

Juvenilia, or poems written between the ages of twelve and sixteen, 12mo. 1801.—On the folly and danger of Methodism, 8vo. 1809.—The Reformist's Reply to the Article on the State of Parties, in the Edinburgh Review, 8vo. 1810.—The Reflector, a quarterly Magazine, No. I. 1810.—Report on an information filed ex-officio by the Attorney General, Dec. 9, 1812, with observations, 1812.—Critical Essays on the performers of the London Theatres, &c. 8vo. 1808.—Classic Tales, selected from authors of distinguished genius, 5 v. 12mo.—Feast of the Poets, and other pieces, 12mo. 1814.

HUNTINGFORD, GEORGE ISAAC, D.D. F.R.S. Warden of Winchester College, and Bishop of Gloucester. His Lordship was born at Winchester in 1748, educated at Wykeham's school in that city, and thence removed to New College, Oxford, where he proceeded M. A. in 1776. He afterwards became an assistant at the school where he had been brought up under Dr. Joseph Warton. In 1782, being then Fellow of New College, he published his first collection of Monostrophics, or Greek Odes, of which he says in a letter written at the time, "The persuasion of Mr. Warton, Mr. Burgess, Dr. Laurence and other eminent men, induced me to the publication; I hope that my offering to the literati will be candidly received by them." The work was critically examined by Dr. Charles Burney, in the Monthly Review, but though the author defended his performance, this little controversy was so far from occasioning any ill-will on either side, that it produced a lasting friendship between these two eminent scholars. In 1789 Mr. Huntingford was appointed Warden of Winchester College, and in 1793 he accumulated the degrees of B. and D.D. In 1802 Lord Sidmouth, who had been educated under him at Winchester, advanced him, without sollicitation, to the Bishopric of Gloucester, from which he has refused to be translated. His Lordship is unmarried, and his motive for remaining single is highly to his honor. An elder brother, master of the free grammar school at Warminster, at his death in 1772, left a widow with a young family, the entire care of which our author took upon himself, and they have ever since lived under his roof, or been provided for at his expense. His Lordship's works are :

Greek Odes, 1781, of which only 50 copies were printed.—Metrica Monostrophica, 8vo. 1782.—Part the First of an Introduction to the Writing of Greek, 3d. ed. 8vo. 1782.—Part the Second of the same, being select sentences from Xenophon. HUTTON, CHARLES, LL.D. F.R.S. of London and Edinb. and of the Phil. Societies of Haerlem and America, and late Professor of Mathematics in the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich. He was born at Newcastle upon Tyne in 1737, and at an early age he opened a mathematical school in his native town, where, in 1764, he published his Practical Treatise on Arithmetic and Book-keeping ; to which was afterwards added a Key for the use of Tutors. His Treatise on Mensuration, printed in quarto in 1768, having established his reputation as a mathematician, occasioned his election into the Royal Society, and his appointment as master of the Royal Military Academy at Woolwich. When Sir John Pringle was president of the Royal Society, our author, who had obtained his degree of doctor of laws from Aberdeen, was chosen foreign secretary of that learned body ; of which office he was deprived by Sir Joseph Banks on the most frivolous pretences. This proceeding alarmed the scientific members, with Dr. Horsley at their head, and some warm debates took place, with the secession, for a period, of those gentlemen who resented the arbitrary conduct of the President. In 1807 Dr. H. resigned his situation at the Military Academy on account of his ill health, and besides a very flattering but just tribute of praise for his labors, from the board of ordinance, a liberal pension was conferred upon him by government. In a recent paper printed at Newcastle, is the following paragraph, which merits insertion in this article : " Our learned townsman, Charles Hutton, LL.D. F.R.S. emeritus professor of mathematics in the Royal Academy at Woolwich, has subscribed five pounds annually to the new institution for permanent lectures in natural philosophy, under the patronage of the literary and philosophical society : and also an equal sum to the royal jubilee school in this town." His works, besides what have been already mentioned, are :

The Principles of Bridges, 8vo. 1772.—The Diarian Miscellany, consisting of all the useful and entertaining parts both mathematical and poetical, of the Ladies' Diary, 5 v. 12mo. Of this Diary the doctor was editor many years.—Elements of the Conic Sections, 8vo. 1787.—Tables of the products and power of numbers, folio 1784.—Mathematical Tables, containing common, hyperbolic, and logistic logarithms, roy. 8vo. 1785. 5th ed. 1811. It is a curious fact, not generally known, that a great part of these tables was calculated by Mrs. Hutton.—Tables of Interest from one pound to 500 millions for one day, 8vo. 1786.—Tracts, Mathematical and Philosophical, &c. 1786.

—Compendious Measurer, 12mo. 1786.—A Mathematical and Philosophical Dictionary, 2 v. 4to. 1796.—A new Course of Mathematics, composed for the use of the Cadets in the Royal Military Academy, 2 v. 8vo. 1798.—A third Volume of the same in 1811.—Select Amusements in Philosophy and Mathematics, from the French of M. Despian, 12mo. 1801.—Recreations in Mathematics and Natural Philosophy, begun by Ozanam, continued by Montucla, and now translated into English with improvements, 4 v. 8vo. 1803, and again in 1814.—An Abridgment of the Philosophical Transactions in conjunction with Dr. Shaw and Dr. Pearson, 13 v. 4to. 1809.—Robins's Principles of Gunnery corrected, 8vo. 1805.—Tracts on Mathematical and Philosophical subjects, 3 v. 8vo. 1812. Dr. Hutton has also enriched the Philosophical Transactions with many valuable papers, particularly on projectiles, the velocity of cannon balls, and the attraction of mountains.

HUTTON, JAMES HARRIMAN, A.B. and a Clergyman of the Established Church. Horæ Ecclesiasticæ, or Practical Essays: an Document of the United Church, Vol. I. 12mo. 1808.

HUTTON, WILLIAM, F.A.S. Edin. was born at Derby in 1723. His father was a master woolcomber; but two years after the birth of William, he failed and became a journeyman. The education which the son received was, of course, very scanty, for at the age of seven years he was bound apprentice to the silk mill at Derby; and at fourteen he entered on a second apprenticeship to a stocking maker at Nottingham. From the age of twenty-one to twenty-seven, he worked at the latter trade, and at the last mentioned period he began the bookselling business on a small scale at Birmingham. At thirty-two he married the daughter of a respectable farmer of Aston in Derbyshire, with whom he lived upwards of forty years, and by whom he had a son and daughter, both living. Soon after his marriage he added the stationary business to that of bookselling, and with so much success as to induce him in time to relinquish the latter altogether. At the age of fifty-six he commenced author, and the fruits of his application appeared in the History of Birmingham, of which a fourth edition is now prepared for the press. In the riots of 1791, Mr. Hutton, notwithstanding his pacific habits, suffered severely, his house in the town being destroyed, with the stock in trade and furniture, after which the infuriated mob demolished his residence in the country. At the age of sixty-nine, he retired from business with a handsome fortune, and resides on Bennett's Hill, near Birmingham, enjoying his faculties with uncommon vigor, though considerably advanced beyond the ordinary period of human existence. An interesting memoir of his own life has been drawn up by himself, and is intended to be published after his decease. His works are,

The History of Birmingham, 8vo. 1779.—Journey from Birmingham to London, 12mo. 1785.—Courts of Requests, their Nature, Utility and Powers described, 8vo. 1786.—History of the Hundred Court, 8vo. 1787.—History of Blackpool in Lancashire, 8vo. 1788.—The Battle of Bosworth Field, 8vo. 1788.—Dissertation on Juries, 8vo. 1789.—History of Derby, 8vo. 1790.—The Barbers, or Road to Riches, a poem, 8vo. 1793.—Edgar and Elfrida, a poem, 8vo. 1794.—Remarks on North Wales, 8vo. 1800.—History of the Roman Wall, 8vo. 1801. 2d ed. with additions by J. INCHBALD, ELIZABETH, the daughter of a farmer named Simpson, was born at Staningfield in Suffolk in 1756. Having devoted much of her early life to reading, and losing her father, she at the age of sixteen came to London, without the knowledge of her family, and made an effort to obtain an engagement on the stage. This brought her acquainted with Mr. Inchbald, who offered her marriage and was accepted. With this gentleman, who was an actor of reputation, she went to Scotland, and after performing there four seasons visited York; but at the end of two years the health of Mrs. Inchbald declining, she and her husband went to France. In 1779 she became a widow at Leeds, on which she came to London and made her first appearance at Covent Garden as Bellario in the play of Philaster, Oct. 3, 1780. She next turned her attention to dramatic composition, and in 1784 appeared at the Haymarket theatre her farce called A Mogul Tale; the success of which encouraged the manager to bring out her comedy of "I'll Tell You What," which Mr. Harris had rejected. In 1789 she quitted the stage, and since that period has depended chiefly on her literary labors, the list of which follows:

Appearance is against Them, a farce, 8vo. 1786.—I'll Tell You What, a com. 8vo. 1786.—The Widow's Vow, a farce, 8vo. 1786.—The Child of Nature, a dram. piece, 8vo. 1788.—Midnight Hour, a com. 8vo. 1788.—Such Things Are, a play, 8vo. 1788.—The Married Man, a com. 8vo. 1789.—Next Door Neighbours, com. 8vo. 1791.—A Simple Story, nov. 4 v. 12mo. 1791.—Every One Has His Fault, a com. 8vo. 1793.—The Wedding Day, com. 8vo. 1794.—Nature and Art, a nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1796.—Wives as they Were, and Maids as they Are, 8vo. 1797.—Lover's Vows, a play, 8vo. 1798.—Wise Man of the East, 8vo. 1799.—To Marry or Not to Marry, com. 8vo. 1805.—Mrs. Inchbald was also employed in editing the British Theatre, a collection of plays acted at the theatres royal, with biographical and critical remarks, 25 v. 12mo. 1806-1809; also a Collection of Farces and other after-pieces in 7 v. 12mo. 18mo.; and the Modern Theatre in 10 v. 1809.

INCHBALD, REV. P. A.B.

Review of the two most generally received Theories of the Fall of Man, a Discourse preached at Doncaster, 8vo. 1805.

INGLIS, CHARLES, D.D. and Bishop of Nova Scotia. This right reverend prelate was minister of Trinity Church, New York, at the breaking out of the American war, in consequence of which he came to England, and in 1778 was created D.D. by the University of Oxford. The revolution in America having rendered it necessary to provide for the religious concerns of those who remained faithful to the parent country, this divine was very properly selected to be the resident bishop of Nova Scotia, where he has contributed essentially to the benefit of the people by his example and liberality. The bishop has founded a college at Halifax, towards which he has obtained very liberal contributions in books and other grants from England. He is the author of a Sermon preached before the legislature of that province on Sunday, April 7, 1793, and printed in London with this title:

Stedfastness in Religion and Loyalty recommended, 8vo.

INGLIS, HENRY DAVID, a Baptist Teacher at Edinburgh.

Poems in the English and Scottish Dialects, 12mo. 1812.

INMAN, JAMES, A.M. late Fellow of St. John's Coll. Camb. Professor of Mathematics at the Royal Naval Coll. Portsmouth, and Chaplain of the Prison Ships in that harbour. In 1802 he was sent out to New South Wales to take the place of Mr. Crosley, the Astronomer employed on board the Investigator, Captain Flinders, then engaged in a voyage of discovery to the Terra Australis. That ship, however, being then absent, Mr. I. had no share in the discovery, and he returned to England by the way of China. He has published, An Introduction to Algebra, 8vo. 1810.

INNES, REV. WILLIAM, Minister of the Gospel at Edinburgh.

Reasons for separating from the Church of Scotland, 8vo. 1804.—Summary View of the Leading Doctrines of the Word of God, 12mo. 1805.—Notes of Conversation with Hugh M'Donald, Neil Sutherland and Hugh M'Intosh, executed at Edinburgh, 22d April, 1812, 12mo. Of this tract six editions were printed.

INWOOD, W. Architect and Surveyor. Tables for the purchasing of Estates, Freehold, Copyhold, or Leasehold, Annuities, &c. 8vo. 1811.

IRELAND, JOHN, D.D. Vicar of Croydon, and Prebendary of Westminster. His father was keeper of the prison at Hereford, and the son received his education first at the College School in that city, and next at Oriel College, Oxford.

IRELAND, WILLIAM HENRY, is the son of the late Samuel Ireland, well known by several picturesque tours, and an illustration of Hogarth. The son also, who has been no less remarkable, was born in London and educated at Soho school; after which he was articled to a conveyancer in New Inn, where, having some leisure, he began to exercise his ingenuity in the imitation of ancient writing. His success in these attempts set him upon the bold design of forging some papers, and passing them off as the genuine remains of Shakspeare. Having executed some of these on the blanks of old books, he communicated the treasure to his father, who, strange to say, made a parade of the discovery to the world, without secretly examining into the authenticity of the manuscripts, and the truth of the tale which his son related concerning the manner of his obtaining them. For some time the public were greatly amused by these literary relics, and a few, who ought to have known better, lent themselves to the support of the imposition so far as to encourage, by subscription, a collection which was the disgrace of literature. A splendid volume made its appearance in 1796, and a play was performed at Drury Lane with the title of Vortigern; but this last dissolved the spell, and the discernment of an English audience quickly detected the cheat, of which no doubt could be entertained after the ample exposure it experienced from Mr. Malone. The publications of this adventurer are:

An authentic Account of the Shakspeare Manuscripts, 8vo. 1796, in which he makes this declaration: "I solemnly declare first, that my father was perfectly unacquainted with the whole affair, believing the papers most firmly the productions of Shakspeare. Secondly, that I am myself both the author and writer, and had no aid from any soul living, and that I should never have gone so far, but that the world praised the papers so much, and thereby flattered my vanity: Thirdly, that any publication which may appear tending to prove the MSS. genuine, or to contradict what is here stated, is false; this being the true account. W. H. Ireland."—The Abbess, a romance, 4 v. 12mo. 1799.—Rimualdo, or the Castle of Badajos, a romance, 4 v. 12mo. 1800.—Ballads in imitation of the ancient, 12mo. 1801.—Henry II. an historical drama, 8vo. 1799. This was one of the pieces intended to have been imposed on the world as the production of Shakspeare.—Mutius Scaevola, a dram. 8vo. 1801.—Rhapsodies, 12mo. 1803.—Châtelar, or Effusions of Love, 12mo.—The Catholic, a romance, 3 v. 12mo. 1807.—The Abbess, a nov. 3 v.—The Woman of Feeling, a nov. 4 v. 12mo.—Gonzalez, the Monk, a romance, 4 v. 12mo. 1804.—The Confessions relative to the Shakspeare Forgery, 8vo. 1805.—The Modern Ship of Fools, 12mo. 1807.—All the Blocks, a poem, 12mo. 1807.—The Fisher boy, 12mo. 1808.—The Sailor Boy, a poem, 12mo. 1808.—The Cottage Girl, 12mo. 1810.—Neglected Genius, a poem, 8vo. 1812.—Chalceographimania, a satirical poem, 8vo. 1814. IRWIN, EYLES, Esq. a member of the Royal Irish Academy, was born at Calcutta, in 1751. His father was a native of Ireland, and died in the service of the East India Company, leaving several children. Young Mr. Irwin was educated under Dr. Rose, at Chiswick, and in 1767 he was taken into the civil service at Madras. On account of his attachment to Lord Pigot he was suspended in 1775, on which he took a passage by the way of the Red Sea to England, to lay his case before the Board. His application was successful, and in 1778 he married Miss Brooke, a relation of the celebrated poet and author of the Foal of Quality. In 1780, he made a journey overland to India, where he rendered important services to the Company during a very difficult period, when the coast was threatened by a French fleet, and Ayder Ally overran the Carnatic. In 1785, Mr. Irwin returned to Europe, where he has continued to reside in the bosom of his family, and enjoying a competence honorably obtained. He has made one or two attempts to gain a place at the Board of Directors, but without success. His works are:

St. Thomas's Mount, a poem, 4to. 1771.—Bedukah, an Indian pastoral, 4to. 1776.—Eastern Eclogues, 4to. 1780.—A Voyage up the Red Sea, 4to. 1780.—Epistles to Mr. Hayley during a journey from London to the Gulph of Persia, 4to. 1783.—Ode on the Death of Ayder Ally, 4to. 1784.—Triumph of Innocence, an Ode on the deliverance of Maria Theresa Charlotte, Princess Royal of France, 4to. 1796.—Inquiry into the feasibility of the supposed Expedition of Buonaparte to the East, 8vo. 1796.—Buonaparte in Egypt, 8vo. 1798.—Nilus, an Elegy on the Victory of Admiral Nelson, 4to. 1798.—The Failure of the French Crusade; or the advantages to be derived from the restoration of Egypt to the Turks, 8vo. 1799.—The Badouins, com. op. 12mo. 1802.—Ode to Iberia, 4to. 1808.—The Fall of Saragossa, an Elegy, 4to. 1808.—Napoleon; or the Vanity of Human Wishes, 2 parts, 4to. 1814.

JACKSON, ROBERT, M.D. of Edinburgh, late physician to the forces and head of the hospitals at the army depot in the Isle of Wight. This gentleman went to Jamaica in 1774, and there he practised cold affusion in fever, with success, long before that method was adopted by Dr. Currie. In 1778, we find Dr. Jackson serving in the British army in America, as regimental surgeon, and on the termination of that war he settled at Stockton-upon-Tees; but when the contest with France broke out in 1793, he was appointed to the third regiment of foot, as the only road by which he could arrive at the office of army physician. During the late war he served in Belgium, St. Domingo, and various other places, in the course of which extensive practice he added largely to the stock of medical science, and the improvement of that branch of the profession to which he was attached, as the following list of his works will evince:

On the Fevers of Jamaica, with observations on the intermittents of America, and an appendix containing hints on the means of preserving the health of soldiers in hot climates, 8vo. 1795.—An outline of the history and cure of fever endemic and contagious; more particularly the contagious fever of gaols, ships, and hospitals; with an explanation of the principles of military discipline and economy, and a scheme of medical arrangement for armies, 8vo. 1798.—Remarks on the Constitution of the Medical Department of the British Army, 8vo. 1803.—A systematic view of the discipline, formation, and economy of Armies, 4to. 1804.—A Letter to the Editor of the Edinburgh Review, 8vo. 1804.—A system of arrangement and discipline for the Medical Department of Armies, 8vo. 1805.—An exposition of the practice of affusing cold water on the body as a cure for Fever, 8vo. 1808.—A Letter to the Commissioners of Military Enquiry, explaining the true constitution of a Medical Staff, 8vo. 1808.—A second Letter to the Commissioners of Military Inquiry, containing a refutation of some Statements made by Mr. Keate, 8vo. 1808.—A Letter to Mr. Keate, surgeon-general to the Forces, 8vo. 1808.—A Letter to Sir David Dundas, commander in chief of the Forces, 8vo. 1809.

JAMIESON, JOHN, D.D. F.R.S. and F.A.S. of Edinburgh. This gentleman was formerly minister to a congregation of Seceders from the church of Scotland, at Forfar, where he resided many years; but latterly he has officiated in a meeting of the same persuasion at Edinburgh. He is the author of some very valuable publications both in antiquities, poetry, and philology, as well as divinity. They are,

The Sorrows of Slavery, a poem, 8vo. 1790.—An Alarm to Britain; or an inquiry into the causes of the rapid progress of infidelity, 12mo. 1795.—Vindication of the Doctrine of Scripture, and of the primitive faith concerning the Divinity of Christ, in reply to Dr. Priestley, 2 v. 8vo. 1795.—Eternity, a poem, 8vo. 1798.—Remarks on Rowland Hill's Journal, 8vo. 1799.—The use of Sacred History, 2 v. 8vo. 1802.—Important Trial in the Court of Conscience, 12mo. 1806.—An Etymological Dictionary of the Scottish Language, 2 v. 4to. 1808.—Historical account of the ancient Caldees of Iona, 4to. 1811.—Hermes Scythicus, or the radical affinities of the Greek and Latin Languages to the Gothic, 8vo. 1814.

JAMIESON, ROBERT, A.M. and F.A.S. This gentleman at the time when he was about to publish the following work, received some encouragement to go to Russia, and in his preface he speaks rather feelingly on the neglect which he had experienced in his own country, adding that "the voice of the Scottish muse will never be heard on the banks of the Dwina." His performance is entitled, Popular Ballads and Songs from Tradition, Manuscripts, and scarce Editions, with Translations of similar pieces from the Ancient Danish Language, and a few Originals by the Editor, 2 v. 8vo. 1806.

JANSON, BALDWIN, Professor and Translator of the Dutch and French languages in London.

A Pocket Dictionary of the Dutch and English Languages in two parts, 8vo. 1793.

JANSON, CHARLES, Esq. This gentleman, we believe, was bred to the law; but having little or no practice in England, he sought profit and honor on the other side of the Atlantic, without meeting with much of either. He has published a motley volume intitled:

The Stranger in America, or Travels in that Country, with various Historical Documents, 4to. 1807.

JAQUES, WILLIAM, private teacher of polite and useful literature.

A Guide to the reading and study of the Holy Scriptures from the Latin of Professor Franck, with Notes, 8vo. 1812.

JARROLD, THOMAS, M.D. Member of the Literary and Philosophical Society at Manchester, and formerly of the University of Edinburgh, is the author of the following works:

Dissertations on Man, Philosophical, Physiological, and Political, in answer to Mr. Malthus' "Essay on the Principles of Population," 8vo. 1806.—A Letter to Samuel Whitbread, Esq. on the subject of the Poor Laws, 1807.—Anthropologia, or Dissertations on the Form and Color of Man, 8vo. 1808.

JAY, WILLIAM, an Independent Teacher at Bath, is a native of Fisbury in Gloucestershire, and originally a shepherd's boy, but on discovering a serious turn, he was taken under the patronage of Lady Huntingdon, and brought up to the ministry. As a preacher he is highly popular both in Bath and at London. His writings are these:

The Mutual Duties of Husbands and Wives, a Sermon, 8vo. 1801.—Sermons, 2 v. 8vo. 1802.—Sermon before the London Missionary Society in 1795, 8vo.—Essay on Marriage, 8vo.—Reflections on Victory, a thanksgiving sermon, Dec. 5, 1805, 8vo.—Short Discourses for Families, 2 v. 8vo. 1806.—Address at the Burial of the Rev. W. Humphreys, 8vo. 1808.—Memoirs of his Tutor the Rev. Cornelius Winter of Painswick, 8vo. 1808.—The Loss of connexions deplored and improved, a funeral Sermon for Mr. T. Parsons, 8vo. 1813.

JEANS, THOMAS, M.D.

A Sermon on presenting the Colors to a Regiment of Volunteers, 8vo. 1803.—Charge delivered to the Clergy of the archdeaconry of Colchester, 8vo. 1813.

JEFFERSON, JOSEPH, a Dissenting Minister at Basingstoke. He is a native of Wigton in Cumberland, at the Grammar school of which town he received his education, and before he was twenty he obtained the mastership of that at Bothel in the same county. This situation, however, he quitted, and went to the Academy at Homerton, after which he was ordained as pastor of an Independent congregation at Basingstoke in 1791, where he has continued to reside ever since. He has published:

A Funeral Sermon on the death of Miss Sarah Glover, 8vo.—Memoirs of the Life of the Rev. John Savage of Farnham in Surrey, 8vo.—The Ruins of a Temple, a poem, with a sketch of the History of Holy Ghost Chapel at Basingstoke, 8vo. 2d ed. 1808.—Horæ Poeticæ, or poems Sacred, Moral and Descriptive, 12mo. 1804.—Lyra Evangelica, an Essay on the Use of Instrumental Music in Christian Worship, 8vo. 1805.—A Sermon preached before the Missionary Society in London, 8vo. 1811.—A Sermon occasioned by the appearance of the Comet, 8vo. 1811.

JEFFERSON, T. B. A.B. Tunbridge, a Clergyman of the Established Church, who, having a large family of eight children to support without any adequate means of giving them a proper education, published a work by subscription to enable him to accomplish that object, and was very liberally assisted in his laudable endeavours. His publication is entitled:

Two Sermons on the reasonableness and salutary effects of fearing God as Governor and Judge of the World, also an Essay intended as a vindication of Divine Justice, and a moral Administration, 8vo. 1808.

JEFFERYS, JOHN.

The Pleasures of Retirement, with other Poems, 8vo. 1800.

JEFFERYS, NATHANIEL, Jeweller in the Strand, who in the year 1808, made himself conspicuous by an indecent attack upon an illustrious personage to whom he was under the greatest obligations. The publication which he obtruded on the world was entitled:

A Review of the Conduct of the Prince of Wales, in his various transactions with Mr. Jefferys during a period of more than twenty years, 8vo. This pamphlet occasioned a number of others, all of which, with the original, are now sunk into oblivion.—An Englishman's descriptive Account of Dublin, and the Road from Bangor Ferry to Holyhead, 8vo. 1810.

JEFFRAY, JAMES, M.D. Professor of Anatomy and Surgery in the College at Glasgow.

Cases of the Excision of Carious Joints, by Park and Moreau, with Observations, 12mo. 1806.

JEKYLL, JOSEPH, Esq. F.R. and A.S. King's Counsel, Solicitor General to the Prince Regent, and one of his council for the Duchy of Cornwall, and M.P. for Calne in Wiltshire. He is a descendant of Sir Joseph Jekyll, Master of the Rolls in the reign of George I. and was educated at Westminster school, from whence he removed to Christ Church, Oxford, where he took the degree of M.A. in 1777. He published the Letters of Ignatius Sancho, the African, who was the friend and correspondent of Sterne and Garrick. To these Letters Mr. Jekyll prefixed a life of the author. He has also printed :

Facts and Observations relating to the Temple Church, 4to. 1811. It is deserving of observation that when this gentleman was chosen member for Calne in 1787 on the popular interest, he gave so much offence to the Whigs at that time, as to be made the object of a virulent attack in a poem bearing this title, "Jekyll, a political Eclogue," in the composition of which several persons of eminence are said to have clubbed their wits.

JENKINS, ALEXANDER, is the author of,

The History and Description of the City of Exeter and its environs, 8vo. 1805.

JENKINS, JOSEPH, D.D. a Dissenting Minister of the Particular Baptist persuasion at Walworth. He has published :

JENNER, EDWARD, M.D. F.R.S. &c. is the youngest son of the Rev. Stephen Jenner, vicar of Berkley in Gloucestershire, and born there in 1749. Having gone through a regular apprenticeship to an eminent practitioner, he commenced business for himself as a Surgeon, in his native town, where also he cultivated general science with considerable success, and particularly natural history, of which he gave a proof in some curious observations on the Cuckow, inserted in the Philosophical Transactions for 1788. But the discovery which has stamped immortality upon the name of Jenner, is that permanent security against the small pox, obtained from the inoculation by the vaccine matter, commonly denominated the cow pox. Living in a great dairy county, our author had frequent opportunities of witnessing the singular resistance to variolous infection, which marked those persons who were in the constant habit of milking and handling the cows. This induced him to try some experiments, the success of which encouraged him to push his inquiries farther, and at length the most laudable and disinterested spirit led him to make public the important secret, which, had he chosen to keep concealed or confined to his own practice and emolument, would have procured him an immense fortune. Vaccination was at first received with great caution, but the success of it soon dispelled the doubts of men of science, and they who opposed it at the outset, honorably came forward to attest their conviction of its efficacy; though a few empirics and bigots still continued to impede its progress, and to alarm the ignorant by tales of danger which were the mere coinage of the crafty to deceive the weak. Dr. Jenner, however, received the most honorable testimonies to the value of his discovery in two parliamentary grants, amounting in the whole to thirty thousand pounds, in the sanction of all the learned societies throughout Europe, and the extension of the practice over all the world. In the present year, the University of Oxford did itself honor in conferring upon him the degree of Doctor of Medicine, by diploma. Dr. Jenner is the author of :

An Inquiry into the Causes and Effects of the Variolæ Vaccinæ, a disease discovered in some of the western counties of England, particularly Gloucestershire, and known by the name of the Cow Pox, 4to. 1798.—Further Observations on the Variolæ Vaccinæ or Cow Pox, 4to. 1799.—A Continuation of Facts and Observations relative to the Variolæ Vaccinæ or Cow Pox, 4to. 1800.—An Appendix to the Treatises on the Cow Pox, being a continuation of Facts and Observations relating to that Disease, 4to. 1800.—An Inquiry into the Causes and Effects of the Variolæ Vaccinæ, 3d ed. 4to. 1801.—A Comparative Statement of Facts and Observations relative to the Cow Pox, 4to. 1800.—On the Origin of the Vaccine Inoculation, 4to. 1801.

JENNER, HENRY, of Berkeley, Surgeon, and Nephew of the preceding, is the author of:

An Address to the Public on the Advantages of Vaccine Inoculation, with the Objections to it refuted, 4to. 1800.

JENNINGS, JAMES, was born at Huntspill in Somersetshire in 1772, and after a common education, placed in a chemist's shop at Bristol, where he applied with assiduity to the studies necessary to his profession, and also to the languages. Here also he formed an intimacy with Mr. Southey, by whose conversation he was prompted to cultivate an acquaintance with the Muses. While in Bristol he published a series of Essays under the title of the "Speculator," in a weekly newspaper, and several of his poetical pieces appeared in other periodical publications. He is now settled in business in his native town.

The Times, a satirical rhapsody, 4to. 1794.—Poems, consisting of the Mysteries of Mendip, the Magic Ball, Sonnets, &c. 12mo. 1810.—The Prospects of Africa, with other poems, 12mo. 1814.

JERMENT, GEORGE, a Minister of the congregation of Seceders from the Church of Scotland. He was educated at the University of Edinburgh, from whence he was invited to England, where he became assistant to the Rev. Mr. Wilson, at the meeting in Bow-lane, Cheapside. On the death of that gentleman he was chosen to succeed him, and the meeting proving inconvenient, the members of the church purchased the chapel in Oxendon street, Haymarket, which was originally built by the celebrated Richard Baxter. Mr. Jerment has published:

Parental Duty, or the Religious Education of Children, illustrated and urged in several Discourses, 12mo. 1791.—Early Piety illustrated and recommended in several Discourses, 12mo. 1793.—Religion a Monitor to the Middle Aged, and the Glory of Old Men, in several Discourses, 12mo. 1796.—An Edition of Gibbons's Memoirs of Pious Women, 2 v. 8vo. 1804.—The Works of Archbishop Leighton, with the Life and some Original Remains of that great man, 1813. Mr. Jerment was also the Editor of the Theological Magazine till it ceased for want of encouragement.

JERRAM, CHARLES, M.A. of Magdalen College, Cambridge, and formerly Minister of Long Sutton in Lincolnshire, is the author of the following pieces:

An Essay tending to shew "the Grounds contained in Scripture for expecting a future Restoration of the Jews," published in pursuance of the will of the late Mr. Norris as having gained the annual prize instituted by him in the University of Cambridge, 8vo. 1796.—The Christian Ministry, exemplified in the character of St. Paul; a Sermon preached at a visitation of the Archdeacon of Lincoln, held at Boston, 8vo.—Letters to a Universalist, containing a Review of the controversy between Mr. Vidler and Mr. Fuller, on the Doctrine of Universal Salvation, 8vo.—To your Tents, Oh Britons! a Sermon preached at Sutton St. Mary, July 31, 1803, 8vo.—Letters on the Atonement, 8vo. 1804.—The Last Adieu of David to his Son Solomon, and of St. Paul to the Ephesians, two Sermons, 8vo. 1805.

JERVIS, Sir JOHN WHITE, bart. of the kingdom of Ireland, but a resident at Bristol, where, at the last election, he offered himself a candidate without success. He has published:

JONES, EDWARD, Bard to the Prince of Wales, is a native of Henblas Llanderivel, in Merionethshire. He is a musician by profession, and perhaps the most distinguished performer on the harp of the present day. He holds a situation in the office of robes in the Lord Steward's Court, at St. James's, and may be considered as the last of the race of Welsh Bards. Mr. Jones has favored the world with many musical works, and he is entitled to a place here by some publications of singular curiosity, viz.

Musical and Poetical Relics of the Welsh Bards, preserved by tradition and authentic manuscripts from very remote antiquity, never before published; with a general history of the Bards and Druids, and a copious dissertation on the musical instruments of the Aboriginal Britons, folio, 3d edit. 1812.—The Bardic Museum of primitive British Literature, and other admirable varieties, folio, 1802.—Lyric Airs, consisting of specimens of Greek, Albanian, Wallachian, Turkish, Arabian, Persian, Chinese, and Meorish national Songs, fol. 1810.—Terpsichore's Banquet, or select beauties of various national melodies, 1813.

JONES, EDWARD, teacher of the classics and geography, at Bromley, in Kent. The Young Geographer and Astronomer's best Companion, 12mo. 1773. 2d edit. 1792.

JONES, EDWARD, an accomptant in Bristol, who contrived some years ago to procure a great number of subscribers to a pretended improvement in book-keeping, on which he published a pompous book, entitled, The English System of Book-keeping, by single or double entry, in which it is impossible for any error of the most trifling amount to be passed unnoticed; calculated effectually to prevent the evils attendant on the methods so long established; and adapted to every species of trade. Secured to the inventor by the king's royal letters patent, that make it illegal for any person to use the method without the patentee's licence or authority, which is given with the work, &c. No sooner did this piece of quackery appear, but it was attacked by several able accountants, and the fallacy so completely exposed, that the author and the work fell into contempt.

JONES, EDWIN GODDEN, M.D. Memb. of the Roy. Coll. of Physicians, and Physician extraordinary to the Duke of York. Account of the effects of the Eau Medicinale in Gout, 8vo. 1810.

JONES, FREDERIC, a Captain in the army, in the service of the East India Company, is the author of, A brief account of the Tullagau Expedition from Bombay, 4to. 1794.—Letters merely intended for and by the desire of intimate friends, 4to. 1795. The last publication consists of letters from France and China.

JONES, FREDERIC CONINGESBY, an Attorney of Gray's Inn. The Attorney's New Pocket Book and Conveyancer's Assistant, 2 v. 12mo. 1794. 2d edit. with additions in 1798.

JONES, JOHN GALE, an Apothecary of London, who has distinguished himself by his zeal in the cause of political reform, or rather as the advocate of liberty, equality, and universal suffrage. He has chiefly subsisted by his connexion with debating societies, particularly that called the Westminster Forum; but having published a scurrilous hand-bill on the House of Commons, he was committed to Newgate, from whence he was liberated on the same day that Sir Francis Burdett was released from the Tower. He has published the following tracts:

Sketch of a Speech at the Westminster Forum in 1794, 8vo.—A political Tour through Kent for the purpose of promoting the cause of Parliamentary Reform, 8vo. 1796.—An Oration on the character of Washington, 8vo. 1797.—Observations on the Tussis Convulsiva, or Hooping Cough, 8vo. 1798.—Invocation to Edward Quin, Esq. 8vo. 1804.—*Five Letters to the Right Hon. JONES, SAMUEL.

Review of Mr. Haldane's late publication, entitled, "Observations on Forbearance," 12mo. 1811.

JONES, STEPHEN, son of Giles Jones, Secretary to the York Buildings Water Company, was born in London in 1763. After going through St. Paul's School, he was placed under an eminent Sculptor; but on account of some difference he was taken from that situation and apprenticed to a printer in Fetter-lane. On the expiration of his time he was engaged as corrector of the press in the office of Mr. Strahan, but at the end of four years he removed to that of Mr. Thos. Wright, in Peterborough-court, where he remained till the death of his principal in March, 1797, an event which terminated Mr. Jones's immediate connexion with the profession of a printer; and he became the editor of the Whitehall Evening Post; but on the decline of that paper he undertook the management of the General Evening Post. He was also for some time the conductor of a monthly publication called the "Free Mason's Magazine," and on the death of Isaac Reed, he became the editor of the European Magazine. His separate works are:

Abridgment of Burke's Reflections on the French Revolution, 12mo. 1791.—Monthly Beauties, 8vo. 1793.—An abridgment of Ward's Natural History, 3 v. 12mo. 1793.—A History of Poland, 8vo. 1795.—A biographical Dictionary in miniature, 12mo. 1796.—Dodd's Beauties of History enlarged, 12mo. 1796.—An abridgment of Donald Campbell's Journey to India, 12mo. 1796.—Masonic Miscellanies, 12mo. 1797.—A pronouncing and explanatory Dictionary of the English Language, 8vo. 1798.—Gray's Poetical Works with Illustrations, 8vo. 1798.—The Spirit of the Public Journals, from 1799 to the present time, 12mo.—Dr. John Blair's Chronology, continued to 1802, folio, 1803.—Davies's Life of Garrick, a new edition with additions, 2 v. 8vo. 1808.—Biographia Dramatica, or a Companion to the Playhouse, with the additions of Mr. Isaac Reed, 4 v. 8vo. 1812.—Hypercriticism Exposed; in a letter to the readers of the Quarterly Review, 8vo. 1812.

JORGENSEN, M. a native of Denmark, and while mate of a vessel engaged in the Southern Whale-fishery visited Otaheite twice in 1806. In 1809 he went to Iceland in an English merchant vessel, and having contrived to seize the Danish governor, he caused himself to be proclaimed Protector of the Island, but on the arrival of a British ship of war, he was stripped of his authority and sent back a prisoner to England. He has published:

The State of Christianity in Otaheite, 8vo. 1811.—The Copenhagen Expedition traced to other causes than the Treaty of Tilsit, 8vo. 1811.

JOSEPH, NAHUM, a converted Jew, and Teacher of the Hebrew Language, has edited, under the respectable sanction of the Bishop of St. David's, a valuable work which was become very scarce, entitled: Robertson's Compendious Hebrew Dictionary, with corrections and improvements; a Vocabulary of Hebrew Primitives in English and Hebrew; Tables of Chronology and Antiquities, and an easy Method of reading Hebrew with or without Points, 8vo. 1814.

JOSSE, AUGUSTINE LOUIS, a French ec-clesiastic of the University of Paris, who being obliged to quit his native country during the reign of terror, went to Spain, from whence he came to England in 1798, and obtained a livelihood by teaching the French and Spanish languages. He has published :

A Grammar, French and Spanish, 8vo. 1799.—El Tesoro Espagnole, on the plan of the Elegant Extracts, 2 v. 8vo. 1802.—Juvenile Biography, 2 v. 12mo. 1803.

JOYCE, JEREMIAH, a Dissenting Teacher of the Unitarian persuasion, was originally a journeyman glazier, but having a turn for mathematics he applied assiduously to that study, and also to the Latin language, in which he was assisted by Mr. Taylor, the noted Platonist. After this, Mr. Joyce was taken under the patronage of that eccentric nobleman the Earl of Stanhope, who entrusted him with the education of his son Lord Mahon. But our author having embroiled himself in the revolutionary politics of the day, was taken up, and committed to the Tower, where he remained twenty-three weeks. At the trial of Hardy, Tooke, and Thelwall, he was discharged, when the principals were acquitted. His avowed publications are :

Sermon, with an Appendix, containing an Account of the author's arrest for treasonable practices, 8vo. 1794. Of this, a second edition appeared the year following. —Idea of a Constitution for Italy, 1814; and is also author of several articles in the Classical Journal.

KEMBLE, CHARLES, is the youngest son of the late Mr. Roger Kemble, and was born Nov. 25, 1775, at Brecknock in South Wales, which town also gave birth to his sister, Mrs. Siddons. At the age of thirteen he was sent to Douay in Flanders, where he remained three years, and besides perfecting himself in the French language he made a good proficiency in the classics. On his return he obtained a situation in the post office; but remained there only a year, having that propensity to the stage which is the characteristic of his family. He commenced his career at Sheffield in 1792 in the character of Orlando in As You Like It, and acquitted himself with credit. After performing about a twelvemonth in a variety of characters at that town, at Newcastle, and Edinburgh, he ventured to try a London audience. His first appearance at Drury Lane was in the character of Malcolm in Macbeth, April 21, 1794, and he was so well received that Mr. Colman gave him an engagement for the Haymarket, where he performed with great applause till the summer of 1802; when the state of his health obliged him to visit the continent, and on his return to England he joined his brother at Covent Garden. In 1806 he married Miss De Camp, of whom particular mention will be made in a subsequent article. Mr. Charles Kemble is the author of these dramatic pieces:

The Point of Honor, a play, 8vo. 1800.—The Wanderer, hist. dram. 8vo. 1803.—Plot and Counterplot, farce, 8vo. 1803.

KEMBLE, JOHN PHILIP, brother of the preceding, was born at Prescott in Lancashire in 1757. He received the rudiments of his education at the Roman Catholic seminary of Sedgeley Park in Staffordshire, from whence he was removed to the University of Douay in Flanders with a view to the priesthood: but though he made a very honorable progress in the necessary studies, and acquired a reputation at college by his eloquence, he felt little inclination for the clerical profession. On his return to England he preferred the stage to every other pursuit, and performed with applause at Liverpool, Edinburgh and York. While at the first of these places he produced a play on the story of Belshazzar, and at York he brought on the stage an alteration of Massinger's New

Way to Pay Old Debts, and an alteration of the Comedy of Errors. About the same time he published a small collection of poems, under the title of "Fugitive Pieces:" but being dissatisfied with what he had done, he, the very day after publication, destroyed every copy he could procure, and we have been told that one of those which escaped the flames, was sold not long since for the sum of three pounds five shillings. While at York, Mr. Kemble tried a new species of entertainment, consisting of a repetition of the odes of Mason, Gray, and Collins, with a recitation of the pathetic tales of Sterne, and other pieces in prose and verse. This novel amusement met with approbation, and the author was encouraged to repeat it in various places. At Edinburgh he delivered a lecture on oratory which added considerably to his reputation. From that city he went to Dublin where he remained two years, and in September 1783 he made his first appearance on a London stage in the character of Hamlet, at Drury Lane. His reception in the metropolis was highly flattering, and here he had an ample range for his variegated talents, which he displayed to his own advantage and the delight of the public. On the secession of Mr. King, he became the manager of Drury Lane theatre, which office he held with credit eight years. In 1802 he visited the continent for the purpose of studying the French and Spanish theatricals and of importing whatever might be serviceable for the improvement of our stage. After passing about a year at Paris and Madrid, he returned home, and having purchased a sixth part of the Covent Garden concern, he became the manager of that theatre; which he highly benefited by his judgment and his performances. Mr. Kemble in his profession has written or altered a great number of pieces the titles of which are as follows:

The Pannel, farce, 8vo. 1788.—The Farm House, com. 8vo. 1789.—Love in Many Masks, com. 8vo. 1790.—Lodoiska, mus. dram. 8vo. 1784.—The Pilgrim, com. 8vo. 1787.—The Tempest, com. 8vo. 1789. and again with further alterations in 1806.—Coriolanus, 8vo. 1789. and again in 1806.—Henry V. hist. play, 8vo. 1789, 1801, 1806.—All's Well that Ends Well, 8vo. 1793.—Merchant of Venice, 8vo. 1795.—Merry Wives of Windsor, 8vo. 1797.—Much Ado about Nothing, 8vo. 1799, and 1810.—Way of the World, com. 8vo. 1800.—Hamlet, 8vo. 1800, and 1804.—King John, 8vo. 1800, 1804.—King Lear, 8vo. 1800 and 1808.—Cymbeline, 8vo. 1801 and 1810.—Henry IV. part the first, 8vo. 1803.—Macbeth, 8vo. 1803.—Measure for Measure, 8vo. 1803.—Othello, 8vo. 1804.—Henry IV.

part the second, 8vo. 1804.—Henry VIII. 8vo. 1804.—Two Gentlemen of Verona, 8vo. 1808.—Richard III. 8vo. 1810.—As You Like It, 8vo. 1810.

KEMBLE, MRS. MARIE-THERESE, was born at Vienna, Jan. 17, 1774. Her father, George Lewis De Camp, was a musician and brother to Madame Simonet, who was one of the principal dancers at the Opera House. Miss De Camp dedicated herself to the stage at the early age of six years when she was retained at the Opera House as the Cupidon in Noverre's ballets. From thence she removed to the theatre of Monsieur Le Texier, where she performed, when only eight years old, the character of Zélie, in the comedy of La Colombe, written by Madame de Genlis. Her elegance as a dancer occasioned her removal to the Circus, where she was engaged with Monsieur Laborie and the Miss Simonets, to adorn the exhibitions of that theatre. She did not however remain long in that situation, being engaged by the elder Colman, for his house in the Haymarket, at the particular recommendation of the Prince of Wales. At the end of the season she accepted an invitation from the manager of Drury-lane, where she made her first appearance as Julie, in Richard Cœur de Lion, to the success of which opera her performance essentially contributed. At Drury-lane, in 1799, Miss De Camp produced a comedy for her own benefit, called First Faults, which displayed no ordinary talent in dramatic composition. One Earle, however, endeavoured to impose a play on the public, entitled, Natural Faults, which he had the temerity to say had been copied by Miss De Camp. This pretension, gross as it was, occasioned some discussion in the public prints; but the lady sufficiently disproved the charge, and exposed the cheat in a letter addressed to the editor of the Morning Chronicle. At the termination of the season in 1806, she quitted Drury-lane for Covent-garden, and the same year was united at the altar to Mr. Charles Kemble. She has published one piece, entitled,

The Day after the Wedding, inter. 8vo. 1808.

KEMP, JAMES, a native of Exeter, where he has written and published a descriptive poem, entitled, "Northernhay," the promenade for the inhabitants of that city, 4to. 1808.

KENYON, Right Hon. GEORGE LORD, Baron of Gredington, in the county of Flint. His lordship is the son of the late Chief Justice of the King's Bench, and was born July 22, 1776. He was educated by that learned and exemplary divine Mr. William Jones, who inscribed to him a tract on the importance of the Hebrew Language. In 1803, his lordship married Miss Hanmer, daughter of the Baronet of that name, in the county of Flint. Lord Kenyon is an officer in the Guards, and in 1808, he exhibited great alacrity in a foot race: he is also filazer and clerk of the outlawries in the King's Bench, as well as one of the two custodes brevium. He has distinguished himself in parliament on one or two public occasions, particularly in the discussion of the Catholic Claims, on which subject he has also given to the world a very able pamphlet, entitled, Observations on the Roman Catholic Question, 8vo. 1810.

KEOGH, CORNELIUS, a Roman Catholic gentleman, of Mount Jerome, in Ireland, who has published a very violent tract with this title:

The Veto, a Commentary on the Grenville Manifesto, 8vo. 1810. In this pamphlet Mr. Keogh attacks with uncommon warmth even those noblemen and others who had been the advocates of the Catholic Pretensions, merely because they wished to have some securities for the Protestant Establishment.

KEOGH, JOHN, Esq. another zealous Catholic of Ireland, who has distinguished himself at several public meetings of that body, and to whose opinions considerable deference was paid by his brethren, as appears from the following:

Sketch of a Speech delivered by him at a meeting of the Catholics of Dublin, held at the Star and Garter, Essex-street, January 24, 1807; and published at the desire of a subsequent meeting held at the same place, the 7th of February, 8vo. 1807.

KER, ANNE, a novel writer who has published,

KERSHAW, ARTHUR, the son of a Methodist Preacher, and educated in Wes-ley's School at Kingswood, near Bristol. He has been long employed in London in a subordinate capacity by the booksellers, and among other things was engaged to correct and enlarge, Walker's Gazetteer, 8vo. He has also contributed some articles to the Monthly Magazine, and other periodical publications.

KETT, HENRY, B.D. Fellow and Tutor of Trinity College, Oxford, where he took his master's degree in 1783, and that of bachelor of divinity in 1793. He is also one of his Majesty's preachers at Whitehall, and has published a number of works, some of which have been very well received. The list of his publications, which is creditable to his judgment and industry, is as follows:

Sermons at the Bampton Lecture, 8vo. 1791.—Juvenile Poems, 8vo. 1793.—History the Interpreter of Prophecy, 3 v. 12mo. 1799; since reprinted in 2 v. 8vo.—Elements of General Knowledge, 2 v. 8vo. 1802.—Additions to the Elements of General Knowledge, 8vo. 1802.—Logic made easy, or a short view of Aristotle's Method of Reasoning, 12mo. 1809.—Emily, a moral tale, 3 v. 12mo. 1809 and 1812.—A sketch of the Life of Henry Headley, Scholar of Trinity College, Oxford, prefixed to his Beauties of English Poetry, 2 v. 12mo. 1810.—The Beauties of Christianity, by F. A. de Chateaubriand, with a Preface and Notes, 3 v. 8vo. 1812.—The Flowers of Wit, or a Collection of Bon Mots, ancient and modern, 2 v. 12mo. 1814.

KEYSALL, JOHN, M.A. F.S.A. Chaplain in ordinary to his Majesty, formerly Rector of Greton, in Suffolk, and now of Beedon, in Worcestershire. He was educated at Brazenose College, Oxford, and took the degree of M.A. in 1785. He has published:

To which are prefixed introductory remarks on the mythology, literature, &c. of the Hindoos, 8vo. 1794.—A Letter to the Earl of Buckinghamshire, on the Propagation of Christianity in India, 8vo.

KINDERSLEY, Mrs. wife of the preceding, is the author of Letters from the Island of Teneriffe, Brazil, the Cape of Good Hope, and the East Indies, 8vo. 1777.

KING, ANTHONY, LL.D.

Thoughts on the expediency of adopting a System of National Education, more immediately suited to the policy of this country, 8vo. 1795.

KING, CHARLOTTE and SOPHIA, two sisters who published a poetical collection, with this title:

Trifles from Helicon, 8vo. 1798.

KING, JOHN, Esq. of the Inner Temple, Barrister at Law.

Report of the Cases, the King v. De Yonge, and the King v. Wright, 8vo. 1811.—Burn's Justice of the Peace, brought down to the 50th of Geo. III. 5 v. 8vo. 1811.

KING, JOHN, a well known character in London, originally of the Jewish persuasion, and bred to the law, which profession he quitted, long since, to follow another nearly connected with it, that of lending money to the embarrassed. He has had recourse to many ingenious speculations, and always contrived to live in a style of fashion, though generally involved in lawsuits, and sometimes living within the rules of a prison. The history of this extraordinary personage would occupy a volume, and doubtless will be exhibited hereafter for the benefit of the next generation. He has published:

Thoughts on the Difficulties and Distresses in which the Peace of 1783 has involved the People of England. Addressed to the Right Hon. Charles James Fox, 8vo. 1783.—An Essay intended to show a Universal System of Arithmetic, 8vo. 1802.—Oppression deemed no Injustice towards some Individuals, 8vo. 1804.

KING, the Rt. Hon. PETER, LORD, is the descendant of Lord Chancellor King, the nephew of Locke. The present nobleman, who was born in 1775, received his education at Cambridge, and in 1804 married the daughter of Earl Fortescue. He has been for the most part in opposition, and in 1803 he took an active part relative to the stoppage of money payments at the bank of England, on which subject he published a pamphlet with this title:

Thoughts on the Restriction of Payments in Specie at the Banks of England and Ireland, 8vo. 1803.—He has since printed a Speech in the House of Lords, on Earl Stanhope's Bill respecting Guineas and Bank Notes, 8vo. 1811.

KING, RICHARD, A.M. formerly Fellow of New College, Oxford, and now rector of Worthing in Shropshire, is the author of:

A Discourse on the Inspiration of the Scriptures, 8vo. 1805.—Remarks on the Alliance between Church and State, 8vo. 1807.

KING, SAMUEL.

An Inquiry into the State of Religion in England, 8vo. 1789.

KING, SOPHIA. Besides her share in the poetical collection published in conjunction with her sister, this lady has written:

Waldorf, or the Dangers of Philosophy, a tale, 2 v. 12mo. 1798.—Cordelia, or the Romance of Real Life, 2 v. 12mo. 1799.—The Victim of Friendship, a German romance, 2 v. 12mo. 1801.

KING, WALKER, D.D. F.A.S. and Lord Bishop of Rochester. This right reverend prelate was formerly a member of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, where he took his degree of M.A. in 1775, and accumulated those of B. and D.D. in 1788. He was for several years preacher to the honorable Society of Gray's Inn, and Private Secretary to the late Duke of Portland; which occasioned his elevation to the episcopal dignity. He has published

Two Sermons preached before the Society of Gray's Inn, 8vo. 1793.

KING, W.

Britannia triumphant over the French Fleet, occasioned by the Victory of Admiral Nelson at the Mouth of the Nile, a poem, 8vo. 1799.

KINGDON, ROGER, A.M. of St. John's College, Cambridge. This gentleman is a native of Devonshire, and has published:

The Authenticity of the New Testament, translated from the German of Godfrey Less, 8vo. 1804.—A Visitation Sermon, at Okehampton, May 22, 1811. 8vo.

KINCHORN, JOSEPH, a Dissenting Teacher.

Wesley, 12mo. 1789.—Three Letters to Mr. Wesley, containing remarks on a piece lately published with his approbation; and three challenges to all the Methodists in the Kingdom, 8vo. 1789. He has also an article on the meal trade in Young's Annals of Agriculture.

KINNIER, JOHN MACDONALD, Esq. political assistant to Brigadier General Sir John Malcolm, late Envoy to the Court of Persia. He has written:

A Geographical Memoir of the Persian Empire, 4to. 1813.

KIPLING, THOMAS, D.D. of St. John's College, Cambridge, Deputy Regius Professor of Divinity, and Dean of Peterborough. This learned divine in 1793, rendered himself obnoxious to a refractory party in the university by accepting the office of promoter or prosecutor in the case of Mr. Frend, Fellow of Jesus College, against whom it was deemed necessary to proceed judicially for his attack upon the established church. The expulsion of that gentleman for his offence and contumacy, brought upon the deputy professor a shower of abuse from the zealots for innovation, at the head of whom was Dr. Edwards, who took occasion, when the Codex of Beza came out, to assail both the preface and the editor with a virulence which amounted to personal hostility. Dr. Kipling was charged with ignorance and want of fidelity, but though it cannot be denied that the edition is inferior to the magnitude of the undertaking, still no candid person will justify the scurrility of the Socinian critic. As a reward for his labours and some consolation for the mortifications which he had experienced in the discharge of his public duty, Dr. Kipling was made Dean of Peterborough. His works are: The Elementary parts of Dr. Smith's Complete System of Optics, 4to. 1778.—Codex Theodori Bezae Cantabrigiæ, Evangelia et Apostolorum sctæ Complectens, Quadratis Literis Græco-Latinis, 2 v. fol. 1793.—The Articles of the Church of England proved not to be Calvinistic, 8vo. 1802. This pamphlet having been remarked on by a writer under the signature of Academicus, drew forth a defence by a friend to Dr. Kipling, supposed to be the doctor himself.—Certain Accusations brought lately by the Irish Papists, against British and Irish Protestants, examined, 8vo. 1809. Dr. Kipling preached the Boyle's Lecture Sermons in 1792, but never printed the course.

KIRBY, THOMAS, Teacher of the Mathematics, has published

Bowditch's Practical Navigator, revised and newly arranged, 8vo. 1804.—A Tribute to the Memory of the Right Hon. William Pitt, 8vo. 1806.

KNIGHT, JOHN, another divine of the same communion, who has published :
A Sermon on the Death of Mrs. Mary Cromwell, (relict of the late Thomas Cromwell, great grandson of the Protector), who died in the 105th year of her age, Jan. 29, 1813, 8vo.

KNIGHT, JOSEPH, Fellow of the Horticultural Society, and author of An Essay on the Cultivation of the Plants belonging to the order of the Proteæ, 4to. 1809.

KNIGHT, RICHARD PAYNE, Esq. a gentleman of fortune, and of rich classical attainments which he has not always applied to the best of purposes, for his first performance was a sacrifice to the most filthy of the heathen deities, in a style so gross that the author himself seems to have felt an inward fear of public reprehension; for though the book was handsomely printed it was never exposed to sale. His works are :

An Account of the Remains of the Worship of Priapus lately existing at Isernia in the Kingdom of Naples; to which is added a Discourse on the Worship of Priapus, and its connexion with the Mystic Theology of the Ancients, 4to. 1786.—An Analytical Essay on the Greek Alphabet, 4to. 1791.—The Landscape, a didactic poem, 8vo. 1794.—Review of the Landscape; also of an Essay on the Picturesque, with practical remarks on Rural Ornament, 8vo. 1795.—The Progress of Civil Society, a didactic poem, 4to. 1796.—Analytical Inquiry into the Principles of Taste, 8vo. 1805.—Monody on the Death of the Right Hon. Charles James Fox, 8vo. 1806.—Prolegomena in Hom. a second edition of which has been published

KNIGHT, SAMUEL, A.M. Auditor of Trinity College, Cambridge, is the author of, Elegies and Sonnets originally published anonymously in 4to. 1785, and again with his name the year following.

KNIGHT, THOMAS, the son of a respectable farmer in Dorsetshire, who gave him a good education with a view to the profession of the law. The stage, however, presenting more charms to his imagination than the desk, he joined the York company of comedians, after which he procured an engagement at Bath, where his reputation was so high that the manager of Covent Garden gave him an invitation which he accepted, and made his first appearance before a London audience Sept. 25, 1795, in the character of Jacob, in the Chapter of Accidents. Owing to some misunderstanding, Mr. Knight quitted that house in 1803, and became a proprietor of the Liverpool theatre. He married Miss Farren, sister to the Countess of Derby, and has published:

Honest Thieves, a farce, altered from the Committee, 12mo. 1797.—The Turnpike-gate, musical entertainment, 8vo. 1799.

KNIGHT, THOMAS ANDREW, Esq. F.R.S. of Elton, near Ludlow, an independent country gentleman, who has distinguished himself by his researches into natural history, and especially by his observations and experiments on vegetation. Besides numerous articles of high interest in the Philosophical Transactions, and other miscellaneous collections, he has published separately, KNOX, VICESIMUS, D.D. This literary veteran was born in London, in 1752. His father, who was master of Merchant Taylor's School, had been a Fellow of St. John's College, Oxford, where he is entered under the name of Vicesimus Knock, B.C.L. Oct. 19, 1753, but what occasioned the change in the spelling we are not informed. The son received his education under his parent, after which he removed to the same college, on an exhibition, obtained a fellowship, and took the degree of M.A. in 1779. By the interest of his father he obtained the mastership of Tunbridge School, where he married the daughter of a respectable bookseller, and discharged the duties of his situation with honor till the year 1812, when he resigned in favor of his son, the Rev. Thomas Knox, A.M. of Brazenose College, Oxford. The degree of Doctor in Divinity was communicated to our author by an American University, at the solicitation, we believe, of the late Charles Dilly, the bookseller.

The works of Dr. Knox are as follow:

Essays Moral and Literary in one volume, without a name, 12mo. 1777. The success of this work encouraged the republication and acknowledgment of it, with additions, 2 v. 12mo. 1778, since which it has gone through repeated editions.—Liberal Education, or a practical treatise on the methods of acquiring useful and polite learning, 8vo. 1781, enlarged to two volumes 8vo. 1785.—Elegant Extracts, in prose, 8vo. 1783.—Winter Evenings, or Lucubrations on Life and Letters, 3 v. 12mo. 1788.—Elegant Extracts, in verse, 8vo. 1790.—Sermons intended to promote Faith, Hope, and Charity, 8vo. 1792.—Elegant Epistles, 8vo. 1792.—Personal Nobility, or Letters to a Young Nobleman, 12mo. 1793.—A narrative of transactions relative to a Sermon preached in the parish church of Brighton, Aug. 18, 1793, 8vo. It seems the Dr. had said some things from the pulpit which gave so much offence to the congregation, that on his appearance at the theatre, on a following evening, he was treated very roughly and turned out, which occasioned this appeal; but he never published the Sermon itself, by which alone the world might have judged who was in fault.—Antipolemus, or a plea against war, translated from Erasmus, 12mo. 1794.—Family Lectures, in one large volume 8vo.—Christian Philosophy, 2 v. 12mo. 1795.—Considerations on the nature and efficacy of the Lord's Supper, 12mo. 1799. At the request of Bishop Horsley, the author published a cheap edition of this book.—A Sermon preached at the opening of the chapel of the Philanthropic Society, 4to. 1807.

KNOX, WILLIAM, formerly Under Secretary of State, and the author of several political publications, as

The Controversy between Great Britain and her Colonies reviewed, 8vo.—Considerations on the State of Ireland, 8vo. 1777.—Observations upon the Liturgy, with a proposal for its reform, 8vo. 1789.—Extra official State Papers, for the preservation of the constitution, and promoting the prosperity of the British Empire, 8vo. 1789.—A Letter to the People of Ireland, on the intended application of the Roman Catholics to Parliament for the exercise of the elective franchise, 8vo. 1792.—A friendly Address to the Members of the several Clubs associated for the purpose of obtaining a Reform in Parliament, 8vo. 1793.

KNOX, Hon. and Right Rev. WILLIAM, D. D. Lord Bishop of Derry, to which see he was translated from the diocese of Killaloe. He is the son of the Viscount Northland, and was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, where also he obtained a fellowship. He has printed:

Two Sermons preached in Trinity College Chapel, in 1799, 8vo.—Revelation indispensable to Morality, a Sermon, 8vo. 1802.

KNOX, WILLIAM, an English Merchant at Gottenburg, and the author of, A Letter to Sir John Sinclair respecting the important discovery lately made in Sweden of a method of extinguishing fire, 8vo. 1793.

LACEY, JAMES MURRAY.

The Farmhouse, a tale, with amatory, elegiac, and other Poems, 8vo. 1809.

LACKINGTON, JAMES, a native of Somersetshire, of very humble origin, and originally a shoemaker, which profession he quitted and became the vender of second-hand books in Chiswell-street. His success in this line was so great that he erected a spacious house and shop in Finsbury-square, to which he gave the name of the Temple of the Muses. Mr. Lackington was chiefly indebted to the members of Mr. Wesley's society for his success in trade, yet in his first literary performance he treated the Methodists with unwarrantable severity. At that time, however, he had become the disciple of Paine, but since his retirement from business his religious impressions have been renewed, and he has built a meeting-house for the people of his communion at Taunton, where he now resides. His works are, Memoirs of the first forty-five years of his Life, 8vo. 1791.—Confessions, to which are added Letters on the bad consequences of having Daughters educated at Boarding Schools, 12mo. 1804.

LAMBERT, C. D. L.

The Adventures of Cooroo, a native of the Pellew Islands, 8vo. 1805.

LAMBERT, GEORGE, a Dissenting Minister of the Independent Persuasion at Hull, who has published, Sermons on various Subjects, 2 v. 8vo. 1788.—A Sermon before the London Missionary Society, 8vo.—Elijah's Translation foretold, a Sermon, preached on the Death of the Rev. E. Williams, D.D. 8vo. 1813.

LAMBERT, GEORGE, of Newmarket.

The Game of Hazard investigated, cr. 8vo. 1812.

LAMBERT, JOHN, Esq. This gentleman went out to America under the sanction of Government to receive one hundred and fifty acres of land for the cultivation of hemp, but on his arrival he found that not an acre could be disposed of in either of the Canadas for that purpose. On his return to England he published: Travels through the United States of America, Canada and Georgia, 3 v. 8vo. 1810.—He is also the Editor of Salmagundi, or the Whim Whams and Opinions of Lancelot Langstaff, 2 v. 8vo. 1811.

LAMONT, DAVID, D.D. Minister of Kirkpatrick, Durham, and one of the Chaplains to his Royal Highness the Prince Regent for Scotland. He is the author of Sermons on Important Subjects, 2 v. 8vo. 1780-1787.—Sermons on Prevalent Vices, 3 v. 8vo. 1811.

LANCASTER, DANIEL, A.B. and curate of South Stoneham. He has printed: A Discourse occasioned by the Death of the late Joseph Taylor, Esq. 8vo. 1803.

LANCASTER, JOSEPH, a Schoolmaster, originally of the society of Quakers, but at present not acknowledged by that community. He distinguished himself by putting in practice Dr. Bell's plan of education, which he carried into effect on a very extended scale in St. George's Fields. The encouragement which he received enabled him to travel over the kingdom delivering lectures, and giving instructions for the formation of similar schools. The name of Dr. Bell was artfully concealed, and all the merit of the invention and improvement engrossed by the imitator; till at length some liberal minded persons asserted the cause of justice, which produced a fierce controversy, and rival institutions arose in consequence. Mr. Lancaster, availing himself of his popularity and patronage, opened a seminary in 1812, at Lower Tooting, and the advertisement which he issued exhibited a rare specimen of pompous professions, but in a little while the whole project fell to the ground, and the effects of the manager, among which were no less than three carriages, were sold for the benefit of his creditors. He has printed :

Improvements in Education, 8vo. 1803, 3d ed. 1806.—A Letter to the Right Hon. John Foster, on the best means of educating and employing the poor in Ireland, 8vo. 1805.—An Appeal to Justice in the Cause of Ten Thousand Poor Children, 8vo. 1807.—Outlines of a Plan for the education of Poor Children, 8vo. 1807.—A Spelling Book for the Use of Schools, 12mo. 1808.—Account of the Progress of Joseph Lancaster's Plan for the Education of Children, 8vo. 1810.—Report of J. His first performance consisted of some virulent satire against a worthy professor at Oxford.

LANDSEER, JOHN, F.S.A. and Engraver to his Majesty. This gentleman is distinguished by his skill in landscape engraving, nor less so by the irritability of his temper, which has led him into several contests with his brethren. He has published :

Lectures on the Art of Engraving, delivered at the Royal Institution, 8vo. 1807.—A Letter to a member of the Society for the Encouragement of Engraving, 8vo. 1810.—A second and third Letter on the Projects of the Chalcographical Society, 8vo. 1810. He was also the conductor of a Review of the Fine Arts, which after languishing through two volumes expired.

LANDT, Rev. J. G.

A Description of the Feroe Islands, 8vo. 1809.

LANE, JOHN, late of the second regiment of life guards.

The Principles of English Farriery vindicated, 8vo. 1800.

LANE, JOHN, A. M. an advertising schoolmaster, who for the purpose of recommending his own excellent mode of education published a tract entitled: Familiar remarks on the Different Modes of Education, 8vo. 1795.

The Student's Guide, being a Concise Account of the Society of Lincoln's Inn, 8vo. 1801.

LANE, WILLIAM, one of those self-taught geniuses so feelingly described by the plaintive bard, as "born to blush unseen, and waste their sweetness in the desert air." The subject of the present notice is a poor laboring peasant of Flackwell Heath, near High Wycombe, who has been enabled to publish by subscription, Poems on Various Subjects, 8vo. 1794.

LANE, WILLIAM.

An Illustration of Living Artists, 8vo. 1809.

LANGDALE, WILLIAM.

A Topographical Dictionary of Yorkshire, 8vo. 1813.

LANGDON, THOMAS, a Dissenting Minister of the Calvinistic persuasion, who has published :

The Obligations of Christians to support a Conversation becoming the Gospel, a Sermon preached at Hull, 8vo. 1795.—The Divine Being, a God that hideth Himself, a Sermon preached at Salem Chapel, Leeds, 12mo. 1804.

LANGDON, Rev. WILLIAM, B. D. Rector of Pylle and Vicar of Montacute in the county of Somerset. He was formerly of Oriel College, Oxford, where he accumulated his degrees in May 1783. He is the author of

A Sermon preached before the Yeovil Volunteer Corps of Yeomanry Cavalry, on Sunday the 31st day of August, 1794, and published at their request, 4to. 1794.

LANGFORD, R. a schoolmaster of reputation, who has published these useful books :

Treatise of Merchant's Accounts, 8vo. 1809, of which a new edition appeared in 1813.—An Introduction to Trade and Business, 8vo. 1809.

LANGHORNE, Rev. J. T. LL.B.

The Poetical Works of John Langhorne, D.D. with Memoirs of the Author, 2 v. 8vo. 1804.

LANGWORTHY, CHARLES CUNNINGHAM, Surgeon at Bath, who endeavoured to acquire a little notice by espousing the cause of an American Charlatan, in a piece entitled :

A View of the Perkinian Electricity, or an Inquiry into the Influence of the Metallic Tractors, founded on a newly discovered principle in Nature, and employed as a remedy in many painful inflammatory diseases, 8vo. 1797.

LANEWORTHY, WILLIAM, an Attorney of Devonshire, who has printed :

An Attempt to promote the Commercial Interests of Great Britain, 4to. 1793.

LANDELL, SARAH.

Manfredi, Baron of St. Osmead, an Old English Romance, 2 v. 12mo. 1796.

LANDOWNE, HENRY PETTY, MARQUIS OF, is the second son of the celebrated Earl of Shelburne, who was created Marquis of Lansdowne in 1784. The present nobleman on the death of his brother John without issue succeeded to the title and estates, after having distinguished himself in the House of Commons as Chancellor of the Exchequer during the administration of Mr. Fox. Under his name, but probably without his authority, have appeared :

Substance of the Speech delivered in the Committee of Finance, 29th Jan. 1807. 8vo.—Report of his Speech on the Budget, with a detail of the New Plan of Finance, 8vo. 1807.

LARA, BENJAMIN, Surgeon and Practitioner in Midwifery, is the author of An Essay on the Injurious Custom of Mothers not suckling their own Children, 8vo. 1791.—A Dictionary of Surgery, 8vo. 1796.

—Durval and Adelaide, 12mo. 1796.

LASKEY, Captain JOHN, Member of the Wernerian Soc. of Nat. Hist. at Edin. &c. Besides several papers in miscellaneous collections, he is the author of An Account of the Hunterian Museum at Glasgow 8vo. 1813.

LATHAM, JOHN, M.D. F.R. & A.S.S. F.L.S. President of the Roy. Coll. of Physicians, and Physician Extraordinary to his Royal Highness the Prince Regent. He was formerly of Brasenose Coll. Oxford, where he proceeded M.A. in 1784; B.M. in 1786; and M.D. in 1788. On settling in London he became one of the Physicians to St. Bartholomew's Hospital, and deservedly attained a high reputation in his profession, as also for his knowledge of Natural history. In private life, however, Dr. Latham has been extremely unfortunate by the melancholy disasters which have befallen his children. He is the author of :

A General Synopsis of Birds, 3 v. 4to. 1798.—Index

Ornithologicus, 2 v. 4to. 1801.—Plan of a Charitable Institution intended to be established on the Sea Coast for the accommodation of persons afflicted with such diseases as are usually relieved by sea bathing, 8vo. 1791.—Oratio Anniversaria in Theatro Coll. Reg. Med. Lond. ex Harveii Instituto, Habita, Oct. 18, 1794. This oration the doctor printed in octavo, contrary to all precedent, every other anniversary discourse on the same occasion having been published in quarto.—Treatise on Rheumatism and Gout, 8vo. 1796.—Healde's Pharmacopoeia of the Royal College of Physicians, revised and adapted to the last improved edition of the college, new edition, 8vo. 1805.—Facts and Observations concerning Diabetes, 8vo. 1809. Dr. Latham has also several interesting papers in the Transactions of the Linnæan Society.

LATTON, PATRICK, Esq.

Observations on Dr. Duigenan's Fair Representation of the Political State of Ireland, 8vo. 1800.

LAUDERDALE, the Right Hon. JAMES MAITLAND, EARL OF, is the eldest surviving son of James, the seventh Earl, of whom it is recorded that he was such a bon vivant as to drink three bottles of claret daily. The present nobleman was born about the year 1752, and received his education at the University of Glasgow under that eminent scholar Mr. Andrew Dalzell, after which his Lordship went to Paris, and on his return to England obtained a seat in the house of commons, where he soon distinguished himself as a partizan of the opposition. In 1782 he married Eleanor, only daughter of the late Anthony Todd, Esq. secretary to the post office, by whom he has issue, particularly a son, the present Viscount Maitland, born in 1784, and educated by Dr. Brewster, the celebrated mathematician, and editor of the Edinburgh Encyclopædia. While in the house of commons, the subject of this article supported the India Bill of Mr. Fox with great energy, and in 1787 he was nominated one of the managers to conduct the impeachment of Mr. Hastings. On the death of his father in 1789 he succeeded to the family honors and estates, and soon after was returned as one of the sixteen peers of Scotland. No sooner did Mr. Fox succeed to the post of secretary of state for the foreign department, than Lord Lauderdale was created a peer of Great Britain, and invested with an employment of considerable emolument in his native country. Accordingly on the 21st of July 1806 he was introduced to his Majesty, and kissed hands on being appointed Keeper of the Great Seal of Scotland, being at the same time sworn in a Member of the Privy Council. When his colleagues retired from office he also went out with them, and has continued ever since to take an active part against the ministry. His Lordship is the author of:

Letters to the Peers of Scotland, 8vo. 1794.—A Speech on the subject of the Finances, 4to. 1796.—Thoughts on Finance, suggested by the measures of the present session, 4to. 1796.—Letter on the present Measures of Finance, in which the Bill now depending in Parliament is particularly considered, 8vo. 1798.—An Inquiry into the Nature and Origin of Public Wealth, 8vo. 1804.—Hints to the Manufacturers of Great Britain on the consequences of the Irish Union, 8vo. 1805.—Thoughts on the alarming state of the Circulation, and on the Means of redressing Pecuniary Grievances in Ireland, 8vo. 1805.—An Inquiry into the practical merits of the System of the Government of India under the superintendence of the Board of Controul, 8vo. 1809.—Considerations

LAURENCE, JOHN.

The Sportsman, Farrier and Shoeing Smith's New Guide, being the substance of the works of the late C. de St. Bel, 8vo. 1796.

LAURENCE, RICHARD, LL.D. Arabic Professor at Oxford, and Rector of Mersham, and of Stone, in Kent. This learned divine was originally of Corpus Christi Coll. Oxford, at the same time with his brother, the late eminent civilian, Dr. French Laurence. After taking his degree of M.A. there in 1785, he removed to University College, on a fellowship, and there proceeded to accumulate the degrees of B. and D.C.L. June 27, 1794. In 1804 he preached the Bampton lectures with such reputation, that the present archbishop of Canterbury gave him the valuable rectory of Mersham in Kent: and on the death of the learned Dr. White in the present year, no person was thought so proper to succeed him in the vacant professorship as Dr. Laurence. He has published:

An Attempt to illustrate those Articles of the Church of England, which the Calvinists improperly consider Calvinistical, in eight Sermons preached before the University, 8vo. 1805.—On singularity and excess in Philological Speculation, a Sermon before the University of Oxford, 8vo. 1807.—A Dissertation on the Logos of St. John, 8vo. 1808.—The Metaphorical Character of the Apostolical Style considered, in a Sermon preached at the Visitation of the Archbishop of Canterbury, 8vo. 1810.—Critical Reflections on some Misrepresentations in the Unitarian Version of the New Testament, 8vo. 1811.—Remarks on the systematical classification of Manuscripts adopted by Griesbach in his edition of the Greek Testament, 8vo. 1814.

LAW, GEORGE HENRY, D. D. Lord Bishop of Chester, son of the late learned Bishop of Carlisle, and brother to the Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench. This reverend prelate was educated at Cambridge, and obtained from his father a prebendal stall in the cathedral of Carlisle. By the powerful interest of his brother he was elevated to the episcopal bench on the translation of Dr. Sparke to the see of Ely. His lordship has published:

Additional Evidences of the truth of Christianity, two Visitation Sermons, 4to. 1798.—The Doctrine of Christianity on the Subject of War, a Fast Sermon, 4to. 1799.—A Sermon at the Anniversary Meeting of the Sons of the Clergy, 4to. 1802.—The Limit to our inquiries with respect to the Deity, a Sermon preached before the University of Cambridge, 4to. 1804.—A Sermon preached at the Anniversary of the Royal Humane Society, 8vo. 1813.—A Sermon preached at St. Paul's on the Thanksgiving for the Peace, 4to. 1814.—A valedictory Address delivered at a General Meeting of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, May 17, 1814, to the Right Rev. Father in God, Thomas Fanshaw, Lord Bishop of Calcutta, 8vo. 1814.

LAW, JOHN, D.D. Archdeacon of Rochester, and brother of the late celebrated Dr. Edmund Law, Bishop of Carlisle. In his last pastoral discourse he observes to his reverend auditors, that he had then held above thirty visitations in his archidiaconal character. He has published:

A Charge delivered to the Clergy of the Diocese of Rochester, 4to. 1782.—A Sermon at the Anniversary Meeting of the Charity Children in St. Paul's, 4to. 1797.—Charge at the Visitation in 1802.—Ditto at the Visitation in 1806.—Ditto at the Visitation in 1811.

LAW, THOMAS, Esq. formerly member of the Council of Revenue at Fort William in Bengal, and brother of Lord Ellenborough, is the author of some papers in the Asiatic Miscellanies and separately of the following:

A sketch of some late Arrangements and a view of the rising Resources in Bengal, 8vo. 1792.—Answer to Mr. Prinsep's Observations on the Maccurry System, 8vo. 1794.

LAWES, EDWARD, of the Inner Temple, Barrister-at-Law.

An elementary Treatise on Pleading in Civil Actions, 8vo. 1806.—A Practical Treatise on Pleading in Assumpsit, roy. 8vo. 1811.—A Treatise on Charter-parties of Affreightment, Bills of Lading, and Stoppage in Transitu, 8vo. 1813.

LAWRENCE, JAMES HENRY, Knight of Malta, is the eldest son of Richard James

Lawrence, Esq. of Fairfield, in Jamaica, the immediate descendant and representative of H. Lawrence, of St. Ives, in Huntingdonshire, who was president of the council under Oliver Cromwell. This gentleman was educated first at Eton, and afterwards completed his studies in Germany. He has written:

The Bosom Friend, a poem in the manner of the Rape of the Lock, 8vo. 1791.—An Essay on the Nair System of Gallantry and Inheritance, written in German, and published at Weimar, by Wieland, 1793.—The Virgin of the Sun, translated from Kotzebue, 8vo. 1799.—Love, an allegory, in German, Berlin, 1801, and in English, 1802.—The Empire of the Nairs, or the Rights of Woman, German, at Berlin, in 1801, and in English, at London, 4 v. 12mo. 1811.—The Englishman at Verdun, or the Prisoner of Peace, a drama, 8vo. 1813. Mr. Lawrence was one of those Englishmen who were detained in France on the commencement of hostilities by order of Buonaparte. Mr. L. has also written an article in the Pamphleteer, entitled, Dramatic Emancipation.

LAWRENCE, JOHN, a literary farmer, who has published:

A Philosophical and Practical Treatise on Horses, and the moral duties of man towards the brute creation, 2 v. 8vo. 1798; 3d edit. 1809.—The New Farmer's Calendar, of which the 5th edit. was printed in 8vo. 1809.—The Modern Land Steward, 8vo. 1802.—A general Treatise on Cattle, 8vo. 1805.—The Farmer's Pocket Calendar, 2d edit. 1808.—History and Delineation of the Horse in all his varieties, 4to. 1810. This gentleman has also several papers in the Commercial and Agricultural Magazine, the Monthly Magazine, &c.

LAWRENCE, RICHARD, Veterinary Surgeon at Birmingham, and member of the Philosophical Society in that town. He is the author of,

An Enquiry into the Structure and Animal Economy of the Horse, 4to. 1801; and again in 8vo. 1804.—Observations on the Causes which constitute Unsoundness in Horses, 8vo. 1809.

LAWRENCE, THOMAS DAWSON, a veteran officer in the army, who has published a volume of poems, to which he gave the title of his Miscellaneous Works, 8vo. 1806.

LAWRENCE, WILLIAM, member of the Roy. Coll. of Surgeons in London, and Demonstrator in Anatomy at St. Bartholomew's Hospital. He has published:

A short System of comparative Anatomy, from the German of Blumenbach, 8vo. 1808.—A Treatise on Ruptures, 8vo. 1810.

LAWRIE, ALEXANDER, Bookseller to the Grand Lodge of Scotland at Edinburgh, is the author of,

The History of Free Masonry, 8vo. 1804.

LAWRIE, JOHN, A. M.

History of the Wars in Scotland, from the Battle of the Grampian Hills, A. D. 85, to that of Culloden, in 1746, 12mo. 1785.

LAWRIE, THOMAS, D.D. and Minister of Newburn. He has published:

Sermons, 8vo. 1811.

LAWSON, EDWARD, Barrister at Law. Chancery and Court-hand explained, with an easy, rapid, and distinct Short-hand, 8vo. 1813.

LAWSON, GEORGE, D.D. of Selkirk, is the author of, Discourses on the Book of Esther, 12mo.—Lectures on the whole Book of Ruth, 12mo.—Lectures on the History of Joseph, 2 v. 12mo.—Sermons, 12mo.

The Maniac, with other Poems, 12mo. 1810.

LAWSON, S.

An Essay on the use of mixed and compressed Cattle Fodder, for feeding and fattening horses, oxen, cows, sheep, hogs, and pigs, particularly adapted for young stock, 8vo. 1796.

LAX, WILLIAM, A. M. F. R. S. and Lowndes's Professor of Astronomy in the University of Cambridge. This gentleman is Fellow of Trinity College, and in 1785 obtained the prize as the best proficient in mathematics and natural philosophy. In 1795 he succeeded Dr. Smith in the professorship, which he at present holds with great reputation. Besides some papers in the Philosophical Transactions, he has published :

Remarks on a supposed error in the Elements of Euclid, 8vo. 1808. It seems that Mr. Le Sage, of Geneva, conceived that he had discovered an error in the 21st proposition of Euclid's eleventh book, and he communicated it to the French Academy; but Mr. Lax sufficiently defended the geometrician, and demonstrated the truth of the proposition in the clearest manner.

LAYCEY, A. Esq.

The Life of Erasmus, abridged from the larger work of Dr. Jortin, 8vo. 1805.

LAYMAN, Capt. in the Royal Navy, is the author of,

A Plan for the better cultivation, security, and defence of the British West Indies, 8vo. 1811.—Precursor to an Exposé on Forest Trees and Timber, connected with the maritime strength and prosperity of the United Kingdom, 8vo. 1813.

These works were written for the most part in conjunction with her sister Miss Elizabeth Shakleton.

LEADLEY, JOHN, M.A. Curate of Ferrybridge, in Yorkshire, and sometime Fellow of Magdalen College, Cambridge, where, in 1790, he gained the Norrisian Prize, the subject of which was,

An Essay on the manner in which Christianity was intended to improve morality, 8vo. 1791.

LEAKE, WILLIAM MARTIN, Esq. a gentleman of fortune, and the descendant of the celebrated Admiral Sir John Leake. He has published:

Researches in Greece, containing remarks on the languages spoken in Greece at the present day, 4to. 1814.

LEBROCK, PHILIP, M.A. and Curate of Ealing, is the author of,

A Project for the payment of the National Debt, 8vo.—Hints relative to the Management of the Poor, 8vo. 1784.—Description of certain methods of planting, training, and managing Trees, 8vo. 1785.—Outlines of a plan for making the tract of land called the New Forest, a real forest, and for various other purposes of the first national importance, 8vo. 1793.

LECKIE, DANIEL ROBISON, Esq. Journal of a route to Nagpur, by the way of Cuttar, Borosumbler, and the southern Bunjarghat, in the year 1790, with an account of Nagpur, and a journal from that place to Benares by the Subejinap, 4to. 1800.

LECKIE, GOULD FRANCIS, Esq. a gentleman who resided many years in India, and afterwards in various parts of the Mediterranean, especially in Sicily, where he was a considerable landholder. He has published:

An Historical Survey of the Foreign Affairs of Great Britain, with a view to the causes of the disasters of the late and present wars, 8vo. 1808.—State of the Foreign Affairs of Great Britain for 1809, 8vo.—Historical Survey of the Foreign Affairs of Great Britain, 8vo. 1810.—Essay on the Practice of the British Government, 8vo.

LE CLERC, H. Esq.

History of Comets, 8vo. 1811.

LEDWICH, EDWARD, LL.D. Vicar of Aghaboe, in Queen's County, Ireland, F.A.S. and formerly Fellow of Trinity College, Dublin. Dr. Ledwich has done that for his native country which Grose did for England and Wales; but though he has labored with industry, and written with ability and liberality, he has been attacked by some antiquaries of the Roman Catholic persuasion with unbecoming severity, for having called in question the legendary history of St. Patrick and other tales of the dark ages. His works, besides his communications to the Transactions of the Irish Academy and the Archæologia, are:

The Antiquities of Ireland, 4to. 1794, 1796.—A Statistical Account of the parish of Aghaboe, 8vo. 1796.

LEE, FRANCIS, A.M. and Chaplain to the Prince Regent, was born about the year 1759, and married in 1804, to Miss Catherine Ball, from whom however he was soon separated, and in 1810 obtained a verdict with five hundred pounds damages against the Hon. Major Blaquiere for adultery. Mr. Park, the defendant's counsel on that occasion, animadverted in strong terms of censure on the reverend plaintiff, who it seems had carried off the young lady unknown to her friends, though he was old enough to be her father. He has published:

English Translations in Poetry and Prose, from the Greek poets and prose writers, vol. 1. 8vo.—A Discourse to the Volunteers at Scampton, 8vo. 1803.—Poetical Translation of Hesiod, with notes, a preface, and life, 8vo. 1808.—The Odes of Pindar, from the Greek, 4to. 1810.

LEE, HARRIET, daughter of the late John Lee, a performer of Covent Garden Theatre. She has published:

The Errors of Innocence, nov. 5 v. 12mo. 1786.—The New Peerage, com. 8vo. 1787.—Canterbury Tales, 5 v. 8vo. 1797-1805.—The Mysterious Marriage, a play, 8vo. 1798.—Clara Lennox, or the Distressed Widow, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1797.

LEE, HENRY, Manager of the provincial theatres of Taunton, Barnstaple, Wells, Dorchester, Bridgwater, &c. is the author of a piece entitled:

Caleb Quotem, and his Wife, an opera, 8vo. 1810.

LEE, RACHEL FANNY ANTONINA, born about the year 1774, and the natural daughter of the eccentric Lord Despensser, after whose death she assumed the baronial title. Her mother's name was Dashwood, and in 1792 the daughter married Mathew Lee, Esq. but in 1804, being then a widow, she excited an uncommon degree of public attention by her connexion with two brothers of the name of Gordon, one of whom, a clergyman, assisted the other in carrying off the lady, as it was said, without her own consent. A prosecution ensued, but the heroine was made the subject of much ridicule on that occasion. She published:

A Vindication of her Conduct, 8vo. 1807.

LEE, RICHARD, a Barrister, and the author of

A Treatise on Captures in War, of which a new edition with additions was printed in 8vo. 1793.

LEE, RICHARD, a political and religious fanatic, who has published:

Flowers from Sharon; or original poems on divine subjects, 8vo. 1793.

LEE, SOPHIA, eldest sister of Miss Harriet Lee before mentioned, in conjunction with whom she opened a school called Belvidere House, at Bath, soon after the death of her father, and the concern has been carried on with considerable ability and reputation. Besides the share which she had in some of her sister's works, she is the sole author of:

The Chapter of Accidents, com. 8vo. 1780.—The Recess, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1783.—The Hermit's Tale, a poem, 4to. 1787.—Almeyda, trag. 8vo. 1796.—The Life of a Lover, 5 v. 12mo. 1804.—Ormond, or the Debauchee, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1810.

LEE, THOMAS, a Surgeon of the University of Edinburgh, who thought to obtain a little temporary celebrity by making some opposition to the progress of vaccination. His performance may be noted as a proof of sceptical prejudice:

Facts and some arguments tending to shew that the public decision may, with prudence, be suspended respecting inoculation of the Cow Pox, 8vo. 1802.

LEE, THOMAS, of Gray's Inn, Esq. is the compiler of:

A Dictionary of the practice in Civil Actions in the Courts of King's Bench and Common Pleas, 2 v. 8vo. 1811.—The Right of every British Merchant to Trade within the geographical limits defined by the Charter of the East India Company, 8vo. 1812.

LEE, WILLIAM.

The Ancient and Modern History of Lewes and Brighthelmston, 8vo. 1797.

LEESE, EDWARD, a Surgeon who has published:

An Explanation of the Causes why Vaccination has sometimes failed to prevent Small Pox, 8vo. 1812.

LEESON, HEWLING, late clerk in his Majesty's dock-yard at Sheerness. He has published:

The History of his peculiar Case and a Vindication of his Conduct, 8vo. 1803.

LEFANU, ALICIA, niece of the Rt. Hon. R. B. Sheridan. She has published:

Rosara's Chain, or the Choice of Life, a poem, 8vo. 1811.—The India Voyage, nov. 2 v. 12mo.

LEFANU, Mrs. sister to Mr. Sheridan, and mother of the young lady just mentioned. She married a Mr. Peter Lefanu, an Irish gentleman, who was, we believe, connected with the theatre at Dublin, and the author of an unpublished dramatic piece entitled "Smock Alley Secrets;" but of him we know nothing farther. His widow, who seems to inherit a portion of that genius for which the family has long been celebrated, is the author of:

The Flowers, or the Sylphid Queen, a fairy tale, 12mo. 1810.—Sons of Erin, or Modern Sentiment, com. 8vo. 1812.

LEGGETT, RICHARD, a Dissenting Teacher, who, at the beginning of the French Revolution, bewildered himself, like many else, in the study and application of the Prophecies. His pieces are: The Period of God's Patience to the prayers of French Martyrs, 8vo. 1794.—Evangelical Prophecies, 12mo. 1794.—Plain Evidences of the Truth of Christianity, in the form of a catechism, 12mo. 1798.

LE GRICE, CHARLES VALENTINE, M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge. He was educated in Christ's Hospital, where, and at the University, he displayed considerable classical abilities. While at college he published:

The Tuenm, containing Estianomy, or the Art of Stirring a Fire; the Iccad, a mock heroic in imitation of Horace, Epigrams, &c. 12mo. 1794.—A Prize Declaration on this subject; Richard Cromwell, if he had possessed his father's abilities, might have retained the Protectorate, with a Speech tending to prove that the Reign of Queen Anne has been improperly called the Augustan Age of English Literature, 8vo. 1795.—Analysis of Dr. Paley's principles of Moral and Political Philosophy, 8vo. 1796.—His subsequent works are: A Sermon preached at Christ Church before the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Governors of the Royal Hospitals, 4to. 1805.—Thoughts on the Harvest, a Sermon preached at Penzance in Cornwall, 8vo. 1802.—Daphnis and Chloe, a pastoral novel, from the Greek of Longus, 12mo. 1803.—Indifference, not Christian Charity, a Sermon preached at the yearly visitation of the Clergy at Penzance, 8vo. 1813.

LEIFCHILD, Rev. JOHN, a Dissenter, who was educated at Homerton Academy, whence he was invited to take upon him the ministerial charge of the Independent congregation at Kensington. He is the author of

A Sermon on Infant Baptism, 8vo.—The Evil and Danger of Ficklemindedness in Religious Opinions, a Sermon preached before the monthly association of congregational ministers, 8vo. 1812.

Lit. Cal.

LEIGH, CHANDOS, Esq. of the family of Brydges, and nearly related to the ducal line of that ancient house. He has published:

The Island of Love, a poem, 8vo. 1812.

LEIGH, Rev. CLEMENT, A.M. and Vicar of Newcastle under Lyne in Staffordshire, is the author of St. Paul's Charge to the Ephesian Elders, a visitation Sermon, 8vo. 1813.

LEIGH, Sir GEORGE, Bart. Major of the 17th regiment of foot and late Lieutenant Governor of Pulo Penang, or Prince of Wales's Island in the East Indies. He is the author of

An Account of the Settlement, Produce and Commerce of Prince of Wales's Island, 8vo. 1805.

LEIGH, JOHN, M.D.

Experimental Inquiry into the properties of Opium, and its effects on living subjects, 8vo. 1786.

LEIGH, RICHARD, Esq. a dramatic author of the minor cast, who has produced:

Grieving's a Folly, com. 8vo. 1809.

LEIGH, WILLIAM, LL.B. and Rector of Little Plumsted, Norfolk.

A short inquiry into Revealed Religion in its Origin, its Progress, and its final Establishment in Christianity, digested into five Sermons preached at Bath, 8vo. 1794.—A Sermon on the Fast Day, preached at Ashbourne in Derbyshire, Feb. 25, 1795, 8vo.

LE MAISTRE, J. G. Esq.

A Rough Sketch of Paris, 8vo.—Travels through France, Switzerland and Germany, 3 v. 8vo. 1806.

LE MESURIER, THOMAS, B.D. a native of Guernsey, and educated at Wickham's school, Winchester, from whence he removed to New College, Oxford, where he obtained a fellowship, which he vacated on being presented the living of Newton Longueville in Buckinghamshire. Mr. Le Mesurier married the daughter of the late Dr. Bandinel, of Jesus College, and he has greatly distinguished himself in vindication of the established Church, particularly against the encroachments and pretensions of the Roman Catholics; for which services, that munificent patron, the Bishop of Durham, has conferred upon him the valuable rectory of Haughton near Darlington. Mr. Le Mesurier has written several letters in the Gentleman's Magazine, and many in the Orthodox Churchman's Magazine; besides which he is the author of the following:

A Serious Examination of the Catholic Claims, 8vo.

1805.—Postscript to a Serious Examination, 8vo. 1805.

—A Sequel to the Serious Examination, 8vo. 1807.

—A reply to certain observations of the Rt. Rev.

Dr. Milner, on the Sequel to the Serious Examination, 8vo. 1807.—A Sermon preached at the visitation of the Archdeacon of Bucks, 8vo. 1806.—The Nature and Guilt of Schism, considered with a particular lar reference to the Reformation, in eight Sermons preached at Bampton's Lectures, 8vo. 1808.—Supplement to the reply to Dr. Milner's Observations, 8vo. 1809.—The Doctrines of Predestination and Assurance examined in a Sermon preached before the Bishop of Lincoln, 8vo. 1809.—The Doctrine of the Eucharist considered, as maintained by the Church of Rome and the Church of England, 8vo. 1810.—On the Authority of the Church and of the Holy Scriptures, an Address to the Roman Catholics, 8vo. 1810.—A plain statement of the Roman Catholic Question, 8vo. 1812.—A Counter Address to the Protestants of Great Britain, in answer to the Address of Charles Butler, Esq. 8vo. 1813, which pamphlet has been recorded in The Pamphleteer.—An Assize Sermon at Durham, 8vo. 1814.

LEMPRIERE, JOHN, D.D. Master of the Free Grammar School at Exeter, and Rector of Meeth in the county of Devon. He is a native of Jersey, and after receiving his education at Winchester school, removed to Pembroke College, Oxford, where he took his master's degree in 1792, and about that time was chosen to preside over Abingdon School, which he conducted with reputation for some years. He is the author of:

A Sermon preached at the opening of Swinton Chapel, 8vo. 1791.—Bibliotheca Classica, or a Classical Dictionary, 8vo. 1789, since enlarged to a quarto volume, but without an acknowledgment that the plan and materials were taken from the great work of M. Sabathier.—The History of Herodotus, translated from the Greek with Notes, vol. 1. 8vo. 1792. Mr. Beloe having published an entire and elegant translation of the father of history, is supposed to be the reason that the present version was never completed.—Universal Biography, 4to. 1808.—An Abridgment of the same work in 8vo. 1808. This work also is little more than a mere transcript from a preceding dictionary of the same kind in our own language.

LEMPRIERE, WILLIAM, M. D. physician to the forces at the army depot in the Isle of Wight, and formerly a surgeon in the army. He is also a native of Jersey, and at an early period obtained an appointment at Gibraltar, where, in September 1789, he received an offer to visit Morocco, for the purpose of attending the son of the Emperor, who was then in a dangerous and declining state. Tempted by so flattering an invitation, Mr. Lempriere went over to Barbary, but though he met with a very flattering reception from the prince, and was treated with distinction by his father, yet, when the object of the mission was accomplished and he had rendered the service required, Mr. Lempriere was abandoned by his royal patient, and left to return home as well as he could, not only without a reward, but even without protection. It seems that the Emperor wished to retain him in the country, but certainly bad usage was the worst means that could have been adopted for the purpose.

After many vexatious delays, however, he obtained leave to depart, and on the 12th of February 1790, he quitted Morocco, arrived at Tangier on the 26th of the same month, and at Gibraltar the 27th of March. Though he experienced so much trouble in this journey, it enabled him to present his countrymen with a very agreeable and valuable publication, entitled:

A Tour from Gibraltar to Tangier, Sallee, Mogadore, Santa Crux, Tarudant, and thence over Mount Atlas to Morocco; including a particular account of the Royal Harem, &c. 8vo. 1791.—Besides this work, he has printed practical observations on the Diseases of the Army in Jamaica, as they occurred between the years 1792 and 1797, 2 v. 8vo. 1799.—Report on the Medicinal Effects of a Spring lately discovered at Sandrocks in the Isle of Wight, 8vo. 1812.

LENNOX, CHARLES, Esq.

The Duchess de la Valliere, an hist. nov. translated from the French, 2 v. 12mo. 1804.

LE NOIR, ELIZ. ANNE, of Reading, and the wife of a French emigrant who settled in that town as a teacher of languages. This lady is the daughter of the eccentric, but ingenious, Christopher Smart, by the daughter-in-law of the noted bookseller, Mr. John Newberry. Mrs. Le Noir appears to have inherited a portion of the family genius, of which her productions are honorable testimonies. They are as follows:

Village Annals, or Scenes in Domestic Life, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1803.—Village Anecdotes, 3 v. 12mo. 1804.—Victorine's Excursions, 12mo. 1804.—Clara and Montfier, a moral tale, 3 v. 12mo. 1809.—Conversations interspersed with poems for the instruction of youth, vol. 1. 12mo. 1812. She has also several poetical pieces inserted in the Monthly Magazine.

LE NOIR, M. a native of France, and the husband of the preceding lady, is the author of,

The logographical, emblematical French Spelling-book, 8vo. 3d edit. 1808.—Ode Pindarique à l'occasion de la noble insurrection des Espagnols contre les François, 8vo. 1808.—Ode Pindarique adressée aux peuples, 8vo. 1808.—Dr. Blair's Sermon on the Duties of the Young, arranged into French Exercises, with a translation, 12mo. 1809.—Les Fastes Britanniques, 8vo. 1809.—Pratique de l'Orateur François, 4th edit. 12mo. 1812.

LE NOIR, Mademoiselle, daughter of the preceding, has under her name the following pieces:

Les Promesses de Victorine, 12mo. 1804.—La Compagne de la Jeunesse, 12mo.—L'Instructrice et son Eleve, 12mo.

LERR, ANNE.

The Mysterious Count, or Montville Castle, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1803.

LESLIE, HUGH, A.M.

Remarks on the judicial Proceedings of our Courts, 8vo. 1809.

LESLIE, JAMES.

Dictionary of Synonymous Words and Technical Terms in the English Language, 12mo. 1806.

LESLIE, JOHN, F.R.S. Edinburgh, and Professor of Mathematics in that University. The appointment of this gentleman to the mathematical chair produced some warm altercation between the members of that learned society and some of the divines of the church of Scotland, on account of the supposed scepticism of the professor. He is the author of several papers in the Philosophical Journals, and separately of these publications:

An Experimental Inquiry into the nature and propagation of Heat, 8vo. 1804.—Elements of Geometry, Geometrical Analysis and Plane Trigonometry, 8vo. 1809. 2d edit. 1811.—Account of experiments and instruments depending on the relations of air to heat and moisture, 8vo. 1813.

LESLIE, REV. WILLIAM, a clergyman of the church of Scotland, who has published under the patronage of the Board of Agriculture,

The general view of the Agriculture of the counties of Nairn and Moray, 8vo. 1811.

LESTER, WILLIAM, Farmer and Engineer, of Northampton. He is the author of, Observations on the utility of cutting hay and straw, and of bruising corn for feeding animals, 8vo. 1803.—History of British Implements and Machinery applicable to Agriculture, 4to.—The Economy of the Barnyard, 4to. 1811.—The Happy Era to one hundred millions of the Human Race, or the Merchant's, Manufacturer's, and Englishman's recognized right to an unlimited Trade with India, 8vo. 1813.

LETTICE, JOHN, D.D. formerly Fellow of Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge, by which society he was presented to the Vicarage of Peasmarsh, in Sussex, which living he now enjoys, with a Prebend in the cathedral of Chichester. He took his first degree in 1761, and in 1764 obtained the Seatonian prize. His works are:

The Conversion of St. Paul, a poetical essay, 4to. 1765.—The Antiquities of Herculaneum, translated from the Italian, in conjunction with Professor Martyn, 4to. 1773.—Two Sermons, 4to. 1788.—Letters on a Tour through various parts of Scotland, 8vo. 1794.—The Immortality of the Soul, a poem, translated from the French of J. H. Browne, with a Commentary and Annotations, 8vo. 1795.—A Visitation Sermon before the Bishop of Chichester, Aug. 20, 1798, 8vo.—Sermon on the Fast-Day, 4to. 1803.—Plan for the safe removal of inhabitants, not military, from towns and villages on the coast in case of invasion, 8vo. 1808.—Fables for the Fireside, 2 v. cr. 8vo. 1812. Dr. Lettice intended to have inserted in his tour in Scotland the memoirs of some eminent literary characters of that country not generally known; but not being able to complete the materials as he desired, he communicated what he had collected to the European Magazine, in which miscellany appeared his lives of Buchanan, Wilson, Hinchinson, Scrimgeour, Napier, and Hepburn.

LETTIS, CHARLES.

Emma, or the Dying Penitent, a poem, 4to. 1799.

LETTSON, JOHN COAKLEY, M.D. F.R.S. F.A.S. and a member of various institutions in this and other countries. This gentleman is a native of the West Indies, and his parents, who were of the Society of Friends, commonly called Quakers, sent him, at an early age, to England, where he was placed under the care of Mr. Samuel Fothergill, of Warrington, the younger brother of the celebrated physician Dr. John Fothergill. He was next sent to a grammar school in the same neighbourhood, after which he was placed with Dr. Sutcliff for some years, and then came to London to visit the hospitals, which he attended two years. He afterwards studied at Edinburgh, and then at Leyden, where he took his degree of doctor of physic, and published his Thesis. To complete his education he visited the hospitals of Paris, and most of the places resorted to by invalids abroad, as the Spa, Aix-la-Chapelle, and others. On his return to England he established himself in London, under the powerful auspices of Dr. Fothergill, and aided by his connexions with the Quakers. He was, in 1769, admitted a licentiate of the College of Physicians, the year after elected a fellow of the Society of Antiquaries, and the next he became a member of the Royal Society. His time was now devoted to his profession, and few men perhaps have acquired a greater reputation for skill and philanthropy. The charities of Dr. Lettson have been most extensive, and no institution, of a benevolent kind, has been formed in the metropolis without experiencing the effects of his generosity. Not long since by a decree in the Court of Chancery he has been put in possession of estates in Tortola, worth, as it is said, twenty thousand a year. His publications are:

Observationes ad Historiam Theæ pertinentes, 4to. Lugd. Bat. 1769.—The Natural History of the Tea-tree, with observations on the medical qualities of Tea, and the effects of Tea-drinking, 4to. 1772.—The Naturalist's and Traveller's Companion, 8vo. 1772.—Reflections on the general treatment and cure of Fevers, 8vo. 1772.—Medical Memoirs of the General Dispensary in London, 8vo. 1774.—Improvement of Medicine in London, on the basis of public good, 8vo. 1775.—Observations preparatory to the use of Dr. Mayerbach's Medicines, 8vo. 1776.—Letter to Sir Robert Barker and George Stackpoole, Esq. upon General Inoculation, 8vo. 1778.—History of the origin of Medicine, 4to. 1778.—Observations on Baron Dimsdale's remarks on the Letter upon Inoculation, 8vo. 1779.—Answer to Baron Dimsdale's review of Lettson's Observations, &c. 8vo. 1779.—Considerations on the propriety of a plan for inoculating the poor of London at their own habitations, 8vo. 1779.—Observations on the plan for establishing a Dispensary and Medical Society, 8vo. 1779.—Hortus Upo-

LEWIS, JOHN, Farmer, of East Bergholt.

Uniting and monopolizing of Farms plainly proved to be disadvantageous to Land-owners, and highly prejudicial to the public, 3d edit. with additions, 8vo. 1800.

LEWIS, MATTHEW GREGORY, Esq. son of the late Deputy Secretary at War, was born in 1774, and on coming of age was elected into Parliament for the borough of Hindon. While on his travels he wrote a romance of great notoriety, and certainly displaying a luxuriant fancy, but sadly debased by obscenity and impiety. The work, however, was pruned of much of its offensive matter on coming to a second edition, though even in its renovated state it is dangerous to the moral principles of young and inexperienced readers. The productions of Mr. Lewis are:

The Monk, rom. 3 v. 12mo. 1795.—Village Virtues, dram. 4to. 1796.—The Minister, trag. translated from the German of Schiller, 8vo. 1797.—The Castle Spectre, dram. 8vo. 1798.—Rolla, trag. 8vo. 1799.—The Love of Gain, a poem, 4to. 1799.—The East Indian, com. 8vo. 1800.—Adelmoir, or the Outlaw, drama, 8vo. 1801.—Alfonso, tragedy, 8vo. 1801.—Tales of Wooders, 2 v. 8vo. 1801.—The Bravo of Venice, rom. 8vo. 1804.—Rugantino, a melo drama, 8vo. 1805.—Adelgitha, a play, 8vo. 1806.—Fendal Tyrants, rom. 4 v. 12mo. 1806.—Tales of Terror, 3 v.—Romantic Tales, 4 v. 12mo. 1808.—Venoni, a drama, 8vo. 1809.—Moiody on the Death of Sir John Moore, 8vo. 1809.—One o'Clock, or the Knight and the Wood Daemon, mus. rom. 8vo. 1811.—Timour the Tartar, a melo drama, 8vo. 1812.—Poems, 12mo. 1812.—Rich and Poor, com. op. 1812.

LEWIS, MERRYWEATHER, a Captain in the American service, who was employed, in conjunction with Captain Clarke, by his government, in travels of discovery through the back settlements, with a view of extending the means of commerce to the Great Pacific Ocean. The result of these researches does honor to the zeal and talents of the adventurers, and their work, which has been reprinted in London, will prove a valuable acquisition to the store of geographical science. It is entitled,

The Travels of Captains Lewis and Clarke in 1804, 5, and 6, by the way of the Missouri and Columbia Rivers to the Pacific Ocean, 8vo. 1809.—This, however, was only a preparatory abstract of the larger journal which has since appeared with this title, Travels to the Source of the Missouri River, and across the American Continent to the Pacific Ocean. By Captains Lewis and Clarke. Published from the official report, and illustrated by a map of the route, and other maps, 4to. 1814.

LEWIS, PERCIVAL, Esq. F.A.S.

Historical inquiries concerning Forests and Forest

Laws, with topographical remarks on the ancient and modern state of the New Forest, 4to. 1811.

LICHFIELD and COVENTRY, (the Hon. and Rev. JAMES CORNWALLIS, LORD BISHOP OF). This venerable prelate was the brother of the late Marquis Cornwallis, and was born Feb. 25, 1743. He received his education at Westminster school, from whence he removed to Christ Church, Oxford, but afterwards obtained a fellowship at Merton College, where he took his master's degree in 1766, and that of doctor in civil law in 1775. He at first intended to make the bar his profession, and with that view entered himself a student of the Temple; but the elevation of his uncle to the Archbishopric, on the death of Dr. Secker, opened new prospects and he devoted himself to the Church. His first preferment was the rich rectory of Wrotham in Kent, soon after which he obtained a prebend of Westminster, and in 1775 succeeded Dr. Moore in the deanry of Canterbury. In 1781, on the translation of Bishop Hurd, he was raised to the see of Lichfield and Coventry; and in 1791 on the translation of Bishop Douglas to the see of Salisbury, he succeeded him as dean of Windsor, which he vacated on being made dean of Durham. His Lordship married in 1771, a lady who was nearly related to Sir Horace Mann, and by her he has several children. In the collection of poems published by the University of Oxford on the death of George the second, is one in Latin by the honorable James Cornwallis, which possesses distinguished merit. His only publications are:

A Sermon preached at the anniversary meeting of the Sons of the Clergy, at St. Paul's, May 15, 1777, 4to.—A Sermon preached before the Lords Spiritual and Temporal at Westminster Abbey, March 20, 1811, 4to.

LICKORISH, RICHARD, M.D. and a clergyman. He was formerly of Lincoln College, Oxford, where, however, he took no degree. Afterwards he practised medicine, and not succeeding in that line he entered into orders. He has published:

Sermons and Tracts upon various subjects, 8vo. 1793.—An Appeal to the Public on the subject of Politics, 8vo. 1793.—Observations on the insufficiency of mere wealth and grandeur for our Happiness and Dignity, 8vo. 1809.

LIDDEL, ROBERT, a Purser in the Royal Navy.

The Seaman's New Vade Mecum, containing a practical essay on naval book-keeping, 8vo. 1787. and several times reprinted.—Detail of the Duties of a Deputy Judge Advocate, folio, 1806.

LIDDIARD, Mrs.

A Tale of Old, and other poems, 12mo. 1811.

LIDDON, JOHN, a Dissenting Minister, who has published:

LINDLEY, GEORGE.

The Plan of an Orchard, exhibiting at one view a select quantity of trees sufficient for planting an acre and half of land, fol. 1796.

LINDLEY, THOMAS, the Master of a Brig which sailed on a commercial speculation to the Brazils, where she was confiscated on a charge of being engaged in a contraband trade, and the captain and crew were confined in prison, but the former escaped from Bahia in 1803. He has published:

Narrative of a Voyage to Brazil in 1802. 8vo. 1805.

LINDSAY, COLIN, Lieutenant Colonel.

A Military Miscellany, containing extracts from Tempelhoff's History of the Seven Years' War, Remarks on General Lloyd, Treatise on Winter Posts, with a Narrative of Events at St. Lucie and Gibraltar, 2 v. 8vo. 1793.

LINDSAY, JAMES, D.D. a native of Scotland, and a Dissenting Minister in London, where he succeeded the celebrated Dr. Fordyce. He is the author of,

A Sermon on the Influence of Religious Knowledge, as tending to produce a gradual improvement in the social state, preached at the Meeting House in Monkwell Street, 8vo. 1813.—A Sermon preached at Salter's Hall Meeting House, on the death of the Rev. Hugh Worthington, 8vo. 1813.

LINDSAY, ROBERT, of Pinscottie in Scotland, is the editor of:
The Chronicles of Scotland, published from several old MSS. 2 v. 8vo. 1814.

LINGARD, Rev. JOHN, a Priest of the Church of Rome, settled at Newcastle upon Tyne, and who has displayed considerable acuteness, not unmix'd with virulence and artifice, in the defence of his communion from the accusations brought against it by various Protestant writers. But the principal object of his poleinical tactics was the present venerable bishop of Durham, whose charge to the clergy in 1806 brought Mr. Lingard, though anonymously, into the field, and his pamphlets having excited much attention as well among Protestants as Catholics, occasioned a sharp controversy in which several persons of ability took a part. The various publications of Mr. Lingard are:

Catholic Loyalty vindicated, in a series of Letters which originally appeared in the Newcastle Courant, 12mo. 1805.—Remarks on a Charge delivered to the Clergy of the Diocese of Durham, by Shute, Bishop of Durham, 12mo 1807.—A General Vindication of the Remarks on the Charge of the Bishop of Durham, containing a Reply to a Letter from a Clergyman of the Diocese of Durham; a Reply to the Observations of the Rev. Thomas Le Mesurier; a Reply to the Strictures of the Rev. G. S. Faber; and some Observations on the more fashionable methods of interpreting the Apocalypse, 12mo. 1808.—The Antiquities of the Saxon Church, 2 v. 8vo. 1809.—Documents to ascertain the Sentiments of British Catholics in former ages, respecting the power of the Popes, 8vo. 1812.—A Review of certain Anti-Catholic Publications, 8vo. 1813.

LINGHAM, EDWARD JAMES, Esq. a mercantile gentleman who resided a considerable time in Portugal and South America. He has published a very able tract entitled:

Vindiciæ Lusitanicæ, or an answer to a pamphlet on the causes and consequences of the late emigration to the Brazils, 8vo. 1808.

LINLEY, WILLIAM, Esq. son of the celebrated composer of Drury Lane Theatre, and one of the patentees of that concern. The present gentleman, who is the brother in law of Mr. Sheridan, resided several years at Madras. He is the author of:

The Honey Moon, com. op. 8vo. 1797.—The Pavilion, an ent. 8vo. 1799. This was afterwards altered with the title of the Ring, a musical piece, 8vo. 1800.—Forbidden Apartments, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1800.—The Adventures of Ralph Reybridge, 4 v. 12mo. 1809.

LINN, JOHN BLAIR, A.M. of the college of Philadelphia, is the author of

The Powers of Genius, a poem in 3 parts, 12mo. 1804.

LISLE, Major J. G. SEMPLE, an extraordinary character, who has disgraced a profession which beyond most others calls for a high-minded sense of honor, and a superiority to those arts of deception by which so many adventurers contrive to live upon the credulity of the unwary. For one offence this person was sentenced to banishment; but having had the good fortune to assist in quelling a mutiny, he received his pardon, and entered on the military line in a foreign service, which, however, he was obliged to quit, and has ever since resided in the metropolis, but at present is under confinement on a charge which may probably subject him to another exile. He has had the effrontery to publish :

The Memoirs of his Life, containing a faithful narrative of his alternate vicissitudes of splendor and misfortune: interspersed with interesting anecdotes, and authentic accounts of important public transactions, 8vo. 1799.—A Letter to the British Volunteers, 8vo. 1804.

LISTER, THOMAS, Esq. a gentleman of fortune who received his education at the university of Oxford, where he took his degree of B. A. He has published: Speech at the County Hall in Stafford, as chairman of a meeting for the formation of an Auxiliary Bible Society, 8vo. 1812.

LONSDALE, the Right Hon. WILLIAM LOWTHER, EARL OF, is the nephew of the celebrated Sir James Lowther, who was created a Viscount in 1797. The present nobleman was born in 1757, and during the life-time of his uncle he represented the city of Carlisle. In 1781 he married lady Augusta Fane, sister to the Earl of Westmoreland, by whom he has several children. Not long after his accession to the title and estates, he was created Earl of Lonsdale, and in general he has been a strenuous supporter of the party who espouse the politics of Mr. Pitt. His Lordship is a liberal patron of literature and the arts, and when the posthumous historical fragment of Mr. Fox appeared, he printed a very valuable manuscript which was written by his ancestor, John, Lord Viscount Lonsdale, the confidential servant of William III. To this work the noble editor prefixed an interesting account of the life and character of the author. This literary relic, which is of considerable importance, and throws much light upon the history of the Revolution, is entitled :

Memoir of the Reign of James the Second, 4to. 1808.

His brother, the late General Mackinnon, wrote a journal of the Campaigns in Portugal and Spain, 1813.

MACKINTOSH, SIR JAMES, Bart. M. P.

was born in 1765 in the parish of Dores, in the county of Inverness. He received his education at the School of Fortrose and at King's College, Aberdeen, where his studies were directed to the profession of the healing art, and in 1787 he took his doctor's degree in that faculty. On the death of his father he applied to the law, and became a student of Lincoln's Inn, where, at the commencement of the French Revolution, he contracted an intimacy with Godwin and other persons who distinguished themselves by their zeal in the cause of political reform. Afterwards the fervor of Mr. Mackintosh abated, and at the recommendation of Mr. Pitt, he was chosen to read a course of lectures on the laws and constitution of England in the hall of Lincoln's Inn, in the course of which he declaimed so vehemently against the opinions of his old associates, as to bring upon himself the charge of political apostasy. When Peltier was subjected to a prosecution for a libel on the character of Napoleon Buonaparte first consul of France, Mr. Mackintosh displayed uncommon powers of eloquence in the defence of his client. The abilities which he displayed on this occasion had a considerable influence in the appointment of the advocate to the office of Recorder of Bombay, where his oratorical talents frequently called forth the admiration of the Europeans and natives. While on this station he is said to have employed his leisure hours in the composition of a history of England, from the Revolution to the present reign. On his return to England Sir James was elected into parliament for the shire of Nairn, but in the House of Commons he has not commanded that attention which might have been expected from the report of his literary attainments and elocution. His publications are:

A Pamphlet on the Regency Question, 8vo. 1789.—Vindiciæ Gallicæ; or a defence of the French Revolution and its English Admirers, against the accusation of Edmund Burke, including some strictures on the late productions of Calonne, 8vo. 1791.—A Discourse on the study of the Law of Nature and Nations, 8vo. 1799.—Discourses on the Laws of England, 8vo. 1799.—The Criticisms on Burke's Regicide Peace, Gibbon's Miscellaneous Works, and other articles in the Monthly Review, are confidently ascribed to his pen. He is also said to have enlisted himself lately in the service of the Edinburgh Review.

MACLAREN, ARCHIBALD, a native of the Highlands of Scotland, and born March 2, 1755. At an early age he entered into the army and served in the American war under Howe and Clinton, during which he wrote some poetical pieces in the Philadelphia and New York papers. At the peace he obtained his discharge, and on his return to Scotland he engaged with a company of itinerant players at Montrose, among whom he acquired credit in Scotch, Irish and French characters. In 1794 he enlisted as serjeant in the Dumbartonshire Highlanders, with whom he went to Guernsey, where he resided two years, and there some of his dramatic pieces were performed. He next served in Ireland, but a few weeks after the battle of Vinegar Hill he was discharged, and made the best of his way to London with the hopes of getting some of his pieces brought on the stage, in which expectation however he was disappointed. He has since continued to publish little dramatic productions for the support of himself and family, not altogether without success, having been patronized in these laudable efforts by persons of high distinction. Some of his performances evince considerable ingenuity, and might, with proper management, be rendered pleasing on the stage. His works are:

The Conjuror, farce, 12mo. 1781.—The Coup de Main, ent. 12mo. 1784.—Humors of Greenock Fair, int. 12mo. 1789.—Siege of Perth, ent. 12mo. 1792.—Old England for Ever, com. op. 12mo. 1799.—Negro Slaves, ent. 12mo. 1799.—Humors of the Times—Soldier's Widow, mus. ent. 12mo. 1800.—Monopolizer Outwitted, mus. en. 12mo. 1800.—The Chance of War, mus. dram. 12mo. 1801.—Fashion, mus. en. 12mo. 1802.—The First of April, mus. ent. 12mo. 1802.—Lottery Chauce, mus. dram. 12mo. 1803.—Britons to Arras, mus. dram.

12mo. 1803.—Saw ye Bony coming? mus. dram. 12mo. 1804.—A Touch at the Times, mus. ent. 12mo. 1804.—The Coronation, mus. ent. 12mo. 1804.—The Days we live in, play, 12mo. 1805.—Kenneth, King of Scots, mus. dram. 12mo. 1807.—The Highland Drover, 12mo.—What News from Bantry Bay? farce, 12mo.—The First Night's Lodging, farce, 12mo.—He is said likewise to have written the American Slaves, com. op. 8vo. 1792.

MACLEAN, CHARLES, M.D. and formerly a Surgeon at Calcutta.

The Farmer against the Three Attornies, or justice vindicated in the case of Jones v. Williams, Price, and Powell, in the Court of Chancery, 8vo. 1809.

MACMILLAN, ANTHONY, the son of James Macmillan, Esq. of Barlae, in the parish of Cornfairn, and county of Kirkcudbright, was born Jan. 9, 1759. He received a private education under his father's roof, and at sixteen was articled to a country notary public, conveyancer, and solicitor, after which he went to Edinburgh, where, in 1778, he entered into articles with a writer to the signet, one of the highest class of attornies in Scotland; but that person dying in a short time he was transferred to another, with whom he had a misunderstanding which ended in a separation and lawsuit. In this our author was successful, and then he went to reside at a country town in the neighbourhood of his father. In 1786 he was admitted a solicitor before the different courts in the county of Kirkcudbright, where he practised with reputation six years. In 1787 he was appointed surveyor of assessed taxes, but about 1792 he left off business, and ever since has lived on a small annuity in the neighbourhood of New Galloway. His works are :

Forms of Writings in the most common cases, 12mo. 1784.—A Supplement to the above on Personal Rights, 12mo. Three editions of the Forms of Writings were soon sold, and two of the Supplement.—A System of Conveyances of Land and Securities thereon, 1 v. 8vo. 1808. He is besides the author of a Dissertation on the reality of the Trojan war, inserted in the Bee, edited by Dr. Anderson; and he is understood to be engaged in compiling Commentaries on the Laws of Scotland, after the manner of Blackstone's celebrated work on the Laws of England. He has also prepared for the press a small volume on Forms of Proceedings before the Justices of the Peace in Scotland.

MACNAB, HENRY GREY, M.D.

MACNALLY, LEONARD, Esq. Barrister at Law, is the son of a merchant at Dublin, and in 1774 was entered a student of the Middle Temple. In 1776 he was called to the Irish bar, where he established his reputation as an orator and a lawyer. In 1783 he figured at London by speeches in favor of the memorable coalition between Fox and North. He was for some time editor of the Public Ledger, and was afterwards concerned in other papers. Mr. Macnally however returned to his native country many years ago, and is now esteemed as one of the leading barristers in Dublin. His literary performances are :

The Apotheosis of Punch, masque, 8vo. 1779.—The Claims of Ireland, and the resolutions of the Volunteers vindicated, 8vo. 1782.—Retaliation, farce, 8vo. 1782.—Tristram Shandy, farce, 8vo. 1782.—Robin Hood, com. op. 8vo. 1784.—Fashionable Levities, com. 8vo. 1785.—Richard Cœur de Lion, com. op. 8vo. 1786.—Abstract of Acts passed in Parliament from Jan. 26, to Oct. 27, 1786, 12mo.—Critic upon Critic, dram. med. 8vo. 1792.—Cottage Festival, op. 8vo. 1796.—The Rules of Evidence on Pleas of the Crown, illustrated from printed and manuscript trials, 2 v. 8vo. 1803.—The Justice of Peace of Ireland, 2 v. large 8vo. 1808.

MACREADY, WILLIAM, is a native of Dublin, and was bred an upholsterer under his father; but he quitted that business for the stage. Happening to please Macklin by his performance of Egerton, in the Man of the World, the veteran procured him an engagement at Covent-Garden, where he made his first appearance as Flutter, in the Belle's Stratagem, in 1786. He afterwards became manager of the theatre at Birmingham, and having left Covent-Garden in consequence of some dispute about salary, he opened the Royalty Theatre, which proved unsuccessful. He next had the management of the Sheffield company, and afterwards that of Manchester, where he failed and became a bankrupt. He is the author of,

The Irishman in London, far. 8vo. 1793.—The Banknote, com. 8vo. 1795.—To him also has been ascribed the Village Lawyer, far. 12mo. 1795.

MADAN, SPENCER, D.D. Rector of Ibstock, Leicestershire; and of Thorpe, in Staffordshire, Chaplain in Ordinary to his Majesty, and Chancellor and Prebendary of Peterborough. His father was the late venerable Bishop of Peterborough, and the son received his education at Westminster School, from whence he was elected off to Trinity College, Cambridge, where he took his master's degree in 1779, and his doctor's in 1809. While at the university he obtained great credit both for his learning and genius. In 1782 he gained the Seatonian Prize, the subject of which was the Call of the Gentiles. Besides that piece he has published:

A Translation of Grotius de Veritate, 8vo. 1783, and again in 1813.—A Sermon in the Chapel of Lambeth, on the consecration of his father to the bishopric of Bristol, 4to. 1792.—A Sermon preached in the cathedral of Peterborough on the Fast, Oct. 19, 1803, 8vo.—The fatal Use of the Sword considered, in a Sermon on the Fast Day, 8vo. 1805.—A Sermon preached before the University of Cambridge on Commencement Sunday, July 2, 1809, 8vo.—The Lessee the Curate, or an answer to the perpetual Curate of Sawley Wilne, and Long Eaton, Derbyshire, 8vo. 1811.

MALHAM, Rev. JOHN, Vicar of Hilton in Dorsetshire. He is a native of Craven in Yorkshire, and was educated at the Free Grammar school of the village where he was born. As early as the year 1768 he carried on a mathematical correspondence in the Leeds Mercury, at which time he also conducted a school, but soon after he entered into orders and served a curacy in Northamptonshire. In 1781 he resumed the office of a preceptor, and after several changes he settled at Salisbury, where, in addition to his other employments, he became a corrector of the press in an eminent printing office. The late Bishop Douglas presented him to the vicarage which he now holds, but at present Mr. Malham resides in London, connected with some of those booksellers who are engaged in periodical works, such as Bibles and other publications in weekly numbers. He has printed:

The Schoolmaster's Complete Companion, and Scholar's Universal Guide to Arithmetic, 12mo. 1782.—Navigation made easy and familiar, 12mo.—The Naval Gazetteer, or Seaman's Complete Guide, 2 v. 8vo. 1797.—Sixteen Sermons on the most interesting subjects to Seamen, 8vo. 1793.—A Word for the Bible, being a serious Reply to the declarations and assertions of the speculative Deists and practical Atheists of modern times, particularly the Age of Reason, by Thomas Paine, 8vo. 1796.—Two Sermons on National Gratitude, 8vo.—Dictionary of the Common Prayer, 12mo. 1796.—Infant Baptism defended, 12mo.—The Curate's Act examined, 8vo. 1797.—Twenty-two Sermons on Doctrinal and Practical Subjects, 2 v. 8vo. 1799.—The Scarcity of Wheat considered, 8vo. 1800.—The Mischief of Forestalling considered, 8vo. 1800.—An Historical View of the unavoidable Causes of the Non-residence of the parochial Clergy on their Livings, 8vo. 1801.—Lowndes' History of England revised and brought down to the year 1812, 12mo.—A New Introduction to Book-keeping, after the Italian manner, by the Rev. R. Turner, the 5th edition with corrections, 12mo.

MALKIN, BENJAMIN HEATH, LL.D. Head Master of the Free Grammar school at Bury St. Edmund's, and formerly of Trinity College, Cambridge, after having been educated at Harrow school. His publications are:

Essays on subjects connected with Civilization, 8vo. 1795.—Almahide and Hamet, a tragedy, to which is prefixed a Letter on Dramatic Composition, 8vo. 1804.—The Scenery, Antiquities and Biography of South Wales, 4to. 1804.—A Father's Memoirs of his Child, roy. 8vo. 1806.—The Adventures of Gilblas, from the French of Le Sage, 4 v. 4to. 1809.

MALMESBURY, JAMES HARRIS, EARL OF, is the only surviving son of the celebrated James Harris, the author of Hermes and other erudite works. His Lordship was born at Salisbury, April 9, 1746, and educated at Merton College, Oxford, where he obtained the degree of Doctor in Civil Law, July 3, 1793. He commenced his diplomatic career early in life, for in 1771 he was minister plenipotentiary to the court of Madrid; in 1772 to that of Berlin; in 1776 to that of Petersburg, and in 1783 he was envoy extraordinary at the Hague. In 1777 he married Harriet Mary, daughter of the late Sir George Amyand, Bart, by whom he has issue several children, particularly Viscount Fitzharris, born at St. Petersburg in 1778, educated at Eton, and Oxford, and now M.P. for Heytesbury. Lord Malmesbury was made a Knight of the Bath in 1788, and the next year he obtained the order of the Prussian Eagle for his conduct during the insurrection in Holland. His Lordship accompanied the Princess of Wales to England, having been appointed by his Majesty to conclude and sign the treaty of marriage. In 1797 he went to the continent to negotiate with the accredited ministers of the French Republic, but the business terminated without any amicable adjustment of the differences, and the war was continued. Lord Malmesbury on that occasion distinguished himself as a profound statesman, and his conduct gave such satisfaction to his court as to procure for him the dignity of an Earl, the patent of which bears date Dec. 29, 1800. His publications are:

Introduction to the History of the Dutch Republic, for the last ten years, from 1777, 8vo. 1788.—The Works of James Harris, Esq. with an account of his Life and Character, by his Son, 2 v. 4to. 1801.

MALTBY, EDWARD, D.D. Prebendary of Leighton Buzzard, in the Cathedral of Lincoln and Vicar of Buckden. He was the favored pupil of Dr. Parr, from whose instruction he passed to Pembroke Hall in Cambridge, where he gained the prize medals for Greek odes in 1790 and 1791, and the Chancellor's medal as the best proficient in classical learning in 1792. The reputation which he had acquired by his talents procured him the patronage of the Bishop of Lincoln who made him his domestic chaplain, gave him the valuable living of Buckden and a prebend in his cathedral. The friendship, however, that once subsisted between them has cooled, we understand, owing to some heat, manifested by the doctor, in his political connexions and by the zeal which he displayed on an election at Huntingdon. His works are:

Illustrations of the Truth of the Christian Religion, 8vo. 1802.—A Sermon before the University of Cambridge on Commencement Sunday, 1806, 4to.—A Letter to the Freeholders of the county of Huntingdon, 8vo. 1807.—Thoughts on the utility and expediency of the Plans proposed by the British and Foreign Bible Society, 8vo. 1812. Dr. Maltby has been long engaged in a new edition of Morell's Thesaurus Poeseos.

MALTHUS, T. R. A.M. Fellow of Jesus College, Cambridge, professor of history and of political economy at the East India Company's College in Hertfordshire. He is the son of the late Daniel Malthus, Esq. of Albury near Guilford, and has greatly distinguished himself as a political arithmetician. His works are:

An Essay on the Principle of Population; or a View of its past and present effects on Human Happiness, with an inquiry into our prospects respecting the mitigation of the evils which it occasions, 8vo. 1798.—A second edition enlarged into a quarto volume in 1803; and again reprinted in two vols. 8vo. 1807.—A Letter to Samuel Whitbread, Esq. on his proposed bill for the amendment of the Poor Laws, 8vo. 1807.—A Letter to Lord Grenville, occasioned by some observations of his Lordship on the East India Company's Establishment for the education of their Civil Servants, 8vo. 1813. Observations on the Corn Laws, which has reached three Editions, 8vo. 1814.

MALTON, JAMES, Architect and Draughtsman.

An Essay on British Cottage Architecture, 4to. 1798.—The Young Painter's Maul Stick, being a Practical Treatise on Perspective, 4to. 1802.

MANBY, GEORGE WILLIAM, was born at Darnar Cottage, near Darnham Market, Norfolk, in 1765. He was educated at the Grammar school of Lynn, afterwards at an academy at Bromley in Middlesex, and then placed in the Royal Military Coll. Woolwich. On being disappointed of a suitable rank in active service he accepted a commission in a militia regiment in which he served seven years, till he was, by the interest of the Right Hon. Charles Yorke, then Secretary at War, appointed Barrack Master at Yarmouth. Here he applied himself assiduously to contriving and improving an apparatus for the humane purpose of saving the lives of shipwrecked persons, which object he carried into complete effect, though it should be observed that the hint and the plan had been published above twenty years before by Serjeant Bell, who never obtained any remuneration for the invention. Captain Manby has the merit of carrying the method into actual practice, and of having given to it all the excellencies of an original discovery, for which he has been rewarded by parliament with grants amounting to six thousand pounds. His publications are,

The History and Antiquities of the Parish of St. David in South Wales, 8vo. 1801.—Fugitive Sketches of the History and Natural Beauties of Clifton, the Hotwells and Vicinity, 8vo. 1802.—An Historic and Picturesque Guide from Clifton through the Counties of Monmouth, Glamorgan and Brecknock, 8vo. 1802.—An Englishman's Reflections on the Author of the present Disturbances, 8vo. 1803.—Essay on the Preservation of shipwrecked Persons, 8vo. 1812.—Lecture on the Preservation of Persons in the Hour of Shipwreck, 8vo. 1813. Captain Manby, who now holds an office of value in the Ordnance department, has a brother in the royal navy, whose name some time since was associated with an inquiry into the conduct of an illustrious personage.

MANDERSON, JAMES, Esq. Captain in the Royal Navy.

A Letter to the Prime Minister and the First Lord of the Admiralty on the Extension of the Naval Establishments, 8vo. 1812.—Examination into the true cause of the stream running through the Gulf of Florida, 8vo. 1812.—Twelve Letters to the Rt. Hon. Spencer Perceval on the present Magnitude of the British Navy, 8vo. 1812.

MANGIN, the Rev. EDWARD, A.M. He was of Balliol College, Oxford, where he took his degree in 1795. He is the author of:

The Life of C. G. Lamoignon Malesherbes, translated from the French, 12mo. 1804.—An Essay on Light Reading, 12mo. 1808.—Oddities and Outlines, 12mo.—George the Third, nov.—Hector, a tragedy from the French of Lancelotti, 8vo. 1810.—The Complete Works of Samuel Richardson, with a Sketch of his Life, 19 v. cr. 8vo. 1811.

MANGNALL, Miss.

A Sketch of Ancient Geography, adapted to Smith's Atlas, 12mo.

MANNERS, CATHERINE REBECCA, Lady, third daughter of Thomas Gray, Esq. of Lehana in the county of Cork, and wife of Sir William Manners, Bart.

Poems, 4to. 1793.—Review of Poetry, 4to. 1799.

MANNERS, GEORGE, Esq. Barrister at Law, is the author of:

Edgar, or Caledonian Feuds, trag. 8vo. 1806.—Mentoriana, or a Letter of Admonition to the Duke of York, 8vo. 1807.—Vindiciæ Satiricæ, or a Vindication of the Satirist, 8vo. 1809.—The Rival Impostors, or two Political Epistles to two Political Cheats, 8vo. 1809.—He was the original projector and principal proprietor of the monthly publication entitled the Satirist, which at one time attracted considerable attention on account of its attacks upon many notorious characters, and the exposure of many gross impostors.

MANNERS, MRS.

Castle Nuovier, or Henry and Adélaïde, rom. 2 v. 12mo. 1806.—The Lords of Erith, rom. 3 v. 12mo. 1809.

MANNERS, Captain.

The Boor, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1810.

MANNING, JAMES, a native of Exeter, and pastor of the Old or Independent congregation of Dissenters in that city. He is the author of these publications, which are respectable in their kind.

The Life and Writings of the Rev. Micaiah Towgood, 8vo. 1792.—A Sermon on the Death of the Rev. Rice Harris, D.D. 8vo. 1795.—Exercises of Piety, for the use of enlightened and virtuous Christians, by G. J. Zollikofer, translated from the French edition, 8vo. 1796.

MANNING, THOMAS, late of Caius College, Cambridge.

Introduction to Arithmetic and Algebra, 2 v. 8vo. 1798.

MANSELL, WILLIAM LORT, D.D. Lord Bishop of Bristol and Master of Trinity College, Cambridge. He was appointed to the headship of that house by Mr. Pitt, with a view to correct the disorders which had crept into the society and endangered not only that foundation, but the credit of the University. The late Mr. Perceval, who had been a pupil of Dr. Mansell's, showed an equal degree of respect and judgment in promoting him to the bishopric of Bristol, on the translation of Dr. Luxmore to Hereford in 1808. His Lordship is the author of: A Sermon preached before the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, in the Abbey Church at Westminster, Jan. 30, 1810. 4to.

MANT, RICHARD, D.D. Rector of All Saints, Southampton. He was formerly a member of Trinity College, Oxford, where he took the degree of M.A. in 1768, but accumulated those of B. and D.D. at New College, in 1793. Dr. Mant was educated under the Wartons, and continued on terms of the greatest intimacy with those eminent scholars. He has given to the world:

Public Worship, a Sermon preached at the consecration of All Saints Church, Southampton, before the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Exeter, Nov. 12mo. 1795, 8vo. 1796. This Sermon, when delivered, it seems, gave some offence to the Dissenters, one of whom, a popular preacher at Southampton, published an attack upon the Doctor, on the charge of intolerance, to repel which he very judiciously printed his discourse.—The Order for the Visitation of the Sick, from the Book of Common Prayer, 12mo. 1805.—Eight Lectures on the Occurrences of the Passion Week, 12mo. 1807.—Guide to the understanding of the Church Catechism, 12mo. 1812.

MANT, RICHARD, A.M. Vicar of Great Coggeshall, in Essex, and Domestic Chaplain to the Archbishop of Canterbury. He is the son of the above, and was educated at Winchester school, from whence he removed to Oriel College, Oxford, where he obtained a fellowship, and in 1800 took his master's degree. He was for some time curate to his father, but having acquired notice by preaching the Bampton Lecture, on which occasion he produced a masterly vindication of the established clergy from the unmerited accusations of those who profess a greater purity of principles, his grace the present Archbishop, in the most handsome manner, appointed him one of his chaplains and gave him some time afterwards, the preferment which he now holds. Mr. Mant is the author of:

Verses to the Memory of Joseph Warton, D.D. 4to. 1800.—The Poetical Works of Dr. Warton, with Memoirs of his Life and Writings, 2 v. 8vo. 1802.—The Slave, and other poetical pieces, 8vo. 1806.—A Collection of Miscellaneous Poems, 8vo. 1806.—Reflections on the sinfulness of Cruelty to Animals, a Sermon, 8vo. 1807.—Puritanism revived, a series of Letters from a Curate to his Rector, 8vo. 1808.—An Appeal to the Gospel, or an inquiry into the justice of the Charge that the Gospel is not preached by the national clergy, eight Sermons preached at the Bampton Lecture, 8vo. 1812. of this work five editions have been published.—Sermons for Parochial and Domestic Use, 8vo. 1812. 2d vol. 1814.—Charity manifested by an adherence to the Truth, a Sermon preached for the benefit of the National Schools at Colchester, July 29, 1813. 8vo.—Two Discourses intended to convey correct notions of Regeneration and Conversion, extracted from the Bampton Lecture of 1812. In conjunction with the Rev. G. D'Oyley, Mr. Mant is engaged, under the auspices of the Archbishop, and at the expence of the society for promoting Christian Knowledge, in publishing a Family Bible with notes, partly original and partly taken from the soundest divines of the established church.

MANT, ALICIA CATHERINE, sister of the preceding, is the author of Ellen, or the young Godmother, a Tale, 12mo. 1814.

MAPLESON, THOMAS, Cupper to the Prince Regent.

A Treatise on the Art of Cupping, 8vo. 1814.

MARCH, JOHN, Coachmaker.

A New and Universal System of Inversible Carriages, from the Curricule to the largest Caravan, fol. 1795.

MARCHANT, M.

MARCLIFFE, THEOPHILUS. The Looking Glass, a true History of the early years of an Artist, 12mo. 1805.—Life of Lady Jane Grey and Lord Guildford Dudley her husband, 12mo. 1806.

MARKHAM, GEORGE, M.A. and Vicar of Carleton, in Craven, Yorkshire, was formerly of Christ Church, Oxford, where he took his degrees in 1778. On account of some contest in which he was embroiled with some refractory spirits who refused to pay their dues, he was exposed to a very unpleasant controversy in which it appears that he was rather hardly treated, on account of sufferings which his opponents had brought upon themselves. He wrote on this occasion, Truth for the Seekers, or a fair and full Statement of the Facts which gave rise to the Imprisonment of the Quakers now in York Castle, 8vo. 1796.—More Truth for the Seekers, or the Charges of George Markham vindicated, in opposition to the Defence of the Quakers, 8vo. 1799.

MARKWICK, WILLIAM, Esq. F.L.S. Besides several interesting papers in the transactions of the Linnæan Society he is the editor of the, Works in Natural History of the late Rev. Gilbert White, of Selborne, 2 v. 8vo. 1802.

MARRATT, W. Teacher of the Mathematics at Boston, in Lincolnshire. An Introduction to the Theory and Practice of Mechanics, 8vo. 1811.—Sketches Historical and Descriptive in the county of Lincoln, 1813.

MARRIOTT, REV. HARVEY, Rector of Claverton, in Somersetshire. A Course of Practical Sermons for Families, 8vo. 1812.—An easy and practical Explanation of the Church Catechism, 12mo.—A Sermon preached at the Abbey Church in Bath, at the Visitation of the Archdeacon, July 6, 1814, 8vo.

MARRIOTT, REV. JOHN, M.A. and late Student of Christ Church, Oxford, Rector of Church Lawford, Warwickshire, and Domestic Chaplain to the Duke of Buccleugh.

A Sermon preached at Chyventry, at the Archdeacon's Visitation, June 29, 1813, 8vo.

MARRIOTT, WILLIAM, Esq. of the Inner Temple, Barrister at Law.

The Country Gentleman's Lawyer, and the Farmer's complete Library, 8vo. 1795.—A new Law Dictionary, 8vo. 1797.

MARRYAN, WILLIAM, Surgeon at Rotherhithe.

A Treatise explaining the impossibility of the Hydrophobia being caused by the bite of a rabid animal, 8vo. 1809.

MARRYAT, JOSEPH, Esq. This gentleman, who is an eminent merchant of the city of London, and member of parliament for Sandwich, was the son of the late eccentric Dr. T. Marryat, physician at Bristol. The grandfather of Mr. Marryat was a distinguished minister of the Independent Persuasion, who succeeded the noted Thomas Bradbury, at Pinner's Hall. The gentleman who is the subject of the present article has obtained considerable distinction as an independent member of the House of Commons, where his speeches on commercial subjects have never failed to command great attention. He has published some anonymous tracts of merit, and with his name:

Speech in the House of Commons on Mr. Manning's Motion respecting Marine Insurances, 8vo. 1810.—Observations on the Report of the Committee on Marine Insurance, 8vo. 1810.—Thoughts on the expediency of establishing a new Chartered Bank, 8vo. 1811.

MARSDEN, REV. GEORGE.

A Treatise on the nature and importance of true Religion; with an Account of the death of some Christians and Unbelievers, 12mo. 1814.

MARSDEN, WILLIAM, F.R.S. F.A.S. a native of Ireland, was born at Vernal, in the county of Wicklow, in 1754. He resided many years in India, particularly at Bencoolen, in the island of Sumatra, where he paid a great attention to the languages, manners, and antiquities of the Oriental Archipelago, of which he gave some valuable testimonies in the articles communicated by him to the transactions of the Royal Society, and the Archæologia. These were, "On a phenomenon observed in the Island of Sumatra."—Remarks on the Sumatran Languages;—Observations on the language of the people commonly called Gypsies; on the Heira of the Mohammedans; on the Chronology of the Hindoos; on the traces of the Hindoo language and literature extant among the Malays. In 1786 he was created a doctor of civil law at Oxford. His separate publications are:

The History of Sumatra, 4to. 1782. reprinted in 1812.—A Dictionary of the Malayan Language, in two parts, 4to. 1812.—A Grammar of the Malayan Language, 4to. 1812. To this is prefixed an interesting Discourse on the History, Religions, and Antiquities of the Oriental Islands.

MARSH, CHARLES, Esq. Barrister at Law, of Lincoln's Inn, and M.P. He resided some years in his professional character in Bengal, where he was greatly distinguished as a counsellor. On his return to England he obtained a seat in the House of Commons, and as a senator he has manifested zeal and talents on India politics, particularly the internal government of our eastern possessions. He is generally supposed to have written some popular letters in the daily papers, and the famous letters of Vetus, in the Times, have been confidently ascribed to his pen. He is the avowed author of:

An Appeal to the Public Spirit of Great Britain, 8vo. 1803.—A Review of some important passages in the late administration of Sir George Barlow, Bart. at Madras, 8vo. 1813.—Speech in the House of Commons, July 1, 1813, on the Clause in the East India Bill respecting persons going out to India for Religious Purposes, 8vo. 1813. which Pamphlet has been recorded in the Pamphleteer.

MARSH, Edward Yarrard, M. A.

Eight Sermons preached at the Bampton Lecture, to which is added a Sermon at an Ordination held at Christ Church, by the Bishop of Durham. 8vo. 1814.

MARSH, Rev. GEORGE, Rector of Long Critchill, Dorsetshire.

A Sequel to the continuation of the Memoir prefixed to the Works of the late Rev. G. Bingham, being a Defence of his Successor, 8vo. 1805. The author was presented to this living on an implied engagement to resign in favor of the son of the patron when the latter should be qualified for induction; but the bishop refused to accept the resignation, for which the disappointed parties most unjustly abused the incumbent.

MARSH, HERBERT, D.D. F.R.S. Margaret Professor of Divinity in the University of Cambridge. He is a native of London, and was bred at St. John's College, where he greatly distinguished himself as a classical and mathematical student. After obtaining a fellowship and academical honors at home, he went to Germany for improvement in modern languages. At Gottingen he resided several years and thus he qualified himself for a translation of one of the profoundest works into the English language. But theological studies did not wholly engross his thoughts and time on the continent, for there he acquired much important information on public affairs, and was enabled to render some essential service to his country, for which he had a pension granted to him during the administration of Mr. Pitt. When the French armies carried devastation throughout Germany, our author thought proper to return home to his native land, and the bosom of his alma mater. On the death of Mr. Mainwaring he succeeded to the professorship, and with a laudable zeal to discharge the duties of his station in the most beneficial manner, he immediately engaged in a course of English lectures on Theology, instead of Latin ones, according to the ancient usage. By this new mode he was enabled to render the appointment of universal advantage, since persons of all orders and descriptions had the advantage of his instruction; the lectures being delivered from the university pulpit.

It has been the fortune of the professor to be more embroiled in various controversy than any other person of the present age. His first contest was with the late Archdeacon Travis, on a question of theological criticism. He was next engaged in defending the honor and resources of Britain from the virulent attacks of one of those mischievous beings who in the heat of war endeavoured to dispirit his countrymen, and to animate their adversaries. Afterwards he was occupied in defending his hypothesis respecting the history of the Gospels against an acute but anonymous writer of the sister university, and who certainly was not treated in this dispute with the respect due to his real talents and supposed dignity. Our author was next brought into a newspaper warfare, in the much agitated question respecting the claims of Dr. Bell and Joseph Lancaster. Nearly connected with this controversy was one on the views of the Bible Society, which brought upon the professor a swarm of inflamed spirits who attacked him with an asperity ill agreeing with the grave import of the subject. What was very extraordinary while the doctor was thus at issue with his ardent brethren, he received a challenge from another quarter, and as if the Romanists wanted to make a convert of so renowned a polemic, one of their most popular priests in the metropolis ventured to congratulate him on having drawn some of his sharpest arrows from the papal quiver. This was a little too hardy, and the event proved that the man had neither considered his own powers nor the strength of his adversary. Like the "sheep that went to Rome for wool and returned home shorn," this meddling gentleman met, with a reception which will make him ridiculous whenever the two names shall be associated. The following list of the publications which the professor has sent into the world cannot fail to excite surprise, on account of their variety and importance, the fecundity of the author's genius, and the rapidity of his pen:

Introduction to the New Testament, by J. D. Michaelis, translated from the German, and considerably augmented with notes explanatory and supplemental, 4 v. 8vo. 1792—1801.—An Essay on the usefulness and necessity of Theological Learning, 4to. 1792.—The authenticity of the five books of Moses considered, being the substance of a discourse lately delivered, 8vo. 1792.—Letters to Archdeacon Travis, in vindication of one of the translator's notes to Michaelis's Introduction, and in confirmation of the opinion that a Greek MS. now preserved in the public library at Cambridge, is one of the seven quoted by R. Stephens, with an Appendix containing a review of Mr. Travis's collation of the Greek MSS. which he examined at Paris, &c. 8vo. 1795.—Patie's Essay on the English National Credit; or an attempt to remove the apprehensions of those who have money in the English Funds: translated from the German, 8vo. 1797.—History of the Politics of Great Britain and France from the time of the conference at Pilnitz to the declaration of war, 2 v. 8vo. 1799.—An examination of the conduct of the British Ministry, relative to the late proposal of Buonaparte, 8vo. 1800.—The History of the Politics of Great Britain and France vindicated from a late attack of William Belsham, 8vo. 1801.—A Dissertation on the origin and composition of the three first Gospels, 8vo. 1802. This is incorporated in the second edition of the translation of Michaelis.—Letters to the anonymous author of Remarks on Michaelis and his Commentator, 8vo. 1802.—The Illustration of the Hypothesis proposed, in the dissertation on the origin and composition of our three first Canonical Gospels, with a preface and an appendix, 8vo. 1803.—A Defence of the Illustration of the Hypothesis, 8vo. 1804.—A Letter to the Conductor of the Critical Review, on Religious Toleration, 8vo. 1810.—A course of Lectures containing a descriptive and systematic arrangement of the several Branches of Divinity, 8vo. 1810.—The National Religion the foundation of National Education, a Sermon preached June 13, 1811, at the yearly meeting of the Children educated in the Charity Schools in and about London, 4to. 1811. 6th ed. 8vo. 1813.—Vindication of Dr. Bell's system of Tuition, 8vo. 1811.—An inquiry into the consequences of neglecting to give the Prayer-book with the Bible, 8vo. 1812. Of this a third edition appeared in 1813.—History of the Translations which have been made of the Scriptures, 8vo. 1812.—A Letter to the Right Hon. N. Vansittart, being an answer to his 2d Letter on the British and Foreign Bible Society, 8vo. 1812.—A Letter of explanation to the Dissenter and Layman who has lately addressed himself to the author on the views of the Protestant Dissenters, 8vo. 1813.—A Letter to the Rev. Charles Simeon, M.A. in answer to his pretended congratulatory address in confutation of his various mis-statements, and in vindication of the efficacy ascribed by our Church to Infant Baptism, 8vo. 1813.—Letter to the Rev. P. Gandolph in confutation of the opinion that the vital principle of the Reformation has been lately conceded to the Church of Rome, 8vo. 1813.—Six Lectures on the Interpretation of the Bible, being part iii. of a course of Lectures, 8vo. 1813.—Reply to the Strictures of the Rev. Isaac Milner, D.D. 8vo. 1813.—Sermon preached before the University of Cambridge on Commencement Sunday, July 4, 1813, 4to.—A comparative view of the Churches of England and Rome, 8vo. 1814.

A Free Spirit resisting Oppression, or the Cause of the Author submitted to the People of England, 8vo. 1811.

MARTIN, JOHN, Pastor of the Particular Baptist congregation, meeting in Keppel Street, Bedford Square. He was born at Spalding in Lincolnshire, March 15, 1741; converted by a Methodist preacher, as he was travelling with his master, an attorney, into Yorkshire: brought into a new state by a Baptist minister near Boston, and confirmed therein by going to London in 1760 to learn watch-finishing, and to sit under

Dr. Gill. In 1766 he became the pastor of a congregation at Sheepshead in Leicestershire, where he employed himself in writing and preaching. He also attended to what is now called village and itinerant preaching, and rode for that purpose about two-thousand miles a year. A match was made for him in 1761 with Miss Jessoph, daughter of a farmer near Sleaford, "who," as he says, "loved him sincerely, and did him good, and not harm, all the days of her life." She died and was buried at Sheepshead in 1765. When he determined to quit the country for London, to which he had various calls, he accepted the pastoral office among the members of a meeting in Grafton Street. Within two years, however, one third of his congregation separated; and their pastor was left in affliction, to support himself by writing and publishing various pieces which were well received. Mr. Martin afterwards grew into reputation, and in 1794 was enabled to build his present meeting which is attended by a most respectable congregation. It is but justice to observe, that he is orthodox in his religious views, very loyal in his conduct, and altogether a worthy man in private life. Some years ago, however, the board of Baptists conceiving themselves offended by some declarations which he made in a Sermon preached before them, strongly reprobating the political deportment of many Dissenters, thought fit to eject him from their society. Such was the toleration of this body of Nonconformists towards one whose only fault consisted in his loyalty and the conscientious discharge of his duty. The works of Mr. Martin are :

Mechanicus and Flavens, or the Watch Spiritualized, 12mo. 1763.—Familiar Dialogues between Americus and Britannicus, 8vo. 1776.—The Conquest of Canaan, in a series of Letters, 12mo. 1779.—Speech on the proposed repeal of the Corporation and Test Acts, intended to have been spoken at the meeting of the general body of Dissenting ministers in London, 8vo. 1789.—Series of Letters to the Rev. Mr. Horsey in Defence of Adult Baptism, 8vo. 1786.—Sermons on the Character of Christ, 8vo. 1793.—A Speech on the Repeal of such parts of the Test and Corporation Acts, as affect conscientious Dissenters, 8vo.—A Sermon on the Day of General Thanksgiving for his Majesty's Recovery, 8vo. 1789.—Animal Magnetism examined in a Letter to a Country Gentleman, 8vo. 1790.—Thoughts on the Duty of Man, relative to Faith in Christ, 8vo. 1791.—Review of some things pertaining to Civil Government, 8vo. 1791.—Remarks on future Misery, 8vo. 1794.—The Advantage of correct Thoughts on the sinfulness of Sin, 8vo. 1795.—A View of the Evidences of a Believer's Baptism, 8vo. 1796.—History of the sufferings of M. de Marolles, translated from the French, with au

MARTIN, JOHN, Attorney of the Courts of England and Scotland. He is the author of:

The Marriage Law of Scotland stated, 8vo. 1787.—An Inquiry into the Legal and Judicial Polity of Scotland, 8vo. 1792.—An Account of the Trial of Samuel George Grant for having advised and persuaded two drummers to desert, 8vo. 1792.—Letter to the Earl of Lauderdale, to prove that the High Court of Parliament has a jurisdiction in Cases of Appeal against the judgment of the Court of Justiciary in Scotland, and an account of the proceedings against him on a charge of High Treason, 8vo. 1793. Mr. Martin was discharged from the King's Bench prison on the occasion referred to, in this publication, by a warrant of the Privy Council.—A Letter to the Hon. Thomas Erskine with a postscript to Lord Kenyon upon their conduct at the Trial of Thomas Williams, 8vo. 1797.

MARTIN, MATTHEW, Esq. a native of Somersetshire, and well known in the metropolis for his philanthropic exertions in behalf of the poor. This gentleman has distinguished himself greatly in his researches among the lower orders of the community for the purpose of ameliorating their condition and improving their morals. He is a member of the Society for bettering the condition of the poor and of some other benevolent institutions. His works are:

Observations on the Marine Vermes, 4to. 1786.—The Auricular Vade Mecum, containing an English Alphabetical and Linnæan Systematical Catalogue of Plants affording nourishment to Butterflies, Hawk-moths, and Moths in the state of Caterpillar, 12mo. 1784.—Letter to Lord Pelham on the State of Mendicity in the Metropolis, 8vo. 1803.—Appeal to Public Benevolence for the Relief of Beggars, 8vo. 1812.

MARTYN, THOMAS, B.D. F.R.S. F.L.S. Regius Professor of Botany in the University of Cambridge. This gentleman is the eldest son of Dr. John Martyn, physician at Chelsea, and Professor of Botany at Cambridge. He was born about the year 1735, and educated under the Rev. Mr. Rothery, at Chelsea, after which he was admitted a pensioner, or in the second rank of under graduates of Emmanuel College, where he had for a tutor the celebrated Mr. Henry Hubbard. From Emmanuel, Mr. Martyn removed to Sidney Sussex College on taking his degree of B.A. in 1756. The public buildings at Sidney had been so considerably dilapidated, and the finances so much impoverished, that Dr. Parris, the master, was compelled to recur to the sequestration of several fellowships for the purpose of completing the necessary repairs. When the evil was removed, a new society was to be established; and as young men properly qualified were not to be found in the college, aliens of the most distinguished merit were sought from other foundations. Mr. Martyn was accordingly invited from Emmanuel, to be elected fellow of the society at Sidney, about the same time with Dr. Elliston, the late master, and the present venerable Dr. Hey. On the death of his father, Mr. Martyn was chosen professor of botany, and on the election of Dr. Elliston to the mastership he was appointed one of the tutors of his College. In both employments he exerted his talents with assiduity: and as professor he read lectures in English instead of Latin. In 1759 he took his degree of M.A.; and in 1764 he held the office of proctor of the University. In 1766 he took his degree of bachelor of divinity, and soon after he engaged in the laborious task of translating an account of the Antiquities of Herculaneum, in which work he was assisted by Dr. Lettice, fellow of the same College. About 1772 he was presented to the rectory of Luggershall in Buckinghamshire, which living he held for some years together with that of Little Marlow in the same county. During part of this period he resided at Triploew near Cambridge, where he acted as private tutor to four or five young men of fortune, one of whom was the present Admiral Sir John Borlase Warren, and with another, Mr. Hartopp of Leicestershire, he travelled through France, Switzerland and Italy. After his return, Mr. Martyn resided about three years on his living of Little Marlow, from whence he removed to London on accepting the honorary office of secretary to the society for the improvement of naval architecture. About the same time also he undertook, at the request of the booksellers, to enlarge Miller's Gardener's Dictionary. Previously to this concern, he had extended his duties at Cambridge by voluntarily adding to Botany the illustration of the Animal and Mineral kingdoms as far as they were connected with that interesting science. His conduct and abilities gave so much satisfaction to the government, that Mr. Pitt, in his administration, appointed him Regius Professor, with a liberal endowment. The publications of Mr. Martyn are:

Plantæ Cantabrigienses, or a Catalogue of Plants which grow in the county of Cambridge, 8vo. 1763.—A short Account of the Donation to the Botanic Garden, by Dr. Walker, 4to. 1763.—English Connoisseur, 2 v. 12mo. 1766.—Sermon for the Benefit of Addenbrooke's Hospital, 4to. 1768.—Dissertations and Critical Remarks on the Æneids of Virgil, by J. Martyn, M.D. 'with the Life of the Author, 12mo. 1770.—Catalogus Horti Botanici Cantabrigiensis, 8vo. 1771.—The Antiquities of Herculaneum, translated from the Italian, 4to. 1773.—Elements of Natural History, 8vo. 1775.—Rousseau's Letters on the Elements of Botany, translated from the French, 8vo. 1785. 2d ed. 1787.—Thirty Eight Plates drawn and engraved by F. MASERES, FRANCIS, Esq. F.R.S. F.A.S. and Cursitor Baron of the Court of Exchequer. This veteran in literature, who is now an octogenarian, was born in London of a family originally French, but settled here on the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. He received his education at Kingston upon Thames, under the Rev. Mr. Wooddeson, after which he became a member of Clare Hall, Cambridge, where he obtained, as early as 1752, one of the Chancellor's medals, the other being conferred on the late Bishop Porteus. From the university Mr. Maseres removed to the Temple, where in due course he was called to the bar. His first appointment was that of Attorney General of Quebec, where he distinguished himself by his loyalty during the American contest, and his zeal for the interests of the province. On his return to England he was made Cursitor Baron of the Exchequer, which office he now fills with great reputation. As a mathematician, Baron Maseres holds an elevated rank, nor has he been less eminent in his professional character as a sound lawyer. Few men have been more liberal in the encouragement of literature, and we could adduce several instances in which he has borne the entire expense of very heavy and valuable works, the whole of which he has given to the authors or editors. His own publications are:

A Dissertation on the negative sign in Algebra, 4to. 1759.—The Elements of Plane Trigonometry, with a Dissertation on the Nature and Use of Logarithms, 8vo. 1760.—An Account of the proceedings of the British and other Protestant Inhabitants of the Province of Quebec in order to obtain a House of Assembly, 8vo. 1775.—The Canadian Freeholder, consisting of Dialogues between an Englishman and a Frenchman settled in Canada, 3 v. 8vo. 1779.—Montesquieu's View of the English Constitution translated, with notes, 8vo. 1781.—The Principles of the Doctrine of Life Annuities, 2 v. 4to. 1783.—The Moderate Reformer; or a proposal to correct some abuses in the present establishment of the Church of England, 8vo. 1791.—Enquiry into the extent of Power of Juries, on trials for Criminal Writings, 8vo. 1792.—Scriptores Logarithmici, 4 v. 4to. 1791-1801.—James Bernoulli's Doctrine of Permutations and Combinations, with some other useful Mathematical Tracts, 8vo. 1795.—Appendix to Frend's Principles of Algebra, 8vo. 1799.—Raphson's and Newton's Methods of Approximation, 8vo. 1800.—Historiæ Anglicanæ Monumenta, 4to.—Occasional Essays on various subjects, chiefly Historical and Political, 8vo. 1809.—May's History of the Parliament of England which began Nov. 3, 1640, a new edition with a preface, 4to. 1813.—Three Tracts published at Amsterdam in 1691, and two under the name of Letters of General Ludlow to Sir Edmund Seymour, and other persons, a new edition, with a preface, 4to. 1813.—The Irish Rebellion; or a History of the Attempts of the Irish Papists to extirpate the Protestants, by Sir John Temple, a new edition, with a preface, 4to. 1813.—Besides these works the Baron has numerous articles in the Philosophical Transactions, and the Archæologia. At present he is engaged in republishing a course of Mathematics, extracted from the best writers; and also on a collection of scarce tracts on the English History during the reign of Charles the first, and the usurpation of Cromwell.

MATHIAS, THOMAS JAMES, Esq. treasurer of her Majesty's household. He received his education at Eton, from whence he removed to Trinity College, Cambridge, where he took the degree of B.A. in 1774. The next year he obtained, with the present Dr. Seale, the member's prize for the best dissertation in Latin prose. In 1776 he gained one of the prizes as senior bachelor. About the same time he was chosen fellow of his college, which he quitted, after taking the degree of M.A., to discharge the office of clerk to her Majesty's treasurer. When the controversy excited by Chatterton engaged public attention, Mr. Mathias embarked on the side of Rowley, and in vindicating the authenticity of the poems attributed to that person, he was assisted by Dr. Glynn. In 1794 appeared the first part of an anonymous poem entitled the Pursuits of Literature, which, when completed in four parts, attracted universal notice, chiefly on account of the notes, which abound in deep and extensive learning, with keen and discriminating criticism on public men and opinions. It has been truly observed that "the cause of literature has never been supported in a day of danger and perversion, upon principles more excellent, or with powers better adapted to their object." After ascribing this work to various writers of high rank, the general voice united in fixing it upon Mr. Mathias, who has been supposed to have received some material assistance in it from some leading members of his own college. The publications which are known to be of his production are :

Runic Odes, imitated from the Norse tongue, 4to. 1781.—On the Evidence external and internal relating to the Poema attributed to Thomas Rowley, 8vo. 1783.—The Political Dramatist of the House of Commons, 8vo. 1795.—A pair of Epistles to Dr. Randolph and the Earl of Jersey, 8vo. 1797.—The Imperial Epistle from Kien Long to George III. 8vo. 1794.—Letter to the Marquis of Buckingham, chiefly on the subject of the numerous French emigrant Priests, by a Layman, 8vo. 1796.—The shade of Alexander Pope on the banks of the Thames, a satirical poem with notes, occasioned chiefly, but not wholly, by the residence of the Right Hon. MATON, WILLIAM GEORGE, M.D. Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians, F.R.S. F.S.A. and Vice President of the Linnæan Society. This gentleman was formerly a member of Queen's College, Oxford, where he took his degree of master of arts in 1797, and that of bachelor in medicine the year following. He then settled in the metropolis where he has obtained considerable credit both as a practitioner and a naturalist. His works are :

Observations relative chiefly to the natural history, picturesque scenery and antiquities of the Western Counties of England, 2 v. 8vo. 1797.—Pulteney's view of the writings of Linnæus, with the life of the Author, 4to. 1805. Dr. Maton has also some valuable papers in the Archaeologia, the Transactions of the Royal Society, the Transactions of the Linnæan Society, and other miscellanies devoted to scientific pursuits.

MATTHEW, JOHN MORGAN, son of the late Rev. Jos. Matthew, rector of Newick, in Sussex, and vicar of Tenterden, in Kent, was born at the former place, August 20, 1770. In 1788, he accompanied his maternal uncle Gen. Charles Morgan, to the East Indies, where he served as an officer in the 24th regiment, during the whole of the war directed by the Marquis Cornwallis against Tippoo Sulthan. Of this memorable period Mr. Matthew published an interesting account on his return to England, and when he quitted the line he served as Captain in the late south battalion of the Middlesex militia, of which county he is at present a deputy lieutenant, and resides at Homerton, near Hackney. His works are :

Letters from a very Young Officer serving with the army under Lord Cornwallis to his friend in Bengal, 8vo. 1793.—An Address to the Members of the House of Commons on behalf of the Subalterns of the British Army, 8vo. 1795. This pamphlet is supposed to have had an influence in correcting some abuses and of raising the pay of the Subalterns.—Strictures on the conduct of Mr. Pitt, 8vo. 1795.—Bath, a poetic adumbration, 8vo. 1795.—Introspection, nov. 4 v. 12mo. This work was published under the name of the author's mother.—Clio, or a Discourse on Taste, a new edit. with additions, 12mo. 1803. This little volume was the production of the ingenious Mr. Jas. Usher.—Rhymes written, and Verses collected, 8vo. 1807.

MATTHEW, RICHARD, Esq.

Observations on Hepatic Diseases incidental to Europeans in the East Indies, 8vo. 1783.

MATTHEWS, WILLIAM, a resident of Bath, and formerly Secretary to the West of England Agricultural Society originally established in that city. He was bred a quaker, but was expelled from that community on account of the liberality of his opinions, and the right which he assumed of thinking and acting for himself in some points which were considered as militating against the principles of the Friends. His works are :

Appeal to the Society in general and his friends in particular, 12mo. 1784.—The Life and Character of Thomas Letchworth, 12mo. 1786.—The Miscellaneous Companions, 3 v. 12mo. 1787.—A Dissertation on Rural Improvement, 12mo. 1800.—The Recorder, being a collection of Tracts and Disquisitions, chiefly relative to the modern state and principles of the people called Quakers, 8vo. 1802.

MAURICE, Rev. THOMAS, M.A. He is the son of a gentleman who presided many years over the grammar school at Hertford. Late in life he married the mother of our author, who with another son, on the death of the father, was left to the care of the mother. An imprudent marriage on her part proved destructive to the fortune of the children, and in this distressing state Dr. Parr received the subject of the present article under his care and tuition. That eminent scholar not only directed his studies but afforded him a liberal support. From Dr. Parr's seminary he removed to University College, Oxford, where he had Sir William Scott for his tutor. On entering into holy orders he became curate of Woodford, and afterwards of Epping. In 1786 he married the daughter of T. Pearce, Esq. captain in the India service, but lost his lady in 1790. Soon after his marriage he entertained the design of publishing the History of India, a work of great magnitude, importance, and difficulty. Though he addressed the Court of Directors on the subject he experienced but little encouragement, which however did not deter him from proceeding in the undertaking, and in 1793 he produced the first volume solely at his own expense. The only situation which Mr. Maurice has obtained as the reward of his literary labors, has been the office of assistant librarian to the British Museum; besides which it is understood that he enjoys the pension formerly possessed by the poet Cowper. The writings of Mr. Maurice are:

Netherby, a poem, 4to. 1776.—Hagley, a poem, 4to. 1777.—Monody to the Memory of the Duchess of Northumberland, 4to.—Poems and Miscellaneous Pieces, 4to. 1779.—Ierne rediviva, an ode, 4to. 1782.—Westminster Abbey, an elegiac poem, 4to. 1784.—Panthea, a tragedy, 8vo. 1789.—Letter to the Court of Directors of the East India Company, containing proposals for a History of Indostan, 8vo. 1790.—Indian Antiquities, 7 v. 8vo. 1792-1800.—An Elegiac Poem, sacred to the memory and virtues of Sir Wm. Jones, 4to. 1795.—The History of Hindostan, 2 v. 4to. 1795, 1798.—Sanscrit Fragments, or extracts from the sacred books of the Brahmins, on subjects important to the British Isles, 8vo. 1798.—The Crisis of the British Muse, to the British Minister and Nation, 4to. 1798.—Grove Hill, the seat of Dr. Lettson, a descriptive poem, 4to. 1799.—The Modern History of Hindostan, 2 v. 4to. 1802, 1804.—A vindication of the History of Hindostan, from the misrepresentations of the Edinburgh Reviewers, 8vo. 1805.—The Fall of the Mogul, a tragedy, 8vo. 1806.—Richmond Hill, a descriptive and historical poem, 4to. 1808.—Supplement to the History of India, 4to. 1810.—Brahminical Fraud detected, or the attempts of the sacerdotal tribe of India to invest their fabulous deities with the attributes of the Christian Messiah, 8vo. 1812.

MAVOR, WILLIAM FORDYCE, LL.D. Rector of Woodstock and Stonesfield. This industrious writer was born August 1, 1758, in the parish of New Deer, Aberdeen, but left his native country at an early age, for when he was no more than seventeen he officiated as assistant in an academy at Burford, in Oxfordshire. Having been employed to instruct the junior branches of the noble family at Blenheim in writing, he obtained so much favor as to get a title for orders in 1781. He was at this time master of a school at Woodstock, and in 1789 the Duke of Marlborough gave him the vicarage of Hurley, in Berkshire. The same year the degree of LL.D. was conferred on him by the University of Aberdeen. He has since been successively presented to the living of Stonesfield and that of Woodstock, of which last borough he has also served the office of mayor. Dr. Mavor married in 1782, and has living three sons and one daughter. His publications are:

The Sprigs of Parnassus, or poetic miscellanies, 8vo. 1779.—Universal Stenography, or the Art of Short-hand, 8vo. 1779. 6th edit. 1806.—Poetical Cheltenham Guide, 12mo. 1781.—The Geographical Magazine, published under the name of Martyn, 2 v. 4to. 1781.—Dictionary of Natural History, under the same name, 2 v. folio, 1784.—Elegy to the Memory of Captain James King, 4to. 1785.—Blenheim, a poem, 4to. 1787.—New Description of Blenheim, 8vo. 1789. 7th edit. 1806.—Vindicia Landavense, or strictures on the Bishop of Landaff's Charge, 4to. 1792.—Poems, 8vo. 1793.—Christian Politics, a fast day sermon, 8vo. 1793.—Appendix to the Eton Latin Gram-

MIDDLETON, THOMAS FANSHAW, D.D. Bishop of Calcutta, in the East Indies. This learned prelate was educated in the grammar school of Christ's Hospital, from whence he removed to Jesus College, Cambridge, and on entering into orders, obtained a living in Northamptonshire, where he published a periodical essay, without his name, entitled The Country Spectator. Through his alliance with the family of the Bishop of Lincoln, he was presented to the Vicarage of St. Pancras, Middlesex, and the Archdeaconry of Huntingdon. In 1812, he experienced a violent opposition in his parish, on account of the exertions made by him to obtain an act of parliament for the erection of a new church. When it is considered that the population of St. Pancras falls very little short of one hundred thousand souls, and that the present church will not accommodate a congregation of more than three hundred, our astonishment is naturally raised by the knowledge of the fact that the Vicar was actually made an object of malignant hostility for his laudable efforts, and that the zeal of the sectaries was such as to defeat the friends of the establishment in this business. In 1814, Dr. Middleton was pitched upon by government as the most proper person to preside over the new ecclesiastical establishment in British India, and he was accordingly consecrated Bishop of Calcutta in the Archbishopal Palace at Lambeth. The works of this accomplished scholar and sound divine, are as follows : The Doctrine of the Greek Article applied to the Illustration of the New Testament, 8vo. 1808.—Christ Divided, a Sermon, preached at the triennial visitation of the Bishop of Lincoln, 4to. 1809.—A Charge delivered to the Archdeaconry of Huntingdon, 4to. 1812.—Address to the Parishioners of St. Pancras, Middlesex, on the intended application to Parliament for a New Church, 8vo. 1812.—A Charge delivered before the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, March 23, 1813, to the Rev. The two first books of Ovid's Metamorphoses attempted in English verse, 12mo. 1808.

MILMAN, SIR FRANCIS, Bart. M.D. F.R.S. late President of the College of Physicians, and Physician to the Royal Household. This eminent physician is a native of Devonshire, and the son of a clergyman, who gave him an excellent education, and then sent him to Exeter College, Oxford, with the view of bringing him up to his own profession. The young man, however, conceived an attachment to the study of those branches of science which are connected with physic, and in these he so distinguished himself as to be appointed the travelling physician of the university, on the foundation of Dr. Radcliffe. While abroad, he had the honor of attending the Duke of Gloucester at Rome, which circumstance necessarily led to the most extensive practice, and highest honors in his profession, on his return to England, where he was admitted a member of the Royal Society, and in 1780 he read the Gulston lecture, before the College of Physicians. He married Frances the only child of William Hart, Esq. of Stapleton in Gloucestershire. The publications of Sir Francis are, Animadversiones de Natura Hydrops ejusque curatione, 8vo. 1779.—On the Source of the Scurvy and Putrid Fever, 8vo. 1782.

MILNE, CATHARINE, the wife of a journeyman shipwright at Aberdeen, who has published a volume entitled, Simple Poems on Simple Subjects, 8vo. 1805.

MILNE, Rev. COLIN, LL.D. Lecturer of both churches at Deptford. This gentleman is a native of Aberdeen, in Scotland, at the Marischal College of which university he received his education under the eye of his maternal uncle, Dr. Campbell, who was both principal and divinity professor of the college. From thence our author removed for improvement to the university of Edinburgh; and by the recommendation of his friends he obtained the situation of private tutor to lord Algernon Percy, which induced him to take orders in the Church of England. The Duke of Northumberland gave him the rectory of North Chapel in Sussex, and his pulpit eloquence procured him the appointment of preacher to the London Hospital, as well as the lectureship of Deptford, where Dr. Milne has for many years resided, greatly esteemed by his parishioners and acquaintance. For some time he delivered lectures on botany in London, and was invited to do the same at Oxford, but was prevented by his professional duties. His works are,

The Botanical Dictionary, 8vo. 1770. New edition enlarged, 1805.—Lionæi Institutiones Botanicae, translated into English, 4to. 1772.—Supplement to the preceding, 4to. 1778.—Sermon preached at the Anniversary Meeting of the Royal Humane Society, 8vo. 1779.—Indigeous Botany, or Habitations of English Plants, 8vo. 1790.—Sermons in 1 v. 8vo. 1780.

MILNE, Rev. JAMES, Minister of St. Andrew's Chapel, belonging to the episcopal persuasion at Banff. This respectable divine is the author of the following works in the line of his profession:

A Sermon on the Duty of Public Worship, 8vo. 1802.—The Difference stated betwixt the Presbyterian Establishment, and the Episcopal Church of Scotland, 8vo. 1811.—Sermons on Practical Subjects, 8vo. 1811.—Four occasional Sermons, 8vo. 1812.

MILNE, JOHN, formerly surgeon of the Carnatic East India ship.

Account of the Diseases that prevailed in Two Voyages to the East Indies, 8vo. 1803.

MILNER, ISAAC, D.D. F.R.S. Master of Queen's College, Cambridge, and Dean of Carlisle. This learned divine was born near Leeds, of parents who had neither to boast of wealth nor pedigree. While he was a boy, his father, who was a weaver, died, leaving a widow and two children, Joseph and Isaac. The young Milners were obliged to be at the spinning wheel by break of day in summer, and in winter they rose by candlelight, for the purpose of maintaining themselves and their aged parent. Such a course of unwearièd application to a laborious calling might seem very unfavorable to study, and yet these youths devoted all the spare hours they could gain from their business to a few books which chance threw in their way. This disposition for literary pursuits, added to their sobriety and industry, made them the subject of general conversation, and at length a subscription was formed, by which the eldest was enabled to quit the loom for the grammar school. Here Joseph applied to the classics with such diligence as to be soon qualified for the University of Cambridge, where he proceeded to the degree of Master of Arts. On entering into orders he obtained the curacy of Trinity Church, Hull, and was appointed Master of the Grammar School in that town. In the mean time Isaac continued at the weaving business, but when his brother was established at Hull, he became anxious to follow the same honorable course. Joseph complied with his wishes and took him for his assistant, after which he sent him to Queen's College, where he made a rapid progress in the mathematics, as well as theology, and the learned languages. In 1774 he was senior wrangler, at which time he also gained the first mathematical prize. In 1782, he served the office of Proctor, and in 1783, being then Master of Arts, he was nominated one of the Taxors of the University, and also Professor of Experimental Philosophy. At the University he formed a close friendship with Mr. Wilberforce, which proved the occasion of an introduction to Mr. Pitt, and these three eminent men, about 1787, made a tour together on the continent. In 1788, Mr. Milner was elected President of Queen's College, on which occasion he took his doctor's degree. The same year he was advanced to the Deanry of Carlisle, and in 1792, served the office of Vice-chancellor. In 1798, the Doctor was made Lucasian Professor of Mathematics on the death of Dr. Waring, and the duties of that chair, as well as those of every other station, he has continued to discharge with equal diligence and ability. The Dean of Carlisle is a very animated preacher, though in the opinion of many, the zeal which he discovers in behalf of high Calvinism, tends, in some degree, to lessen the value of his public labors. He has edited the works of his brother with a commendable eulogy on his principles and talents, besides which the Dean has published some papers in the Philosophical Transactions, and the following separate performances: Animadversions on Dr. Haweis's History of the Church of Christ, 8vo. 1800.—Strictures on some of the Publications of the Rev. Herbert Marsh, intended as a Reply to his Objections against the Bible Society, 8vo. 1813.

MILNER, JOHN, D.D. F.A.S. Bishop of Castaballa, and Vicar Apostolic of the Middle District in England. This zealous prelate of the Romish Church was educated at St. Omer's, and on taking orders was appointed priest of a congregation at Winchester, where he distinguished himself by his controversial writings and his antiquarian researches. For the first of these he was consecrated a bishop in partibus infidelium by the Court of Rome, and on the agitation of the Catholic Question, the Irish priesthood vested him with the office of agent for the management of their cause in England: but his tergiversation in the matter of the Veto, and his hierarchical assumptions, gave so much offence to the Catholics on this side of the water, as to occasion some strong resolutions and pointed remonstrances against him and his conduct. Latterly he has been very active at Rome, to which city, when the Pope recovered his authority, the Doctor, with some of the Irish Prelates, repaired, in order to get the declaration of Quarantotti rescinded, by which an allowance was made to our sovereign in the appointment of Catholic bishops. This intriguing polemic has published numerous pieces of various degrees of merit, of which the titles are as follows.

Discourse on His Majesty's Recovery, 8vo. 1789.—Discourse delivered at the Consecration of Dr. William Gibson, Bishop of Acanthos, 8vo. 1791.—Certain Considerations on behalf of the Roman Catholics, 8vo. 1791.—The Divine Right of Episcopacy, 8vo. 1791.—Historical and Critical Inquiry into the Existence and Character of St. George, patron of England, 8vo. 1792.—Ecclesiastical Democracy detected, 8vo. 1792.—Funeral Oration delivered on Occasion of the Murder of Louis XVI. 8vo. 1793.—A Reply to the Report published by the Cisalpine Club on the Protestation, 8vo. 1795.—Dissertation on the Modern Style of altering Ancient Cathedrals, 4to. 1798.—The History and Survey of the Antiquities of Winchester, 4to. 1799.—Letters to a Prebendary, being an answer to reflections on popery by the Rev. Dr. Sturges, 4to. 1800.—An Elucidation of the Conduct of Pope Pius VII. with respect to the Bishops and Ecclesiastical Affairs of France, 8vo. 1802.—The Case of Conscience, solved in answer to Mr. Reeves on the Coronation Oath, 8vo. 1802.—A View of the Chief Arguments against the Catholic Petition, 8vo. 1805.—A Pastoral Address to the Catholics of the Middle District, 8vo. 1805.—Authentic Documents relative to the Miraculous Cure of Winifred White, of Wolverhampton, at St. Winifred's Well, in Flintshire, 8vo. 1806.—Inquiry into certain vulgar Opinions concerning the Catholic Inhabitants and Antiquities of Ireland, 8vo. 1808.—A Serious Expostulation with the Rev. Joseph Berington, on his Theological Errors concerning Miracles, 8vo. 1808.—An Examination of an Article in the Antijacobin Review, on Sir John Cox Hippesley's Additional Observations, 8vo. 1808.—Substance of a Sermon preached at the Blessing of the Catholic Chapel of St. Chad, Birmingham, 8vo. 1809.—An Elucidation of the Veto, 8vo. 1810.—Letters on the Question respecting the Veto introduced into the House of Commons by Mr. Ponsonby, 8vo. 1810.—Instructions addressed to the Catholics of the Midland Counties of England 8vo. 1811.—Treatise on the Ecclesiastical Architecture of England, 8vo. 1811.—A short pamphlet in No. VI. of the Pamphleteer, on the Catholic Question.

MILNS, WILLIAM, M.A. of St. Mary Hall, Oxford, and Master of the Commercial School, George Yard, Lombard Street. He is the author of a useful book entitled, The Well-bred Scholar, or Practical Essays on the best Methods of improving the Taste and assisting the Exertions of Youth, 8vo. 1794.

MILTON, Rev. W. M.A. Vicar of Heckfield, Hants, and formerly Fellow of New College, Oxford. He has published a well written tract on a subject of general interest with this title:

MITFORD, see REDESDALE.

MITFORD, Rev. JOHN, A.B. Vicar of Bonhall, near Saxmundham, Suffolk. This gentleman is descended from an ancient family in the county of Northumberland, but he was born in London, where his father was engaged in the mercantile line, chiefly in the trade to China and the East Indies. The subject of the present article was educated first under Dr. Knox, at Tunbridge School, and next at Oriel College, Oxford, where he stood candidate for the poetical prize, at the same time with Mr. Heber, whose piece, entitled Palestine, proved successful. At the proper age, our author entered into orders, and after serving three curacies, was presented to the living which he now holds, in 1810. Mr. Mitford, who is nearly related to Lord Redesdale, has published, Agnes, the Italian Captive, a poem, sm. 8vo. 1811.—The Works of Thomas Gray, with his Life, 8vo. 1814. and from him we are taught to expect an edition of Statius.

MITFORD, Miss MARY RUSSELL, a young lady of Bertram House, near Reading, who has distinguished herself at an early age by some ingenious performances, as follows :

Poems, foolscap 8vo. 1810. 2d Edition, 8vo. 1811.—Christina, the Maid of the South Seas, 8vo. 1811.—Watlington Hill, a poem, 12mo. 1812.—Narrative Poems on the Female Character in the Various Relations of Life, vol. I. 8vo. 1812.

MITFORD, WILLIAM, Esq. F.R.S. brother of Lord Redesdale, was born in London, and educated at Cheam School, in the county of Surry, from whence he removed to Queen's College, Oxford, after which he entered of the Middle Temple, but quitted the study of the law as a profession, on obtaining a commission in the South-Hampshire militia, of which regiment he became Lieutenant Colonel. In 1778 he was elected a Verdurer of the New Forest, where he possesses a considerable estate. The works of this excellent writer are :

An Essay on the Harmony of Language, 8vo. 1774. 2d Edition, 1804.—A Treatise on the Military Force, and particularly the Militia, of this Kingdom, 8vo.—The History of Greece, 4to. 1784. and again in 8 v. 8vo. at various times, the last two being published in 1810.—Considerations upon the Corn Laws, 8vo. 1791.

MOIRA, FRANCIS, Earl of, in the kingdom of Ireland, Baron Rawdon in England, and Governor General of Bengal. This noble Lord is lineally descended from a family which was settled as early as the conquest at Rawdon in Yorkshire. His ancestor George was created a Baronet in the reign of Charles I. and the family was ennobled by George II. By the maternal side, his Lordship is related to the noble line of Hastings, formerly Earls of Huntingdon. Sir George Rawdon, in 1641, repaired in a military capacity to Ireland, where he so greatly distinguished himself as to obtain high honors, and estates in the province of Ulster. The present Lord is the son of the first Earl of Moira, by his third wife, Lady Elizabeth Hastings, and was born Dec. 7, 1754, and succeeded to the family title and estates in 1793. At an early period he obtained a commission in the army, and served with great distinction in America under Lord Cornwallis. In 1803 he was made Commander in Chief in Scotland, Constable of the Tower, and Master-General of the Ordnance, in 1806, and in 1814, appointed to his present high office of Governor-General of Bengal. During his residence in Scotland, he married Flora Campbell, Countess of Loudoun, the only child of the late Earl of that name. Lord Moira has long been honored with the particular friendship of the Prince Regent, for whom he has always manifested an equal zeal and affection. In his name have been published, Substance of a Speech on the Third Reading of the Bank Loan Bill, in the House of Lords, 8vo. 1791.—Speech on the dreadful and alarming State of Ireland, 8vo. 1797.—Letters to Colonel Mac-Mahon, on the subject of a Change of His Majesty's Ministers, 8vo. 1798.—Speech on the Present State of Public Affairs, 8vo. 1803.

MONRO, ALEXANDER, M.D. F.R.S. Edinb. Professor of Medicine, in that University, and Fellow of the Royal College of Physicians. His father was the celebrated Professor who founded the anatomical class in that university, and distinguished himself by his accurate work on osteology. The subject of the present notice was born in the capital of Scotland, and in 1781 published in one handsome quarto volume, the works of his father, besides which he has favored the world with, Observations on the Structure and Functions of the Nervous System, fol. 1783.—The Structure and Physiology of Fishes, fol. 1785.—A Description of all the Bursæ Mucosæ of the Human Body, 4to. 1788.—Experiments on the Nervous System with Opium and Metalline Substances, 4to. 1793.—Three Treatises on the Brain, the Eye, and the Ear, 4to. 1797.—Observations on Crural Hernia, with a General Account of the other varieties of that complaint, 8vo. 1803.—The Morbid Anatomy of the Gullet, the Stomach, and the Intestines, 8vo. 1812.—Outlines of the Anatomy of the Human Body, 4 v. 8vo. 1813.—Observations on the Thoracic Duct, 4to. 1814.

The Letters of Mrs. Elizabeth Montagu, 4 v. 12mo. 1809, 1814.

MONTAGU, BASIL, Esq. of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister at Law, and a Commissioner of Bankrupts. He is the natural son of the late Earl of Sandwich by the celebrated Miss Ray, who was shot in the passage of Covent Garden Theatre, by the Rev. Mr. Hackman, in 1779. Mr. Montagu received his education at the Charterhouse School, after which he studied the law and was called to the bar, but had little practice till, by dedicating a book to Lord Erskine, he obtained that nobleman's patronage, and became a commissioner of bankrupts, in which line he has considerable business. Mr. Montagu is remarkable for his peculiarity of manners and sentiments, being a complete Pythagorean in his abstemious habits, and in his abhorrence of depriving any creature of life. He has published,

A Summary of the Law of Set Off; with an Appendix of cases argued and determined in the courts law and equity upon that subject, 8vo. 1801.—A Digest of the Bankrupt Laws, with a Collection of Statutes and Cases, 4 v. royal 8vo. 1803-1809.—Selections from the Works of Bishop Taylor, Hooker, Bishop Hall, and Lord Bacon, 12mo. 1805.—The Opinions of Different Authors on the Punishment of Death, 8vo. 1809; Vol. II. 1812; Vol. III. 1813.—The Debates in Parliament on the Bill for Abolishing the Punishment of Death for Stealing in a Dwelling House, 8vo. 1811.—Hanging not Punishment enough for Murderers, &c. originally printed in 1701, and reprinted in 8vo. 1813.—Inquiries respecting the Proposed Alteration of the Law of Copyright, 8vo. 1813.—Inquiries into the Effects of Fermented Liquors. By a Water Drinker, 8vo. 1814.—The Law of Partnership, 8vo. 1815.

The Enchanted Plants, or Fables in Verse, 8vo. 1800.—The Festival of the Rose, with other poems, 4to. 1802.—These several works were collected together in a second edition in 1812.

MONTUCCI, ANTONIO, LL.D. He is a native of Sienna, and a teacher of languages in London. Among other qualifications to which he lays claim, one, and that not the least extraordinary, is to a perfect acquaintance with the Chinese, in all its various forms and dialects. This pretension, some years ago, brought him into a paper war with another foreign philologist, who figured away in this country as an adept in the Chinese literature, but not meeting with encouragement answerable to his expectations, he went to Paris, thus leaving the field open to Dr. Montucci, who has published nothing of higher distinction than, L'Instructeur Gioconda; the Amusing Instructor, or Key to the Italian Classics, 8vo.—A Version of the Common Prayer, in the same language, 12mo.—Select Pieces of Metastasio, &c. 8vo.—Galignani's Lectures on the Italian Language, 8vo. 1806.—Italian Extracts, or a Supplement to the Lectures, 8vo. 1806.

MOORE, Rev. JOHN, LL.B. Minor Canon of St. Paul's, Lecturer of St. Sepulchre's, Rector of St. Michael Bassishaw, London, and of Langdon Hills, Essex. This venerable divine, profound scholar, and excellent preacher, some years ago endeavoured to publish by subscription, Bishop Walton's very rare and curious work on the ecclesiastical history of London, but did not meet with that encouragement which the design merited, and he had a right to expect in this inquisitive and liberal age. Mr. Moore has published,

The Case of the London Clergy, 8vo. 1802. This pamphlet was highly spoken of by the late Bishop Horsley, in the House of Lords.—Attempt to recover the original reading of I Sam. xiii. 1. to which is added an Inquiry into the Duration of Solomon's Reign, 8vo. 1797.—Prophetia de LXX Hebdomadis apud Daniele explicatio, &c. 8vo. 1802.—An Attempt to throw further light on the Prophecy of Isaiah, chap. vii. v. 14, 15, 16, 8vo. 1809.

MOORE, THOMAS GEORGE.

The Bachelor, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1809.

MOORE, THOMAS, Esq. late of the Middle Temple, Barrister at Law. This celebrated writer is a native of Ireland, and was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, after which he came to London, with a view of making the law his profession. During his residence at the Temple, as a student, he employed himself in a poetical version of Anacreon, which experienced a very favorable reception from the public, and certainly not more than the translation deserved, which is both faithful and elegant. From that time Mr. Moore seems to have devoted himself to literature with very unequal degrees of credit, for some of his productions, it must be admitted, are such as to call up a blush on the cheek of modesty, so that it will not be in his power, at the close of his mortal career, to take a retrospect of his labors and say with the amiable Thomson, "there is not a line which I could wish to blot." Of this our author seems to be aware, for some of his most reprehensible performances have been sent into the world under fictitious names, but with such little solicitude for concealment, that we believe he has never once disavowed any of them. His works are, The Odes of Anacreon, translated into English verse, with notes, 4to. 1800. 8th Edition, 2 v. foolsc. 8vo. 1813.—A Candid Appeal to Public Confidence, or Considerations on the Dangers of the Present Crisis, 8vo. 1803.—Poems by the late Thomas Little, Esq. 8vo. 1808. 11th edition, 1813.—A Letter to the Roman Catholics of Dublin, 8vo. 1810.—Intercepted Letters, or the Twopenny Post Bag, by Thomas Brown the younger, 8vo. 1812. Of this there have been no less than fourteen editions.—A Selection of Irish Melodies, fol.—Poems by the Portuguese of Camoens, 8vo. 1813.—Mr. Moore completed the translation of Sallust which had been left unfinished by Mr. Arthur Murphy, and he superintended the printing of the work for the purchaser, Mr. Carpenter.

MORE, HANNAH. This distinguished ornament of her sex was one of the five daughters of a village school-master in the parish of Hanham, near Bristol. Her parents were so meanly situated as to be incapable of giving her that education which she desired. The casual reading of an odd volume of Richardson's Pamela, excited a thirst of knowledge which could not be allayed, and the kindness of some ladies in the neighbourhood enabled her to gratify her inclinations. Her improvement was so rapid as to attract general notice, and among others who distinguished themselves as her friends, was the late Dr. Stonhouse of Bristol, who interested himself so zealously in her behalf as to enable her to set up a school, which prospered greatly under her management and that of her sisters. By the Doctor's kindness, she was introduced to the acquaintance of Mr. Garrick, who encouraged her to write for the stage. Her performances in this line became very popular, but after some years the religious views of Miss More took so serious a turn as to produce a declaration in the preface to the third volume of her works, that she did not consider the stage, in its present state, as becoming the appearance or countenance of a Christian, on which account she thought proper to renounce her dramatic productions in any other light than as mere poems. Having realized an independence by an honorable profession and the fruits of her pen, this lady, with her sisters, retired, about twenty years ago, from Bristol to Mendip, where amongst the colliers and the laborers in the lead works, they have effected a wonderful alteration, by erecting and superintending charity schools. Even this good work, however, could not escape opposition, and sorry we are to record, that the attack came from a quarter which ought to have provided the most prompt and zealous support to the disinterested and Christian undertaking. A sharp controversy was carried on by a neighbouring clergyman against the schools, and several others in their favor: but, to the honor of the founder herself, she took no part in the strife, leaving the fruits to justify both her motives and her conduct. When the education of the Princess Charlotte became an object of serious attention to her illustrious friends, Mrs. Hannah More was consulted by the first lady in the kingdom, on which occasion she published a work which was deservedly stamped with the royal approbation, as well as that of the world at large. For some years past, this valuable woman has been confined almost wholly to her bed, by an excruciating illness, notwithstanding which writing is her chief delight, and in this condition she has actually produced some of her most esteemed performances, particularly a religious novel, calculated to render that species of literary amusement more serviceable to the diffusion of sound principles and virtuous practice than seems generally to have been consulted in works of fiction. The following list of the writings of Mrs. More, is a permanent testimony of the purity of her sentiments, the strength of her understanding, and the versatility of her powers.

The Search after Happiness, a pastoral drama, 8vo. 1773.—The Inflexible Captive, a tragedy, 8vo. 1774.—Sir Eldred of the Bower and the Bleeding Rock, two poetical tales, 4to. 1774.—Ode to Dragon, Mr. Garrick's house dog, 4to. 1777.—Percy, a tragedy, 8vo. 1778.—Essays on various subjects designed for young ladies, 12mo. 1777.—Fatal Falsehood, a tragedy, 8vo. 1779.—Sacred Dramas, with Sensibility, a poetical epistle, 8vo. 1782. 17th edit. 1812.—Biographical Preface to the Poems of Ann Yearsley the Milkwoman, 4to. 1785. Mrs. More was treated with singular ingratitude by this woman.—Florio, a tale, and the Bas Blue, or Conversation, two poems, 8vo. 1786.—Slavery, a poem, 4to. 1788.—Thoughts on the Manners of the Great 12mo. 1788.—The Shepherd of Salisbury Plain, one of the cheap repository tracts, which collection was planned, superintended, and considerably enriched, by Mrs. More.—Estimate of the Religion of the Fashionable World, 12mo. 1791.—Village Politics, 12mo. 1793.—Remarks on the Speech of M. du Pont in the National Convention on Religion and Education, 8vo. 1793.—Strictures on the Modern System of Female Education, 2 v. 8vo. 1799.—Hints towards forming the Character of a Young Princess, 2 v. 8vo. 1805.—Cælebs in search of a Wife, 2 v. 8vo. 1809. Of this work there were no less than ten editions in one year.—Practical Piety, or the Influence of the Religion of the Heart on the Conduct of Life, 2 v. 8vo. 1811, 8th edit. 1812.—Christian Morals, 2 v. 8vo. 1812.—Essay on the Character and Writings of St. Paul, 2 v. 8vo. 1815. In the edition of our author's works, consisting of eight volumes, are several other tracts and fugitive pieces of great merit; but we know of many others scattered in various directions, none of which have a place in that collection. We cannot close this article without observing that this excellent woman enumerated among her most intimate friends, the late Dr. Johnson, Bishop Porteus, Sir Joshua Reynolds, Dr. Beattie, and Mrs. Montague, so that her memoirs will, at a future period, be one of the most interesting pieces of biography in the history of literature.

MORGAN, REV. THOMAS, a Presbyterian divine of the Unitarian cast, in the metropolis, who, in conjunction with some others of his persuasion, published a mutilated edition of Dr. Watts's psalms and hymns, which from being Calvinistic, they perverted to Socinianism, a fraud which may certainly be called any thing else than pious. This Gentleman is the coadjutor of Dr. Aikin in compiling the work entitled,

General Biography, 10 vols. 4to. 1799-1814. He was also the editor of the New Annual Register after the demise of Dr. Kippis.

MORGAN, WILLIAM, Esq. F.R.S. and actuary of the Equitable Assurance Office in New Bridge Street, Black Friars. He is a native of Wales, and the nephew of the late eminent Dr. Price, under whom he was brought up at Hackney, with a view to the ministry among the dissenters, which profession, however, he relinquished for one more congenial to his course of studies. He is a very respectable mathematician, and has distinguished himself by some useful communications to the Philosophical Transactions, the Monthly Magazine, and other works. He has also published,

The Doctrine of Annuities and Assurances of Lives, 8vo. 1779.—Examination of Dr. Crawford's Theory of Heat, 8vo. 1781.—A Review of the Writings of Dr. Price on the subject of the Finances of this Kingdom, 8vo. 1792. 2d edition, 1795.—Facts addressed to the serious attention of the People of Great Britain, respecting the Expense of the War, and the State of the National Debt, 8vo. 1796.—Additional Facts on the same subjects, 8vo. 1796.—An Appeal to the People of Great Britain on the present alarm-

MORTON, THOMAS, Esq. of the Temple, and a celebrated dramatic writer, was born in the county of Durham. His father died when he was very young, and the care of his education devolved on his maternal uncle Mr. Maddison, an eminent stock broker, who sent him to Soho Academy, where he was a school-fellow with Holman, and had a part in the plays which were performed occasionally at that seminary. Mr. Morton afterwards became a member of Lincoln's Inn; but he has been more successful with the muses than in the courts. His works are,

Columbus, an historical play, 8vo. 1792.—Zorinski, a play, 8vo. 1795.—The Way to Get Married, com. 8vo. 1796.—A Cure for the Heart Ache, com. 8vo. 1797.—Speed the Plough, com. 8vo. 1798.—Secrets worth Knowing, com. 8vo. 1798.—School of Reform, com. 8vo. 1805.—Town and Country, com. 8vo. 1807.—The Knight of Snowdon, musical piece, 8vo. 1811.—Education, com. 8vo. 1813.

MORTON, T.

Essay on the Trinity, printed at Great Grimsby, 8vo. 1813.

MOSELEY, BENJAMIN, M.D. Physician to Chelsea Hospital, &c. This gentleman was for some years an apothecary at Jamaica, from which island he thought it expedient to repair to the British capital, where he commenced his course as a physician, and having the good luck to attend a nobleman high in office who labored under a nervous complaint, he procured that appointment which he now holds. The Doctor has published some books of value, but the coarse virulence with which he attacked the discovery of vaccination, and aspersed those who espoused the practice, indicates a little mind, and one that has not been imbued with the true spirit of liberality and science. His performances are, Observations on the Dysentery of the West Indies, 8vo. 1781.—A Treatise concerning the Properties and Effects of Coffee, 8vo. 1785. 5th edition, 1792.—A Treatise on Tropical Diseases, 8vo. 1785. 3rd edition, 1803.—Treatise on Sugar, 2d edit. 8vo. 1799.—Medical Tracts, 2d edit. 1803.—A Treatise on the Cow Pox, 8vo. 1805.—Commentaries on the Lues Bovilla, or Cowpox, 8vo. 1806.—A Review of the Report of the College of Physicians on Vaccination, 8vo. 1808.—An Oliver for a Rowland, or a Cowpox Epistle to the Rev. Rowland Hill, 8vo. 1807.—A Treatise on Hydrophobia, 8vo. 1808.

MOSELEY, WALTER MICHAEL, Esq.

MOSELEY, WILLIAM, a dissenting minister of the Independent persuasion, and the author of,

A Memoir on the importance and practicability of translating and printing the Holy Scriptures in the Chinese Language, 2d edit. 8vo. 1804.—Enoch or the Advantages of High Attainments in Religion, a sermon, 12mo. 1805.—He has also revised and improved Brown's Explanation of the Assembly's Catechism, with an Account of Sunday Schools, 12mo.

MOSER, JOSEPH, Esq. one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace, in the county of Middlesex. This gentleman is descended of a Swiss family, and was born in Greek Street, Soho, in 1748, being the son of Hans Jacob Moser, an artist. Our author was taken when young from school, and placed under his uncle G. M. Moser, Esq. late keeper of the Royal Academy, who intended him for the profession of painting in enamel. The nephew, however, had not the same inclination, though he continued in the academy till his marriage in 1780 with the daughter of an eminent surgeon in Holles Street, Cavendish Square. From that time Mr. Moser relinquished painting, and devoted himself to literature; but about the year 1794, he was appointed a magistrate for the city of Westminster. He sat first in the office in Queen Square, but on the death of Serjeant Kirby, he removed to that in Worship Street. Mr. Moser has been a leading correspondent in the European Magazine and other periodical publications. His separate performances are, Lucifer and Mammon, an historical sketch, 8vo. 1793.—Thoughts upon Cash Credit, and Country Banks, 8vo. 1793.—Turkish Tales, 2 v. 12mo. 1794.—The Adventures of Timothy Twig, Esq. in a series of poetical epistles, 2 v. 12mo. 1794.—The Meal Tub Plot, or Remarks on the Powder Tax, 8vo. 1794.—Anecdotes of Richard Brothers, with some Thoughts on the Credulity of N. MUDFORD, WILLIAM, was born in London, Jan. 8, 1782, and educated at one of the principal schools in the metropolis. In 1800 he acted as an assistant secretary to the Duke of Kent, and in 1802 he accompanied his Royal Highness to Gibraltar. On his return to England the following year, he resolved to make literature his profession, and from that time he has been an indefatigable laborer in the field, as a translator, compiler, and novelist. His publications are, Critical Inquiry into Dr. Johnson's Writings, 8vo. 1802.—Augustus and Mary, a tale, 12mo. 1803.—Golberry's Travels in Africa, translated from the French, 2 v. 8vo. 1803.—The Life of Goldsmith, and a Critical Examination of his Writings, 12mo. 1804.—The Life of Helvetius, 8vo. 1807.—A Translation of Madame Grafigny's Peruvian Letters, with the Letters of Aza, 8vo. 1807.—Beauties selected from the Writings of Beattie, with a Life of the Author, 12mo. 1809.—Nubilia in search of a Husband, 8vo. 3rd edition, 1809.—Life of Fenelon, translated from the French of Bausset, 2 v. 8vo. 1810.—The Contemplatist, a series of Essays.—Memoirs of Prince Eugene, translated from the French, 8vo. 1811.—Life of Richard Cumberland, Esq. with a Critical Examination of his Writings, 8vo. 1812.—Adventures of Paul Plaintive, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1811.—An edition of the British Novelists with Lives of the Authors, 1811.

MUDGE, WILLIAM, F.R.S. Lieutenant Colonel of the Royal Artillery, is the son of the late eminent Dr. Mudge, of Plymouth, and consequently the member of a family remarkable for its literary and scientific character throughout all its branches. The Colonel has been for several years engaged by Government on an actual survey of the kingdom, and he has published the result, at various times, in the Philosophical Transactions, besides which he has printed in a separate form, An Account of the Operations for accomplishing the Trigonometrical Survey of England and Wales, 3 v. 4to. 1799-1811.

MURDOCH, JOHN, a respectable bookseller and teacher of the French language, in Hart Street, Bloomsbury. He is a native of Ayr in Scotland, where he received a liberal education, and afterwards finished his studies at Edinburgh. Having been for some time employed as an assistant at a private seminary, he stood candidate for the mastership of the school at Ayr, and succeeded. Here he continued some years with reputation, but a desire of extending his knowledge of the world, induced him to quit that station, and he came to London. After a short stay here he went to Paris, where he formed an intimacy with Colonel Fullarton, then secretary to the British embassy, which friendship has subsisted ever since, and been very advantageous to our author, who on his return to London undertook to teach the French language in which line he has had great success. He has also had much practice in the instruction of foreigners, who wanted to acquire a knowledge of English, and among others who have been indebted to him, was the celebrated Talleyrand during his residence as an emigrant in this country. Mr. Murdoch is not to be confounded with another of both his names who also was a bookseller and author in the metropolis some years ago, but failed in trade. The subject of the present sketch has published, A Radical Vocabulary of the French Language, 12mo. 1783.—The Pronunciation and Orthography of the French Language, 8vo. 1788.—The Dictionary of Distinctions, 8vo. 1811.

MURRAY, CHARLES, a comedian, was born at Cheshunt, in Hertfordshire, in 1754. His father, Sir John Murray, rendered himself conspicuous as Secretary to the Pretender, in 1745, for which he was tried and condemned, but received the royal pardon. Our author, having received an excellent education, was placed under a medical practitioner in London, after which he became a surgeon's mate in the sea service. In 1774, he performed with so much applause at a private theatre in Liverpool, that he immediately relinquished his former profession, and devoted himself to the stage. His first public appearance was at York; under the anagrammatized name of Raymur; next he entered into the Norwich company, from whence he removed to Bath, where he became very popular. In 1796, he made his debut at Covent-garden as Shylock, and in that theatre he has continued ever since. Mr. Murray has produced

The Experiment, a Farce, 8vo. 1779.

MURRAY, CHARLES, M.D. and Secretary to the National Vaccine Establishment. He is the author and editor of Debates in Parliament respecting the Jennerian discovery, 8vo. 1808.—Answer to Mr. Hignore's Objections to the Bill, before Parliament to prevent the spreading of the Small pox, 8vo. 1808.

MUSGRAVE, SIR RICHARD, of Turin, in the County of Waterford, Bart. This gentleman has distinguished himself by several important publications on the history and state of Ireland, but the terms of severity in which he thought himself warranted to speak of the Catholic priesthood in that country, brought upon him a shower of abuse, and even the censure of government, as tending, it was supposed, to keep alive that heat which ought to be allayed by moderation. The works of this worthy Baronet are :

Letter on the Present Situation of Public Affairs, 8vo. 1794.—Considerations on the Present State of England and France, 8vo. 1796.—Short View of the Political Situation of the Northern Powers, 8vo. 1801.—Memoirs of the Different Rebellions in Ireland, from the Arrival of the English, with a Particular Detail of that which Broke Out in 1798, 4to. 1801. 2d ed. with an Appendix, 1801. 3d ed. 2 vols. 8vo. 1802.—Observations on the Reply of Dr. Caulfield, 8vo. 1802.—Observations on Dr. Drummgoole's Speech at the Catholic Board, Dec. 8. 1813. 8vo. 1814.

NARES, EDMUND, D.D. Rector of Bidenden, in Kent, and Professor of History in the University of Oxford. He is the third son of the late Sir George Nares, Knt. one of the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, and for some years representative in Parliament for the city of Oxford, by Mary, 4th daughter of Sir John Strange, Knt. Master of the Rolls. Our author was born in London, in 1762, and was educated at Westminster School, where he continued till the year 1779, and then removed to Christ Church, Oxford, under the tuition of Dr. Randolph, the late Bishop of London. After taking his Bachelor's degree, he was elected a Fellow of Merton College, in 1788, but did not take his Master's degree till the year following. In 1792, he entered into holy orders, and was soon afterwards presented to the cure of St. Peter's in the East by the college of which he was a member, and where he officiated for some years, with great and deserved popularity. He vacated his fellowship in 1797, on his marriage with the Lady Georgiana Charlotte Spencer, third daughter of the Duke of Marlborough, and soon after was presented by the late Archbishop of Canterbury, to the Rectory of Biddenden, where for the most part he has continued to reside ever since. On the death of Lady Charlotte, in 1802, he married Miss Cordelia Adams, second daughter of Thomas Adams, Esq. of Osbornes, near Cranbrook, by whom, as well as by the former, he has issue. In the last convocation he was appointed one of the Proctors to represent the clergy of the diocese of Canterbury, and in 1814, the Prince Regent very judiciously gave him the Professorship of Modern History, on which occasion he took his degree of D.D. His publications are,

An Attempt to Show how far the Philosophical Notion of a Plurality of Worlds is consistent with the Language of Scripture, 8vo. 1802.—Sermons composed for Country Congregations, 8vo. 1803.—A View of the Evidences of Christianity, at the Close of the Pretended Age of Reason, in Eight Sermons Preached at Bampton's Lecture, 8vo. 1805.—A Sermon Preached at the Primary Visitation of the Archbishop of Canterbury at Ashford, 4to. 1806.—A Letter to the Rev. NARES, ROBERT, B.D. F.A.S. Archdeacon of Stafford, Canon residentiary of Lichfield, and Prebendary of Lincoln. He is the first cousin of the preceding, being the son of Dr. Nares, an eminent musical composer. He received his education at Westminster School, on the foundation, and from thence removed to Christ Church, Oxford, where he proceeded to his Master's degree, in 1778. On entering into orders he obtained the Rectory of Sharnford, besides which, he was appointed preacher of Lincoln's Inn, and Assistant Librarian of the British Museum. His first preferment he resigned on being made Archdeacon of Stafford, in 1799; and the others he also gave up on his presentation to the living of St. Mary, Reading, where he resides. Mr. Nares was one of the institutors of the British Critic; his concern in which he disposed of about two years ago. He is also a contributor to the Classical Journal. His works are,

NICHOLS, JOHN, F.A.S. This literary veteran was born at Islington, Feb. 2,

1744-5, and received his education at an academy kept in that village by Mr. Shield, a man of learning, who had been bred at the university of Edinburgh. The original destination of Mr. Nichols was the royal navy, under the care of his maternal uncle, Lieutenant Wilmot, of the Bellona; but the death of that friend put a stop to the design, and our author, before the age of thirteen, was placed in the printing office of the celebrated Mr. Bowyer, who in a short time entrusted him with his confidence, and at length with the management of his business. In 1765, Mr. Nichols was sent to Cambridge to treat with that University for a lease of their exclusive privilege of printing; but that body having resolved to retain the property wholly in their own hands, he returned to London and entered into partnership with his master, who in 1767 removed from White Friars to Red Lion Passage, Fleet Street, where this concern has ever since remained. In August, 1778, the year after the death of Mr. Bowyer, his successor became associated with Mr. David Henry in the management of the Gentleman's Magazine, and from that time not a number has been published without exhibiting proofs of his talents and industry. In 1781, Mr. Nichols was elected a member of the Society of Antiquaries at Edinburgh, and in 1785 he received the same mark of distinction from the Antiquarian Society at Perth. In December, 1784, he was elected into the Common Council for the ward of Farringdon without, which station, with slight interruptions, he continued till the year 1801, and during that period he was appointed one of the deputies of the ward. In 1804 he was elected Master of the Stationers' Company. On the 8th of January, 1807, he had the misfortune of breaking one of his thighs, and on the 8th of February, 1808, he experienced a greater calamity in the destruction of his printing office by fire. By this misfortune many valuable works, in a state of progress for publication, fell a prey to the flames; but the indefatigable spirit of the printer and editor enabled him to repair the evil and to renew his engagements with the public, which he has most honorably fulfilled. In 1766, Mr. Nichols married Anne, daughter of Mr. William Cradock of Leicester, by whom he had two daughters, who are still living. On the death of his first wife he married the daughter of Mr. William Green of Hinckley, by whom he has one son and four daughters. The publications of which Mr. Nichols is either the author or editor, are as follows,

Islington, a poem, 4to. 1763.—The Buds of Parnassus, 4to. 1763. republished the year following with some additional poems.—The Origin of Printing, 8vo. 1774; reprinted in 1776; and a supplement added in 1781.—Three Supplemental Volumes to the Works of Dean Swift, with notes, 8vo. 1775-1779.—Index to the Miscellaneous Works of Lord Lyttelton, 8vo. 1775.—Index to Lord Chesterfield's Letters, 8vo. 1776.—The Original Works of William King, LL.D. with notes, 3 v. 8vo. 1776.—Brief Memoirs of Mr. William Bowyer, 8vo. 1778.—History of the Royal Abbey of Bec near Rouen, 8vo. 1779.—Some Account of the Alien Priors in England and Wales, 2 v. 8vo. 1779.—Six Old Plays on which Shakespeare grounded a like number of his, selected by Mr. Stevens, and revised by Mr. Nichols, 2 v. 8vo. 1779.—A Collection of Royal and Noble Wills, 4to. 1789.—Select Collection of Miscellaneous Poems, with notes, 4 v. sm. 8vo. 1780; to which 4 more with a general Poetical Index, by Mr. Macbean, were added in 1782.—The Bibliotheca Topographica Britannica, in fifty-two 4to. numbers from 1780 to 1790.—Biographical Anecdotes of William Hogarth, 8vo. 1781; republished in 1782, again in 1785, and a 4th edition in 2 v. 4to. 1810.—Biographical Memoirs of William Ged, 8vo. 1781.—A third edition, enlarged, of Mr. Bowyer's Conjectures and Observations on the New Testament, 4to. 1782.—Biographical and Literary Anecdotes of William Bowyer, F.S.A. and of many of his learned Friends, 4to. 1782.—The History and Antiquities of Hinckley in Leicestershire, 4to. 1782.—Bishop Aterbury's Epistolary Correspondence, with notes, vols. I. and II. 8vp. 1783; vol. III. 1784; vol. IV. 1787. A new edition of this work with the Life of the Bishop and a fifth volume of new matter appeared in 1799.—The Biographical Dictionary, 12 v. 8vo. 1784; this edition was revised by our author in conjunction with Dr. Heatbroke.—The Tatler, with notes, 6 v. sm. 8vo. 1786.—The Works in verse and prose of Leonard Welsted, Esq. with notes and memoirs of the author, 8vo. 1787.—The History and Antiquities of Ashton Flamville and Burbach in Leicestershire, 4to. 1787.—The Epistolary Correspondence of Sir Richard Steele, with notes, 2 v. sm. 8vo. 1788.—The Progresses and Royal Processions of Queen Elizabeth, 2 v. 4to. 1788; vol. III. in 1804.—The History and Antiquities of Canonbury, with some Account of the Parish of Islington, 4to. 1788.—The Lover and Reader, by Sir Richard Steele, with notes, 8vo. 1789.—The Town Talk, Fish Pool, Plebeian, Old Whig, Spinsters, &c. by Sir Richard Steele, with notes, 8vo. 1790.—Collections towards the History and Antiquities of the Town and County of Leicester, 2 v. 4to. 1790.—An Edition of Shakespeare, with a selection of notes, 7 v. 12mo. 1790.—The Theatre and Anti-theatre of Sir Richard Steele, with notes, 8vo. 1791.—Miscellaneous Antiquities in continuation of the Bibliotheca Topographica Britannica, six numbers, 4to. 1792-1798.—The History and Antiquities of the Town and County of Leicester, parts I. and II. fol. 1795; a third part was published in 1798; a fourth in 1800; a fifth in 1804; a sixth in 1807, reprinted in 1810; and the seventh in 1811.—Illustrations of the Manners and Expenses of Ancient Times in England 4to. 1797.—Bishop Kennep's Funeral Sermon, with Memoirs of the Cavendish Family, 8vo. 1797.—Chronological List of the Society of Antiquaries of London, 4to. 1798.—An Edition of Shakespeare, 8 v. 12mo. 1799.—Continuation of Schneb-

NICHOLS, T.

An Admonition to the Great Landowners and Farmers, on the Monopoly of Farms, with Remarks on the War, 8vo. 1800.

NICHOLS, THOMAS.

Observations on the Propagation and Management of Oak Trees in general, but more immediately applying to the New Forest, 8vo. 1791.—Methods proposed for decreasing the Consumption of Timber in the Navy, &c. 8vo. 1793.

NICHOLSON, REV. GEORGE, Curate of Taxal, Cheshire, and a few years ago assistant to Dr. Coulthurst, Vicar of Halifax, with whom he seems to have quarrelled. This reverend gentleman, who seems to have been far gone in the reveries of mysticism, has published, Four Select Evangelical Discourses, 8vo. 1788.—A Letter to Joseph Priestley, 8vo. 1788.—Essays on the most essential Theological Subjects, particularly the Divine Humility of the Lord, Man's self-derived Intelligence, 12mo. 1795.—Theological Philosophy, or Man the Particular Object of Divine Care, a sermon, preached at Hull in 1797, 8vo. 1810.—Answer to Stoen's Visitation Sermon, 8vo. 1807.—Vindication of the Holy Scriptures, 8vo. 1807.—The Practical Knowledge of Christ essential to the Christian Character, a sermon, 8vo. 1809.—Discourse on Luke xxiv, 32, 8vo.—Dictionary to the Word of God, 8vo.—Address to the Inhabitants of Hull, 8vo.—Vindication of Scripture against Deism, 8vo.—A Sermon on Deuteronomy, xii, 9, 8vo. 1810.—Spiritual and Universal Authorship, 8vo. 1810.—A Practical Discourse on Love to our Neighbour, 8vo. 1812.

NICHOLSON, GEORGE, printer and publisher of Stourport in Worcestershire, was born near Bradforth in Yorkshire, in 1760. The following are the principal articles in which he has appeared either as author, translator, or compiler:

The Cambrian Traveller's Guide, 8vo. 2d edit. 1812.—Stenography, or a New System of Short Hand, 8vo.—The Literary Miscellany, or Elegant Selections from the most Popular Authors in prose and verse, 20 v, 18mo.—The Mental Friend and Rational Companion, consisting of maxims and reflexions, relating to the conduct of life, 12mo.—The Advocate and Friend of Woman, 12mo.—Directions for the Improvement of the Mind, 12mo.

NICHOLSON, REV. ISAAC, A.M. of Great Paxton in Huntingdonshire. A most scandalous outrage on humanity in his parish, where some infatuated wretches had nearly murdered a poor old woman on the supposition that she was possessed of supernatural powers for the injury of her neighbours, induced him to publish,

A Sermon against Witchcraft with an Account of Two Atrocious Attacks on Ann Izard, a reputed Witch, 8vo. 1808. One Isaac Nicholson, A.M. was, some years ago, head of the Dissenting Seminary at Chesham, and published in 1798, a Sermon preached at the annual meeting of the London Missionary Society: as this gentleman afterwards conformed to the establishment and took orders, he may possibly be the same person.

NICHOLSON, PETER, architect and surveyor in London is the author of,

The Principles of Architecture, 3 v. 4to. 1798.—The Carpenter and Joiner's Assistant, new edit. 4to.—Student's Instructor to the Five Orders, new edit. 8vo.—Carpenter's New Guide, 4to.—Mechanical Exercises, or the Elements and Practice of Carpentry, Joinery, &c. 8vo. 1811.—Architectural Dictionary, 4to. 1811-1812.

NICHOLSON, WILLIAM, is the son of a solicitor in the Temple, and born in London in 1753. He received his education at a school in the north of Yorkshire, which he left at the age of sixteen and made two voyages in the East India service till 1773. In 1776, he was engaged in commercial business on the continent for the late Mr. Wedgewood, soon after which he devoted himself wholly to literary and scientific pursuits. About the year 1775, he opened a seminary for twenty pupils in Soho Square, which he carried on several years with reputation. Mr. Nicholson directed the plan of the West Middlesex Water Works, and he has also succeeded in carrying into effect another for the supply of Portsmouth and Gosport. He has since been engaged in a similar undertaking for the borough of Southwark, and he is the author of some mechanical inventions for which he has obtained patents though we are apprehensive not much to his advantage. His publications are,

Introduction to Natural and Experimental Philosophy, 2 v. 8vo. 1781.—Ralph's View of the Public Buildings in London and Westminster, with additions, 8vo. 1782.—Life of Ayder Ali, translated from the French, 8vo. 1783.—The Navigator's Assistant, 8vo. 1784.—The Controversy between Kirwan and the French Academicians on Phlogiston, 8vo. 1787.—The first Principles of Chemistry, 8vo. 1789.—Fourcroy's Elements of Natural History and Chemistry, translated into English with notes, 5 v. 8vo. 1789.—Memoirs and Travels of Count de Benyowski, 2 v. 4to. 1790.—Chaptal's Elements of Chemistry, translated, 3 v. 8vo. 1791.—Dictionary of Chemistry, 2 v. 4to. 1795.—Journal of Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, and the Arts, 5 v. 4to. 1797-1800; from that period to the present the work has been continued in octavo.—The Art of Bleaching Piece Goods, Threads and Cottons, rendered more easy by means of oxygenated muratic acid, translated from the French, with an Appendix, 8vo. 1799.—Synoptic Tabulae of Chemistry, from the French of Fourcroy, fol. 1801.—A General System of Chemical Knowledge, with a set of Synoptic Tables, from the French of Fourcroy, 11 v. 8vo. and 1 v. fol.—A Dictionary of Chemistry, 8vo. 1808.—The British Encyclopædia, 6 v. 8vo. 1807-1809.—A Letter to the Proprietors of the Portsea Water Works occasioned by an application made to them by the assigns under the Act for bringing water from Farlington, 8vo. 1810.

NICHOLSON, WILLIAM, Esq. This gentleman is a different person from the preceding, for in the preface to his work he says, that, "it is the result of actual and laborious surveys during sixty-four years of constant service." His performance is entitled,

A Treatise on Practical Navigation, and a Description of the English Channel, 8vo. 1806.

NICOL, REV. JAMES.

Poems, chiefly in the Scottish Dialect, 2 v. sm. 8vo. 1806.

NICOL, WILLIAM, D.D. and minister of the Scotch Presbyterian Church in Swallow Street. This gentleman, who was for many years assistant to the late Dr. Trotter, has published,

A Missionary Sermon, 8vo.—A Funeral Sermon for Dr. Trotter, 8vo.—A Sermon at the Ordination of the Rev. John Clayton, jun. of Kensington, 8vo. 1801.—Dr. Nicol also wrote the life of Dr. Gillies of Glasgow, in the Theological Magazine, 1802.

NICOLL, S. W. Esq. Barrister at Law.

A Brief Exposition of the Laws relative to Wills and Testaments, 8vo. 1799.

NIGHTINGALE, JOSEPH, formerly a Methodist preacher of the Wesleyan denomination, at Macclesfield, but at present a seceder from that communion, and an associate with the Unitarians. This versatile gentleman has acquired some notoriety by his publications, which are as follow;

A Portraiture of Methodism, 8vo. 1807.—Two Sermons, preached at Hanover Street Chapel, and at Worship Street Chapel, 8vo. 1807.—A Portraiture of Catholicism, 8vo. 1812.—Refutation of the Falsehoods and Calumnies of a recent anonymous Pamphlet entitled "A Portraiture of Hypocrisy." 8vo. 1813.

NISBETT, A.

NOBLE, EDWARD MORE, Surgeon.

A Treatise on Ophthalmia and those Diseases which are induced by Inflammations of the Eyes, with new Methods of Cure, 2 parts, 8vo. 1800, 1801.

NOBLE, REV. MARK, F.A.S. Rector of Barming in Kent. This reverend divine and industrious compiler is, we believe, unknown to either of our learned universities; and indeed from the style of his works we should almost question whether he ever had any academical education at all. His literary family, however, indicates sufficient industry, whatever deficiency there may be in learning or genius. His works are,

Two Dissertations on the Mint and Coins of the Episcopal Palatines of Durham, 4to. 1780.—Genealogical History of the present Royal Families of Europe, 8vo. 1781.—Memoirs of the Protectorate House of Cromwell, 2 v. 8vo. 1784.—Memoirs of the House of Medici, 1797.—Lives of the English Regicides, 2 v. 8vo. 1797.—History of the College of Arms, 4to. 1805.—Biographical History of England, in continuation of Granger, 2 v. 8vo. 1809.

NOBLE, THOMAS.

The Dawn of Peace, an ode, with other pieces, 4to. 1801.—Zelomer, a romance, translated from the French, 12mo. 1801.—Blackheath, and other poems, 4to. 1809.

NOBLE, THOMAS.

A complete Book of Practical Perspective, exemplified in landscape, 4to. 1805.

NODEN, JOHN.

The Legal Duties of Customs, Excise, &c. 2 parts, 8vo. 1792.

NOEHDEN, GEORGE HENRY.

A Grammar of the German Language, 2d edit. 12mo. 1807.—Elements of German Grammar, 12mo. 1807.—Exercises for Writing German grammatically, 12mo. 1809.

NOLAN, REV. FREDERICK Clergyman of the established church, and, who has published, Objections of a Churchman to Uniting with the Bible Society, 8vo. 1812.—The Operations of the Holy Spirit, illustrated in a series of Sermons, 8vo. 1813.

NOLAN, MICHAEL, Esq. of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister at Law.

NOLAN, WILLIAM.

Essay on Humanity, or a View of Abuses in Hospitals, 8vo. 1786.

NOORTHOUCK, JOHN.

The History of London, 4to. 1773.—Historical and Classical Dictionary, 2 v. 8vo. 1776.—Constitutions of the Free and Accepted Masons, a new edition, published by order of the Hall Committee, 4to. 1784.

NORGATE, T. S. a native of Norwich, and the author of,

Essays, Tales, and Poems, 8vo. 1795.—Principles of Government by Sir William Jones, with notes and elucidations, 8vo. 1797.

NORRIS, CHARLES, Esq.

The Architectural Antiquities of Wales, 4to. 1810, 1811.—St. David's, in a series of Engravings, folio, 1811.—Etchings of Tenby, with a short Account of that Town, 4to. 1812.

NORRIS, REV. HENRY HANDLEY, A.M. Curate of St. John's, Hackney, and Chaplain to the Earl of Shaftesbury. This respectable divine is the author of,

A Sermon on the Female Character, preached at Hackney, 8vo. 1801.—A Practical Exposition of the British and Foreign Bible Society, 8vo. 1813; 2d edit. 1814.

NORRIS, MRS.

NORRIS, ROBERT, a native of Liverpool, who is the author of, Memoirs of the Reign of Bossa Ahadee, King of Dahomy, with an Account of the Slave Trade, 8vo, 1790.

NORTH, The Hon. and Right Rev. BROWNLOW, LL. D. Lord Bishop of Winchester and Chancellor of the Order of the Garter. This learned prelate is the younger brother of the celebrated statesman, Frederick Lord North, and afterwards Earl of Guildford, who being very much resisted by his colleagues in the elevation of his brother to the bench on account of his youth, answered "that when he should become of more matured age he would not have a brother prime minister." Dr. North was bred at Eton, from whence he removed to All Souls' College, Oxford, where he obtained a fellowship, and took his master's degree in 1766. In 1770, he was preferred to a canonry of Christ Church, and the same year took his doctor's degree in civil law. A few months afterwards he was made Dean of Canterbury, and the following year, on the translation of Bishop Egerton, he was advanced to the see of Lichfield and Coventry, being the youngest prelate known to have been consecrated since the Reformation. In 1774, he was translated to Worcester, and in 1781 to Winchester. The bishop has printed,

A Sermon, preached at St. Paul's, on the yearly meeting of the Charity Children of the Metropolis, 4to. 1790; and two Sermons, preached before the King at the Chapel Royal in Lent, 4to.

NORTH, H.

Mythology compared with History, from the French of the Abbé Tressan, 8vo. 1797.

NORTHCOTE, JAMES, Esq. R. A. This excellent artist was born at Plymouth in 1746, and was intended by his father, a respectable watch-maker of that town, for the same line of business. An unconquerable propensity to the fine arts, however, frustrated the paternal views, and being encouraged in his inclination by the flattering notice taken of his early productions, he was led to pursue the practice of drawing and painting, with such assiduity, that Dr. John Mudge, the physician, and a friend of the family, kindly offered to recommend him as a scholar to Sir Joshua Reynolds. This proposal being gratefully accepted, and the consent of that great master obtained, Mr. Northcote repaired from Plymouth to London in 1771, and became domesticated with Sir Joshua, as a disciple, on the most agreeable terms, and to their mutual satisfaction. In May, 1776, Mr. Northcote quitted that delightful mansion, thinking it high time to do something for himself, in which idea his preceptor concurred, saying, "I hope we shall assist each other as long as we live." Our present concern is with this gentleman in his character as an author and not as a painter; we shall, therefore, only observe, that, after spending some time in the country, he set up his staff in London, to make use of a phrase of his great instructor, and there rose to the highest honours of his profession. His literary performances are, Various Papers in the Artist, vol. 1, as, No. 2. On Originality in Painting; imitators and collectors. 4. A Letter from a Disappointed Genius; Character of John Opie, R. A. 19. A Second Letter from a Disappointed Genius. 20. On the Imitation of the Stage in Painting.—In vol. 2. No. 7. The History of the Slighted Beauty, an allegory.—He also wrote the Biographical Memoirs of Sir Joshua Reynolds, in the fourth number of the Fine Arts of the English School. This sketch, he expanded afterwards into a substantial volume, entitled Memoirs of Sir Joshua Reynolds, Knt. comprising anecdotes of many distinguished persons, his contemporaries, and a brief Analysis of his Discourses; to which are added, Varieties on Art, 4to. 1813.—A Supplement to the Memoirs, 4to. 1815.

NORTHMORE, THOMAS, Esq. F. A. S. This gentleman was born near Exeter, and educated at Tiverton school, and next at Jesus College, Cambridge, under the eccentric Gilbert Wakefield, from whom he seems to have imbibed much learning, mixed with some extravagance. Mr. Northmore took his degree of master of arts, and then retired to cultivate his paternal estate, where he has continued to reside ever since, devoting much of his time to mechanics, literature, and politics. His works are,

An edition of Tryphiodorus, with notes, 8vo. 1791, and a second edition 1804.—Plutarch's Treatise on the Friend and Flatterer, with remarks, 8vo. 1793.—A Triplet of Inventions, 8vo. 1796.—Of Education, founded on principles, 12mo. 1800.—Washington, or Liberty Restored, a poem, 8vo. 1809.

NORVAL, JAMES, A. M. Of this person nothing more is known than that, under his name, has been printed a piece entitled,

The Generous Chief, a tragedy, 8vo. 1792.

NOTT, GEORGE FREDERICK, D. D. late Fellow of All Souls' College, Oxford, and Prebendary of Winchester. This gentleman's grandfather was a German, who had a situation in the royal household, and was a particular favourite of his Majesty. Dr. Nott obtained considerable celebrity by his Sermons preached at the Bampton Lecture, which were dedicated to the King, and obtained for the author the situation of sub-preceptor to her Royal Highness the Princess Charlotte of Wales. His performances are, Religious Enthusiasm, considered in eight Sermons, preached before the University of Oxford, 8vo. 1803.—A Translation of Catullus, 8vo. 1807.—Petrarch, translated in a Selection of his Sonnets and Odes, 8vo. 1808.—The proper Mode of Studying the Scriptures, an ordination sermon, preached at Salisbury, 8vo. 1811.

NOTT, JOHN, M. D. resident physician at Hotwells, Bristol, is the author of, The Hotwell Waters, near Bristol, 8vo 1793.—A Chemical Dissertation on the Thermal Waters of Pisa, and on the Neighbouring acidulous Spring of Asciano, &c. 8vo. 1793.—On the Influenza as it prevailed at Bristol and its vicinity, 8vo. 1803.—A Nosological Synopsis to the London Pharmacopœia, 12mo. 1806.

O.

OAKES, THOMAS VERNEY, member of the Royal College of Surgeons, and one of the Surgeons of Addenbrooke's Hospital, Cambridge, is the author of, Account of Spina Bifida, 8vo. 1810.

OAKLEY, Rev. T. M. A. The Holy Family, being a complete provision of domestic piety, 8vo. 1805.

O'BEIRNE, the Most Rev. Dr. THOMAS, Lord Bishop of Meath. This celebrated divine was born in the county of Longford, in Ireland, about the year 1748. Being of a catholic family, his father, who was a farmer, sent him, with his brother John, to St. Omer's, with a view to the priesthood. The latter complied with his father's wishes, but Thomas, having taken the liberty of investigating the grounds of his religion, saw reasons enough for renouncing the creed in which he had been bred in favour of that of the established church. He also entered into orders in that communion; and, it is a singular fact, that the two brothers officiated, after a lapse of years, in the same diocese, the one as a zealous parish priest of the Romish persuasion, and the other a prelate of the Protestant establishment. Mr. O'Beirne, of whom we are now speaking, became, at the commencement of the American war, chaplain in the fleet under Lord Howe, with whom he was a great favourite, as well as with his brother the general. This led to a connexion with the late Duke of Portland, whom he accompanied as private secretary to Ireland in 1782. On that occasion, however, Dr. O'Beirne obtained no preferment; but the year following his patron presented him to two valuable livings in Northumberland and Cumberland. When Earl Fitzwilliam went to Ireland he took the doctor with him as his first chaplain; soon after which he was promoted to the bishopric of Ossory, from which, on the death of Dr. Maxwell, he was translated to the see of Meath. This bishop has been distinguished as a political writer of great eminence, and it is but justice to say, that his conduct as a prelate hath been both liberal and exemplary. His publications, with and without his name, are as follow :

The Crucifixion, a poem, 4to. 1776.—The Generous Impostor, a comedy, 8vo. 1780.—Series of Essays in a daily newspaper, under the signature of a country gentleman, 1780.—A short History of the last Session of Parliament, anonymous, 8vo.—Considerations on the late Disturbances by a consistent Whig, 8vo. 1781.—Considerations on the Principles of Naval Discipline and Courts Martial, 8vo. 1781.—The Ways of God to be vindicated only by the Word of God, a sermon, 8vo. 1804.—A Charge delivered to the Clergy of his Diocese, 8vo. 1805.—A Sermon preached in the parish church of Kells, Dec. 5, 1805.—A Sermon preached in the chapel of the Magdalen Hospital, April 23, 1807, 8vo.—Sermons on important Subjects, with Charges, 8vo. 1813.

O'BRIEN, WILLIAM, a gentleman who is descended from an ancient family in Ireland, remarkable for their attachment to the cause of James the Second, in whose service they sacrificed their property after the capitulation of Limerick. As early as 1758 our author made his appearance on the boards of Drury-lane Theatre, where he became a very popular comedian. In 1764, he married Lady Susan Sarah Louisa Strangeways, eldest daughter of Stephen first Earl of Ilchester, by virtue of which union he obtained the office of receiver-general of Dorsetshire. This veteran is the author of,

Cross Purposes, a farce, 8vo. 1772.—The Duel, com. 8vo. 1773.

O'BRYEN, DENIS, a native of Ireland, who has distinguished himself as a zealous political partizan on the side of Mr. Fox, with whom he lived on terms of great intimacy; and on the change of ministry in 1806 was appointed to the sinecure office of deputy-paymaster-general, to which was added, shortly after, the still more lucrative one of marshal of the admiralty at the Cape of Good Hope, worth, it is said, four thousand a year. This fortunate gentleman is the author of a comedy acted at the Haymarket Theatre, but not printed, entitled, "A Friend in need is a Friend indeed." This piece went through eight successive nights, but was then withdrawn in consequence of a violent quarrel between the author and the elder Colman. Mr. O'Bryen's political performances are, Defence of the Earl of Shelburne, which is an iroical pamphlet, and not devoid of humour, 8vo. 1783.—A Glean of Comfort to this distracted Empire, 8vo. 1785.—About this time he published two papers called the Reasoner, one of which has been falsely ascribed to Lord Erskine by some modern editors, and the other, with equal justice, to Mr. Sheridan.—A View of the Commercial Treaty with France negotiated by Mr. Eden, afterwards Lord Auckland, 8vo. 1786.—The Prospect before us, a pamphlet on the subject of the Regency, 8vo. 1788. This was reprinted artfully enough, and adapted to the return of the King's malady in 1810, under the title of the Regency Question.—Lines written at Twickenham, 4to. 1788.—Utrum Horum? The Government or the Country, 8vo. 1796.

O'CONNOR, ARTHUR, a personage who at one time contrived to render himself more conspicuous than usually happens even to the most violent demagogues. Born of an ancient family, descended, as they boast, from the original monarchs of Ireland, he entered into confederacies for the purpose of shaking off the connexion with England; but by a preposterous act of party violence he endeavoured at the same time to render his country a province of France. In the prosecution of this patriotic design, however, he was thwarted by the vigilance of government, who caused him and his associates to be apprehended in the county of Kent. One of the party was convicted and executed, and though O'Connor escaped for the want of positive evidence at that time, yet, when prosecuted for his share in the Irish rebellion, he made an ample confession of his guilt to save his life. After this he became a voluntary exile in France, where he lived in obscurity and contempt, and what has been his fortune since the counter-revolution we profess not to know. He has written,

Letter to the Earl of Carlisle, in reply to Earl Fitzwilliam's two Letters on the State of Ireland, 8vo. 1795.—Letters to Earl Camden, 8vo. 1798.—The present State of Great Britain, 8vo. 1804.

O'CONOR, Rev. CHARLES, D.D. a Roman Catholic clergyman, who resides at Stowe, as librarian to the Marquis of Buckingham, having acted in the capacity of confessor to the late Marchioness. He has distinguished himself with so much freedom against the hierarchical pretensions of the Irish prelacy and the papal influence, besides contending in support of the veto as a necessary concession to the government, that most of the zealots of his persuasion have reproached him with being an apostate. His works are, Colymbanus's Letters, with an Historical Address on the Calamities occasioned by foreign influence in the nomination of bishops to Irish sees, 2 v. 8vo. 1810-1813.—Narrative of the most interesting Events in modern Irish History, 8vo. 1812. Dr. O'Connor some time ago announced for publication a work entitled, Rerum Iihernicarum Scriptores veteres, which is to contain, in four quarto volumes, the Irish Annals; an account of MSS. written in Irish characters prior to the Danish settlements in Ireland, with fac similes; of the Antiquity of Letters in Ireland, and of the Irish pagan year and Rathas; of ancient Irish poems, quoted by Tigernach in the 11th century; of Eclipses recorded in the Irish Chronicles, by which the years and successions of the Irish Kings of Scotia and Albania are ascertained; Gildas Colman's Irish metrical list of Irish Kings down to the year 1072; an Irish metrical list of the Irish Kings of Scotland, written about the year 1053, from the Maguire Collection at Stowe, &c. &c.

O'DEY, U. Esq. Barrister-at-Law, of Lincoln's Inn.

Letters on the Law of Principal and Accessary, 8vo. 1810.—A Vindication of the Laws of England, shewing that the levying of distress for rent by middle men is illegal, 8vo. 1812.—View of the Laws of Landed Property in Ireland, 8vo. 1812.

ODELL, G. M. A. schoolmaster, at Epsom, and the author of,

An Essay on the Elements, Accents, and Prosody of the English Language, 12mo. 1806. This performance, which was introduced for an introduction to Mr. Boucher's Dictionary, is little more than an abridgement of Steele's Prosodia Rationalis.

O'DONNELL, J. M. D.

Cases of 'Hydrophobia, with observations on the nature and seat of the disease, 8vo. 1813.

O'DONNOCHUE, Rev. H. C. A.B. Chaplain to Lord Clarendon.

The Duty and Importance of Searching the Scriptures, a sermon, preached at Bristol, 8vo. 1813.

OGG, GEORGE.

Admonition, a poem on female dress, with miscellaneous pieces, 8vo. 1807.

OGILVIE, CHARLES, of the Custom House, has written a pamphlet intitled, A Serious Call to the Electors of Great Britain, 8vo. 1811.

OGILVIE, Rev. JAMES, D.D. Chaplain to Lord Forbes, and Curate of Egham. This venerable divine was Rector of Westover parish in Virginia, from whence he was driven, at the commencement of the first American war, by the rebel party, because he would not renounce his allegiance. On coming to England he settled in the neighbourhood where he now resides, and has ever since been greatly esteemed by his acquaintance and parishioners. The Reverend Mr. Whitaker, who is his neighbour, inscribed to him, in an affectionate address, his Controversial Tract on Prophecy, in answer to Mr. Faber. Dr. Ogilvie has published;

Sermons on various Subjects, 8vo. 1787.

OGILVIE, JOHN, D.D. F.R.S. Edinb. and Minister of Midmar, Aberdeenshire. This most respectable and ingenious divine, who is a native of Scotland, distinguished himself very early as a poet of superior powers, particularly by a beautiful paraphrase of Psalm CXLVIII. written at the age of sixteen, and which, even at that time, was ascribed to writers of the first-rate eminence. His various publications are,

The Day of Judgment, a poem, 4to. 1759.—Poems on several Subjects, 4to. 1762.—Providence, an allegorical poem, 4to. 1764.—Solitude, or the Elysium of the Poets, 4to. 1766.—Sermons on several Subjects, 8vo. 1767.—Paradise, a poem, 4to. 1769.—Philosophical and Critical Observations on Composition, 2 v. 8vo. 1774.—Poems on several Subjects, including those just mentioned, 2 v. cr. 8vo. 1769.—Rosa, a poem, 4to. 1777.—Inquiry into the Causes of Infidelity and Scepticism, 8vo. 1783.—The Theology of Plato, compared with the principles of Oriental and Grecian Philosophers, 8vo. 1793.—Britannia, an epic poem, to which is prefixed, a Critical Dissertation on Epic Machiery, 4to. 1801.—An Examination of the Evidence from Prophecy in behalf of the Christian Religion, a Sermon, 8vo. 1803.

OGLE, THOMAS, Surgeon extraordinary to the Prince Regent.

A short Inquiry into the Merits of a new-discovered Fact relative to the Venereal Poison, 8vo. 1791.

O'HALLORAN, SYLVESTER, M.R.I.A. and Surgeon to the County Hospital at Limerick. Besides some cases in medical journals he has published, An Introduction to a General History of Ireland, 3 v. 8vo. 1804.

O'KEEFE, JOHN. This veteran dramatist was born at Dublin in 1746. Being of a Catholic family he was committed to the tuition of Father Austin, an Irish Jesuit of considerable learning, and celebrated for his eloquence. Under him he made a proficiency in French and the Classics. He also acquired a taste for drawing, which he cultivated at the academy with so much success, that his friends indulged eager expectations of his attaining to a degree of eminence in that art. But a volatility of disposition, and a defect in his sight, drew him off from that pursuit. After this he fell into the company of some theatrical spouters, whose conversation had such an effect upon him, that he wrote a comedy of five acts at the age of fifteen. Becoming acquainted with Mossop, he was encouraged by him to attempt the stage at Dublin, where he was received in a very flattering manner, and he continued there with reputation about twelve years. During this period he produced several dramatic pieces, some of which had such success, that the author was tempted to visit London, where, though his services as a performer were rejected, he had the good fortune to become a favorite writer for the stage. In 1800, Mr. O'Keefe, being reduced by blindness and other misfortunes to a state of great embarrassment, obtained a benefit at Covent Garden Theatre, and, at the end of the performance, he delivered a poetical address, in which humor and pathos were very happily blended. The printed works of this lively writer are as follow:

Tony Lumpkin in Town, f. 8vo. 1778.—Son-in-Law, 8vo. 1779.—The Birth Day, 8vo. 1783.—Omai, p. 8vo. 1783.—Prisoner at Large, c. 8vo. 1788.—The Toy, c. 8vo. 1789.—World in a Village, com. 8vo. 1793.—London Hermit, c. 8vo. 1793.—Wild Oats, c. 8vo. 1794.—Life's Vagaries, c. 8vo. 1795.—Irish Mimic, mus. ent. 8vo. 1795.—In 1798 the following were collected and published: Alfred, a drama, 8vo.; The Basket Maker, mus. ent. 8vo.; A Beggar on horseback, farce, 8vo.; The Blacksmith of Antwerp, f. 8vo.; The Castle of Andalusia, com. opera, 8vo.; The Czar Peter, ditto, 8vo.; The Doldrum, f. 8vo.; The Farmer, f. 8vo.; Fountainbleau, com. op. 8vo.; Le Grenadier, pantomime, 8vo.; Highland Reel, com. opera, 8vo.; Little Hunchback, f. 8vo.; Love in a Camp, f. 8vo.; Man Milliner, f. 8vo.; Modern Antiquities, f. 8vo.; Poor Soldier, com. op. 8vo.; Postive Man, f. 8vo.; Sprigs of Laurel, com. op. 8vo.; Tantrums Rogues all, f. 8vo.; Wicklow Mountains, ep.

Lit. Cal.

8vo. Besides these pieces, the author has produced many, which remain in the hands of the proprietors of the theatres as stock plays.

ONSLOW, Rev. ARTHUR, D.D. Dean of Worcester, Master of St. Oswald's Hospital, and Archdeacon of Berks. This divine is the son of the celebrated Arthur Onslow, who was above forty years Speaker of the House of Commons. The doctor was bred at All Souls' College, Oxford, where he took his degree of M.A. June 8, 1771. He was afterwards made Canon of Christ Church, where he took his degree of B.D. Mar. 10, 1780, and that of D.D. Mar. 6, 1781. On the death of Dr. St. John, he was promoted to the Deanry of Worcester, where he has distinguished himself by his attention to cathedral duties, and the comforts of the clergy. His publications are, The Scriptural Analogy and Concord of St. Paul and St. James, a Sermon, preached at the Visitation of the Archdeaconry of Berks, 8vo. 1805.—The Testimony of the Spirit of God in the Faithful, a Sermon, at the Visitation of the same Archdeaconry, 8vo. 1807.—Another Visitation Sermon, 8vo. 1812.

OPIE, Mrs. widow of the late ingenious artist of that name, was born at Norwich in 1771. Her father was Dr. Alderson, a physician of eminence in that city, and the daughter evinced very superior talents at an early age, having composed poems, dramatic pieces, and novels, before other young ladies of her time of life have usually completed their education. On the 8th of May, 1798, Miss Alderson became the wife of Mr. Opie, and on his death, in 1807, she did honor to his memory by editing his Lectures on Painting. Her own publications are,

The Father and Daughter, a tale, with other pieces, 8vo. 1801.—An Elegy to the Memory of the Duke of Bedford, 4to. 1802.—Poems, 12mo. 1802; second edition, 1804.—Adeline Mowbray, or the Mother and Daughter, a tale, 3 v. 12mo. 1804.—Simple Tales, 4 v. 12mo. 1806.—Dangers of Coquetry, anonymous, 2 v. 12mo.—The Warrior's Return, and other poems, 8vo. 1808.—Memoir of Mr. Opie, prefixed to his Lectures, 4to. 1809.—Temper, or Domestic Scenes, a nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1812.—Tales of Real Life, 3 v. 12mo. 1813.

OSWALD, JOHN, a native of Scotland, and formerly Lieutenant of the 42d Regiment of Foot. He served in the East Indies, from whence he returned over land in 1783. Having an invincible propensity to letters, which his father discouraged, he mastered the Latin without assistance; after which, he proceeded in the same manner to the study of the Greek. He is also said to have gained a considerable knowledge of the Arabic, as well as of several of the European languages; but his opinions and practices are stated to be extremely singular, for he makes an open profession of the Brahminical System, and turns with abhorrence from animal food. He has published,

A volume of Poems under the fictitious name of Sylvester Otway, 12mo. 1789.—Rana Comice Evangelizantes, or the Comic Frogs turned Methodists, 8vo. 1786.—The British Mercury, a periodical publication, 1787.—The alarming Progress of French Politics, a pamphlet on the Commercial Treaty, 8vo. 1787.—Euphrosyne, or an Ode to Beauty, 8vo. 1788.

OUISEAU, J. A. M.
The Manual of Youth, 12mo. 1806.

OULTON, WHALLEY CHAMBERLAIN, is a native of Dublin, where he received his education under Dr. Ball. He produced several dramatic pieces at the theatres of his native city, which were well received. This success induced him to visit London, where he contracted an intimacy with the late Mr. Palmer, for whose theatre, in Welclose Square, he wrote some pieces, particularly the Burletta of Hobson's Choice, or Thespis in Distress, which provoked the resentment of the managers of the regular houses. Mr. Oulton has produced several works of various kinds, the list of which is as follows:

The Haunted Castle, mus. ent. 12mo. 1784.—Happy Disguise, com. op. 12mo. 1784.—The Madhouse, mus. ent. 12mo. 1785.—New Way to keep a Wife at Home, f. 1785; 2d edit. 1787.—Perseverance, mus. ent. 12mo. 1789.—As it should be, com. 8vo. 1789.—What's the Matter, burletta, 12mo. 1789.—The Busy Body, a collection of Essays, 2 v. 12mo. 1789.—All in good Humour, com. 8vo. 1792.—Botheration, f. 8vo. 1798.—Pyramus and Thisbe, pant. 8vo. 1798.—History of the English Theatres in London, or a Continuation of Victor's History from 1771 to 1795, 2 v. 12mo. 1796.—A new edition of Egerton's Theatrical Remembrancer, 12mo.—The Beauties of Kotzebue, 12mo. 1800.—The Beauties of Modern Dramatists, 2 v. 12mo. 1800.—The Sixty Third Letter, a musical farce, 8vo. 1803.—The Traveller's Guide, or English Itinerary, 2 v. sm. 8vo. 1805.—Poems, chiefly comic and Hudibrastic, 8vo. 1809.—The English Tutor, or Juvenile Assistant, 12mo. 1810.—The Sleep Walker, a farce, 8vo. 1812.—The Beauties of Anna Seward, 12mo. 1813.—The Death of Abel, a poem, in five cantos, blank verse, 8vo. 1814.

OUSELEY, Sir WILLIAM, Knt. LL.D. F.R.S. Edinb. Member of the Asiatic Society at Calcutta, and late Private Secretary to the Embassy from the English Government to the Court of Persia. This respectable scholar is a native of Monmouthshire, and was born in 1771.

His education was entirely private; and in 1787 he visited Paris with a view of perfecting himself in the French language. The year following he purchased a cornetcy in the 8th regiment of dragoons, which regiment he joined in Ireland, and rose soon after to the rank of Lieutenant. The military life is ill adapted for the prosecution of abstruse studies, yet, in this situation, our author devoted his leisure hours with great assiduity and success to the acquisition of the Eastern languages. In 1794, he served in the campaign under the Duke of York; but the same year he sold his commission, and resided some time in the University of Leyden, where he renewed his Oriental studies, the result of which appeared the next year in the publication of his Persian Miscellanies. About this period, Mr. Ouseley obtained the rank of Major in the Ayrshire regiment of fencible dragoons, which he joined at Carlisle, where, in 1796, he married the daughter of Colonel John Irving. His regiment being sometime after reduced, he fixed his residence in London, following his favorite pursuits with unabated ardour, and for which he received the degree of Doctor of Laws from the University of Dublin. On this occasion he visited that capital, and while there, had the farther distinction of knighthood conferred on him by the Lord Lieutenant, the late Marquis Cornwallis. By the University of Rostock, Sir William was created a Doctor in Philosophy. He was also elected a Fellow of the Royal Society of Edinburgh, and a Member of the Royal Academy of Sciences at Gottingen, and of other learned bodies. When an intercourse was opened with the Court of Persia, Sir William was selected as a proper person to fill the office of secretary to the embassy, and this, we believe, is the only official situation to which he has been appointed. His works are, Persian Miscellanies, an Essay to facilitate the reading of Persian Manuscripts, 4to. 1795.—Oriental Collections, 3 v. 4to. 1797.—Epitome of the Ancient History of Persia, 8vo. 1799.—The Oriental Geography of Ebn Haukal, 4to. 1800.—Tales of Bakhtyar and the Ten Viziers, translated from the Persian, 8vo. 1801.—Observations on some Medals and Gems, tracing inscriptions in the Pehlavi or ancient Persian Character, 4to. 1801.—And he is an occasional contributor to the Classical Journal.

OUTRAM, EDMUND, D.D. Public Orator of the University of Cambridge, and Rector of St. Philip's, Birmingham, for which he was, by a decree of the Court of Common Pleas in a cause between Brazen Nose College, Oxford, and the Bishop of Salisbury, adjudged to vacate his rectory of Witton Rivers, in the county of Wilts. Dr. Outram has published, Sermons on Public Occasions and a Curious Collection of Extracts exhibiting the character of Methodism from the Publications of the Sectaries, 8vo. 1809.

OVERTON, JOHN, A.M. Rector of St. Margaret and St. Cuthbert in the city of York. This gentleman distinguished himself, some years ago, by his zeal on behalf of that class of divines who have taken a middle course between Calvinism and Arminianism, for which, by the interest of Mr. Wilberforce, he obtained his present preferment from the Crown. His works are,

The True Churchmen ascertained, or an Apology for those of the Regular Clergy of the Establishment who are called Evangelical Ministers, 8vo. 1801.—The Duty of Britons, a sermon, 8vo. 1803.—Four Letters to the Editor of the Christian Observer, being a Reply to his strictures on the True Churchmen ascertained, 8vo. 1805.—England's Glory and Duty, a sermon, on the day of general Thanksgiving for the Peace, 8vo. 1814.

OWEN, JOHN, M.A. late Fellow of Corpus Christi Coll. Cambridge, and Rector of Paglesham in Essex. Mr. Owen was for more than seventeen years Curate of Fulham, where he enjoyed the particular friendship of the late Bishop Porteus, who gave him the living which he now enjoys. The successor to that prelate, however, conceived it to be his duty to insist upon residence, in consequence of which Mr. Owen was obliged to relinquish the curacy of Fulham, the inhabitants of which parish made him a very handsome present as a testimony of their esteem. This gentleman has distinguished himself as one of the founders of the Bible Society, to which he continues to act as principal Secretary, and the cause of which he has pleaded with great ability. His publications are,

The Retrospect, or Reflections on the State of Religion and Politics in France and Great Britain, 8vo. 1794.—Righteous Judgment, a sermon, preached at Cambridge, before Sir William Ashurst at the Assizes, 8vo. 1794.—Travels into Different Parts of Europe, in the years 1791 and 1792, with Familiar Remarks on Men and Manners, 2 v. 8vo. 1795.—The Christian Monitor for the Last Days, 8vo. 1799; 2nd edition, 1808.—The Fashionable World Displayed, 12mo. 1804.—An Address to the Chairman of the East India Company occasioned by Mr. Twining's Letter on the Danger of Interfering in the Religious Opinions of the Natives of India, 8vo. 1807.—Vindication of the Bible Society, in answer to the Country Clergyman's Letter to Lord Teignmouth, 8vo. 1807.—The Uncertainty of the Morrow, a sermon, preached at Fulham, on occasion of the fire by which Mr. Ord's gardener was burned to death, 8vo. 1807.—Youth Addressed, a sermon, preached at Fulham, 8vo. 1808.—A Discourse occasioned by the Death of Mrs. Elizabeth Prowse, 8vo. 1810.—A Sermon occasioned by the Death of William Sharpe, Esq. 8vo. 1810.

PARK, GRATIANO.

Affectation, or the Close of the Eighteenth Century, a dialogue, 4to. 1799.

PARK, JAMES ALLAN, Esq. Benchet of Lincoln's Inn, and King's Counsel. He is the son of a medical gentleman, who formerly practised with reputation at Edinburgh, and afterwards settled at Newington in Surrey. Mr. Park, on receiving a liberal education, adopted the law as a profession, and was placed under an eminent counsel in the conveying line. Having completed the usual course of terms he was called to the bar, and soon acquired notice by his acuteness in mercantile law and cases of marine insurance. The incorruptible integrity of his principles and the urbanity of his manners have also essentially contributed to his advancement, and he will most probably be elevated to the judicial bench on the next vacancy. He has published,

A System of the Law of Marine Insurances, 8vo. 1787; 4th edition, with considerable additions, 1800.—An Earnest Exhortation to a Frequent Reception of the Holy Sacrament of the Lord's Supper; particularly addressed to young persons, by a Layman, 12mo. 1804.

PARKES, SAMUEL, F.L.S. Member of the Geological Society, Fellow of the Antiquarian Society of Perth, Honorary Member of the Literary and Philosophical Societies of Newcastle and Norwich, and proprietor of the chemical manufactory in Goswell Street.

The Chemical Catechism, 8vo. 1806; 5th edition, 1812.—Rudiments of Chemistry, illustrated by Experiments, 18mo. 1809.—The occasion of the last publication was the fact that a well known bookseller made so free with this author's Chemical Catechism as to transcribe it, without any modesty, under the title of the Grammar of Chemistry. An injunction in Chancery, however, corrected the piracy, after which the injured author, for the protection of his property, published an abridgment of his own book.

PARKINSON, JAMES, Surgeon and Apothecary at Hoxton; and a Member of the Geological Society. This ingenious practitioner and naturalist has distinguished himself by several valuable works, as, Medical Admonitions addressed to Families, 2 v. 12mo. 1799; 5th edition, 1809.—The Villager's Friend and Physician, 12mo. 1800.—The Chemical Pocket Book, 8vo. 1799; 4th edition, 1807.—The Hospital Pupil, or an Essay intended to facilitate the Study of Medicine and Surgery, 8vo. 1800.—Hints for the Improvement of Trusses, 8vo. 1802.—The Way to Health, 12mo. 1802.—Dangerous Sports, a tale for children, 12mo.—Organic Remains of a Former World, with plates, 3 v. 4to. 1804-1811.—Remarks on Mr. Whitbread's Plan for the Education of the Poor, 8vo. 1807.—Observations on the Nature and Cure of the Gout, 8vo. 1805.—Observations on the Excessive Indulgence of Children, 8vo. 1807.—Observations on the Act for regulating Mad-houses, 8vo. 1811.

PARKINSON, RICHARD, a native of Yorkshire, who says, in one of his works, that he has been for many years a practical farmer in England, two in America, and two in Ireland, in which last country, he so improved an estate of five hundred acres, belonging to Lord Conyngham, as to leave nothing for the person who succeeded him in the management of it but to sow and reap. Mr. Parkinson is the author of,

The Experienced Farmer, 2 v. 8vo. 1798.—A Tour in America, in 1798 and 1800, 2 v. 8vo. 1805.—The English Practice of Agriculture exemplified in the Management of a Farm in Ireland, 8vo. 1806.—Observations on Gypsum as a Manure, 8vo. 1808.—Treatise on the Breeding and Management of Live Stock, 2 v. 8vo. 1810.—General View of the Agriculture of Huntingdonshire, 8vo. 1811.

PARKINSON, T. M.D.

A Treatise on the Management of Parturient Animals, cr. 8vo. 1813.

PARNELL, Sir HENRY, Bart. M.P. The father of this gentleman, the late Sir John Parnell, Chancellor of the Exchequer, was grandson of the celebrated poet, the friend of Swift and Archdeacon of Clogher. Sir Henry has distinguished himself in the House of Commons on many occasions, particularly the Catholic Question, and the recent measure for regulating the Corn Laws. He has published,

The Principles of Currency and Exchange Illustrated, 8vo. 1805.—An Historical Apology for the Irish Catholics, 8vo. 1807.—A History of the Penal Laws against the Irish Catholics, 8vo. 1808.—Speech in the House of Commons on a motion to assimilate the Currency of Great Britain and Ireland, 8vo. 1809.—Speech on the Mode of Collecting Tithes in Ireland, 8vo. 1810.—Treatise on the Corn Trade and Agriculture, 8vo. 1809.—Substance of his Speeches in the House of Commons, with additional Observations on the Corn Laws; which pamphlet is recorded in No. VII. of the Pamphleteer.

PARQUOT, P. D.

Letters to the Duke of Portland and the Earl of Liverpool, on the present high Price of Provisions, 8vo. 1800.

PARR, SAMUEL, LL.D. This learned divine was born at Harrow on the Hill, Jan. 26, 1746. He received his education at Harrow School, from whence he removed to Emmanuel College, Cambridge: but before he was twenty, he became assistant in the school where he had been bred. On the death of Dr. Sumner, the master, he offered himself as candidate to succeed him, but being rejected on account of his youth, he removed from Harrow and opened a seminary at Stanmore. In 1769 he entered into orders, and in 1777 he went to Colchester on being appointed master of an endowed grammar school in that town. The year following, however, he removed to Norwich, to superintend a similar establishment in that city. In 1781 he took his doctor's degree at Cambridge, and in 1783 Bishop Lowth bestowed upon him a prebend in the Cathedral of St. Paul. In 1785 Lady Trafford presented him to the perpetual curacy of Hatton, near Warwick, to which place he retired shortly after, adding to his parochial duties the charge of a few private pupils. The riots at Birmingham in 1791, had nearly proved destructive to the property of Dr. Parr, in consequence of his intimacy with Dr. Priestley, and perhaps on account of his known political sentiments. Luckily, however, the mischievous design of the mob was frustrated in this instance; and the next year Dr. Parr exchanged the curacy of Hatton for the rectory of Wadenhoe in Northamptonshire. Early in 1793 he embarked as a voluntary writer in the British Critic, where hereviewed Dr. Combe's Variorum Edition of Horace, with such acuteness and learning as completely demolished that showy and expensive work. This critique has been reprinted in the Classical Journal, with additions. This produced a bitter attack on the Doctor, by the Editor, who made no scruple of charging him by name as the critic. To this a reply was made, in which the lash was repeated with still greater severity. In 1802 Dr. Parr was presented, by Sir Francis Burdett, to the rectory of Graffham in Huntingdonshire; and we have heard, that when the party of Mr. Fox came into power, an application was made for the elevation of the Dr. to a dignity in the church, which, however, met with such opposition as to prove of no effect. In 1771, he married Miss Maissendale, by whom he has had several children, none of whom are living. The Doctor is as great a smoker as the learned Dr. Isaac Barrow was, and we have been told, that he has emptied twenty pipes of an evening. His literary performances are,

Discourse on the late Fast by Philæleutherns Norfolciensis, 4to. 1781.—On Education and the Plans pursued in Charity Schools, 4to. 1786.—Beilendæus de Statu, with dedications, &c. 8vo. 1787.—Tracts by Warburton and a Warburtonian, 8vo. 1789.—Sequel to the Printed Paper lately circulated by the Rev. Charles Curtis, 8vo. 1791.—Letter from Irenopolis to the Inhabitants of Eleutheropolis, or a Serious Address to the Dissenters of Birmingham, by a Member of the Established Church, 8vo. 1792.—Remarks on the Statement of Dr. Charles Combe, by an occasional writer in the British Critic, 8vo. 1795.—A Spital Sermon preached before the Lord Mayor and Aldermen of London, at Christ Church, Newgate Street, 4to. 1800.—Sermon preached on the Fast Day, at Hatton, 4to. 1808.—Characters of the late Charles James Fox, published under the name of Philopatris Varvicensis, 2 v. 8vo. 1809.—And occasional contributions in the Classical Journal.

PATTON, PHILIP, Admiral of the White, and father of the preceding, was a midshipman under Boscawen in 1755; present at the siege of Louisbourg in 1758; and the year following in the battle off Lagos, as well as in that fought by Hawke with Confians. In 1780 he was flag captain to Admiral Digby in the action with Langara. In 1779 he was made post, and in the Belle Poule he took the Cologne, commanded by the notorious Luke Ryan. From 1782 he was unemployed till 1803, when he hoisted his flag as Port Admiral in the Downs; and the next year was appointed a Lord of the Admiralty, which post he held till the change of ministers in 1806, from which time he has lived in retirement at Fareham in Hampshire. This gallant veteran has published a valuable work entitled,

The Natural Defence of an Insular Empire, earnestly recommended, 4to. 1810.

PAUL, SIR GEORGE ONESIPHORUS, Bart. of the county of Gloucester. This worthy baronet has distinguished himself by his philanthropic exertions for the reform of prisons, and in other concerns of a patriotic nature. sion he published a Thesis, entitled Dissertatio Inauguralis de Scrophula. He practised many years at Birmingham, and was physician to the hospital there, but at length he removed to London, and obtained considerable practice, till the impaired state of his health compelled him to settle at Reading. When the abridgment of the Philosophical Transactions was projected, Dr. Pearson became associated in that undertaking with Dr. Hutton and Dr. Shaw; his department being the medical papers and medical biography. His works are,

A short Account of the Nature and Properties of different Kinds of Airs, so far as relates to their Medicinal Use, 8vo. 1794.—The Arguments in favour of Inflammatory Diathesis in Hydrophobia considered, 8vo. 1798; 2d edit. 1812.—Observations on Bilious Fevers, 8vo. 1799.—Observations on the Catarrhal Fever, 8vo. 1803.—Outlines of a Plan to stop the Progress of Contagion, 8vo. 1804.—A Practical Synopsis of the Materia Alimentaria and Materia Medica, 8vo. 1808.—Thesaurus Medicamentum; a Selection of Medical Formulæ, 4th. edit. 8vo. 1810.—Account of a particular Preparation of Salted Fish, 8vo. 1812.—Description of the Plague, 8vo. 1813.

PECKITT, WILLIAM, the enthusiastic author of a book, with this title:

The wonderful Love of God to Man; or Heaven opened in Earth, 8vo. 1794. Of this curious performance the following specimen may perhaps serve to amuse the reader; "These orders of holy spirits so diffused also through the vastness of the terrestrial universe are called the elements; each one in these orders respectively is of the most perfect form, solid yet elastic substance; in all wonderfully minute! but vary in proportion, and respectively named accordingly, from the greater in area, and power, to the lesser."

PECKWELL, ROBERT HENRY, Esq. Barrister at Law, and son of the late Dr. Peckwell, a celebrated Calvinistic clergyman, who died of a mortification, occasioned by dissecting a human body. The present gentleman was a member of Christ Church, Oxford, where he took the degree of M.A. in 1799. He has published, Reports of Cases of Controverted Elections, 2 v. 8vo. 1804, 6.

PEDDIE, Rev. JAMES, a presbyterian minister at Edinburgh, who has published,

A Defence of the Associate Synod, against the Charge of Sedition, addressed to William Porteus, D.D. 8vo. 1800.—The Traveller, or Meditations on various Subjects, by James Meikle, late Surgeon at Carnwath, 2d edit. 12mo. 1813.

PEEL, Sir ROBERT, Bart. of Drayton Manor, in the county of Stafford, and M. P. was born at Peelcross, in Lancashire, in 1750. He embarked in the cotton trade at an early age, and in conjunction with the late Mr. Yates, established an extensive manufactory at Bury, in the above county, which has risen to a state of unequalled prosperity. In 1787, Mr. Peel married the daughter of his partner, by whom he has had eleven children. About that period, he made some large purchases of landed property, in the counties of Lancaster, Stafford, and Warwick; and in 1790, he was returned member for the borough of Tamworth. In his legislative capacity, he has been a strenuous supporter of government, on the most liberal principles; and in 1797, the firm of Peel and Yates subscribed 10,000*l.* for the prosecution of the war. Their charities also have been equally extensive and munificent, and Sir Robert Peel, who in 1801 was created a baronet, very properly, for his public spirit, and eminent services, has always stood forward in aid of every benevolent concern. He is a Governor of Christ's Hospital; a Vice-president of the Literary Fund; President of the House of Recovery at Manchester; and an active Member of the Society for bettering the Condition of the Poor, to the fund of which he contributed 1000*l.* Sir Robert has published,

The National Debt productive of National Prosperity, 8vo. 1780.—The Substance of his Speech in the House of Commons, on the Union with Ireland, 8vo. 1799.

PEERS, CHARLES, M.A. F.S.A. of St. John's College, Cambridge. He is the author of a Seatonian prize poem, on the subject of, Christ's Lamentation over Jerusalem, 4to. 1805.

PELHAM, GEORGE, D.D. Lord Bishop of Exeter and prebendary of Chichester. This prelate is the brother of the Earl of Chichester, and was bred at Cambridge, but on being raised to the see of Bristol in 1803, he obtained his Doctor's degree, from the Archbishop of Canterbury. On the removal of Bishop Fisher to Salisbury, he was translated to Exeter. His Lordship has published,

A Charge to the Clergy of the Diocese of Bristol, 4to. 1804.—Sermon preached at St. Paul's, at the yearly Meeting of the Charity Children, 4to. 1805.

PELHAM, M. a lady who has distinguished herself by some useful little books for children, as

The Rational Brutes, or Talking Animals, 18mo. 1803.—First going to School, 18mo. 1804.—Essays on Moral and Religious Subjects, 12mo. 1807.—The Parent's and Tutor's Catechism, 12mo. 1812.

PELLIZER, JOSEPH EMMANUEL.

The Elements of Universal Chronology taken from the Holy Bible: applied, for the first time, to the Astronomical Calculation of the Cycles for the Correction of the Almanack, 8vo. 1798.

PELTIER, JOHN. This gentleman, a native of Nantes in Brittany, is the son of a rich West India merchant of that city, and was brought up in the commercial line. He resided at Paris when the revolution broke out; and began writing against its principles as early as the month of August, 1789, at which time he published a pamphlet which ran through many editions, against the Constituent Assembly, under the title of "Sauvez nous ou Sauvez vous." Shortly after, he denounced the Duke d'Orleans and Mirabeau as the chief authors of the excesses committed by the mob at Versailles, on the 5th of October, in another pamphlet intitled, "Domine Salvum fac Regem." After this he began a course of periodical publications, either in Paris or in London, where he has resided since the month of September 1792. His principal publications are,

Les Actes des Apôtres 2 v. 12mo. A Ludicrous Work against the Framers of the Democratico-Royal Constitution of 1791, a work now become extremely scarce: and the having it in their possession was the cause of many persons being sent to the guillotine in 1793 and 1794.—Dernier Tableau de Paris, or History of the Events of the 10th of August, and 2nd of September, 1792, 2 v. 8vo.—Tableau de l'Europe, 2 v. London 1794 and 1795.—Paris pendant les Années 1795 à 1802, 250 numbers, making 35 v. in 8vo.—L'Ambigu, a periodical work, a number of which has been published every ten days since 1803: it comprises, now, 50 volumes in 8vo. This work obtained great celebrity from a prosecution which the minister of Buonaparte, then first consul, caused the British Government to institute against the author for libellous matter. A verdict of guilty was given against him in the Court of King's Bench, though he was defended by Sir J. Mackintosh: but as the trial took place on the very day when war was renewed between France and England, M. Peltier was never brought up for judgment. Though this indefatigable writer has published for the cause of his King more than 130 volumes of original works and translations, it does not seem, that his perseverance and talents have procured him the least favor of the French Court, as he has constantly remained in this country, where, we understand, he receives a very moderate pension from our government. M. Peltier has been for many years the confidential Chargé d'Affaires of the King of Hayti, Henry Christophe, and he is a warm friend to the abolition of the slave trade.

PEMBERTON, CHRISTOPHER ROBERT, M.D. F.R.S.

A Practical Treatise on Various Diseases of the Abdominal Viscera, 8vo. 1806.—Oratio in Theatro Coll. Reg. Med. Londinens. habita, 4to. 1806.

PENN, GRANVILLE, Esq. F.S.A. a gentleman of the same family as the following, and equally distinguished by his genius, learning, and piety. He has written, Critical Remarks on Isaiah, vii, 18, 4to. 1799.—Remarks on the Eastern Origin of Mankind, and of the Arts of Cultivated Life, 4to. 1799.—Three Copies of his Greek Version of the Inscription on the Stoea from Egypt containing a Decree of the Priests in honor of Ptolemy the Fifth, 8vo. 1802.—A Christian's Survey of all the Principal Events and Periods of the World, 2nd edit. cr. 8vo. 1812.—The Bioscope, or Dial of Life explained, fc. 8vo. 1812.—The Prophecy of Ezekiel concerning Gog the last Tyrant of the Church, his Invasion of Ros, his discomfiture and final fall examined and in part illustrated, fc. 8vo. 1814.—Original Lines and Translations, fc. 8vo. 1815.

PENN, JOHN, Esq. of Stoke Park near Windsor, and of Spring Garden, London. This respectable gentleman is a lineal descendant of the founder of Pennsylvania; and though he does not profess the same religious faith, he is as much distinguished by talent and philanthropy. Mr. Penn has devoted much of his time to literary pursuits, and he has had the honor of being noticed by the marked esteem of our venerable sovereign and most of the royal family. Near his residence is Stoke Church, in which are deposited the remains of the Poet Gray; and as a mark of respect to this great man, he has, in his own grounds, erected a mausoleum to his memory. This gentleman preserves with veneration part of the trunk of the tree under which his ancestor signed the treaty with the Indians. His works are,

The Battle of Edington or British Liberty, a tragedy, 8vo. 1796.—Reply to the Strictures of the Monthly Reviewers on the tragedy of the Battle of Edington, 8vo. 1797.—Critical, Poetical, and Dramatic Works, 2 v. 8vo. 1798.—A Timely Appeal to the Common Sense of the People of Great Britain in general, and of the Inhabitants of Buckinghamshire in particular, on the Present State of Affairs, 8vo. 1798.—Further Thoughts, being a continuation of the Timely Appeal, 8vo. 1800.—Translation of a Letter from Signor Ramieri di Calsaligi to Count Alfieri, on tragedy, 8vo. 1797.—Poems, being mostly reprints, 2 v. 8vo. 1801.—Observations in illustration of Virgil's Fourth Eclogue, 8vo. 1810.

PERRY, J.

Letters to the Rev. J. Kinghorn on the Doctrine of the Divinity of Christ, 8vo. 1813.

PERRY, SAMPSON, the vender of a nostrum for the cure of the stone and gravel. He was, many years ago, surgeon in the Middlesex Militia, but, devoting himself to political pursuits, he became the editor of a scandalous paper called the Argus, which, at the commencement of the French revolution, was distinguished for its virulence and industry in the dissemination of republican doctrines. For a libel in this journal, the publisher was prosecuted and convicted, on which he withdrew to Paris, where he contracted an intimacy with Thomas Paine, and other demagogues; but the reign of terror made that capital too dangerous for him, and after a short confinement, he returned to England, where he was taken up on the outlawry which he had incurred by not having appeared for judgment on his former conviction. He remained in Newgate till a change of ministry and then was liberated, since which he has devoted himself to his solvent medicine. He has published,

A Treatise on the Laes, Gonorrhæa, and Tabes Dorsalis, 8vo. 1786.—A Philosophical and Historical Sketch of the French Revolution, 2 v. 8vo. 1795.—The Argus, or General Observer of the Moral, Political, and Commercial World, 8vo. 1796.—The Origin of Government compatible with, and founded on, the Constitutional Object of the Corresponding Society, 8vo. 1797.—There was also a long article on his outlawry, inserted in the early volumes of the Monthly Magazine.

PHILIPPART, JOHN, Esq. He was born in London of a very respectable family, and received a liberal education, which was completed at a military academy of considerable note. On leaving this seminary, he was placed in the office of an eminent Scotch solicitor; but the hours which should have been devoted to the commentaries of Blackstone, were given to those of Cæsar. This inclination to military studies led him at last to relinquish the law, and in 1809 he became private secretary to Lord Sheffield, and two years afterwards he obtained an appointment under government, at which time he exerted himself in endeavouring to establish a benefit fund for officers, the idea of which was suggested by Colonel Roberts. But after receiving considerable encouragement from persons of high rank in the profession, the plan was relinquished, owing to the natural jealousy of ministers, that such an association might possibly be of dangerous consequence. Mr. Philippart also distinguished himself by suggesting the means of rendering the militia disposable for foreign service, part of which plan was adopted by Lord Castlereagh. This gentleman is the proprietor and editor of the Military Panorama, besides which he has published, Observations on the Military Systems of the British Empire, and a Plan for rendering the Incomes of General Officers adequate to the Support of their rank, 8vo. 1812.—Memoirs of the Prince Royal of Sweden, 8vo. 1813.—The Northern Campaign, 2 v. 8vo. 1814.—Memoirs and Campaigns of General Moreau, 8vo. 1814.—A Letter to Lord Castlereagh on revising the Bill for rendering the Militia disposable for Foreign Service, 8vo.—The Campaigns in Germany and France from the Expiration of the Armistice to the Abdication of Napoleon Buonaparte, 2 v. 8vo. 1814.—The Royal Military Calendar, containing the Services of all the General Officers living at the close of 1814, 2 v. 8vo. 1815.—In the Pamphleteer, he has the three following articles, Supplement to the Plan for an Officers' Fund.—Observations on Several Authors and Books in the English and Foreign Languages.—and Supplementary Observations on Colonel Roberts's Letter to the Army. Mr. Philippart is engaged at present, we understand, in an extensive work entitled, The Lives of the British Generals. His lady has published two poems, entitled Muscovy, 8vo. 1813; and Victoria, 8vo. 1813.

PHILLIPS, NATHANIEL, D.D. and Minister of the Independent Meeting-house in Hanover Street, Long Acre.

British Liberty considered, a Sermon preached on the General Fast, Oct. 19, 1803. 8vo. 1803.

PHILLIPS, Sir RICHARD, Knt. was born in London in 1768, and educated first at the school in Soho Square, and next at Chiswick. At an early period he conceived an aversion to animal food, in an abstinence from which he has continued to persevere ever since. He was brought up under his uncle, a brewer in Oxford Street, but in 1786, he became partner in the management of a school at Chester, from whence he removed, two years afterwards, to Leicester, where, in 1790, he opened a bookseller's shop and began to publish the Leicester Herald. In 1792 he distinguished himself by his concern in several canals, towards which he was a subscriber on paper, and turned his enterprising schemes to some advantage. The following year he was prosecuted for selling Paine's Rights of Man, and having been found guilty, was sentenced to be imprisoned twelve months in Leicester gaol. In 1795 his house and printing office were consumed by fire, soon after which he came to London, and was enabled by the democratic party to set up the Monthly Magazine, which was designed to be the organ of that faction, and in which cause it has continued to operate effectually enough from the period of its commencement to the present hour. The success which the publisher experienced in this work induced him to embark pretty largely, first in the hoisiery, and next in the bookselling business, so that he found it expedient to remove from St. Paul's Church Yard to New Bridge Street, where he carried on a very extensive concern. In 1807, he was chosen, by the management of his friends, one of the Sheriffs of the city of London, and on going up with an address in behalf of Ministers, he accepted the honor of knighthood, to the great astonishment of his republican friends. After various manœuvres to support his establishment, his name appeared in the Gazette, and for some months he led a life of obscurity at Pimlico, but on obtaining his certificate, he again burst forth as a meteor in the sphere of literature. His Magazine having been purchased in by some of his friends, he became the avowed editor of that publication, the common sewer of virulent politics and infidelity. This redoubtable personage, besides his diatribes in the Magazine under the signature of Common Sense, has published,

A Letter to the Livery of London, relative to the Duties and Office of Sheriff, 12mo. 1808.—Treatise on the Powers and Duties of Juries, 12mo. 1811.—Communications relative to the Datna Stramonium as a Cure for Asthma, 8vo. 1811.—Golden Rules for Jurymen, on a sheet, 1814.

PHILLIPS, RICHARD, Chemist, of London, but no relation to the preceding, is the author of a piece entitled, An Examination of the last edition of the Pharmacopœia Londinensis, 8vo. 1811.

PHILLIPS, S. M. Esq. of the Inner Temple, and barrister at law. Treatise on the Law of Evidence, 8vo. 1814.

PHILPOT, Rev. CHARLES, M.A. late Rector of Ripple in Kent, but now Vicar of St. Margaret at Cliffe in Sussex. This gentleman, who was formerly of Emmanuel College at Cambridge, has published, Humility, a night thought, 4to. 1791.

PHILLPOTTS, HENRY, M.A. Rector of Stainton le Street, Vicar of Bishop Middleham, Durham, and domestic chaplain to the Bishop of that diocese. He was educated at Rugby School, and afterwards entered of Magdalen College, Oxford, where he obtained a fellowship and took his master's degree in 1798. On entering into orders he was presented to the vicarage of Kilmersdon in Somersetshire, which he vacated when he removed to the North under the patronage of the venerable Bishop Barrington. Mr. Phillpotts is a very respectable scholar and divine, and has published, Guil. Jones Equitis Aurati Laudatio, præmia academico donata, 4to. 1801.—A Sermon preached before the University of Oxford, on Monday, Nov. 3. 1804, PICQUOT, A.

Elements of Universal Geography, 12mo. 1813.

PICTON, Sir THOMAS, Bart. a Major General in the Army, and formerly Governor of the Island of Trinidad, which situation brought upon him a singular prosecution in consequence of his being obliged, by the very nature of the conquest, to maintain the internal polity of the colony as it stood before it became a British settlement. Private pique and resentment discovered a ground of accusation against him in the punishment inflicted upon a woman of color by the laws and authorities of the island; and, strange to say, the Governor was tried in the court of King's Bench on a charge of cruelty inflicted by others. Judgment, however, was arrested, and this malicious affair ended to the disgrace of those by whom it was instituted. The General greatly distinguished himself in the Peninsular war, particularly in the storming of Badajoz; but, it is said, that his services in that contest have not received their adequate reward. He has published, Evidence taken at Port of Spain in the Case of Louisa Calderon, 8vo. 1806.

PIERCY, S. H. master of an academy in Sommers Town, St. Pancras, and the author of,

Tales for Youth, 12mo. 1809.

PICOTT, Rev. S. M.A.

Sacred Truth unfolded in a Course of Practical Lectures on the Principal Doctrines of Christianity, 8vo. 1811.

PIKE, JOHN BAXTER, M.D. This gentleman was born in King Street, Westminster, in 1745. After receiving a private education, he became an assistant in a school at Guildford, from whence he removed to some part of Kent, where he kept a seminary for youth. He was originally bred up in the church of England, but seceded from it in consequence of his embracing the Unitarian doctrines, and in 1777 he became an assistant to the late

Dr. Kippis. At this time he kept a boarding school, but about the year 1779 he removed to Stoke Newington, and soon after to Edmonton. Being of a changeable disposition, he gave up his academy and went to the West of England, where he had the charge of a dissenting congregation; but returned again to the metropolis, in 1791, and practised medicine, with little or no success. After this, his wife opened a school at Edmonton, from whence the doctor was obliged to withdraw on a charge which affected him very seriously. From that period he has led a life of obscurity somewhere in Dorsetshire. He many years ago issued proposals for a History of Middlesex, but never proceeded with the work. His avowed publications are, Forms for Public Devotion at Lancaster Chapel, 12mo. 1784.—A Volume of Sermons on Various Subjects, 8vo.

PIKE, ZEBULON MONTGOMERY, Major of the 6th Regiment of United States Infantry. He is the author of, Exploratory Travels through the Western Territories of North America, 4to. 1811.

PILE, ANN.

Female Art, or True and False, a tale, 8vo. 1807.

PILGRIM, EDWARD TRAPP, Esq. a merchant in the city, who has been a frequent contributor to the European Magazine, chiefly of epigrams, some of which are really excellent, particularly one on Robert Death, the landlord of the Falcon at Battersea. These effusions the author collected and published under the title of, Poetical Trifles, 12mo. 1785.

PILKINGTON, MARY, a lady who has distinguished herself by writing many useful books for children. She was born at Cambridge, where her father, Mr. Hopkins, was an eminent surgeon, but so improvident that he left his widow and daughter in embarrassed circumstances. The latter, however, was taken care of by her grandfather, who was a respectable clergyman, and in 1786 she married Mr. Pilkington, a surgeon, then resident at Ely, but afterwards he entered into the navy, and his wife became a governess in a family, where she resided eight years. On quitting that situation, she turned her attention to literature as an employment, and her efforts for the improvement and entertainment of youth have been attended with great success. The following is a list of her publications:

The History of Mortimer Lascelles, 12mo. 1797.—A Collection of Charades and Riddles, 12mo. 1798.—Scripture Histories, 12mo. 1798.—A Mirror for the Female Sex, 12mo. 1798.—Historical Beauties for Young Ladies, 12mo. 1798.—Henry, or the Foundling, 12mo. 1799.—Marmontel's Tales, selected and abridged, 12mo. 1799.—Biography for Boys, 12mo. 1799.—Biography for Girls, 12mo. 1799.—The Spoiled Child, 12mo. 1799.—New Tales of the Castle, 12mo. 1800.—The Asiatic Princess, 12mo. 1800.—Edward Baroard, 12mo. 1801.—Tales of the Cottage, 12mo. 1801.—Tales of the Hermitage, 12mo. 1801.—Mentorial Tales for Young Ladies, 12mo. 1802.—Marvellous Adventures, or the Vicissitudes of a Cat, 12mo. 1802.—Goldsmith's History of Animated Nature abridged, 12mo. 1803.—Virtue, 12mo.—Biographical Dictionary of Celebrated Females, 12mo.—Parental Duplicity, 3 v. 12mo.—Crimes and Characters, or the Outcast, 3 v. 12mo. 1805.—Violet Vale, or Stories for the Entertainment of Youth, 12mo. 1806.—Ellen, 3 v. 12mo. 1807.—The Calendar, or Monthly Recreations, 12mo. 1807.—The Minor's Library, vol. I. 12mo. 1808.—Sacred Elucidations, or Sunday Evening Remarks, 12mo. 1809.—Sinclair, or the Mysterious Orphan, 4v. 12mo. 1809.—The Ill-fated Magicians, 12mo. 1809.—Characteristic Incidents drawn from Real Life, 12mo. 1810.—Original Poems, fc. 8vo. 1811.—The Sorrows of Caesar, or Adventures of a Foundling Dog, 12mo. 1813.—Margate, or Sketches descriptive of that Place of Resort, 12mo. 1813.—Letters from a Mother to a Daughter, 12mo.—Memoirs of the Rockingham Family, 12mo.—Evening Recreations, or a Collection of Enigmas, Charades, Riddles, &c. 12mo. 1813.

PILKINGTON, JAMES, the author of a very sensible county survey, which procured from the Society for the Encouragement of Arts, a premium of twenty-five guineas. His works are,
A View of the Present State of Derbyshire, 2 v. 8vo. 1789.—The Doctrine of Equality of Rank and Condition examined, 8vo. 1795.

PILKINGTON, MRS. JANE.

Miscellaneous Poems, 2 v. 8vo. 1796.

PINCHARD, Mrs. the wife of an attorney at Taunton in Somersetshire. She has published some amusing and instructive books of which the titles are,
The Blind Child, 12mo. 1796.—Mystery and Confidence, a tale, founded on fact, 3 v. 12mo. 1814.—The Ward of Delamere, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1815.

PINCKARD, GEORGE, M.D. Member of the Royal College of Physicians, deputy inspector general of hospitals to his Majesty's forces, and physician to the Bloomsbury Dispensary. Dr. Pinckard was one of the medical officers in the expedition against St. Domingo, in 1795, and he has published the result of his observations in a very valuable work entitled, Notes on the West Indies, 3 v. 8vo. 1806.

PINKERTON, JOHN, F.A.S. This gentleman was born at Edinburgh in 1758, and educated at the Grammar School of Lanerk. Being intended for the profession of the law, he was placed in the office of a writer to the signet at Edinburgh, with whom he served a clerkship of five years. Soon after the death of his father, in 1780, he removed to London, where he has regularly continued to reside in the employment of the booksellers. Many years ago he married the sister of the present Bishop of St. David's, but without any blame on the part of the lady, the parties have been long since separated. In the year 1785, Mr. Pinkerton surprised the literary world with a very extraordinary performance, under the assumed name of Robert Heron, in which work he ran down the ancients, and criticised the best of the moderns, with an air of assurance that could not have been warranted even by the most confirmed character of taste, learning, and judgment. In these ridiculous letters, he had also the vanity to recommend a new system of orthography more fantastical and absurd, if possible, than that which his countryman, Mr. Elphinstone, endeavoured, with so much zeal, to introduce. Mr. Pinkerton, by contriving to gain the friendship of the late Horace Walpole, afterwards Earl of Orford, became acquainted with Gibbon the historian, and other persons of eminence. When Lord Orford died, our author, very delicately, no doubt, sold his sayings, stories, and letters, to the proprietor of the Monthly Magazine, in which vehicle they appeared for about a year or two under the title of Walpoliana, and when the stock was out, the whole was reprinted in two small volumes, with a memoir of the deceased nobleman. The other publications of Mr. Pinkerton are,

Rimes, 8vo. 1781.—Tales in Verse, 4to. 1782.—Two Dithyrambic Odes on Enthusiasm and Laughter, 4to. 1782.—Essay on Medals, 2 v. 8vo. 1784.—Letters of Literature, by Robert Heron, 8vo. 1785.—Ancient Scottish Poems from the MS. Collections of Sir Richard Maitland, 2 v. 8vo. 1786.—Dissertation on the Origin and Progress of the Scythians or Goths, 8vo. 1787.—Vitæ Antiquæ Sanctorum, 8vo. 1789.—The Bruce, or the History of Robert, King of Scotland, written in Scottish verse, by John Barbour, 3 v. 8vo. 1789.—The Medallist's History of England to the Revolution, 4to. 1790.—Scottish Poems, reprinted from scarce editions, 3 v. 8vo. 1792.—An Inquiry into the History of Scotland, preceding the Reign of Malcolm III. 2 v. 8vo. 1789.—The History of Scotland from the accession of the House of Stuart, 2 v. 4to. 1797.—Iconographia Scotica, or Portraits of Illustrious Persons of Scotland, with Biographical Notes, 2 v. 8vo. 1795-1797.—The Scottish Gallery, or Portraits of Eminent Persons of Scotland, with their Characters, 8vo. 1799.—Modern Geography, digested on a new plan, 2 v. 4to. 1802; 2nd edition, 3 v. 4to. 1807.—An Abridgment of Ditto in 1 v. 8vo.—Recollections of Paris, 2 v. 8vo. 1806.—General Collection of Voyages and Travels, 13 v. 4to. 1808-1813.—New Modern Atlas, in parts, 1809-1815.—Petralogy, or a Treatise on Rocks, 2 v. 8vo. 1811.—An Inquiry into the History of Scotland, to which is added a Dissertation on the Origin and Progress of the Scythians or Goths, 2 v. 8vo. 1814.

PINKERTON, JOHN, engineer and canal contractor.

PINN, WILLIAM.

Poems on Various Subjects, 8vo. 1800.

PINNOC, REV. JAMES, A.M. Rector of Lasham in Hampshire, and formerly morning preacher at the Foundling Hospital.

Sermon preached at the Foundling Hospital, May 2, 1813, when several young persons attended to return thanks for their education, 4to. 1813.

PIOZZI, MRS. HESTER LYNCH. This lady is the daughter of John Salusbury, Esq. of Bodvel in Caernarvonshire, where she was born about the year 1744. In 1763 she married Mr. Henry Thrale, an eminent brewer in Southwark, and for some years representative in Parliament for that borough. On the death of that gentleman in 1781, his widow and four daughters went to reside at Bath, where, in 1784, Mrs. Thrale gave her hand to an Italian teacher of music named Gabriel Piozzi, with whom she visited the continent, and remained at Florence some years. Mrs. Piozzi was the intimate friend and correspondent of Dr. Johnson, whose displeasure she incurred by her very imprudent marriage; and when the Doctor died, she published letters and anecdotes of that venerable character, without paying much regard to the propriety of the selection, or the verity of her relations. The late ingenious Joseph Baretti, in particular, was very severe in his animadversions on her conduct, and Dr. Wolcot published an admirable poem, in which he exposed the literary lady and her competitor, Mr. Boswell, under the appropriate titles of "Bozzy and Piozzi." In the Miscellanies of Mrs. Anna Williams, printed in 1765, is a very beautiful tale written by Mrs. Thrale, entitled, "The Three Warnings," besides which she communicated many light essays and poetical effusions to other collections. Her separate works are, Anecdotes of Dr. Samuel Johnson during the last twenty years of his life, 8vo. 1786.—Letters to and from Dr. Samuel Johnson, 2 v. 8vo. 1788.—Observations and Reflections made in the Course of a Journey through France, Italy, and Germany, 2 v. 8vo. 1789.—The Florence Miscellany, 8vo.—British Synonymy, or an Attempt at regulating the Choice of Words in Familiar Conversation, 2 v. 8vo. 1794.—Retrospection, or a Review of the most Striking and Important Events, Characters, Situations, and their Consequences, which the last 1800 Years have presented to the View of Mankind, 2 v. 4to. 1801.

PIPER, HENRY HUNT, a dissenting teacher of what is called the Unitarian persuasion, in the city of Lincoln. He has published a single sermon with this title; Christian Liberty Advocated, 8vo. 1808.

PITMAN, AMBROSE, Esq. is the younger of the two sons of the late Bartlett Pitman, Esq. a respectable country gentleman in Gloucestershire, by Ann, one of the coheir-esses of Thomas Hallett, Esq. of Bridport in Dorsetshire. Mr. Thomas Pitman, the elder brother of our author, was inspector general of the brewery throughout England and Wales. He was a distinguished mathematician, and died in 1795. The subject of the present article having a musical turn, was placed under Dr. Arne in 1775, and continued with that eminent composer till the death of the Doctor, in 1778. After that event he retired into the country on an estate which was left him by his aunt. At the age of seventeen he published a poem which was favorably received, and about the same time he wrote a comic opera, in two acts, but it was never acted, though it had experienced the revision and approbation of the elder Colman. In 1788, he published the Beauties of Domenico Scarlatti, selected from that author's "Suites de Leçons." About this period he resided in the Weald of Kent, where he continued seven years, cultivating his favorite pursuits, and occasionally figuring as a poetical correspondent in the Maidstone Journal under the signature of Ephraim Epigram, Esq. He also published the favorite Amoroso of the Pensive Rose, and Sonnets from Petrarch with accompaniments. On his return to London, about 1795, he published several other musical works, and he was likewise a frequent contributor to the Newspapers and the European Magazine. Mr. Pitman has been married many years, and has one child now living, a daughter about eighteen, who is distinguished by her musical talents. The literary works of this writer are as follow;

Eugenio, or the Man of Sorrow, a legendary tale in verse, 4to. 1782.—The Distress of Integrity and Virtue, a poem in three cantos, 4to. 1782.

PITMAN, JOHN ROGERS, A.M. alternate morning preacher at Fitzroy and Berkley Chapels, also alternate evening preacher at the Foundling Hospital. He is the nephew of the gentleman mentioned in the preceding article. He has published, Excerpta ex variis Romanis Poetis, 12mo. 1808.

PITT, CALEB.

Essay on the Philosophy of Christianity, 2 parts, 8vo. 1796, 1811.

PITT, WILLIAM, of Birmingham, is the author of,

A General View of the Agriculture of the County of Stafford, 8vo. 1796.—General View of the Agriculture of Leicestershire, to which is annexed a Survey of Rutland by Richard Parkinson, 8vo. 1809.—General View of the Agriculture of Worcestershire, 8vo. 1811.—General View of the Agriculture of Northamptonshire, 8vo.—The Bullion Debate, a satirical poem, 8vo. 1811.—He has also several papers in Young's Annals of Agriculture.

PITT, WILLIAM MORTON, Esq. of Dorsetshire, and late Member of Parliament for that county. This respectable gentleman is the grandson of the celebrated Diamond Pitt, so called on account of his bringing to England the remarkable diamond afterwards purchased by the Regent of France. The subject of the present article has published,

An Address to the Landed Interest on the Deficiency of Habitations and Fuel for the Use of the Poor, 8vo. 1798.—He is also the author of some communications to the Bath Agricultural Papers, and Young's Annals of Agriculture.

PITTA, N. C. M.D. Physician at Madeira, is the author of,

An Account of the Island of Madeira, 8vo. 1812.—Treatise on the Influence of Climate on the Human Species, 8vo. 1812.

PITTARD, Rev. S. R. a dissenting pastor in the West of England, who has published,

A New Spanish and English Grammar, 8vo. 1807.

PLANTA, EDWARD, Esq.

New Picture of Paris, and Gazetteer of France, 18mo. 1814.

PLANTA, JOSEPH, Esq. F.R.S. a native of Switzerland, but who has resided many years in England as Librarian of the British Museum, and Secretary to the Royal Society. When the Emperor Alexander visited that national collection, he was attended by Mr. Planta, and on the monarch's saying that the museum at Paris contained more curiosities, the Librarian very pointedly observed, "Your Majesty should consider that we have nothing here but what has been honestly bought, and paid for." He has published:

An Essay on the Runic or Scandinavian Language, 4to.—The History of Switzerland, 2 v. 4to. 1800. 2d edit. 2 v. 8vo.—Catalogue of the MSS. in the Cottonian Library, fol. 1802.

PLATT, CHARLES, Surgeon to the New Finsbury dispensary and Member of the London Med. Soc.

An enquiry into the efficacy of Oxygen in the cure of Syphilis; with observations on its application in other disorders, 8vo. 1802.

PLATTS, JOHN.

Reflections on Materialism, Immaterialism, an Intermediate State, the Sleep of the Soul, the Resurrection of the Body, and a Future Life, 8vo. 1813.

PLAYFAIR, JOHN, D.D. F.R.S. and A.S. Edinb. Professor of Mathematics in that University. He is the son of Dr. James Playfair, author of an elaborate System of Chronology. The Professor is one of the principal conductors of the Edinb. Review, and has distinguished himself by his zealous defence of the Huttonian theory of the earth. His works are, Elements of Geometry, 8vo. 1796. 2d. edit. 1804.—Illustrations of the Huttonian Theory of the Earth, 8vo. 1802. This has been successfully attacked by the venerable geologist De Luc.—A Letter to the Author of the Examination of Professor Stewart's Statement, 8vo. 1806.—A complete System of Geography, Ancient and Modern, v. 1. 4to. 1808. v. 2. 1809. v. 5. 1813.—Outlines of Natural Philosophy, 8vo. 1812.—Various Papers in the Transactions of the Edinburgh Society; the Philosophical Transactions, and other collections of a scientific character.

PLAYFAIR, WILLIAM, a native of Edinburgh who has resided in London about 30 years as a reporter and calculator. He made himself conspicuous lately by alleging that he had obtained information of the intention of Buonaparte to enter France, and which intelligence he communicated to ministers some months before that event actually happened. Little notice, however, was taken of what he imparted to government, and when he published a narrative of the circumstance, with the correspondence arising out of it, the public appeared to regard it with equal indifference. Mr. Playfair has published,

Regulations for the Interest of Money, 8vo. 1785.—The Commercial and Political Atlas, 4to. 1786.—On the National Debt, with copper plate charts, 4to. 1787.—The inevitable Consequences of a Reform in Parliament, 8vo. 1792.—A general View of the actual force and resources of France, 8vo. 1793.—Better prospects to the Merchants and Manufacturers of Great Britain, 8vo. 1795.—Thoughts on the present State of French Politics, 8vo. 1793.—Peace with the Jacobins impossible, 8vo. 1794.—Letter to Earl Fitzwilliam, occasioned by his two Letters to the Earl of Carlisle, 8vo. 1794.—The History of Jacobinism, 8vo. 1795.—A real Statement of the Finances and Resources of Great Britain, 8vo. 1796.—Strictures on the Asiatic Establishments of Great Britain, 4to. 1800.—Statistical Tables, exhibiting a View of all the States of Europe, 4to. 1800.—The Statistical Breviary, shewing on a principle entirely new the Resources of every State and Kingdom in Europe, 8vo. 1801.—Proofs relative to the falsification by the French of the intercepted Letters, found on board the Admiral Aplin, East Indiaman, 8vo. 1804.—An Inquiry into the causes of the Decline and Fall of wealthy and powerful Nations, 4to. 1805. 2d edit. 1807.—Smith's Wealth of Nations, with Notes, Supplementary Chapters, &c. 11th edit. 3 v. 8vo. 1806.—A Statistical account of the United States of America, translated from the French, 8vo. 1807.—Plan for establishing the Balance of Power in Europe, 8vo. 1813.—Political Portraits in this new Era, with Notes Historical and Biographical, 2 v. 8vo. 1814.—The Statement of Buonaparte's Plot, made to Earl Bathurst and the French Ambassador, 8vo. 1815.

PLEES, Rev. W. G. a clergyman of the established church, and the author of, A Sermon preached in St. Aubin's Chapel, in the Isle of Jersey, on the Jubilee, 4to. 1809.

PLEYDELL, J. C. Lieut. Colonel in the army, and the author of,

An Essay on Field Fortification, 8vo. 1786. 2d edit. 1790.—Military Observations in a Tour through part of France, 4to. 1795.

PLOMER, T. W. a short-hand writer in London, who has published :

Report of the Trial of Lord Boringdon versus Sir Arthur Paget, for Crim. Con. with Lady B. 8vo. 1808.—The Trial of Colonel Wardle in the affair of Wright, 8vo. 1809.—Sir A. Paget's Letters, with the Speech of Mr. Dallas on the Trial, 8vo. 1809.—Report of the Trial of an action brought by Wright the Upholsterer, against Colonel Wardle, 8vo. 1809.

PLOWDEN, CHARLES, a Roman Catholic priest, resident at Bristol, and descended from the celebrated lawyer of that name in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and whose reports are still held in high authority. Mr. Charles Plowden was educated with his brother the barrister, in the school of Ignatius at St. Omer's, at which University he completed his studies and entered into orders. He was for some time a tutor in the Catholic seminary of Stonyhurst in Lancashire, from whence he removed to the charge of the chapel at Bristol, where he has distinguished himself by his zeal on the question of emancipation, and other subjects connected with his persuasion. He has published :

Remarks on the Writings of Joseph Berington, addressed to the Catholic Clergy of England, 8vo. 1792.—Remarks on a Book entitled Memoirs of Gregorio Panzani, 8vo. 1794.—Letters to C. Butler, W. Crause, H. Clifford, and W. Throckmorton, Esqrs. 8vo. 1796.—Considerations on the modern opinion of the Fallibility of the Pope, 8vo. 1796.—Some Letters in the Bristol Journal on Catholic Emancipation.

PLOWDEN, Mrs. FRANCES, wife of the barrister, is the author of, Virginia, an opera, in three acts, 8vo. 1800.

PLOWDEN, FRANCIS, brother to Mr. Charles P. and a Barrister of Lincoln's Inn. He was created a Doctor in Civil Law at Oxford in 1793, out of compliment, on account of some publications in which he had defended the English constitution with considerable ability; but it is to be lamented that in others of a later period he took a different course, for one of which he was prosecuted in Ireland at the suit of a respectable gentleman, whom he had grossly calumniated, and who obtained a verdict of 5,000*l.* damages. In consequence of this adjudication, the author thought proper to withdraw to France, where he at present resides, engaged as it is said in some enquiries into the ancient history of Ireland. His works are:

Investigation of the native Rights of British Subjects, 8vo. 1784.—A Supplement to ditto, 1785.—Impartial thoughts upon the beneficial Consequences of enrolling all Deeds, Wills, and Codicils affecting Lands throughout England and Wales, 8vo. 1790.—The Case stated, occasioned by the Act of Parliament lately passed for the Relief of the English Roman Catholics, 8vo. 1791.—Jura Anglorum, the Rights of Englishmen, being an Historical and Legal Defence of the present Constitution, 8vo. 1792.—A short History of the British Empire, during the last twenty months, 8vo. 1794.—A friendly and constitutional Address to the People of Great Britain, 8vo. 1794.—A short History of the British Empire during the year 1794, 8vo. 1795.—Church and State; being an enquiry into the Origin, Nature, and Extent of Ecclesiastical and Civil Authority, with reference to the British Constitution, 4to. 1795.—A Treatise upon the Law of Usury and Annuities, 8vo. 1796.—The Constitution of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Civil and Ecclesiastical, 8vo. 1802.—An Historical Review of the State of Ireland, from the Invasion of that Country under Henry II. to the close of its Union with Great Britain, 3 v. 4to. 1803.—A Postliminious Preface to the Historical Review of the State of Ireland, 4to. 1804.—An historical Letter to Sir Richard Musgrave, Bart. occasioned by his Strictures on the Historical Review, 8vo. 1805.—The Principles and Law of Tything illustrated, roy. 8vo. 1806.—Refutation of the Charge of having immoderately and maliciously advised the Prosecution in the Case of the King versus Graham, 8vo. 1807.—The History of Ireland from 1172 to 1810, 5 v. 8vo. 1812.

PLOWDEN, ROBERT, one of the same family with the preceding, and the author of,

A Letter to a Roman Catholic Clergyman upon Theological Inaccuracy, 8vo. 1795.

PLUMMER, THOMAS, Merchant of London, and the author of these tracts;

The Inconsistencies of Mr. Pitt on the subject of the War, and the present State of our Commerce, considered and fairly stated, 8vo. 1797.—A Letter to the Earl of Buckinghamshire on the pending discussions relative to the renewal of the East India Company's Charter, 8vo. 1813.

PLUMPTRE, ANNABELLA, third daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Robert Plumptre, 28 years president of Queen's Coll. Camb. who gave her an education very different from what generally falls to the lot of even well instructed females. The doctor was himself of a studious turn, and he took a delight in cultivating the inclination of his children to letters, particularly his daughters, who became by his tuition proficient in several modern languages; of which they have given abundant proofs in their spirited translations as well as in their own original compositions. The works of the present lady are:

Montgomery, or Scenes in Wales, nov. 2 v. 12mo.—The Mountain Cottager, a tale from the German, 12mo.—The Foresters, a play from the German of Iffland, 8vo. 1799.—Domestic Stories, from the German of different authors, 18mo.—The Western Mail, a Collection of Letters, 12mo.—The Guardian Angel, a tale from the German of Kotzebue, 18mo.—Stories for Children, 18mo. 1804.—Domestic Maugement, or the Healthful Cookery Book, anonymous, 12mo. 1810. 2d ed. 1812.

PLUMPTRE, ANNE, the second daughter of the above-mentioned Dr. Robert Plumptre, received, like her sister, a very extensive education from her worthy father. The acquisition of languages was always a favorite pursuit, with the present lady; who is not only well acquainted with French and German, but also the Italian and Spanish. She commenced author with some slight performances in periodical publications; and her first regular work was a novel in two volumes, published at first anonymously, but acknowledged by her in a second edition. The following is a list of her writings according to the order of their appearance:

Antoinette, nov. 2 v. 12mo.—The Rector's Son, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1798.—Seven Plays from the German of Kotzebue, 8vo. 1798-9.—Letters from different parts of the Continent, translated from the German of F. Matthison, 1 v. 8vo. 1799.—Physiognomical Travels from the German of Musæus, 3 v. 12mo. 1800.—The Life and Literary Career of Kotzebue, 8vo. 1800.—Something New, or Adventures at Campbell House, 3 v. 12mo. 1801.—Historical Relation of the Plague at Marseilles in 1720, from the French MS. of Bertraud, 8vo. 1805.—Narrative of a Three Years' Residence in France, 3 v. 8vo. 1810.—The History of Myself and my Friend, nov. 4 v. 12mo. 1812.—Travels in Southern Africa, from the German of Lichtenstein, 4to. 1812. and the 2d vol. in 1815.—Travels through the Morea, Albania, and other parts of the Ottoman Empire, from the French of Pnucqueville, 4to. 1813.—Voyages and Travels to Brazil, the South Sea, Kamschatka, and Japan, from the German of Langsdorff, vol. 1, 4to. 1813. vol. 2. 1814.

PLUMPTRE, JAMES, B. D. Rector of Great Gransden, Huntingdonshire, and Fellow of Clare Hall, Camb. This gentleman is the brother of the two ladies just mentioned, and received his education in the school of Mr. Newcome at Hackney, where he performed several characters with applause, as he did afterwards at a private theatre in Norwich. At the age of seventeen he removed to Queen's College, Cambridge, after the death of his father; but not having any prospect of a fellowship there, he became a member of Clare Hall, where he took his first degree in 1792, and was elected fellow the year following. In 1812, he was presented by his society to the living of Great Gransden, in Huntingdonshire. His publications are :

The Coventry Act, eom. 8vo. 1793.—Osway, a tragedy, 4to. 1795.—Observations on Hamlet, 8vo. 1796.—The House of Mourning and the House of Feasting, a Sermon, 8vo. 1804.—The Plague stayed, a Scriptural view of the Pestilence, particularly of the Small Pox. 2 Sermons, 8vo. 1805.—The Waters of Bethesda, a Sermon preached at Margate, for the benefit of the Sea Bathing Infirmary, 8vo. 1807.—A Collection of Songs, Moral, Sentimental, and Instructive, 3 vols. 12mo. 1807.—Joseph's Consideration, a Sermon preached in Clare Hall Chapel, 8vo. 1808.—Vocal Repository Tracts, 12mo. 1809.—A Sermon, preached in St. Botolph's Church, Cambridge, for the benefit of the New School, 8vo. 1809.—Four Discourses on subjects relating to the amusements of the Stage, 8vo. 1810.—Letters to John Aikin, M. D. on his volume of vocal poetry, 12mo. 1811.—The English Drama purified; being a specimen of select plays, in which the objectionable passages are omitted or altered, 3 vols. 12mo. 1812.—Inquiry into the Lawfulness of the Stage, 12mo. 1812.—Sermon on the Prohibition of Marriage, before the University of Cambridge, 8vo. 1812.—A Sermon, preached before the University of Cambridge, 8vo. 1813.—To his pen is also ascribed the Lokers, a comic opera, 8vo. 1798.

PLUMPTRE, JOHN, D. D. Dean of Gloucester, Canon of Worcester, and some time fellow of King's College, Cambridge. This respectable divine was educated at Eton, and has distinguished himself as a scholar of the first eminence: though his works are not numerous. They are as follow :

Ecloga Sacra, Alexandri Pope vulgo Messia dicta, Græce reddita. Accedit etiam Græce Inscriptio Sepulchralis ex celeberrima Elegia Thomæ Gray, 4to. 1796.—The Elegies of R. Pedro Albinovanus, with an English version, 12mo. 1807. This was anonymous.—Divine and Moral Precepts, for the conduct of a Christian towards God and man. By John Hamond, father of Dr. Henry H. published from the original MS. 12mo. 1810.

PLUNKETT, Mrs. formerly Miss Gunning, and daughter of the General of that name, by his wife, who, before her marriage, was named Minifie, and distinguished herself as a novel writer of eminence. The present lady obtained the patronage of the late Duchess of Bedford, till she and her mother became the objects of displeasure, in an endeavour to promote an alliance with a noble family, by an artifice which occasioned much noise, and some publications. The young lady afterwards married Major Plunkett, an officer of slender circumstances. She has written: Gipsy Countess, 4 v. 12mo. 1799.—The Farmer's Boy, from the French of Denray Dumesnil, nov. 4 v. 12mo. 1802.—The Exile of Erin, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1808.—Dangers through Life, 3 v. 12mo.—Memoirs of a Man of Fashion, 12mo. 1815.

PLUNKETT, LUKE, Esq. of Portmarnock in Ireland, barrister at law, and Member of Parliament. He is the author of, Observations on the tendency of some late proceedings of the General Committee of the Catholics of Ireland, 8vo. 1813.

PLYMLEY, JOSEPH, M. A. Archdeacon of Salop. This respectable divine has published, Three charges, 4to.—Sermon preached at the triennial visitation of the Bishop of Hereford, 4to.—A general View of the Agriculture of Shropshire, 8vo. 1804.

Pocock, JAMES, Esq. a dramatic writer, and an artist, who was for some time a pupil of Sir W. Beechey. He has produced the following popular pieces for the stage :

Yes or No; a farce, 8vn. 1809.—Twenty years ago, a melo drama, 8vo. 1810.—Any thing new, a musical farce, 8vo. 1811.—The Miller and his Men, a melo drama, 8vo. 1813.—For England Ho! Melo drama, 8vo. 1813.—John of Paris, a comic opera, from the French, 8vo. 1814.

Pocock, ROBERT, a printer and bookseller at Gravesend, where he has long resided, and has an extensive museum of Natural History, being in the habit of supplying gentlemen with the petrifications found in chalk, of which he has a great variety of specimens. He is also chairman of a society instituted in the county of Kent for the promotion of the knowledge of natural history, a very laudable institution, which it were to be wished, might be adopted in other parts of the kingdom. Mr. Pocock, some years ago, undertook a monthly commercial shipping list, but being opposed in that laudable design by a mercenary bookseller in London, it fell to the ground. His publications are :

A History of Gravesend and Milton, now become scarce, 4to. 1797.—Memorials of the Tufton Family, Earls of Thanet, 8vo. 1800.—The Gravesend and Margate water companion, 12mo.—The Sea-Captain's Assistant, 8vo.

Pocock, W. F. architect.

Sketches for Rustic Cottages, Rural Dwellings, and Villas, 4to. 1807.—Modern Furnishings for rooms, a series of designs for vestibules, halls, staircases, &c. 4to. 1812.

POHLMAN, J. G. Esq. of the audit office.

The Polish Game of Draughts, illustrated, 12mo, 1811.

POLE, THOMAS, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons in London. He has published some remarkable cases in the memoirs of the Medical Society, and separately a useful manual entitled

The anatomical instructor, or an illustration of the most modern and approved methods of preparing and preserving the different parts of the human body, and quadrupeds by injection, 12mo. 1790; 2d ed. 1813.

POLE, Right Hon. WILLIAM WELLESLEY; the second son of the late Earl of Mornington, and brother to the Marquis Wellesley. He took the name of Pole, on succeeding to an estate in Queen's county in Ireland, which county he represents in parliament. He was for some time Secretary of State for that kingdom, and at present is at the board of control.

Speech in the House of Commons on the conduct of the Irish Government, 8vo. 1811.—Speech on a motion of Viscount Morpeth to take into consideration the present state of Ireland, 8vo. 1812.

POLEHAMPTON, EDWARD, M. A. fellow of King's College, Cambridge. This gentleman has suffered his name to be affixed to a wretched collection of extracts, put together by a noted book manufacturer in London, under the pompous title of

The Gallery of Nature and Art, 6 v. 8vo. 1814.

POLLOCK, DAVID, Esq. of the Middle Temple, Barrister at Law.

Tables, exhibiting particulars requisite to be attended to in pursuance of the standing orders of the two houses of Parliament in soliciting private bills, 4to. 1813.

POLWHELE, Rev. RICHARD, Vicar of Manaccan and of Anthony in Cornwall. He is descended from an ancient family, settled on an estate of the same name in that county. He was born in 1760, and received his education at Truro school, where he evinced his poetical genius in such a way as to attract the notice of Dr. Wolcot, who gave him considerable assistance. In 1778, Mr. Polwhele was admitted a commoner of Christ Church, Oxford, where he became a student in civil law, but never took a degree. In 1782, he entered into orders, and shortly after settled on the curacy of Kenton, in Devonshire, where he projected the history of that county, in which work he received great encouragement; though the execution fell very far short of public expectation. In 1795, he was presented by the late Bishop Buller of Exeter, to the vicarage of Manaccan, in his native county, where he has continued ever since to reside, as a diligent parish priest, and an active magistrate. Mr. Polwhele was the cordial friend of the late eminent antiquary, Mr. John Whitaker, and to the friendship of that distinguished scholar he has been considerably indebted in his topographical and historical researches. He has been twice married, and has several children by both his wives; nor are his literary progeny less numerous, as the following list will evince:

The Fate of Llewellyn, or the Druid's Sacrifice; a legendary tale, 4to.—The Genius of Karnbre; a poem, 4to.—The Spirit of Fraser to General Burgoyne; an ode, 4to.—The Death of Hilda, an American tale, 4to.—An Ode to Mrs. Macaulay, on her birth-day.—The Castle of Tintadgel; or the Captive Princess of Denmark, an ode.—Pictures from Nature, in twelve Sonnets; and the Lock transformed, an elegy, 4to. 1785.—The Isle of Poplars, an ode, 8vo. 1782.—The English Orator, a didactic poem, in 4 books, 4to. 1786, 1789.—The Idyllia of Theocritus, Bion, and Moschus, with the Elegies of Tyrtæus, 4to. 1786. 2d ed. 2 vols. 8vo. 1789.—Discourses on different subjects, 2 vols. 8vo. 1788; new edit. 1811.—Sermon preached at the anniversary meeting of the Truro School, 4to. 1788.—Discourse preached at Kenton, 8vo. 1793.—Historical Views of Devonshire, vol. 1, 4to. 1793.—The History of Devonshire, 3 vols. fol. 1794. 1809.—Biographical Memoirs of Edmund Rack, in Collinson's History of Somerset.—Poems by gentlemen of Devon and Cornwall, 4 vols. 8vo. 1794.—The Influence of Local Attachment, a poem, 8vo. 1795.—Sketches in verse, with prose illustrations, 8vo. 1796.—Discourse preached at Menaccan, 4to. 1797.—The Old English Gentleman, a poem, 8vo. 1797.—Poems, formerly published, with some additional pieces, 2 vols. 8vo. 1798.—Grecian Prospects, a poem, 8vo. 1799.—Letter to Dr. Hawker on his late expedition into Cornwall, 8vo. 1799.—A Second Letter to Dr. H. 8vo. 1800.—A Third Letter to Dr. H. 8vo. 1800.—Anecdotes of Methodism, 12mo. 1800.—A Letter to a College Friend, 8vo.—The Unsexed Females, a poem, 8vo.—Sir Aaron, or the flights of fanaticism, a poem, 8vo. 1800.—An assize Sermon preached at Bodmin, 12mo. 1801.—Illustrations of Scriptural Characters, 8vo. 1802.—History of Cornwall, 3 vols. 4to. 1804. 1808.—The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, a Sermon, 12mo. 1806.—Poems, 3 vols. 8vo. 1806.—Poems, 5 vols. 8vo. 1810.—A Cornish English Vocabulary, 4to. 1810.—The Churchman and the Methodist contrasted, a Sermon, 8vo. 1812.

POLIDORI, C. a teacher of languages in London, who has published:

A New Pocket Dictionary of the Italian, French, and English languages, 3 vols. 12mo. 1814.

POND, JOHN, F. R. S. and Astronomer Royal, to which situation he was appointed by the recommendation of Sir Joseph Banks, not a little to the surprise of the more scientific part of the world, who had been accustomed to see that office filled by an approved professor of one of our universities. Mr. Pond is the author of an Introduction to Astronomy, prefixed to Pinkerton's Geography, and of another to a similar compilation, published under the fictitious name of Dr. John Smith. He is also the translator of, The System of the World, from the French of M. La Place, 2 v. 8vo. 1809.

PONSONBY, Right Hon. GEORGE, M.P. This gentleman is descended of a very ancient and respectable family in the sister kingdom; and distinguished himself so much at the bar, and in the House of Commons, as to be raised to the chancellorship during the administration of Lord Grenville and his friends. On their retirement from office, Mr. P. obtained a large pension, though he had held the seals but a very few months. He is at present the leader of the opposition in the lower house, and under his name has appeared:

A Speech on the Question relative to the Privileges of the House of Commons, 8vo. 1810.

PONTEY, WILLIAM, planter, and forest-pruner to the Duke of Bedford. He is a native of Yorkshire, and has published: The Profitable Planter, 8vo. 1799.—On the Cultivation of Larch and Scotch Fir Timber, 8vo. 1800.—The Forest-Pruner, or Timber-Owner's Assistant, 8vo. 1807.

POOLE, JAMES. This gentleman was for several years a regimental inspector, and he has since filled the office of deputy inspector general in the same department. He has published:

A Narrative, exposing Irregular Transactions in one of the Departments of Foreign Corps, 8vo. 1804.—A Reply to Mr. Richard Gardiner's Answer to the Narrative, 8vo. 1805.

POOLE, JOHN, Esq.

Hamlet Travestie, with Burlesque Annotations, 8vo. 1811; 4th ed. 1812.—Romeo and Juliet Travestie, 8vo. 1812.—The Hole in the Wall, a Farce, 8vo. 1813.—Intrigue, an Interlude, in one act, 8vo. 1814.

POOLE, JOHN, M.A. Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford, Rector of Enmore and Swainswick, Somerset, and Chaplain to the Earl of Egmont.

The Village School Improved, 12mo. 1812.—Questions on the History of Our Blessed Saviour, 12mo. 1813.

POOLE, RICHARD, Surgeon at Sherborne, in Dorsetshire, is the author of a pamphlet intitled,

An Account of a Fever which appeared in several parts of Somersetshire in the Year 1792, 8vo. 1793.

POPE, CHARLES, Controlling Surveyor of the Warehouses in Bristol.

Compendium of the Warehousing Laws of Customs and Excise relative to the Bonding System, 8vo. 1810.—Abridgment of the Laws of the Customs, relative to the Import, Export, and Coasting Trade of Great Britain and her Dependancies, except the East Indies, 8vo. 1812.

POPE, JOHN, tutor in the belles lettres, and classical literature at the New College, Hackney. He is a dissenting minister of the Unitarian persuasion, and is the son of a barber at Exeter, from which city he removed to Manchester, where he resided several years. He has published:

Divine Worship founded in Nature, and supported by Scripture Authority, in answer to Wakefield, 8vo. 1792.—Observations on the Miraculous Conception, and the Testimonies of Ignatius and Justin Martyr on that Subject, 8vo. 1792.—Two Sermons, 8vo. 1792.

POPE, SIMEON, of the Stock Exchange, and a lottery-office keeper, is the author of the following pieces:

Letter on the National Debt, and the Resources of Great Britain, 8vo. 1796.—Scarcity of Specie no Ground for Alarm; or British Opulence Unimpaired, 8vo. 1797.—Interesting Suggestions to Proprietors and Trustees of Estates, respecting the Sale of the Land-Tax, and the Redemption Act, 8vo. 1798.—A Measure productive of Substantial Benefit to Government, the country, the Public Funds, and to Bank Stock, 8vo. 1799.

POPHAM, EDWARD, D.D. and rector of Chilton, in Wiltshire. He was formerly of Oriel College, Oxford, M.A. 1762; and B. and D.D. 1774. He has published:

Selecta Poemata, 3 v. 1774.—Illustrium Virorum Elogia Sepulchralia, 8vo. 1778.—Two Sermons, 4to. 1783.—Extracts from the Pentateuch, 8vo. 1801.—Remarks on various Texts of Scripture, 8vo. 1809.

POPHAM, Sir HOME, Knight of the Bath, also of the order of St. John of Jerusalem, F.R.S. and an admiral in the British navy. His father was consul at Tetuan, where Sir Home was born, in 1762. He received his education at Westminster, as King's scholar, and was elected to Trinity College, Cambridge, on leaving which he entered into the navy. After the American war he went to India upon the invitation of his uncle, General Popham, and there he resided several years as a free trader. He was made post captain in 1795, and in 1796 he commanded the unfortunate expedition against Ostend. In the following year he visited Russia, in an official capacity; and in 1801 he was employed in conveying troops from the Cape of Good Hope to Egypt. In 1804 he was elected into parliament for the borough of Yarmouth, in the Isle of Wight; and the next year he commanded the naval part of an expedition against the Cape of Good Hope and Buenos Ayres, for which last capture he was tried by the succeeding administration, and censured from a spirit of party. In the war on the peninsula he was actively employed on the north coast of Spain harassing the French forces; and when Lord Moira went out as governor-general of Bengal, Sir Home was appointed to convey him to India. This active and intelligent officer has published:

Concise Statement of Facts relative to the Treatment experienced by him since his return from the Red Sea,

PORTER, REV. J. T.

Evidences of Fundamental Truths, Part I. 8vo. 1813.

PORTER, ROBERT KER, Knight of the Order of St. Joachim, brother of the two ladies abovementioned, was born at Durham, and when a child he inherited from his father a passion for military pursuits, joined to a taste for the fine arts. In the year 1790, he was introduced into the Royal Academy as a student under the patronage of Mr. West. His progress was such, that at the expiration of two years, he was employed to paint an altar piece for Shoreditch Church: and, in 1794, he presented another to the Roman Catholic Chapel at Portsea. He was at this time undecided between the love of arms and his professional studies, when the importunities of his family prevailed with him to relinquish the thought of entering on the military course for the more steady one which his genius presented. In 1798 he painted a large altar piece, on the subject of St. John preaching in the wilderness: which was presented to St. John's College, Cambridge. About the beginning of 1803, he obtained a commission as Captain in the Royal Westminster Militia, and in the following year he accepted an invitation from the Emperor of Russia to visit his capital, where he was appointed historical painter to his Imperial Majesty. Before this he had distinguished himself by his panoramic pictures of the Storming of Seringapatam, the Siege of Acre, and the Battle of Agincourt. In Russia he was employed to decorate the Admiralty Hall at Petersburg, and while there, he married a lady of rank and fortune. The Emperor also conferred on him several marks of his favor, and, among the rest, the order of St. Joachim. This ingenious artist has acquired a reputation also by his literary productions no less than by those of his pencil. His performances which entitle him to a place in this catalogue are these:

Travelling Sketches in Russia and Sweden, 2 v. 4to. 1808.—Letters from Portugal and Spain, written during the March of the Troops under Sir John Moore, 8vo. 1809. POVAH, RICHARD, LL.D. a clergyman of the established church, who was originally a Methodist preacher, but obtained orders from the late Bishop of Man. He became curate and lecturer of St. James's, Duke's Place, where he established a school of instruction and industry, which still continues in a flourishing state. In 1805, he was elected afternoon lecturer of St. Paul's, Shadwell, and not long after, was chosen Friday-morning lecturer of St. Bartholomew, near the Royal Exchange; but the late Bishop Randolph refusing to license him, the election became void. The lecturer then applied to the Court of King's Bench for a mandamus against the Bishop, but failed in his motion; the Judges being of opinion that the Bishop was perfectly justified in acting as he did. Dr. Povah has published,

A Narrative of his Case, 8vo. 1811.

PRESTON, RICHARD, Barrister at Law of the Inner Temple, and Member of Parliament for Ashburton. This gentleman is a remarkable instance of good fortune and dexterous management. He is a native of Ashburton, and was bred in the office of an attorney in that town. On commencing business for himself, he turned his attention chiefly to the conveyancing branch, and having the luck to meet with some valuable law books and manuscripts, he compiled a ponderous volume on the law of contingencies and other settlements. This compilation he was encouraged to publish by subscription under the auspices of the late Judge Buller, to whom the work was dedicated, and who invited the author to settle in London, where, as a matter of course, under such patronage his success was certain. Being of a diligent turn, and knowing the value of money as well as any man in the three kingdoms, he soon realised a considerable fortune which is still on the increase by the extent of his business. His publications are:

Elementary Treatise by way of Essay on the Quantity of Estates, 8vo. 1792.—A succinct View of the Rule in Shelley's Case, 8vo. 1794.—Collection of Law Tracts, 8vo. 1797.—A Treatise on Conveyancing, 2 v. roy. 8vo. 1806, 1809.—An Address to the Freeholder, the Manufacturer, the Mechanic, and the Poor, on the Corn Laws, 8vo. 1815.

PRESTON, WILLIAM, Printer, and partner with Mr. Strahan, was born at Edinburgh in 1742. He received his education at the high school and the University of his native city, after which he became amanuensis to the celebrated Ruddiman, whose brother, a printer, took him an apprentice. In 1760 he came to London with recommendations to the late Mr. Strahan, who engaged him in his office as a corrector of the press, and at his death left him an annuity for life. Mr. Preston is now in partnership with the son. Our author very early became a member of the fraternity of Free Masons, and was chosen Master of the Lodge of Antiquity, but on account of some informalities committed by the society over which he presided, it was disfranchised, and remained out of communion with the great body of the brethren for some years. At length a reconciliation took place and this lodge is justly considered as one of the first in London. Mr. Preston has published;

A Catalogue of Mr. Ruddiman's Books, 8vo.—Illustrations of Masonry, of which twelve editions have been published since its first appearance in 12mo. 1772.—He also instituted the Free Masons' Calendar.

He was educated at the Independent Academy at Homerton, and in 1809 was appointed to officiate at a congregation meeting at Hammersmith, from whence he removed to his present situation. He has published, Memoirs of the Life and Ministry of the late Thomas Spencer of Liverpool, 8vo. 1813.—A new Edition enlarged, of Brown's self-interpreting Bible, in numbers, 4to. 1815.—A Translation of Klopstock's Messiah 3 v. 1815.

RAINFORD, MARCUS, colonel in the army, and for several years, a resident in the West Indies, particularly St. Domingo, of which island he has published some interesting accounts. These works are intitled,

A Memoir of Transactions that took place in St. Domingo, in the spring of 1799, 8vo. 1802.—An Historical Account of the Black Empire of Hayti, 4to. 1805.

RAITHBY, JOHN, Esq. barrister at law of Lincoln's Inn. He was originally a law-stationer in Chancery lane, but having at the beginning of the French revolution, turned his attention pretty much upon politics, and published some virulent pamphlets on the side of democracy, though without his name, he was encouraged to study the law for a profession. His avowed works are, Henry Bennet, a novel, 3 v. 12mo.—The Study and Practice of the Law considered, 8vo. 1798.—The Law and Principle of Money considered, 8vo. 1811.—The Statutes at Large, a new edition, in conjunction with W. T. Tomlins, 10 v. 4to. and 20 v. 8vo. 1812.

RAMSAY, ALEXANDER, M.D. lecturer on anatomy and physiology in Edinburgh. He has edited,

A Series of Plates on the Brain, exhibiting the appearances of that Organ in the different Stages of dissection, 4to. 1812.—The Anatomy of the Heart, Cranium, and Brain, royal 4to. 2d ed. 1813.

RAMSAY, DAVID, M.D. a physician at Charlestown in South Carolina, and member of the Congress. He is the author of the following respectable publications,

The History of the American Revolution, 2 v. 8vo. 1791.—An Oration delivered on the Anniversary of American Independence, 8vo.—A Review of the Improvements and State of Medicine in the eighteenth century, 8vo. 1802.—The Life of George Washington, 8vo. 1807.

RAMSAY, Rev. JAMES, chaplain in the royal navy, and the author of, Sea Sermons, a Series of Discourses, 8vo.

RANDALL, JAMES, an architect, who has published,

A Collection of Architectural Designs for Mansions, Casinos, Villas, Lodges, and Cottages, fol. 1806.

RANDALL, WILLIAM, gardener and nurseryman at Maidstone in Kent. He is the author of some papers in the transactions of the society for the encouragement of Agriculture, and separately of a tract entitled,

The State of the Hop Plantations, with Strictures on Mocoopoly, 8vo. 1800.

RANDOLPH, A. J.

The Mysterious Hand, or Subterranean Horrors, a romance, 3 v. 12mo, 1811.

RANDOLPH, FRANCIS, D.D. late fellow of King's College, Cambridge, prebendary of Bristol, and proprietor of Laura Chapel, Bath. This divine is a native of the west of England, and resided some years in Germany, where he perfected himself in the language, so much as to be appointed to instruct the duchess of York in English, to which circumstance he owes his promotion in the church. He has published,

A Letter to the Right Hon. William Pitt on the Slave Trade, 8vo. 1788.—Scriptural revision of Socinian arguments, 8vo. 1792.—A Second revision of Socinian arguments, in answer to Benjamin Hothhouse, Esq. 8vo. 1793.—Sermons during the season of Advent, 8vo. 1799. A Sermon preached at Laura Chapel, Bath, on the Fast Day, 8vo. 1801.—Observations on the present State of the Nation, 8vo. 1808.—The Book of Job, translated by the late Miss Smith, with a preface and annotations, 8vo. 1810.

RANDOLPH, the Hon. JOHN, member of the American Congress for the province of Virginia, where his family, which originally came from Bristol, has been long settled in a mercantile line. This gentleman has greatly distinguished himself as a senator, by his opposition to the democratic party, and one of his productions has been reprinted here, entitled, A Speech in the General Congress of America on the non-importation Resolution, 8vo. 1806.

RANKEN, ALEXANDER, D.D. one of the ministers of Glasgow, and the author of the following respectable work,

The History of France, 3 v. 8vo. 1801.—1804.

RASPE, RUDOLPH ERIC, a native of Germany, who edited at Leipzig, the posthumous works of Leibnitz, as far back as 1763. He also printed at the same place, Specimen Historiæ Naturalis Globi terræque, &c. 8vo. —An Account of some German Volcanoes and their productions, 8vo. 1776.—A Translation of Ferber's Philosophical Travels, 8vo.—An Essay on Oil Painting, 4to.—Tabby in Elysium, a poem, 8vo.—Baron Born's new Process of Amalgamation of Gold and Silver Ores, 4to.

RAWORTH, BENJAMIN CLARKE, A.M.

The Cambridge University Calendar, which began to be published in 12mo, in 1801, and still continues to be printed annually.

RAYMOND, JAMES GRANT, was born in 1771, at Strathspey in the Highlands of Scotland, and received his education at the school of Inverkeithing, from whence he removed to King's College, Aberdeen. Soon after his leaving college he went to sea as a midshipman, but quitted the service for the stage, and first appeared as a performer at Dublin. From Ireland he came to London, and obtained an engagement at Drury-Lane where he became stage-manager, and that very much to his credit, and the satisfaction of his brethren and the public. He is said to have written some dramatic pieces, and is the editor of the following:

The Life of Thomas Dermody, 2 v. cr. 8vo. 1805.—The Harp of Erin, or the Poetical Works of the late Thomas Dermody, 2 v. cr. 8vo. 1807.

RAYNER, W. H.

Virtue and Vice, a novel, 2 v. 12mo. 1805.

READE, JOSEPH, M.D. Member of the Royal College of Surgeons of London, and of the Royal Medical Society at Edinburgh. He has published:

The Invasin, a poem, 8vo. 1804.—Observations on the Diseases of the Inner Corner of the Human Eye, 8vo. 1811.

REBOUL, M.A. a French Physician, who has printed a pamphlet entitled,

A Poetical and Dedicatory Address to the Friends of Peace, Order, and Humanity, 4to. 1814.

REDDING, CYRUS.

Retirement, with other Original Poems, 12mo, 1810.—Mount Edgecombe, a poem, 12mo. 1812.

REDE, L. S. Barrister at Law. This person, who never made any progress in his profession, contrived some years ago to gain a livelihood by cutting out extracts from newspapers, magazines, and other periodical publications. These he pasted on folio paper, and by dexterous combination he gave them the appearance of a curious and valuable collection of memoirs illustrative of the history of the times. For one of these sets, thus manufactured, with the aid of scissars and paste, a late noble duke gave the sum of three hundred guineas. But on some account or other the ingenious projector was under the necessity of withdrawing from the kingdom, and what has become of him we know not. He has published, Legal Portraits, or Characteristic Sketches of Eminent Lawyers, 8vo. 1793.—St. Pierre's Studies of Nature abridged, 8vo. 1798.—Anecdotes and Biography, 8vo. 1799.—Sketch of Humbergh, 8vo. 1801.

REDESDALE, the Rt. Hon. JOHN MITFORD, BARON. This learned Lord is descended of an ancient family in the county of Northumberland, but he was himself born in Hampshire in 1749. He received his education at Winchester school, from whence he removed to New College, Oxford, after which he became a student of the Temple, where he was called to the bar, and became a distinguished pleader in the Court of Chancery. In 1793 he was appointed Solicitor General, at which time he also received the honor of Knighthood, and in 1799 he was made Attorney General. He succeeded his friend Mr. Addington as Speaker of the House of Commons in 1801; but the year following he was elevated to the Peerage, and the Chancellorship of Ireland. In 1803 he married Lady Frances Perceval, daughter of the second Earl of Eginont, by whom he has a daughter. Lord Redesdale has always been considered as a profound lawyer, and in the upper house his judgment is attended to with the greatest deference, particularly in cases of appeal. While at the Chancery bar he published a very valuable work "On the Pleadings in Suits in the Court of Chancery by English Bill," 8vo. 1787, of which a second edition appeared in 1804. In this last mentioned year his Lordship's correspondence with the Earl of Fingal on the question of Catholic Emancipation was printed, but entirely without the learned Lord's concurrence, and therefore the act must be regarded as an unwarrantable breach of private confidence. Lord Redesdale has since printed, Observations, occasioned by a Pamphlet entitled Objections to the project of creating a Vice Chancellor of England, 8vo. 1813. It is recorded in the Pamphleteer.

REECE, RICHARD, M.D. and a vender of medicines in Piccadilly. This gentleman is the son of the late Rev. William Reece, rector of Colwall in the county of Hereford, and served his time to a country surgeon, after which he became an assistant in the infirmary at Hereford. About the year 1800 he settled in Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, where he opened a shop for the sale of medicines in general, and that with such success as to be induced to take out his diploma from a Scotch college. He has published several medical compilations on popular subjects, and started at various times such nostrums as appeared well calculated to excite public credulity. When Joanna Southcott avowed herself to be in a state of pregnancy, the doctor very incautiously suffered himself to be deluded into an interview with the pretended prophetess; whose appearance he declared was such as to warrant him in pronouncing her to be in the state that she affected and her followers believed. This testimony also he was weak enough to send into the world through the daily newspapers, the consequence of which was, that the public curiosity was roused to an uncommon pitch, the confidence of the impostor and her disciples increased, and the doctor was regarded for a time as a most wonderful man. At length the fallacy ended in the death of the woman, whose body was opened by the doctor, and he published the result of his observations. His performances are:

The Medical and Chirurgical Pharmacopœia, 8vo. 1800.—The Domestic Medical Guide, 8vo. 1803.—Supplement to ditto, 1806. 7th edit. 8vo. 1810.—Observations on the Properties of the Lichen Isladicus, or Iceland Moss, in Consumption, 8vo. 1804.—A Treatise on the Radix Rhatania, or Rhatany Root, 8vo. 1808.—Dictionary of Domestic Medicine, roy. 8vo. 1808.—A Treatise on the Causes, Prevention, and Cure of Gout, 8vo. 1810.—A New System of Physic and Medical Surgery, 8vo. 1811.—Treatise on Pulmonary Consumption and Asthma, 8vo. 1811.—Letters on the present State of Medicine, 8vo. 1811.—Reecian Paedect of Medicine, or New Nosological arrangement of Diseases, roy. 8vo. 1812.—Catalogue of Drugs sold at Reece and Co.'s Warehouse, Bedford Street, Covent Garden, 12mo. 1812.—Practical Treatise on the Gratiola, as a remedy for Consumption, Asthma, and Constitutional Cough, 8vo. 1813.—The Medical Guide for Tropical Climates, 8vo. 1814.—A plain Narrative of the Circumstances attending the last Illness and Death of Joanna Southcott, 8vo. 1815.

REED, WILLIAM, Law Bookseller, in Bell Yard, Temple Bar, is the compiler of, Bibliotheca Nova Legum Angliæ, or a complete Catalogue of Law Books, 12mo. 1809.—Supplement to the Bibliotheca, 12mo. 1812.

REES, ABRAHAM, D.D. F.R.S. This respectable divine is the son of Mr. Lewis Rees, a dissenting minister of great celebrity in the county of Montgomery. The son had his education in the best schools of North Wales; but at what peried he left his native country for the metropolis we have not learnt. But while he was a very young man he was placed under the tuition of Dr. Jennings and Dr. Savage. On the death of the former Mr. Rees became a tutor in mathematics and natural philosophy in the academy at Hoxton, having for his colleague in the same seminary the late Dr. Kippis. In 1785 our author resigned his situation and soon after another institution was formed on the same plan, at Hackney, with the title of the New College, of which Dr. Rees was appointed one of the tutors, but after some time this seminary dwindled to nothing, and the doctor relinquished his share in the concern. The first settlement of the doctor as the pastor of a congregation was at St. Thomas's in Southwark about fifty years ago: from thence he was invited to take charge of the meeting in the Old Jewry, and latterly he officiates in a new chapel in Jewin Street. As an author he is known chiefly by his edition of Chambers's Cyclopaedia, which began to be published in 1781 and was completed in 1786, in 4 vols. folio. That work having become obsolete, the proprietors engaged in one upon an entire new and most extensive scale, with the doctor's name prefixed to it. The first part of this dictionary of the sciences, which will surpass the famous one published in France, appeared in quarto in 1802, and it is still in progress. The doctor has also printed the following pieces, which do great credit to his judgment as a scholar and divine:

A Sermon on the Obligation and Importance of Searching the Scriptures, 8vo.—The Advantages of Knowledge, a Sermon preached before the Supporters of the New College at Hackney, 8vo. 1788.—A Funeral Sermon on the Death of the Rev. Robert Robinson, of Cambridge, 8vo.—Another on Dr. Kippis, 8vo.—A Sermon on the Death of Dr. Roger Flexman, at Rotherhithe, 8vo.—Economy illustrated and recommended in two Sermons, 8vo. 1800.—Practical Sermons, 2 v. 8vo. 1809; 2nd edit. 1812.—The Obligation and Utility of Public Worship, a discourse on the opening of the Old Jewry Chapel in Jewin Street, 8vo. 1809.—The Principles of Protestant Dissenters stated and vindicated, 8vo. 1813.

REES, GEORGE, M.D. Member of the Royal Coll. of Physicians, and senior Physician to the London Dispensary. He is the author of,

A Treatise on the primary Symptoms of Luas Venerea, with a concise account of the English Writers on that Subject, 8vo. 1802.—Treatise on Diseases of the Uterus, 8vo. 1805.—Observations on Spasms of the Stomach, 8vo. 1810. 2d edit. 1811.—A Treatise on Hemoptosis or Spitting of Blood, 8vo. 1813.

Lit. Cal.

REES, JOHN FREDERICK.

The Art and Mystery of a Cordwainer, or an Essay on Boot and Shoe-making, 12mo. 1813.

REES, Rev. THOMAS, Nephew of Dr. Abraham Rees, was originally brought up to the business of a bookseller, but having a strong inclination to the ministry, he was enabled by his uncle's patronage to pursue his studies for that purpose. He now officiates among the Unitarians at Hackney, and has published:

A New System of Stenography, 8vo. 1795.—The Duty of Christians to partake of the Afflictions of the Gospel, a discourse delivered at Portsmouth, 8vo. 1811.—A Sermon preached at Newington Green on the death of Mr. J. Lee; 8vo. 1812.

REES, WILLIAM JENKINS, M.A. was born at Landoverly in Carmarthenshire in 1772. He commenced his education at the school of his native town, and removed to that of Carmarthen then kept by Mr. Barker. In 1791 he entered of Wadham College, Oxford, was admitted to the degree of B.A. in 1795, and to that of M.A. in 1797. He was ordained by the late Bishop Butler of Hereford, on the curacy of Stoke Edith and Westside in that diocese. In 1807 Bishop Burgess collated him to the rectory of Cascob in the county of Radnor where he now resides. He has published:

A Short and Practical Account of the Principal Doctrines of Christianity, 12mo. 1803.—The Hereford Guide, 12mo. (anonymous)—Clerical Elocution, or an Essay on the Delivery of Sermons, 12mo. 1809.—The Necessity of Attention in a Christian Minister to his Duties, a sermon preached at Brecknock at the Visitation of the Bishop of St. David's, 12mo. 1811.—Unconditional Election, and its dependent Doctrines disproved, being an abridgement of Whitby on the Five Points. This also was anonymous.

REEVE, Mrs.

The Flowers at Court, a poem, 12mo. 1809.

REEVE, SOPHIA.

The Mysterious Wanderer, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1807.

REEVES, JOHN, Esq. F.R.S. This gentleman was born about the year 1753, and educated at Eton, from whence he went to Merton College, Oxford, but after taking his Bachelor's degree there he obtained a fellowship at Queen's, and took his Master's degree in 1778. Having adopted the law as his profession, he was called to the bar in 1780, and soon after was appointed a commissioner of bankrupts. In 1791 he was constituted Chief Justice of Newfoundland, from which place he returned the following year, and has since held the appointments of Law Clerk to the Board of Trade and Plantations, joint Printer to his Majesty, and Superintendent of the Alien Office. He rendered his country essential service in 1792 by convening the friends of good order to meet on the 20th of November at the Crown and Anchor in the Strand, for the purpose of "forming an association to protect liberty and property against Republicans and Levellers." On that day he explained the objects of the meeting with a force and simplicity worthy of the occasion. It was an appeal to the religion, loyalty, good sense, and honesty of the people, and in consequence thousands obeyed the call. The kingdom at large caught the spirit, and the patriotic views of the projector were happily answered in the triumph which virtue obtained over anarchy and vice. It was natural enough that such a man should become obnoxious to the democratic party, and accordingly a prosecution was moved against him in the House of Commons for some observations made by him in a pamphlet on the English constitution. Strange to say, that an excess of loyalty should have been considered as a crime; but so it was, that the Attorney General was directed to proceed against Mr. Reeves for a supposed libel in maintaining this truth, that were the two legislative branches of the government to be extinct the monarchy would remain. For this hypothesis, the author was prosecuted by a desperate party, and ministers were weak enough to suffer them to carry their design into effect. A trial took place before Lord Kenyon, and the jury, after retiring for more than an hour, brought in their verdict in the following remarkable terms: "The pamphlet which has been proved to have been written by John Reeves, Esq. is a very improper publication, but being of opinion that his motives were not such as are laid in the information, we find him not guilty." For more than thirty-five years has this sound lawyer, and worthy man, devoted himself most ardently to study, and the fruits of his researches have been invariably applied to the general good. His various publications, as far as we can collect, are as follows:

An Inquiry into the Nature of Property and Estates as defined by the Law of England, 8vo. 1779.—A Chart of Penal Law, on a sheet, fol. 1779.—A History of the English Law, 2 v. 4to. 1783; 2nd edit. with a continuation to Philip and Mary, 4 v. 8vo. 1787.—Legal Considerations on the Regency, so far as regards Ireland, 8vo. 1789.—The Law of Shipping and Navigation, 8vo. 1792; 2nd edit. 1807.—History of the Government of Newfoundland, 8vo. 1793.—The Malecontent, a Letter to Francis Plowden, Esq. 8vo. 1794.—The Grounds of Aldermen Wilkes and Boydell's proposed Petition for Peace, examined and refuted, 8vo. 1795.—Thoughts on the English Government, 8vo. 1795-1799.—Considerations on the Coronation Oath, 8vo. 2nd edit. 1801.—A Collation of the Hebrew and Greek Texts of the Psalms, 8vo. 1800.—The Book of Common Prayer, with Preface and Notes, 8vo. 1801.—The Holy Bible, printed in a new manner, with Notes, 10 v. 8vo. 1802.—The Book of Common Prayer, with Observations on the Services, &c. 8vo. 1801.—A Greek Testament, 12mo. 1803.—Psalterium Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ Hebraicum, 12mo. 1804.—Proposal for a Bible Society on a New Plan, 8vo. 1805.—Observations on what is called the Catholic Bill, 8vo. 1807.

REID, DENNIS, Esq. of the island of Jamaica, and the author of a tract entitled,

Address to every Class of British Subjects on the Abolition of the Slave Trade, with a New Plan for that Object, 8vo. 1802.

REID, JOHN, M.D. late Senior Physician to the Finsbury Dispensary, and at present resident in Grenville Street, Brunswick Square. This respectable and ingenious practitioner is a native of Leicester, where his family have long been settled in great repute. He was, we believe, intended for the ministry among the Protestant Dissenters, but an inclination to the study of medicine overruled that intention, and, with the particular encouragement of the late Dr. Pulteney, he pursued that object with great diligence and advantage at Edinburgh. On taking his degree, he settled in London, and obtained the appointment of Physician to the Finsbury Dispensary, a very honorable but laborious situation, which he resigned after holding it for several years. Dr. Reid is well known as a popular lecturer on the theory and practice of medicine; and also as the reporter of the state of diseases in the Monthly Magazine, which department he undertook after it had been conducted through three or four volumes by Dr. Willan. Besides these reports, which would make an interesting volume if collected and enlarged, the Dr. has printed,

An Account of the Savage Youth of Avignon, translated from the French, 12mo. 1801.—A Treatise on the Origin, Progress, and Treatment, of Consumption, 8vo. 1806.

REID, PETER, M.D.

A Letter on the Study of Medicine and the Medical Character, 12mo. 1810.—Cullen's First Lines of the Practice of Physic, with Supplementary Notes, 2 v. 8vo. 1810.

REID, WILLIAM HAMILTON, a literary adventurer, newspaper reporter, and teacher of languages, in the metropolis. He commenced his career about thirty years ago, as a poetical contributor to various magazines, and on the French revolution breaking out, he became a zealous advocate of the republican doctrines, with no small tinge of infidelity. After some time, however, he wavered, and, for a short space, was such a determined friend to orthodoxy, that the late Bishop of London, Dr. Porteus, it is said, offered him ordination, which he strangely enough declined. After editing for a little while a periodical work devoted exclusively to the support of the church establishment, he avowed himself an Unitarian, and printed a recantation of what he terms his old errors. This versatile character has published, with his name, the following pieces :

Miscellaneous Poems, 8vo.—The Rise and Dissolution of the Infidel Societies, in this Metropolis, 8vo. 1800.—Memoirs of Colonel Wardle, 12mo. 1809.—Beauties selected from the Writings of the late Dr. Paley, 12mo. 1810.—Memoirs of the Public Life of John Horne Tooke, Esq. 12mo. 1812.

RELHAN, RICHARD, M.A. F.R.S. F.L.S. and Rector of Hemingby in Lincolnshire, to which he was presented in 1776, by the Society of King's College, Cambridge, of which he was at that time Fellow. He has published, Flora Caetabrigiensis, 8vo. 1785; Supplement I. and II. to the preceding, 1786, 1788; Supplement III. 8vo. 1793; 2nd edition, 1802.—Tacitus de Moribus Germanorum, et de Vita Agricola, 8vo. 1809.

REMMET, ROBERT BUTLER, M.D. an eminent physician at Plymouth, where he has filled the office of Mayor, and is now in the commission of the peace. Besides some communications in the Edinburgh Medical Commentaries, he has printed, Dissertatio de Optii usu in Morbis Inflammatoriis, Edinb. 8vo. 1774.

RENDER, Rev. WILLIAM, D.D. a native of Germany, and teacher of languages in the city of London. He has published, Count Benyowsky, a play, translated from the German of Kotzebue, 8vo. 1798.—The Sorrows of Werter, cr. 8vo. 1800.—The Robbers, Don Carlos, and Mary Stuart, from Schiller, 8vo.—A Complete Analysis of the German Language, 8vo. 1804.—Grammar of the German and English Languages, 12mo. 1804.—Recreations in English and French, and in English and German, 12mo. 1806.—Pocket Dictionary of the English and German Languages, 12mo. 1806.—Tour through Germany, 2v. 8vo.—German Calligraphy; or specimens of German writing, 4to.—Sketches in English, French, and German, 12mo. 1808.—Exercises to facilitate the Acquisition of the German Language, 2nd edition 12mo.

RENDLE, JOHN, M.A. Rector of Widecombe in the Moor, Devonshire. He was educated at Tiverton School, and elected to a scholarship in Sidney Sussex College, Cambridge. On taking orders, he obtained his present preferment; where he continues to reside in the possession also of a paternal estate. Mr. R. is a scholar of first rate eminence, and has printed some erudite pieces of criticism in the Orthodox Churchman's Magazine. Separately, he is the author of,

The History of that Inimitable Monarch, Tiberius, royal 8vo. 1815.

RENNELL, JAMES, Esq. F.R.S. This gentleman was born in 1742, at Chudleigh in Devonshire, where his family have enjoyed a good estate almost ever since the conquest. He received his education at a grammar school in the neighbourhood, and at the age of fifteen, entered into the naval service as a midshipman. In the seven years' war, he distinguished himself by his enterprising spirit, particularly at the siege of Pondicherry. In 1766, by the advice of a friend who possessed great interest in the India House, he quitted the navy and entered into the Company's military service, in which he acted as an officer of engineers. It was while he was thus employed, that he first appeared before the world in the character of an author, by publishing a Chart of the Bank and Current of Cape Lagullas; for which he was appointed surveyor general of Bengal. He soon after published his Bengal Atlas, which was followed by an Account of the Ganges and Burrampooter Rivers. This last appeared in the Philosophical Transactions, and gained the author so much reputation, that he was unanimously elected a Fellow of the Royal Society. While in the East, Major Rennell married Miss Thackeray, one of the daughters of Dr. Thackeray, formerly head-master of Harrow School. On his return to England, about the year 1782, he published his celebrated Memoir of a Map of Hindostan, which procured him the friendship and correspondence of the most learned men in Europe. When the Asiatic Society was formed, the Major became a warm friend and contributor to it: though some of his most valuable communications are not marked with his name. In 1798, he assisted the late lamented Mungo Park, in the arrangement of his travels, and he also rendered essential service to the African Association, by correcting the geography of that interesting, but little known part of the globe. The great work of Dr. Vincent on the voyage of Nearchus, as well as that on the Periplus, received considerable illustration from this acute and intelligent geographer, whose own works are as follow:

Chart of the Bank and Current of Cape Lagullas, 1778.—The Bengal Atlas, fol. 1781.—Memoir of a Map of Hindostan, or the Mogul's Empire, 4to. 1782; 3rd. edition, 4to. 1793.—Memoir on the Geography of Africa, with an adjoining Map, 4to. 1790.—The Marches of the British Armies in the Peninsula of India illustrated and explained by a Map, 8vo. 1792.—Memoir of a Map of the Peninsula of India with a Folio Map, 4to. 1793.—Elucidations of the African Geography, 4to. 1793.—A Corrected Sheet Map of the Peninsula of India, 1800.—A Second and Third Memoir on the Geography of Africa, 4to. 1793.—The Geographical System of Herodotus explained, 4to. 1800.—A Fourth Memoir on African Geography, 4to.—Observations on the Topography of the Plain of Troy, 4to. 1814.

RENNELL, THOMAS, D.D. Dean of Winchester, and Master of the Temple. This learned divine is the son of a clergyman of both the same names, who was formerly Prebendary of Winchester, and rector of a living in Northamptonshire, where the son was born about the year 1750. He received his education at Eton, from whence he removed to King's College, Cambridge, where, in 1778, he obtained one of the Member's Prizes for the best Latin dissertation. Having gained a fellowship in his college, his father resigned in his favor the prebendal stall of Winchester, where he became so very popular as to obtain the patronage of the late Marquis of Buckingham. In consequence of this he was presented to the rectory of St. Magnus, London Bridge, and in 1798, made Master of the Temple. On the death of Dr. Holmes, he was promoted to the Deanry of Winchester, with which he continues to hold his other preferments. Dr. Rennell is a profound scholar and intimately conversant with the writers of the Platonic school. As a preacher, he is distinguished by the clearest reasoning and the most impassioned earnestness of manner, which of course cannot fail to gain him fixed attention. He was suspected, at one time, of having been concerned in the Pursuits of Literature, from which charge he thought it his duty to free himself by a public declaration. But on one occasion, he cannot well be acquitted of the accusation of having acted a little inconsistently. We allude to his bold and indiscriminate attack on what he calls the Pagan education of modern schools, when in a sermon before the University of Cambridge, he had openly vindicated that very mode of tuition. The Dean married the daughter of Judge Blackstone, by whom he has a son who is also in orders. The works of the Dean are,

The Connexion of the Duties of loving the Brethren, fearing God, and honoring the King, a Sermon at St. Magnus, 8vo. 1793.—Principles of French Republicanism founded on Violence and Blood Graftiness, a Sermon preached in Winchester Cathedral, 8vo. 1793.—A Sermon at the Anniversary Meeting of the Humane Society, 8vo. 1794.—Benevolence exclusively an Evangelical Virtue, a Sermon for Addenbrooke's Hospital, 4to. 1795.—A Sermon at St. Paul's at the Anniversary Meeting of the Sons of the Clergy, 4to. 1796.—The Consequences of the Vice of Gaming considered in a Sermon at Winchester, 8vo. 1794.—A Sermon preached before the House of Commons, on the day of general thanksgiving for the success of his Majesty's Arms, 4to. 1798.—Sermon before the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, 4to. 1799.—These Sermons were collected and printed in 1 v. 8vo. by the author himself in 1802.

RENNELL, THOMAS, M.A. Fellow of King's College, Cambridge, is the son of the Dean of Winchester, and, like his father, eminent as a Greek scholar. He has published, Ode Præmio a Reverendo viro Claudio Buchanan, Etæpensisbus Proposito Dignata, 4to. 1801.—In conjunction with the Rev. C. J. Blomfield of Trinity College, Musæ Cantabrigienses, 8vo. 1810.—Animadversions on the Unitarian Translation of the New Testament, 8vo. 1811.

The Grazier's Ready Reckoner, or a Useful Guide for Buying and Selling Cattle, 12mo. 1801; a new edition in 1806.

REPTON, EDWARD, M.A. of Magdalen College, Oxford. He has published, The Works of Creation, being the first of a series of discourses for Boyle's Lecture, 8vo. 1808.

REPTON, HUMPHREY, Esq. of Harestreet Cottage near Romford in Essex, where he has been a resident above thirty years. He was born in 1752, and has distinguished himself by his taste in landscape scenery and picturesque gardening. His works are;

The Hundred of North Erpingham, in the History of Norfolk, with Preface, &c. 8vo. 1781.—Variety, a Collection of Essays, 12mo. 1788.—The Bee, or a Critique on the Exhibition of Paintings at Somerset House, 8vo. 1788.—The Bee, a Critique on the Shakespeare Gallery, 8vo. 1789.—Sketches and Hints on Landscape Gardening, 4to. 1794.—A Letter to Uvedale Price, Esq. on the same subject, 8vo. 1794.—Observations on Landscape Gardening, 4to. 1803.—Observations on the Changes in Ditto, 8vo. 1806.—Odd Whims, being a republication of some papers in Variety, with a Comedy and other Poems added, in 2 v. 8vo. 1804.—On the Introduction of Indian Architecture and Gardening, fol. 1808. Several of these have been embellished with plates from the pencil of the author, who also furnished, for twenty years, the vignettes to the Polite Repository. To these fruits of his taste and industry, may be added not less than three hundred MSS. collections on various subjects, accompanied by drawings to explain the improvements suggested by him at different places, with numerous Letters written on the Art of Landscape Gardening, to different persons.

REYNARD, FRANCIS, master of the mathematical school at Reading, and the author of, Geometria Legitima, or an Elementary System of Theoretical Geometry, 8vo. 1813.

REYNELL, WILLIAM HENRY, M.A. and Minister of Hornchurch in Essex. He was formerly of New College, Oxford, and has published these pieces :
A Manual for the Unlearned in reading the Psalms, 12mo. 1801.—Parochial Discourses upon the Advent of Christ, 8vo. 1805.

REYNOLDS, FREDERICK, is the son of a noted attorney in London, who figured as the professional friend of John Wilkes. Our author was born about 1760, and received his education at Westminster School, with a view to his father's line of business. But the muses had more charms for him than the desk and Lord Coke. He began his respects to the Nine by writing tragedy; but soon discovered that his talent lay more in the service of Thalia than that of her sister; and the public quickly sanctioned the change. The following is a correct list of his performances :

Werter, trag. 8vo. 1786; 2nd edit. 1796.—The Dramatist, com. 8vo. 1789; 2nd edit. 1793.—Notoriety, com. 8vo. 1793.—How to Grow Rich, com. 8vo. 1793.—The Rage, com. 8vo. 1795.—Speculation, com. 8vo. 1795.—Fortune's Fool, com. 8vo. 1796.—The Will, com. 8vo. 1797.—Cheap Living, com. 8vo. 1797.—Laugh when You Can, com. 8vo. 1799.—Management, com. 8vo. 1799.—Life, com. 8vo. 1801.—Folly as it Flies, com. 8vo. 1802.—Delays and Blunders, com. 8vo. 1803.—The Caravan, com. op. 8vo. 1803.—The Blind Bargain, com. 8vo. 1805.—The Delinquent, com. 8vo. 1805.—Out of Place, mus. farce, 8vo. 1805.—Be Gooe, Dull Care, com. 8vo. 1808.—Free Knights, opera, 8vo. 1810.—The Virgin of the Sun, an operatic drama, from Kotzebue, 8vo. 1812.—The Renegade, an historical drama, 8vo. 1812.—He has also produced several pieces which have not been published.

REYNOLDS, GEORGE, master of the Lambeth Parochial School for boys, and writing master to the Asylum at Lambeth. He has published, RICE, MRS.

Monteith, a nov. founded on Scottish History, 2 v. 12mo. 1805.

RICHARDS, REV. GEORGE, A.M. F.A.S. late Fellow of Oriel College, Oxford, and Vicar of Bampton. He is a native of Devonshire, and received his education in Blundel's School at Tiverton, from whence he removed to Oriel College, Oxford, where he took his master's degree, in 1791, and obtained a fellowship. His beautiful poem on the Aboriginal Britons, which was publicly recited at Oxford, in consequence of the prize being adjudged to the author, had such a run, that the whole of the first edition was sold on the day of publication. His literary productions are,

An Essay on the Characteristic Differences between Ancient and Modern Poems, and the several Causes from which they result, 8vo. 1789.—The Aboriginal Britons, a prize poem, 4to. 1791; 2nd edition, 1792. This has been reprinted in the author's Poetical Works, and also in a Collection of Oxford Prize Poems.—Songs of the Aboriginal Bards of Britain, 4to. 1792.—Modern France, a poem, 4to. 1793.—Matilda, or the Dyiog Penitent, a poetical epistle, 4to. 1795.—The Divine Origin of Prophecy, in a Course of Sermons at the Bampton Lecture, 8vo. 1800.—Miscellaneous Poems, 2 v. cr. 8vo. 1803.—Emma, a drama, 12mo. 1804.—Odin, a drama, 12mo. 1804.—Mouody on the Death of Lord Viscount Nelson, 4to. 1806.

RICHARDS, T. a schoolmaster at Worcester, and the author of a treatise on Practical Arithmetic, 12mo. 1804; 2d edit. in 1811.

RICHARDS, WILLIAM, M.A. a clergyman who resides at Lynn, in Norfolk. He has published, An English and Welsh Dictionary, 8vo. 1799.—The History of Lynn, 2 v. 8vo. 1812.

RICHARDSON, CHARLOTTE, the widow of a shoe-maker at York, is a native of that city, being born in 1775, and brought up in a charity-school, after which she went to service, and married young. Amidst all her distresses, she delighted in reading, and though much afflicted by sickness, she wrote some poetical pieces, which brought her acquainted with Mrs. Newcome Cappe, a lady distinguished by her talents and her piety. By the means of this benevolent friend she was enabled to obtain a handsome subscription for the publication of Poems, 8vo. 1806.

RICHARDSON, C. E.

A Collection of Scripture Sentences for committing to Memory, 12mo. 1809.

RICHARDSON, GEORGE, architect.

RICHARDSON, Mrs. widow of Joseph Richardson, Esq. author of the Rolliad, the Probationary Odes, and the comedy of the Fugitive. This lady, who was left in very embarrassed circumstances, owing to the involved state of Drury Lane Theatre, in which her husband had a share, has published by subscription;
Original Poems, 8vo. 1808.

RICHARDSON, WILLIAM, surgeon and F.A.S. Edinburgh.

The Chemical Principles of the Metallic Arts, with an Account of the principal Diseases incidental to Artificers, 8vo. 1790.

RICHARDSON, WILLIAM, D.D. of Clonfelle, in the county of Antrim. This ingenious clergyman has distinguished himself by his pursuits in natural history, on which he has made some valuable communications to the Royal Society, and separately he has published:

Letter to the Right Hon. Isaac Corry on the Properties of Florin Grass, 12mo. 1809.—Essay on Florin Grass, 8vo. 1810.—Letter to the Marquis of Hertford on the same subject, 8vo. 1810.—A New Essay on the Florin Grass, 8vo. 1813. He has also written a very curious paper on the Giant's Causeway, inserted in the Philosophical Transactions.

RICHMOND, Rev. LECH, M.A. formerly of Trinity College, Cambridge, afterwards curate of Brading, in the Isle of Wight, and in 1805 presented to the rectory of Turvey, in Bedfordshire. This gentleman ranks among those who are denominated evangelical divines, and has published:

A Sermon on the Sin of Cruelty to the Brute Creation, 8vo. 1802.—A Sermon preached before the Society for Supporting Missions to Africa and the East, 8vo. 1809.—The First Anniversary Sermon preached before the Directors of the London Female Penitentiary, 8vo. 1810.—Statement of Facts relative to the supposed Abstinence of Anne Moore, 8vo. 1813.—Annals of the Poor, 2 v. 12mo. 1814.

RICKARDS, ROBERT, Esq. M.P.

Speeches in the House of Commons in the Debate on the Renewal of the Charter of the East India Company, 8vo. 1814.

RICKMAN, THOMAS CLIO, a bookseller in Upper Mary-le-bone Street, London. This eccentric character has avowed himself the complete disciple of his friend, Thomas Paine, both in his religious principles and his politics. He keeps the table, at which that worthy personage scribbled his libels, and took those draughts which inspired him with infidelity and republicanism. Mr. Rickman has been a liberal contributor of poetical trifles to various magazines, and in a separate form he has published:

The Fallen Cottage, a Poem, 4to. 1787.—The Evening Walk, a Tale, 8vo. 1796.—A Collection of Epigrams, 8vo. 1796.—Mr. Pitt's Democracy Manifested, 8vo. 1799.—Poetical Scraps, 2 v. 8vo. 1803.—An Ode on the Emancipation of the Blacks of St. Domingo, 4to. 1804.—Corruption, a Satire, 4to. 1806.—Elegy to the Memory of Thomas Paine, 8vo. 1810.

RIDDELL, ROBERT, colonel in the army, who has made himself conspicuous in the character of an empiric, and the inventor of a new mode of curing diseases, which, according to his account, amounts to something little short of miraculous. The Gentleman's Magazine is disgraced by many communications on this subject; and the author has also published:

The Riddellian System, or New Medical Improvements, 8vo. 1808.

RIDGEWAY, WILLIAM, Esq. barrister at law in Dublin.

Reports of Cases in the King's Bench and Chancery, royal, 8vo. 1794.—Reports of Cases upon Appeal, and Writs of Error in the High Court of Parliament in Ireland, from 1784 to 1796, 3 v. 8vo. 1795, 1798.—Term Reports of Cases in the King's Court in Dublin, royal 8vo. 1796. These were published in conjunction with William Lapp, and John Schoales, Esqrs. —A Report of the Proceedings in Cases of High Treason at a Special Commission of Oyer and Terminer held in Dublin, 8vo. 1798.

RIGBY, EDWARD, surgeon at Norwich. Besides some papers in the Medical Journals he has published:

RIGBY, REV. ROBERT, Vicar of St. Mary's church, in Beverley.

A Sermon preached at Beverley, on occasion of the General Fast, 8vo. 1803.—Lectures on the Church Catechism, 12mo. 1813.

RIGGE, JOHN, deputy-register for the county of Middlesex.

Instruction for Registering Deeds, &c. 8vo. 1778.—Observations on the Statutes for Registering Deeds, 8vo. 1798.

RING, JOHN, Esq. of New-street, Hanover-square, member of the Royal College of Surgeons, and of the Medical Societies of London and Paris. This skilful practitioner and excellent man was, we believe, a pupil of the ingenious Percival Pott; and he has long resided in the house where he now dwells, with great and deserved reputation. He has been distinguished by his zeal in the improvement and extension of vaccination, the cause of which he has advocated with great ability and success. Mr. Ring has published numerous papers in the London Medical Journal, and also the following valuable works:

Reflections on the Surgeons' Bill, 8vo. 1798.—A Treatise on the Cow-Pox, containing the History of Vaccine Inoculation, 2 Parts, 8vo. 1801-3.—Translations of Dr. Geddes's Ode to Peace, 8vo. 1802.—Translation of Mr. Anstey's Ode to Dr. Jenner, 4to. 1804.—An Answer to Mr. Goldson, proving that Vaccination is a permanent Security against Small-Pox, 8vo. 1804.—An Answer to Dr. Moseley, containing a Defence of Vaccination, 8vo. 1805.—An Answer to Mr. Birch on the subject of Vaccination, 8vo. 1806.—A Rowland for an Oliver, in Answer to Dr. Moseley, 8vo. 1807.—The Beauties of the Edinburgh Review, 8vo. 1807.—A Treatise on the Gout, 8vo. 1813.

RIPON, JOHN SCOTT—see BYERLEY.

ROBERTS, THOMAS.

Cermen Seculare, a Sacred Poem on the Commencement of the present Century, 4to. 1801.

ROBERTS, WILLIAM, Esq. brother of the late master of St. Paul's School. He was formerly an officer in the army; but quitted the service many years ago and applied himself with great success to the education of young gentlemen at Wandsworth. He has published, Thoughts upon Creation, 12mo. 1782.—Poetical Attempts, 8vo. 1784.

ROBERTS, WILLIAM, Esq. A.M. and F.A.S. of Gray's Inn, Barrister at Law.

He is the younger son of the preceding gentleman, and was educated at Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, of which society he became Fellow, being originally destined for the Church. His inclinations however took another turn and he engaged in the study of the law. While at the University he obtained a prize for an Essay on Refinement, of which only a few copies were printed for private circulation. He is also said to have been a frequent writer in the English Review, and to have published anonymously a small tract on the Oxford marbles. After leaving college he travelled for a short time; and on his return commenced the publication of his periodical paper called the Looker-on; the first number of which made its appearance March 10, 1792, and the last, December 21, 1793. Of the few contributors to this work Mr. James Beresford was the principal. When the papers were completed in folio the whole collection was reprinted with the title of:

The Looker-on, 3 v. 12mo. 1794.

ROBERTS, WILLIAM, Esq. of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister at Law. This gentleman, who is no relation to the preceding, has long held a distinguished situation as magistrate at Manchester. He is the author of:

A Charge to the Grand Jury of the Court Leet for the manor of Manchester, delivered at the Michaelmas Court, Oct. 15, 1788, 8vo.—The Fugitives, com. 8vo. 1791.—Supplementary facts and observations on the trial of Mr. Walker of Manchester, 8vo. 1791.—A Treatise on the Construction of the Statutes, 13 Eliz. c. 5. and 27 Eliz. c. 4. relating to voluntary and fraudulent Conveyances, 8vo.—A Treatise on the Statute of Frauds as it regards Declarations in Trusts, Contracts, Surrenders, Conveyances, and the Execution and Proof of Wills and Codicils, 8vo. 1806.—A Treatise on Wills and Codicils, 8vo. 1809.

ROBERTSON, ABRAHAM, D.D. F.R.S. Savilian Professor of Geometry in the University of Oxford. He is a native of Scotland, but was educated at Westminster and Christ Church, of which College he became student. As a mathematician he ranks deservedly high; but he has experienced the envy which seldom fails to follow superior merit, and some very illiberal criticisms were published on his principal work, in a periodical journal, supposed to have been written by a mathematical tutor at Cambridge. Besides some communications in the Philosophical Transactions, Dr. Robertson has printed:

sectionibus conicis et de Scriptioribus qui earum doctrinam tradiderunt, 4to. 1793.—A Geometrical Treatise of Conic Sections, 8vo. 1802.—A Reply to a Critical and Monthly Reviewer, in which is inserted Euler's Demonstration of the Binomial Theorem, 8vo. 1808.

ROBINSON, REV. JOHN, D.D. of Christ's College, Cambridge, and Master of the Free Grammar School at Ravenstone-dale. This gentleman, who is a very respectable scholar, was educated in Archbishop Whitgift's school at St. Bees, and in consequence of some of his publications he was enabled to enter himself in the University of Cambridge. Having made a few valuable communications to the Old Monthly Magazine, the proprietor engaged him in writing the History of Greece, which was published in the Universal History, bearing the name of Dr. Mavor. Since then, he has given to the world these works, which possess various degrees of merit:

An Easy Grammar of History, 12mo. 1806.—Archæologia Græca, or the Antiquities of Greece, 8vo. 1807.—Ancient History, for the use of schools, 12mo. 1807.—Modern History, for the use of schools, 12mo. 1807.—A Theological Dictionary, 8vo. 1815.

ROBINSON, REV. JOHN, M.A. a different person from the preceding, who has printed,

The Clergyman's Assistant, 8vo. 1805.—Essays on the Prophecies of the Messiah, 8vo. 1812.

ROBINSON, JOHN, a novel writer, who is remarkable for the murderous catastrophe of his pieces, which are as follows:

Sydney St. Aubyn, 2 v. 12mo. 1794.—Audley Fortescue, 2 v. 12mo. 1795.—He has also published Sensibility, with other Poems, 12mo. 1806.

ROCHE, J. HAMILTON, lately a captain in the army, and at present residing at Sudbury. This gentleman has contrived, by putting scraps together from various authors, without any acknowledgement, to publish some pompous pamphlets by subscription, and he has succeeded, to an astonishing degree, in laying the credulous under contribution for his plagiarisms, the full exposure of which has failed in drawing from him either apology or confession. His performances in this way are, of Inoculation and Re-Inoculation with Variolous and Vaccine Matter, 8vo. 1804.

ROMILLY, Sir SAMUEL, Kut. Barrister at Law, of Lincoln's Inn, and M.P. He is the son of a jeweller and silversmith in London, who was a native of Geneva, but resided most of his life in England, where he acquired an independence. The son received a liberal education, and was called to the bar, where he shines at the head of the Chancery bar. When the Foxite party came into power after the death of Mr. Pitt, this gentleman was made Solicitor-General, on which occasion he received the honor of knighthood. Sir Samuel was an unsuccessful candidate for the city of Bristol, at the last general election, but after some time the Bedford interest procured him a seat, and he of course figures as a leading man on the opposition side of the house.

Observations on the Criminal Law of England as it relates to Capital Punishments, 8vo. 1810.—Objections to the Project of creating a Vice Chancellor of England, (anonymous) 8vo. 1812, recorded in The Pamphleteer.—Speech in the House of Commons on the Treaty of Peace which relates to the Slave Trade, 8vo. 1814.

ROSCOE, WILLIAM, Esq. This gentleman came of a very low origin, and had a scanty education. At an early age he was articled as clerk in the office of Mr. Edes, an attorney at Liverpool; soon after which he began the study of the Latin language, in the acquisition of which he was assisted by Mr. Francis Holden, an eccentric genius, but a good scholar. From thence Mr. Roscoe proceeded to the French and Italian, in the last of which he made a great progress. At the age of sixteen, he wrote a descriptive poem entitled Mount Pleasant, and on the expiration of his clerkship, he became a partner with Mr. Aspinall, an attorney of Liverpool: about which time also, he contracted an intimacy with the late Dr. Enfield and the present Dr. Aikin. As early as 1773, he materially contributed to the establishment of a society for the encouragement of drawing and painting, at Liverpool: and when the question of the slave trade was agitated, he advocated the abolition of that traffic with great zeal and eloquence. The French revolution also found in him a warm admirer, and he wrote some popular songs and other poetical pieces in favor of that cause; particularly one entitled "Millions be Free," and another "The Vine-covered Hills." About the year 1797, Mr. Roscoe relinquished the practice of an attorney, and entered himself a student of Gray's Inn, by which society he was in regular course called to the bar. He afterwards commenced the business of a banker at Liverpool, and, for a short space, sat as one of the representatives of that town in parliament, where he acted in conjunction with the party of Mr. Fox, though he very rarely made any display of his powers in debate, and at the ensuing election he was thrown out by his townsmen. The works of Mr. Roscoe are as follows:

A Scriptural Refutation of a Pamphlet lately published by the Rev. Raymond Harris, on the Licitness of the Slave Trade, 8vo. 1788.—The Wrongs of Africa, 2 parts, 8vo. 1788.—The Life of Lorenzo de Medici called the Magnificent, 2 v. 4to. 1795; 2nd edit. 8vo. 1796.—The Nurse, a poem, from the Italian, 4to. 1798; 8th edit. 8vo. 1800.—The Life and Pontificate of Leo X. 4 v. 4to. 1805.—Remarks on the Proposals made to Great Britain for a Negotiation with France, 8vo. 1808.—Considerations on the Causes of the Preseot War, 8vo. 1808.—Observations on the Address to his Majesty, proposed by Earl Grey, 8vo. 1810.—Occasional Tracts relative to the War between France and Great Britain, 8vo. 1811.—Answer to a Letter from Mr. J. Merritt, 8vo. 1812.—A Review of the Speeches of the Right Hon. G. Canning, 8vo. 1813.—Letter to Henry Brougham, Esq. on a Reform in the Representation of the People in Parliament, 8vo. 1811.

ROSE, E.

The Sea Devil, a nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1812.

ROSE, the Rt. Hon. GEORGE, M.P. Clerk of the Parliament, Treasurer of the Navy, Deputy President of the Board of Trade, Keeper of the Records in the Exchequer, one of the Elder Brethren of the Trinity House, and a Trustee of the British Museum. This eminent statesman is an instance of what may be accomplished by industry and integrity. His outset in life was in the capacity of a purser of a ship of war, where his abilities became known to the late Earl of Sandwich, by whom he was recommended to Lord North, who gave him an appointment in the Treasury. His literary powers were displayed to great advantage in the year 1777, when he superintended the publication of the Journals of the House of Lords in thirty one folio volumes. From that period he has rarely failed to be employed in a public capacity, by successive administrations; and the late Mr. Pitt, in particular, had the highest regard for him, nor was the attachment of Mr. Rose to that illustrious man less sincere and ardent. In 1794, he became executor to the venerable Earl of Marchmont, who bequeathed to him his large collection of books, manuscripts, and coins. Mr. Rose is the author of the Dissertation on the Doomsday Book, in Nash's History of Worcestershire, and also of these tracts, The Proposed System of Trade with Ireland explained, 8vo. 1785.—A Brief Examination into the Increase of the Revenue, Commerce, and Manufactures, of Great Britain, 8vo. 1799; a new edition with considerable additions, 1806.—The Civil List, 8vo. 1802.—Observations on the Poor Laws, and on the Management of the Poor in Great Britain, 8vo. 1805.—Observations on the Historical Work of Mr. Fox, 4to. 1809.—Observations with respect to the Public Expenditure, 3rd edit. 8vo. 1810.—Letter to Lord Melville respecting a Naval Arsenal at Northfleet, 8vo. 1810.—Substance of his Speech in the House of Commons on the Report of the Bullion Committee, 8vo. 1811.—Speech on the Cora Laws, 8vo. 1814.—Speech on the Property Tax, 8vo. 1815.

RYLAND, JOHN, D.D. son of the late Rev. John Ryland, and the successor of Dr. Evans in the Mastership of the Baptist Seminary at Bristol. He has published many single sermons and tracts, the principal of which are,

Christianæ Militiæ Viaticum; or a brief Directory for Evangelical Ministers, 8vo. 2d edit. 1798.—The Partiality and Unscriptural Direction of Socinian Zeal; 8vo. 1801.—The Difficulties and Supports of a Gospel Minister, and the Duties incumbent on a Christian Church, an ordination sermon, 8vo. 1802.—Statement, Address, and Remarks relative to a late withdrawal from a Dissenting Congregation, 8vo. 1805.

RYLAND, JOHN, M.A. Rector of Sutton Coldfield in Warwickshire.

A Sermon to Farmers, 8vo. 1805.

RYLEY, SAMUEL WILLIAM. In the year 1793 this person was engaged in the liquor trade at Manchester, but the speculation failing in a few months, he turned his attention to the stage, and became an actor in a provincial theatre, also a lecturer or reader of an entertainment in the manner of Collins's Evening Brush. The performance of Mr. Ryley was called New Brooms, the songs in which were printed at Huddersfield in a small volume, but without date. The same collection also contains two comic pieces entitled "The Civilian; or the Farmer turned Footman," and "Roderic Random." But the most amusing work of our author is one in which he describes the miseries of a strolling player; it is entitled

The Itinerant, or Genuine Memoirs of an Actor, 3 v. 12mo. 1808.

RYMER, JAMES, a Surgeon and Apothecary at Ryegate in Surrey. He is a native of Scotland, and was many years a Surgeon in the Navy, after studying anatomy and medicine at Edinburgh. He quitted the service in 1782, and has ever since resided at Ryegate. His various publications are :

SACK, the Baron ALBERT VON, Chamberlain to the King of Prussia, and Governor of the Province of the Lower Rhine. This gentleman, on account of his health, was obliged to reside some time at Madeira, from whence he removed to Surinam, where he amused himself by researches in natural history. On his return to England he arranged the account of his travels for the press, and published the result in an epistolary form. After this he went again to the West Indies and Surinam, and at present he is engaged, we understand, in preparing an edition of his first book with a supplement in German.

Narrative of a Voyage to Surinam, 4to. 1810.

SADLER, THOMAS, Master of a School at Horsham.

Geographical Lessons for Children, 12mo. 1804.

SAINT, WILLIAM, formerly one of the Mathematical Masters at the Royal Military Academy, Woolwich. He is a native of Norwich, and was educated under the eccentric John Fransham, who was also the mathematical tutor of the late Rt. Hon. William Wyndham. Mr. Saint, we believe, wrote the life of his preceptor in a periodical publication, where also he combated the strange doctrines of the Platonist Taylor, who replied with great bitterness and contempt. Separately Mr. S. has published :

Four Letters to Lieutenant Colonel Mudge, written with a view to effect a Reformation in the Studies at the Academy of Woolwich, 8vo. 1810.

ST. JOHN, ANDREW.

Tales of Former Times, from the Old English Metrical Romances, 2 v. 12mo. 1807.

ST. JOHN, SERGIUS.

First Impressions, or the Tales of a Grandfather, 12mo. 1805.

ST. JOHN, THEOPHILUS, LL.B. We have every reason to believe that these names are wholly fictitious, and that the real author of the works which pass under them, is a beneficed clergyman of great respectability in Hampshire. These are Practical Sermons, 2 v. 8vo. 1803. 2nd edit. 1810.—

The Charges of Massillon, Bishop of Clermont, translated from the French, 8vo. 1805.

ST. MORELL, M.

An Essay towards a connected Elucidation of the Prophetical parts of the Apocalypse, 8vo. 1805.

ST. QUENTIN, DOMINIQUE, M.A. a native of France who has resided above twenty years in England as a teacher and translator of languages. He has published:

Calonne's Political State of Europe, translated from the original French manuscript, 8vo. 1796.—An Introduction to French Grammar, 3d edit. 12mo. 1812.

—A New Grammar of the French Language, 12mo. 2nd edit. 1812.—First Rudiments of General Grammar applicable to all Languages, 12mo. 1812.

SALISBURY, RICHARD ANTHONY, Esq. F.R.S. This excellent naturalist has long been a Nurseryman at the Queen's Elms, Little Chelsea; and he also enjoys the estate of Mill Hill which formerly belonged to the celebrated Peter Collinson. He has made several discoveries in botanical science, particularly with respect to the cyripedium, the pancratium and oxalis, of which he has some interesting descriptions in the Transactions of the Linnean Society. He has also published: Icones stirpium variorum descriptionibus illustratæ, 8vo. 1791.—Prodromus stirpium in horto Chapel Allerton vigentium, 8vo. 1796.—C. P. Thuoberg Dissertatio de Erica, curante R. A. Salisbury, 4to. 1800.—Paradisus Londinensis, 4to.

SALISBURY, WILLIAM, brother of the preceding, and the author of, Hortus Paddiogtoensis, or a catalogue of Plants cultivated in the Garden of J. Symmons, Esq. Paddington House, 8vo. 1797.—Hortus Siccus Gramineus, or a collection of dried specimens of British Grasses, 1812.

SALMON, J.

An historical description of Ancient and Modern Rome, also of the works of art; particularly in Architecture, Sculpture and Painting, to which are added a Tour through the Cities and Towns in the environs of that Metropolis, and an account of the Antiquities found at Gabia, 8vo. 1800.

SALMON, ROBERT.

Analysis of the General Construction of Trusses, 8vo. 1807.

SALMON, THOMAS ABRAHAM, B.D. of Wadham College, Oxford, where he proceeded M.A. in 1792; and B.D. in 1800. He is the editor of, Hebraica Grammaticæ, or a Hebrew Grammar with vowel points, 8vo. 1796.—Vitarum Plutarchi Epitome, 8vo. 1797.

SALMON, NICHOLAS, an Itinerant Teacher of the French Language, and formerly Master of an Academy in Red Lion Street, Clerkenwell. He has published:

SALMOND, JAMES, Esq. Secretary for Military Correspondence to the Court of Directors of the East India Company.

A Review of the Origin, Progress, and Result of the War with Tippon Sultaun, to which are added some account of Zemaun Shah, the Proceedings of a Jacobio Club formed at Seringapatam, &c. together with translations of State Papers found in the Cabinet of Tippoo Sultaun, and other important official papers, 8vo. 1800.

SALT, HENRY, Esq. F.R.S. Consul general in Egypt. He was born at Lichfield and received his education in the Grammar School of that city. His love of travelling and taste for drawing procured him the friendship of Lord Valentia, whom he accompanied to the Levant, Egypt, Abyssinia, and the East Indies. The published travels of that nobleman derived great benefit from the graphic illustrations of Mr. Salt, who was, in consequence, employed by government as the bearer of presents to the Emperor of Abyssinia, the result of which mission has appeared before the public in a work of high importance to commerce and science. In this performance the author has rendered ample justice to Mr. Bruce, whose general veracity and accuracy have here had a complete vindication. The publications of Mr. Salt are: Twenty-four Views taken in India, the Red Sea, Abyssinia, &c. fol. 1809.—An Account of a Voyage to Abyssinia, and Travels in the Interior of the Country, in 1809-10, 4to. 1814.

SANDFORD, DANIEL, D.D. and Bishop of the Scotch Episcopal Church at Edinburgh. He was formerly of Christ Church, Oxford, where he proceeded M.A. July 12, 1791. Having long resided at Edinburgh as the minister of an episcopal congregation, he was invited by the respectable prelates of that depressed church to accept the charge of Bishop in the year 1806. Bishop Sandford has published :

Lectures on Passion Week, dedicated to the Queen, 8vo. 1797.—Sermons designed chiefly for young persons, 12mo. 1802.—A Charge delivered to the Clergy of the Episcopal Communion at Edinburgh, 4to. 1807.—A Sermon for the Lancasterian Schools, 8vo. 1813.—And is a contributor to the Classical Journal.

SANDHAM, MRS. ELIZABETH.

Elizabeth, translated into Italian from the French of Madame Cottin, 12mo. 1813.—Grammar of the Italian Language, 12mo. 1813. 2d edit. 1815.—Italian Exercises, 12mo. 1815.—The Italian Reader, a selection of extracts from the most eminent Italian writers, in prose and verse, 12mo. 1815.

SARGENT, JOHN, Esq. one of the Commissioners for Auditing the Public Accounts. This gentleman is a native of Sussex, and the author of a very beautiful poem founded on the affecting story of Count Alberti, who was condemned to the quicksilver mines of Idria for a duel. This piece first appeared in 1785 with the title of,

The Mine, &c. It has been since reprinted in 12mo. with two historic Odes, little if any thing inferior to those of Gray.

SARRATT, J. H.

Life of Buonaparte, 12mo. 1803.—Treatise on the Game of Chess, 2 v. 8vo. 1809.—The Works of Damiano, Lopez and Salvio on Chess, 8vo. 1813.

SARRAZIN, General, an officer who in 1810 quitted the service of Buonaparte on some disgust, and came to England from Cherbourg. He commanded a force at Cadsand, near Walcheren, and says that he would have then joined the English, if he could have done so with safety. Soon after his arrival here he made the most extravagant demands on our government for supposed services, which he valued at 3,000l. a year, 50,000l. for what he had sacrificed, and 10,000l. for immediate use, besides the rank of lieutenant general, and other items equally moderate ! He published during his residence in London, a periodical piece called the Philosopher, and several articles in the Times newspaper. He is also the author of :

The Confessions of Buonaparte to the Cardinal Maury, 8vo.—Memorial to the English Government, 8vo. 1811.—History of the War in Spain and Portugal, 8vo. 1815. This work, it must be confessed, gives a luminous view of the great scenes which occurred in the Peninsula, from the commencement of the contest in 1807 to its termination in 1814.

SAUER, MARTIN.

An Account of a Geographical and Astronomical Expedition to the Northern Ports of Russia, performed by Commodore Joseph Billings during the years 1785—1794, 4to. 1802. The author was secretary to the expedition of which he gives an account.

SAUMAREZ, RICHARD, Surgeon to the Magdalen Hospital. He is a native of Guernsey, and brother to Admiral Sir James Saumarez. This gentleman has distinguished himself by his zeal for reviving the ancient metaphysics, which he has contrived to mix with medical theory and practice in such a way as to be perfectly unintelligible to common capacities. His performances are,

A Dissertation on the Universe in general, and on the Procession of the Elements in particular, 8vo. 1795.—A New System of Physiology, vols. I. and II. 8vo. 1798.—Principles and Ends of Philosophy, 8vo. 1811.—Principles of Physiological and Physical Science, 8vo. 1812.—Oration delivered before the Medical Society of London, 8vo. 1813.

SAVAGE, JAMES, a native of Yorkshire, and for some time assistant librarian of the London Institution, from which situation he was dismissed. He has published,

The History of the Collegiate Church of Howden, 8vo. 1804.—History of the Parish and Castle of Wresle, in the East Riding of the County of York, 8vo. 1804.—History of British Commerce, by Dr. Rheinhart of Gottingen, with Notes and Additions, 8vo. 1805.—The Librarian, containing an Account of scarce, valuable, and useful books, 3 v. 8vo. 1808.—1809.—Account of the London Daily Newspapers, 8vo. 1811.—An Account of the Last Illness of the late Richard Porson, 1808.

SAVAGE, JOHN.

Some Account of New Zealand, 1807.

SAVIGNY, J. H. surgeons' instrument maker in the Strand. He has published, Description of a Portable Apparatus for the Recovery of Persons apparently drowned, 8vo. 1790.—Engravings representing the most approved Modern Instruments used in the Practice of Surgery, fol. 1798.

SAVORY, MARTHA.

Inspiration, a poetical essay, 12mo. 1805.—Poetical Tales, founded upon facts, 12mo. 1808.—Life's Vicissitudes, 1810.

SAWREY, S. Surgeon.

SAYER, EDWARD, Esq. Barrister at Law. This gentleman, who is distinguished by a versatility of talent, being a very ingenious poet and an excellent painter, was counsel for Lord Hood in the great contest for Westminster, in 1784; but his services on that occasion were very ill requited. Mr. Sayer has published a number of admirable caricatures, and some of the most lively poetical pieces of the present day, chiefly on political subjects, have issued from his pen. His avowed performances are, Observations on the Police of Westminster, 4to. 2nd ed. 1792.—Observations on Dr. Price's Revolution Sermon, 8vo. 1789.—Lindor and Adelaide, a moral tale, 12mo.—A Volume of Essays, Literary and Political, 8vo.

SAYER, S.

The Garland, or Poems on Various Subjects, 12mo. 1809.

SAYERS, FRANK, M.D. Of this very ingenious writer we lament much that it is out of our power to give any other information than the bare notice of his publications, which are,

Dramatic Sketches of the Ancient Northern Mythology, 4to. 1790; 2nd edition, with additions, 2 v. 8vo. 1792; 3rd ed. 1803.—Disquisitions, Metaphysical and Literary, 8vo. 1793.—Miscellanies, Antiquarian and Historical, 8vo. 1805.—Nugæ Poeticæ, 8vo. 1803.

SAYERS, JAMES, of Bath.

A New Mode of conducting the Corn Markets, with a Plan to put a Stop to Monopoly in Provisions, 8vo. 1802.

SCHANK, JOHN, Esq. Vice Admiral of the Blue Squadron. This gallant officer has distinguished himself by his skill and diligence in furthering improvements in the naval service, particularly the construction of ships of war. He was one of the original members of the Society for improving Naval Architecture, set on foot by the late eccentric John Sewell, the bookseller; and some of the papers published by that institution were the productions of this ingenious officer, who has also the merit of making a very useful discovery, the particulars of which were published by him in a piece entitled,

A Sketch of Two Boats and a Cutter with Sliding Keels, fol. 1793.

SCHETRY, JOHN.

Illustrations of the Lay of the Last Minstrel, 8vo. 1810.

SCHILLING, G. F. master of the German school in the Savoy.

SCOTT, R. B.

Stratagematon, or Greek and Roman Anecdotes concerning Military Policy and War, 8vo. 1811.

SCOTT, THOMAS, Rector of Aston Sandford in Buckinghamshire, and formerly Curate of Weston Underwood and Ravenstoke, in the same county. He is a native of Yorkshire, and soon after his entrance on the ministry, he became a zealous Calvinist, which occasioned his being elected to the joint chaplainship of the Lock Hospital, when the late Rev. Martin Madan was under the necessity of relinquishing that situation in consequence of his public vindication of Polygamy. Mr. Scott afterwards had a difference with his coadjutor, Mr. De Coetlogon, on some points of doctrine, which produced a curious kind of schism in that establishment, and ended in the removal of both preachers. The former became vicar of Olney, from whence he removed to his present rectory. He has been an indefatigable laborer in the theological field, and, among other things, he printed a family Bible in numbers, which proved the ruin of Bellamy, the publisher. The work was sold by the assignees, but Mr. Scott not having parted with the copyright, printed another in opposition to it, and gained his object. His performances are,

The Force of Truth, a Marvellous Narrative of his own Life, 12mo. 1779; 8th edition, 1811.—The Scriptural Doctrine of Civil Government and the Duties of Subjects, 12mo. 1792.—The Rights of God, 12mo. 1793.—The Religious Character of Great Britain, 8vo. 1793.—Essays on the most Important Subjects in Religion, 12mo. 1793; 4th ed. 8vo. 1800.—Treatise on Growth in Grace, 8vo.—On the Inspiration of the Holy Scriptures in Answer to Paine's Age of Reason, 8vo. 1796.—Sermons on Select Subjects, 8vo. 1797.—A Family Bible with Notes, 4 v. 4to. 1796; 5th edit. 1810.—The Warrant and Nature of Faith considered, 12mo. 1798.—On the Signs of the Times, 8vo. 1799.—A Missionary Sermon at St. Anne's, Blackfriars, 8vo. 1801.—Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, with Notes and the Life of the Author, 8vo. 1801.—Four Sermons on Repentance, the Evil of Sin, Christ's Love to Sinners, and the Promise of the Holy Spirit, 8vo. 1802.—Sermon on the Death of J. Newell, 8vo. 1803.—Chronological Tables to the Bible with Maps, 4to. 1811.—The Jews a Blessing to Nations, a Sermon at St. Lawrence, Jewry, 8vo. 1810.—Remarks on the Bishop of Lincoln's Refutation of Calvinism, 2 v. 8vo. 1812.—Joy in Heaven, a Sermon for the Female Penitentiary, 8vo. 1812.

SCOTT, WALTER, Esq. one of the clerks of the Court of Session, and Sheriff Deputy for the shire of Selkirk, is the son of Walter Scott, Esq. a counsellor; by Elizabeth, daughter of David Rutherford, Esq. also an eminent practitioner of the same profession at Edinburgh. The mother of Mr. Scott died in 1789, and some of her poems have been printed. She was intimate with Allan Ramsay, Blacklock, and Burns; so that genius, in this respect, seems to have been hereditary. Mr. Scott, who has been lame from his birth, was educated at the High School of Edinburgh, under Dr. Adam, and next at the University there, under Professor Stewart. After going through the forms of an office with an eminent writer to the signet, he was called to the Scotch bar, and through his alliance to the Buccleugh family, obtained the situation of one of the principal clerks to the Court of Session. His first literary performance was a translation of Goethe's German play entitled, "Goetz of Berlichingen;" published in 1799, but this did not gain the translator any reputation. As an original writer, however, he has obtained a distinction above most of his cotemporaries; having the merit of adapting the old ballad style of composition to the higher range of poetry. As an instance of the popularity of Mr. Scott's Works we subjoin a statement of the comparative sale of Rokeby and the Lady of the Lake in nearly four months, as submitted by the publishers. Sold of the Lady of the Lake, from June 2nd to September 22, 1810,

2,000 quarto, at 2 l . 2 s .	4,200 l .

SCOTT, Rt. Hon. Sir WILLIAM, Bart. M.P. LL.D. F.R.S. Judge of the High Court of Admiralty, and of the Consistorial Court, Vicar-general to the Archbishop of Canterbury, Master of the Faculties, Chancellor of London, and Official Commissary of the cities of Canterbury and London, a Trustee of the British Museum, &c. He is the elder brother of Lord Eldon, and was born at Newcastle, where he received his education under the Rev. Mr. Moises, master of the grammar school, after which he removed to University College, Oxford, and became a fellow of that society. He took his degree of M.A. June 17, 1767; that of B.C.L. May 30, 1772; and D.C.L. June 23, 1779.—Dr. Scott obtained great credit and practice as a civilian in the Commons; and he became a member of the literary club founded by Dr. Johnson, who remembered him in his will and appointed him one of his executors. On the death of Sir James Marriott, he was made Judge of the Admiralty, but on one occasion he committed a great mistake in excommunicating an attorney without the regular formalities. For this error he was brought into the Court of King's Bench. Sir William, when far advanced in life, married the Dowager Marchioness of Sligo, and is supposed to be immensely rich.

Substance of his Speech delivered in the House of Commons, the 7th of April, 1802, upon a motion for leave to bring in a Bill relative to the Non-residence of the Clergy, and other affairs of the Church, 8vo. 1802.

SCOTT, WILLIAM, teacher of elocution and geography, Edinburgh.

Introduction to Reading and Spelling, 8vo. 1776.—Principles of English Grammar, 12mo. 1777.—Compendium of Geography, 2d ed. 8vo. 1804.

SCRAGGS, GEORGE GLYNN, was born at London, in 1765, and intended for the law, which profession he quitted for the ministry among the dissenters. To qualify himself for that calling, he studied four years in an academy devoted to the instruction of youth for the pastoral office. He commenced his labours at Bridgewater, in Somersetshire, from whence he removed to Newcastle-under-Lyne, where he was ordained. From Newcastle he was invited to the charge of the senior Independent congregation at Buckingham, where he has resided fifteen years, and added to his ministerial duty that of a schoolmaster. Mr. Scraggs at an early age was a contributor to various magazines, and he has published, in a separate form, the following books:

Reasons for Dissenting from the Church of England, 8vo. 1790.—Instructive Selections from eminent Authors, 2 v. 12mo. 1801.—A Treatise on English Composition, 12mo. 1802.

SCULLY, W. M.D. of Dublin.

Review of the Arguments against Cow-Pox Inoculation, 1808.

SEARLE, REV. C. J. GOUGH.

An Assize Sermon preached at Winchester, 4to. 1809.

SEBRIGHT, SIR JOHN SAUNDERS, bart. M.P. for Hertfordshire.

The Art of Improving the Breeds of Animals, 8vo. 1809.

SEDGWICK, JAMES, late of Pembroke College, Oxford, barrister at law. This gentleman though a member of the University of Oxford has manifested great zeal in behalf of the Unitarian principles. He was a principal conductor of the Oxford Review, projected by Phillips, and which died of a consumption, after dragging through the space of twelve months. Mr. Sedgwick has published, besides, the following pieces:

Remarks on the Commentaries of Sir W. Blackstone, 4to. 1807.—Hints to the Public and the Legislature on the Nature and Effects of Evangelical Preaching, by a Barrister, 4 parts, 8vo. 1808-9.—The Law of Evidence, by Chief Baron Gilbert, 6th edit. with Notes and additional references, 8vo. 1801.

SELDEN, CATHERINE.

Valla Nova, or the Ruined Castle, a Romance, 2 v. 1806.—German Letters, 12mo. 1805.

SELKIRK, RIGHT HON. THOMAS DOUGLAS, Earl of, and one of the sixteen representative peers of Scotland; was born in 1774, and succeeded his father, Basil William Douglas, Earl of Selkirk, in the title and estates, May 24, 1799. This nobleman visited North America, for the purpose of settling a colony on Prince Edward's Island, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, which is now in a most flourishing condition. After his return, about 1807, he married the only daughter of James Wedderburne, of Colville, Esq. He has distinguished himself in parliament on the side of ministers, and has published, besides a pamphlet on emigration, and another on the Scotch peerage, the following tracts:

Speech in the House of Lords, Aug. 10, 1807, on the Defence of the Country, 8vo. 1807.—Observations on the present State of the Highlands of Scotland, 8vo. 1805, 2d ed. 1806.—On the Necessity of a more effectual System of National Defence, 8vo. 1808.—A Letter to John Cartwright, Esq. on Parliamentary Reform, 8vo.

SELLON, JOHN, land-surveyor.

Outlines of a Philosophical Theory, being an Attempt to prove that Gravitation and Caloric are the sole causes of every Phenomenon in Nature, 8vo. 1812.

SELLON, BAKER JOHN, son of the late Rev. William Sellon, minister of St. James's, Clerkenwell; he received his education first at Merchant Taylors School, and afterwards at St. John's College, Oxford, where he took his degree of B.C.L. Oct. 24, 1785. Having entered at the Middle Temple, he was called to the bar, and became a sergeant at law. He is now also a police magistrate for the borough of Southwark. He has published:

Analysis of the Practice of the Courts, 8vo. 1789.—The Practice of the Courts of King's Bench and Common Pleas, 2 v. 8vo. 1792.

SELWYN, WILLIAM, Esq. of Lincoln's Inn, barrister-at-law.

An Abridgment of the Law of Nisi Prius, 2 v. 2d ed. 8vo. 1810.

SEMPLE, MRS. AGNES SOPHIA, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Henry Hunter, minister of the Scots Church, London Wall. Thoughts on Education, 8vo.

SEMPLE, ROBERT, a native of America, who has published:

Walks and Sketches at the Cape of Good Hope, to which is subjoined a Journey from Cape Town to Blettebergh's Bay, 1803, 8vo.—Sketch of the present State of the Caraccas, 8vo. 1812.—The Spanish Post Guide, 8vo. 1808.—Charles Ellis, or the Friends, a novel, 2 v. 1806.—Observations on a Journey through Spain and Italy, 2 v. crown 8vo. 1807.—A second Journey in Spain, in 1809, 8vo. 1809.

SENATE, E. M.D. a quack doctor in the metropolis, who has vended various nostrums which it would be indecent to mention, sometimes under the name of Dr. Senate, and at others under that of Dr. Venel. He is at present, we believe, concerned in the management of the Critical Review, and has printed, Family Pride and Humble Merit, a novel, 3 v. 12mo. 1810.—The Medical Magitor, 12mo. 1811.

SERNEY, T. B. M.D.

A Treatise on Local Inflammation, particularly applied to Diseases of the Eye, 8vo. 1809.

SERRES, JOHN THOMAS, marine painter to the King and the Duke of Clarence, and son of the late Dominick Serres, R.A.

The Little Sea Torch, a Guide for Coasting Pilots, fol. 1801.

SERRES, OLIVIA WILMOT, wife of the last-mentioned artist, and landscape painter to his royal highness the Prince Regent. She was born at Warwick, April 3, 1775, being descended of the noble family of Wilmot, celebrated for their loyalty in the civil wars. In consequence of the depressed state of the circumstances of her parents, Olivia was taken under the fostering care of her uncle, Dr. James Wilmot, a respectable member of Trinity College, Oxford, and in habits of intimacy with the most celebrated literary and political personages of his time. But the kindness which our fair author experienced from this worthy relative, was repaid by her endeavouring to make the world believe that he was the author of Junius's Letters, an honour to which, if he were now alive, that gentleman would hardly be desirous of laying any claim. At the age of eighteen she married Mr. Serres, from whom she has been separated several years, and under very hard circumstances, having to maintain herself and her children solely by her own efforts. In 1806 she was appointed landscape painter to the Prince of Wales, for which honour she expressed her gratitude by defending his royal highness with great zeal and ability against some scurrilous attacks. She has also published several musical pieces, which have been favourably received; and some political pamphlets, without her name, on the topics of the day, chiefly in the behalf of the royal family and persons in power. It is proper to observe, that since her separation from her husband, and in consequence of the ill treatment which she has experienced, she has commonly called herself WILMOT. Her avowed productions are:

Flights of Fancy, a collection of miscellaneous Poems, 8vo. 1806.—St. Julian, a novel, cr. 8vo. 1805.—Castle of Avala, an opera.—Letters of Advice to her Daughters, 8vo.—Life of the Rev. J. Wilmot, D.D. 8vo. 1813.—The true Messiah, in an Explanation of St. Athanasius's Creed, 8vo. 1814.

SERVICE, DAVID, a shoemaker, who was five years a herd boy, and never received any education. He has printed, The Caledonian Herd Boy, a poem.—Crispin, or the Apprentice Boy, a poem, 8vo. 1805.—The Wild Harp's Murmurs, or Rustic Strains, 12mo. 1806. This last is a continuation of the Caledonian Herd Boy.—A Voyage and Travels in the Region of the Brain, 12mo. 1808.

SEVERN, BENJAMIN PENN, dissenting minister.

Imposition the support of Religious Imposture and Heresy, a Sermon, preached at Harlem, 8vo. 1812.

SEVERN, WILLIAM.

Diversity of Sects and Opinions, no valid Objection to the Truth of the Christian Religion, a Sermon, preached at the Presbyterian Chapel, Hull, 1809.

SEWELL, Mrs. relict of the Rev. Geo. Sewell.

Poems, 1803, 8vo: 2 vol. 1805.

SEYER, SAMUEL, M.A. of Corpus Christi College, Oxford, where he took his master's degree, Jan. 14, 1780. He was born at Bristol, where his father was for many years rector of St. Michael's parish. The son is also a resident in that city, and has long kept a school there with great reputation, as his father did before him. In 1803 he was presented to the perpetual curacy of Horfield, near Bristol, and has published:

On the Syntax of the Latin Verb, 8vo. 1798.—Principles of Christianity, 12mo. 1800.—Latium Redivivum, or a Treatise on the Modern Use of the Latin Language, 8vo. 1808.—The Charters of the City of Bristol, translated from the Latin, 4to. 1812.

SEYMOUR, AARON C. a methodist preacher, who has published a new edition revised of Dr. Gillies's Life of Whitefield, and also,

Letters to Young Persons, 12mo.

SEYMOUR, CHARLOTTE, a young lady, who wrote, at the age of sixteen, a poem, intitled,

The Powers of Imagination, in three Parts, 4to. 1803.

SEYMOUR, E. H. Esq. of Clement's Inn. Remarks, Critical, Conjectural, and Expluvatory, on the Plays of Shakspeare, with Observations from the MSS. of Lord Chedworth, 2 v. 8vo. 1805.

SHAKESPEARE, JOHN, Esq. professor of oriental languages at the East India Company's Military Academy, Croydon.

Grammar of the Hindustani Language, 4to. 1813.

SHANNON, ROBERT, M.D. of Pimlico, who has published :

Observations on the Operation and Effects of certain Medicines in the Prevention and Cure of Diseases to which Europeans are subject in Hot Climates, 8vo. 1794.—Practical Treatise on Brewing, 4to. 1805.

SHARP, CHARLES KIRKPATRICK.

Metrical Legends, and other Poems, 8vo. 1807.

SHARP, WILLIAM, an eminent historical engraver in Howland-street, Fitzroy-square, who has a claim to a place in this work for his extraordinary conduct in the walk of fanaticism. When Richard Brothers amused the public with his wonderful prophecies, Mr. Sharp enlisted himself with great ardour under his banner, and published a portrait of the seer, very admirably engraved, but with an inscription beneath, which outraged decency. The exposure of that folly did not cure the artist, who became as great an admirer of Joanna Southcott as he had been of Brothers. To ascertain her history and the veracity of her relations, he was at the trouble of making a journey to Exeter, and when she declared herself to be in a pregnant state, Mr. Sharp professed his belief and his joy in no very moderate terms. He went about in all companies proclaiming the approaching advent, and while credulity was on the tiptoe of expectation he published the portrait of Joanna, with an interdict against all copyists. Even the death of the sibyl could not remove the ridiculous impression which had been made upon his mind by her dreams, and he actually was the last who gave up the hope of seeing the body rise again from the bed of death. He has published :

An Answer to the World for putting in print a Book, in 1804, called Copies and Parts of Copies, &c. in which Reasons are given in Answer to the mockery and ridicule of men for printing the Parables and Fables, which were published from Divine command in that book, 8vo. 1806.

SHARPE, JOHN, B. A. late scholar of Trinity Coll. Oxford.

The Church, a poem, 1796, 4to.—History of the Kings of England, translated from the Latin of William of Malmesbury, with Notes, 4to. 1815.

SHARPE, Rev. J. chaplain to the Duke of Cambridge.

A Sermon preached at Childwall on the Thanksgiving Day, Dec. 5, 1805, 8vo. 1806.—A Sermon on the Fast-Day, 8vo. 1812.

SHARPE, LANCELOT, M.A. minister of All-Hallows, Staining, and one of the masters of Merchant-Taylor's school. He is the son of an eminent grocer in Fenchurch-street, and received his education at Pembroke-Hall, Cambridge, after which he obtained the curacy of St. Bartholomew the Less, and from the Grocer's company the living he now holds. Mr. Sharpe is a respectable scholar, and was employed in editing Dr. Hales's Chronology. He has also published :

Rowley's Poems, with a Glossary, 8vo. 1796.

SHAW, WILLIAM, D.D. F.A.S. rector of Chelvey, in Somersetshire.

Suggestions on a plan of National Education, 8vo. 1801.—Sermon preached before the Grateful Society at Bristol, 8vo. 1809.—Sermon preached at Westminster at the Visitation of the Archdeacon, 8vo. 1810.

SHEE, MARTIN ARCHER, Esq. R.A. a portrait-painter of the first eminence, and we believe a native of the sister kingdom. He is also an author of considerable powers, and has published :

Elements of Art, a poem, 8vo. 1800.—Rhymes on Art, or the Remonstrance of a Painter, 2d ed. 8vo. 1805.—A Letter to the President and Directors of the British Institution, containing the Outlines of a Plan for the encouragement of Historical Painting, 8vo. 1809. This piece produced a reply in a Letter to M. A. Shee, Esq. in consequence of the Letter addressed by him to the President, &c. 8vo.—The Commemoration of Reynolds, a poem, 8vo. 1814.

SHEEPSHANKS, JOHN, M.A. curate of Trinity Church, Leeds, and late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge.

A Sermon preached at the Visitation of the Archdeacon of York, 8vo. 1804.

SHEFFIELD, the Right Hon. JOHN BAKER HOLROYD, Lord, is the second son of Isaac Holroyd, Esq. by Dorothea, daughter of Daniel Baker, of Penn, in the county of Bucks, Esq. He was born about the year 1741, and so early as 1760, commanded a troop of light horse under the Marquis of Granby. Soon after the restoration of peace, he travelled through a great part of Europe, and while abroad, the death of his brother greatly enlarged his fortune. In 1767 he married Miss Way, the only daughter of a gentleman of considerable opulence. About this time he became an ardent agriculturist, and his estate of Sheffield House, in Sussex, was greatly indebted to his skilful exertions. On the breaking out of the war with France, in 1778, Mr. Holroyd accepted a commission in the Sussex Militia, of which he afterwards had the command. In 1780 he was elected into parliament for the city of Coventry, after one of the most violent contests ever known, which ended in the committal of the two sheriffs of that city to Newgate. When the fanatical petitions against the Roman Catholics were brought up to the House of Commons by Lord George Gordon, who was accustomed to harangue the mobs on those occasions; Colonel Holroyd fearing the consequences laid hold of his lordship, and said, "hitherto I have imputed your conduct to madness, but now I perceive that it has more of malice than madness in it;" adding at the same time, "that if any of the mob made an entrance into the house he would instantly inflict summary vengeance on his Lordship as the instigator." At this time he was created Lord Sheffield, Baron of Dunamore, in the county of Meath, though afterwards an alteration took place in the form of the patent, with remainder of the title to his daughters. The commercial knowledge displayed by his Lordship recommended him to the city of Bristol at the next general election, and he rendered himself popular to his new constituents, by his indefatigable opposition to the abolition of the slave trade. In 1802 he was created an English peer, and in the upper house he has displayed the same independency of spirit which characterized him in the other house of parliament. He has been thrice married. On the death of his first lady, in 1793, he espoused Lady Lucy Pelham, daughter of the Earl of Chichester, and after her death he married Lady Anne North, daughter of the late Earl of Guildford, by whom he has issue, George Augustus Frederic North, born in 1802. Lord Sheffield was the most intimate friend of the historian Gibbon, to whose memory he has done honour by the publication of his memoirs and posthumous works, in 3 vols. 4to. His own literary performances are these:

Observations on the Commerce of the American States, 8vo. 1783; 6th ed. 1784.—Observations on the Manufactures, Trade, and present State of Ireland, 8vo. 1785; 3d ed., 1792.—Observations on the Project for Abolishing the Slave Trade, 8vo. 1789.—Observations on the Corn Bill now depending in Parliament, 8vo. 1791.—Substance of his Speech on the subject of the Union with Ireland, 8vo. 1799.—Remarks on the Deficiency of Grain, occasioned by the bad harvest 1799, 8vo. 1800.—Observations on the Objections made to the Exportation of Wool from Great Britain to Ireland, 8vo. 1800.—Strictures on the Necessity of maintaining the Navigation and Colonial System of Great Britain, 8vo. 1804.—The Orders in Council and the American Embargo beneficial to the Commercial and Political Interests of Great Britain, 8vo. 1809.—A Letter on the Corn Laws, and on the means of obviating the Mischiefs and Distresses which are rapidly increasing, 8vo. 1815.—On the Trade in Wool and Woollens, extracted from the Reports addressed to the Wool-Meetings in 1809, 1810, 1811 and 1812.—Report at the Meeting at Lewes Wool Fair, July 26, 1813. Both these Pamphlets are recorded in the Pamphleteer.

SHEPHERD, HENRY, Esq. Captain of the 49th Regiment.

The Orphan, or Generous Lovers, an opera in 3 acts, 8vo. 1800.

SHEPHERD, Mr.

The New Boethius, or the Consolation of Christianity, 8vo. 1806.

SHEPHERD, Rev. WILLIAM, a Dissenting Minister of the Unitarian denomination at or near Liverpool, was educated at Warrington Academy, after which he became a tutor in a seminary of his own. The friendship of Mr. Roscoe led him to study the Italian literature which he has cultivated with considerable success. His publications, besides some articles in the Athenæum and other miscellanies, are, The Life of Poggio Bracciolini, 8vo. 1802.—Dialogus Uxor Ducenda, 4to. 1808.—Paris in 1802 and 1814, 8vo. 1814.—Systematic Education, or a course of study in conjunction with J. Joyce and L. Carpenter, 2 v. 8vo. 1815.

SHERIDAN, Right Hon. RICHARD BRINSLEY, Receiver General of the Duchy of Cornwall; is the third son of the celebrated Thomas Sheridan, an actor of eminence, and more distinguished, as a teacher of elocution. Mrs. Sheridan, the mother of our author, was also a woman of very superior genius and of excellent principles. She was the intimate friend of Dr. Samuel Johnson and other persons of great name in the world of letters. Mr. Richard Sheridan was born at Dublin in October 1751, and at the age of seven years was placed with his elder brother Charles, under the care of Mr. Samuel Whyte, a schoolmaster, in the above city, and a relation of Mrs. Sheridan. It is observable that at the time when these boys were committed to the instruction of Mr. Whyte, their mother thus expressed herself concerning them to that gentleman, "I have hitherto been their only instructor, and they have sufficiently exercised my patience; for two such impenetrable dunces I never met with." After remaining with Mr. Whyte about a year and a half, the youths were sent to England, and in 1763, Richard Brinsley was entered at Harrow School, on which occasion the mother wrote thus to her friend Mr. Whyte, "Dick has been at school since Christmas; as he probably may fall into a bustling life, we have a mind to accustom him early to shift for himself." The progress of young Sheridan at Harrow was not, however, such as to remove the impression so early formed against his genius by his parent, but at length his latent powers are said to have been discovered by Mr., now Doctor, Samuel Parr, who spared no pains in drawing them into activity. About the year 1769, he was taken from Harrow, and entered a student of the Middle Temple, where we have every reason to believe that his application was not at all answerable to his father's expectations. The embarrassments of Mr. Sheridan were increased by his marriage with Miss Linley, the daughter of the celebrated composer, and herself a favourite singer at Drury Lane. The affections of this lady were gained by two desperate duels which her lover fought on her account with a Mr. Matthews, another of her admirers, in both of which Mr. Sheridan came off victorious. Though this alliance involved our author in considerable difficulties he would not suffer his wife afterwards to appear on the stage; and he actually refused many considerable offers which were made to him by the managers for his consent. On the 17th of January 1775 he brought out his first comedy of the Rivals, at Covent Garden, but the success of this piece did not equal its merits and it was withdrawn. His next production was a farce entitled, "St. Patrick's Day, or the Scheming Lieutenant," which appeared the same season. The next year appeared his comic opera of the Dueña, which ran seventy five nights, and about this time, on the retirement of Garrick, the purchase of his share of the patent was entered into with him by Dr. Ford, Mr. Linley, and Mr. Sheridan for 30,000*l*. Having now an interest in that concern which called for his particular exertions, our author produced in the season following a comedy altered from Vanbrugh, called "A Trip to Scarborough;" which was eclipsed by one of his own entitled "The School for Scandal," the most popular and perhaps the most legitimate piece of the kind of the modern drama. In 1778 he brought out the musical piece of the "Camp," which was followed by the entertainment of "the Critic," altered with great improvements from the "Rehearsal" of the Duke of Buckingham. At the general election in 1780 he was returned to parliament for Stafford, and immediately enrolled himself on the side of opposition, under the banners of his friend Mr. Fox, to whom he became under secretary, when that gentleman formed his noted coalition with Lord North. During the Shelburne administration a periodical paper appeared bearing the name of "The Jesuit," as characteristic of the nobleman who stood at the head of affairs. In that work Mr. Sheridan had a principal concern; and it was so severe that the Attorney General was directed by Government to institute a prosecution against the publisher. It ought here to be mentioned as a curious instance of the honesty of party, that when the conductors of this paper came soon after into power, they suffered the prosecution to go on, and the bookseller to be imprisoned twelve months without interposing on his behalf, or even paying the heavy expenses which he had incurred! On the restoration of his friends Mr. Sheridan was once more brought into place, and appointed Secretary of the Treasury; but he had scarcely seated himself in that office before the precipitate India Bill of Mr. Fox again occasioned a change, and Mr. Pitt became too firmly fixed to be shaken by the arts or the eloquence of the opposition. From that time Mr. Sheridan distinguished himself with great energy on that side, and his speeches, whatever might be thought of them by cool and dispassionate reasoners, never failed to attract public admiration for the poignancy of their wit and the eloquence of the language. At the commencement of the French revolution, indeed, he experienced some very cutting retorts from his old associate Mr. Burke, who exposed his weakness in seeking a little, paltry popularity from clubs, with keen but just severity. It is but just, however, to observe that in some instances Mr. Sheridan displayed more real patriotism than his great leader Mr. Fox, particularly at the time of the mutiny among the seamen, and also in vindicating the parochial associations for the defence of the kingdom. On the death of his first wife in 1792, he married Miss Ogle, daughter of the late dean of Winchester; and when his party came again into power after the death of Mr. Pitt, our author was appointed treasurer of the Navy. From that period he has gradually declined in political consequence, and at the last general election he failed in securing a seat. Besides his dramatic performances already mentioned, he adapted the Pizarro of Kotzebue to the English stage in 1798; and wrote several songs which were inserted in the works of others. The order of his publications is as follows:

The Epistles of Aristæus to the Greek, anon. 8vo.—The Rivals, com. 8vo. 1775.—The Duenna, com. op. 8vo. 1775, 8th edit. 1794.—Trip to Scarborough, com. 8vo. 1781.—The Critic, or a Tragedy Rehearsed, 8vo. 1779. These pieces with the School for Scandal were collected and printed in a neat volume duodecimo, in Dublin, but it is very remarkable that till very lately the last mentioned comedy has never been regularly published.—Verses to the Memory of David Garrick, 4to. 1779.—Comparative statement of the two Bills for the better Government of the British Possessions in India, 4to. 1788. 2d edit. 8vo. 1806.—Epistle to the Right Hon. Henry Dundas, 4to. 1796.—Pizarro, altered from Kotzebue, and adapted to the English stage, 8vo. 1799.—Speech on the Motion for the Army Establishment, 8vo. 1802.

SHEAWEN, JOHN, M. D. formerly a surgeon in the East India Company's service, but now a resident physician at Enfield. Cursory Remarks on the Nature and Cause of the Marine Scurvy, 8vo. 1799.—Introduction to an Examination of the internal evidence respecting the authenticity of certain publications said to have been found in MS. at Bristol, 8vo. 1809. In this work the author has ventured to defend the existence of Rowley, and his claims to the poems brought forward under his name by Chatterton.

SHIELD, WILLIAM, Esq. musician in ordinary to his Majesty, was born in 1754, at Swalwell in the county of Durham. His father, who was a singing master, taught him the violin at a very early age, and such was his progress that before he was eight years old he could play some of Corelli's most difficult pieces. The loss of his parent shortly after this occasioned a great change in his circumstances, and at the age of 14 he was bound apprentice to a boat builder at North Shields. Fortunately for him the celebrated Avison was at that time a resident in the neighbourhood, and from him he derived much assistance in his musical studies, which he still pursued at his leisure hours. At the expiration of his indentures he relinquished the trade to which he had been brought up, and became the leader of a theatre band at Durham. Such was his success that he was advised to repair to London, where he obtained the friendship of Cramer, who employed him in the orchestra at the Opera House. In 1792 Mr. Shield visited Italy, where he added to his knowledge and his reputation, as his various compositions sufficiently evince. Of his musical productions, in the capacity of composer to Covent Garden Theatre, it belongs not to us here to speak, but his literary and scientific powers are displayed to advantage in, An Introduction to Harmony, 4to. 1800.—Rudiments of Thorough Bass, for young Harmonists, 4to. 1815.

SHILLITO, CHARLES, formerly a Lieutenant in the Marines, and for many years a resident at Colchester. He has been a contributor to the Wit's Magazine, and other periodical publications, while separately he is the author of,

The Sea Fight, an elegiac poem written at Sea, 4to. 1780.—The Country Book Club, a poem, 4to.—The Man of Enterprize, a farce, 8vo. 1789.—Sonnet supposed to have been written by Mary, Queen of Scots, to Earl Benthwell, translated into English, 8vo. 1790.—A Caution and Warning to Great Britain, 12mo. 1797.

SIBLEY, MANOAH, shorthand writer, bookseller, and preacher in the sect of Swedenborg at a chapel in Redcross Street. He is a native of Bristol, where his father was a shoemaker, to which business he and his brother, the late empiric and astrologer Dr. Sibley, were also brought up. This person has published: Critical Essay on Jeremiah xxxiii. 16. 8vo. 1777.—An Answer to the most important question Who is the Lord? three sermons, 8vo. 1792.—Twelve Sermons preached at the New Jerusalem Temple in Redcross Street near Cripplegate, London, 8vo. 1796.—The Liturgy of the New Church.—The Call of the Jews, two sermons, 8vo. 1796.—The Genuine Trial of Thomas Hardy for High Treason, at the Old Bailey, 2 v. 8vo. 1795.

SICKELMORE, RICHARD, an eccentric character at Brighton, who was originally a mechanic, but having a lively fancy he became a writer of paragraphs in the newspapers. His articles in this line being interlarded with the epithets pedestrian and equestrian procured him the title of Apollo on Horse Back. He has published the following pieces:

The Dream, a drama, 8vo. 1797.—Edgar, or the Phantom of the Castle, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1798.—Quarter Day, an interlude, 8vo. 1798.—Salinbanco, an opera, 8vo. 1798.—The Cottage Maid, an opera, 8vo. 1798.—Aboukir Bay, a mus. dram. 8vo. 1799.—Agnes and Leonora, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1799.—Mary Jane, nov. 2 v. 1800.—Sketches from Life, com. 8vo. 1802.—Rashleigh Abbey, or the Ruin of the Rock, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1805.—Osrick, or Modern Honors, 3 v. 12mo. 1809.

SIDMOUTH, Right Hon. HENRY ADDINGTON, VISCOUNT. He is the son of Dr. Anthony Addington, formerly an eminent physician at Reading, and the confidential friend of the great Lord Chat-ham, which connexion brought on an intimacy with their respective sons. The subject of the present sketch was born at Reading about 1755, and with his brother Mr. Hiley Addington sent to Cheam school under Mr. Gilpin, from whence they removed first to Winchester, and afterwards to Ealing, where they had the instructions of the present Bishop of Carlisle. Mr. Henry Addington became a student of Brazenose College, Oxford, where he took his Master's degree November 18, 1780. On leaving the University he entered himself at Lincoln's Inn, and was called to the bar about the same time with Mr. Pitt, under whose auspices he obtained a seat in Parliament for the borough of Devizes of which he had been previously chosen Recorder. In 1789 he was elected Speaker of the House of Commons, in which office he displayed great talent and impartiality. On the resignation of Mr. Pitt and his colleagues, Mr. Addington was appointed Chancellor of the Exchequer, in which capacity he effected the treaty of Amiens which certainly will not confer any great lustre on his administration. When Mr. Pitt resumed the seat of power, his friend was made a peer and appointed Lord President of the Council; and in the Fox and Grenville administration he held the office of Privy Seal. He at present enjoys the post of Secretary of State for the Home Department, and is highly esteemed for his integrity and liberality. Lord Sidmouth married Miss Hammond, by whom he has issue Henry William Addington and three daughters. Under the name of this nobleman have appeared:

Speech on the Motion of the Marquis of Stafford relative to the Change of Administration, 8vo. 1807.—Speech in the House of Lords on the Danish Ships detained in the Ports of Great Britain, 8vo. 1808.

SIKES, REV. THOMAS, M.A. Vicar of Gilsborough in Northamptonshire. He was formerly a member of Pembroke College, Oxford, where he took his master's degree in 1792. Mr. Sikes who is possessed of a very handsome paternal estate, is a zealous defender of the established church. He was the first who made a direct attack upon the British and Foreign Bible Society, not on account of the principle of circulating the Scriptures, but the impropriety of churchmen associating with sectaries, and aiding them in creating funds by which the interests of the establishment must eventually be injured. Mr. Sikes therefore published a Letter to Lord Teignmouth on that subject, subscribed by "a Country Clergyman," to which Mr. Owen, secretary of the society, returned an answer with the signature of a "Sub-Urban Clergyman." The other productions of Mr. Sikes are, Dialogues concerning the Christian's Liberty of Choosing his Teacher, and concerning Christian Edification, 12mo. 1803.—Parochial Communion, 8vo. 1812.

SIMEON, REV. CHARLES, M.A. Fellow of King's College, Cambridge. He is a native of Reading, and was educated at Eton College, on the foundation, from whence he was elected to the University of Cambridge, in due course. Mr. Simeon has been distinguished as an open and zealous espouser of the Calvinistic doctrines, which he preaches with great energy in the University pulpit, and in the chapels of the popular ministers of the same creed in London. His warmth in that cause has brought him into some disputes with other divines of the same university, but in none of his controversies has he displayed either acuteness or temper. His publications are as follow:

Claude's Essay on the Composition of a Sermon, with an Appendix containing One Hundred Skeletons of Sermons, 8vo. 1796.—Helps to Composition, or Five Hundred Skeletons of Sermons, 5 v. 8vo. 1802.—The Churchman's Confession, or an Appeal to the Liturgy, a Sermon, 8vo. 1805.—The Fountain of Living Waters, a Sermon preached before the University of Cambridge, 8vo. 1809.—Evangelical and Pharisaic Righteousness compared, a Sermon, 8vo. 1809.—Cautions to

A Peep at the World, or the Children of Providence, nev. 3 v. 12mo. 1804.

SINCLAIR, Sir JOHN, Bart. LL.D. M.P. and President of the Board of Agriculture. He is the son of the Laird of Ullster, by Lady Jane Sutherland, and was born at the family seat in 1754. He was educated at the high school, Edinburgh, and removed from thence, first to the University of Glasgow, and next to Oxford. On his return to Scotland, he became a member of the Society of Advocates, but never followed the law as a profession. He entered into Parliament at an early age, and was for some time attached to the late Mr. Pitt, but he afterwards joined the opposition; though it is observable that he was adverse to the abolition of the slave trade. Sir John Sinclair has been very assiduous in the improvement of agriculture, and it is, in a great measure, owing to his exertions, that the board was established at which he presides. On the utility of such an institution, however, there are different opinions; and it would be very difficult, we believe, for its warmest admirers to state any practical benefit which has resulted from it commensurate with the expense with which it has been attended. Previous to the appointment of Sir John to that chair, he established a society at Edinburgh for the improvement of British wool. During the late war he raised two battalions called the Rothsay and Caithness fencibles, of both of which he acted as colonel. He was created a baronet in 1786, and his hostility to Mr. Pitt has been attributed to the refusal of that statesman to create him a peer. His works are,

SKEFFINGTON, Sir LUMLEY ST. GEORGE, Bart. is the only surviving son of Sir William Charles Farrell Skeffington, of Skeffington Hall in Leicestershire, and was born in London in 1778. He received his education in the school of Mr. Newcome, at Hackney, and discovered at an early age a taste for dramatic poetry. He also performed in the plays which were acted at that seminary, and came off with great applause, particularly in the character of Hamlet. In 1802, he produced, at Covent Garden, a comedy called the "Word of Honor," which was well received, and the author was in consequence encouraged to bring forward some more pieces, but none have been printed except the songs to

SMITH, JOHN STAFFORD, organist at the chapel royal St. James's. This gentleman is a native of Gloucester, where he first received the rudiments of his musical education under his father, who was organist of that cathedral; after which he was sent to London to complete his studies under the celebrated Dr. Boyce. When very young Mr. Smith gained the prize-medal given by the catch club at the Thatched House for some beautiful glees, particularly one, "Hark, the hollow woods resounding." He became an eminent teacher of the harpsichord, and singing; his excellence in which last accomplishment procured him the situation of one of the gentlemen of His Majesty's chapel royal. He has published:

A Collection of Songs of various kinds, and for different Voices, with the Music, fol. 1785.—Musica Antiqua, a Selection of Music from the 12th to the 10th century, 2 v. fol. 1812.

SMITH, JOHN THOMAS, a bookseller in Westminster, who engaged Mr. Hawkins in the following works, but having quarrelled with that ingenious gentleman, he very sagaciously undertook the completion of them himself, and the execution is just such as might be expected. SMYTH, JAMES CARMICHAEL, M.D. F.R.S. and physician extraordinary to His Majesty. In the year 1780 this gentleman had the charge of the prison and hospital at Winchester, where a very pestilential fever prevailed, which called forth his greatest exertions. To correct the contagion he had recourse to the three mineral acids, the superior efficacy of which was quickly felt, and subsequent trials on other occasions shewed the importance of the discovery. The doctor in consequence made an application to parliament for a remuneration, which was granted him in 1802, but not without opposition, as Dr. John Johnstone, of Kidderminster, set up a counterclaim, on the ground that his father had recommended the same acid as a remedy against infection, many years before the application of it by Dr. Smyth. On examination, however, it appeared that the latter had no knowledge of such a hint having been given, nor was it proved that Dr. Johnstone himself had ever tried it on a proper scale. The publications of Dr. Smyth are several articles in different medical collections, and separately,

An Account of the Effects of Swinging, employed as a Remedy in Pulmonary Consumption, 8vo. 1787.—The Works of the late Dr. William Stark, 4to. 1788.—A Description of the Jail Distemper as it appeared among the Spanish Prisoners at Winchester, in 1780, with an Account of the Means employed for Curing the Contagion which gave rise to it, 8vo. 1795.—The Effects of Nitrous Vapour in Preventing and Destroying Contagion ascertained, with an Introduction respecting the Nature of the Contagion which gives rise to the Jail or Hospital Fever, 8vo.—A Letter to William Wilberforce, Esq. on a Pamphlet, by Dr. Johnstone, 8vo. 1805.—Remarks on the Report of M. SMYTH, SYDNEY, M.A. late fellow of New College, Oxford, and rector of Foston, in Yorkshire. This popular preacher, who was educated at Winchester school, was formerly the minister of an episcopal chapel at Edinburgh, from whence he removed to London, where he became preacher at the Foundling, Berkeley, and Fitzroy chapels, and also lecturer on the belles lettres at the Royal Institution. Having turned his attention to politics, and enlisted himself among the Edinburgh Reviewers, he gained the friendship of Lord Holland, by whose interest he obtained from Lord Erskine, when Chancellor, the living which he enjoys. Mr. Smyth would still have continued to reside in London, but the archbishop, his diocesan, very properly informed him that his eloquence would be much better employed in the edification of his parishioners, which seems to have given the rector so much disgust that, in a visitation sermon, preached before his Grace, he declaimed with great virulence against the country clergy, and also on the conduct of the church with respect to the Roman Catholics. In the Edinburgh Review this divine took the liberty of abusing his alma mater the University of Oxford, for which he got a severe castigation from the poetry professor, the present Provost of Oriel. Mr. Smyth is generally supposed to be the author of the letters from Peter Plymley to his brother Abraham. His avowed performances are:

Sermons 2 v. 8vo. 1801.—A Sermon on the Conduct to be observed by the established Church towards Catholics and other Dissenters, 8vo. 1807.—A Sermon preached before the Abp. of York at the Visitation held at Malton, 4to. 1810.

SMYTH, WILLIAM, M.A. Fellow and tutor of Peter-House College, Cambridge. English Lyrics, 8vo. 3d ed. 1806.

SNAPE, R.

New Plan of Education, 8vo. 1812.

SNELGAR, Rev. JACOB.

The Exaltation of the Messiah, a Sermon, 8vo. 1811.—A Farewell Sermon preached at High Wycombe, Dec. 27, 1812, 8vo. 1813.

SOANE, GEORGE, A.B. son of the celebrated architect, is the author of these works :

The Eve of St. Marco, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1812.—Knight Dæmon and Robber Chief, 12mn. 1812.

SOANE, JOHN, Esq. architect to the Bank of England, and Professor of Architecture to the Royal Academy.

A Statement of Facts respecting a New House of Lords, 8vo. 1799.—And various Designs of Buildings.

SOLE, WILLIAM, of Bath.

Menthes Britannicæ, a new Botanical Arrangement of the British Mints, fol. 1798.

SOLVYNS, F. BALTHAZAR, a foreign artist, who, during a residence of fifteen years in India, acquired a great knowledge of the country; and under the patronage of Sir William Jones, engaged in a graphic delineation of the manners and customs of the Hindoos. From particular circumstances this work was published at Paris, and contains 288 colored plates, 36 of which are of double size; but only 300 copies were printed with this title :

The Hindoos, a Picturesque Delineation of the Manners, Customs, and Religious Ceremonies of that People, 4 v. atlas fol.

SOMERS, JOHN COCKS, Lord, was born May 6, 1760, being the son of Charles, the late Lord, by Elizabeth, his first wife, aunt to Lord Eliot. The present peer was many years member of parliament for Ryegate, and in 1806 succeeded to the family honours by the death of his father. The late lord was a friend of Mr. Pitt and a supporter of his administration, but the son has been uniformly on the side of opposition. He married the daughter of

Dr. Nash, the author of the History of Worcestershire, and has published :

A short Treatise on the dreadful tendency of Levelling Principles, 8vo. 1793.—Speech in the House of Lords on the Catholic Question, 8vo. 1812.—A Reply to the Bishop of Gloucester's Protestant Letter on the subject of the Speech, 8vo. 1813.

SOMERVILLE, ELIZABETH, the author of several ingenious books for children, the titles of which are :

Flora, or the Deserted Child, 18mo. 1800.—The Village Maid, or Dame Burton's Moral Stories, 12mo. 1801.—The New Children in the Wood, or the Welch Cottagers, 12mo. 1802.—Mabel Woodbice, and her sister Lydia, a tale, 12mo. 1802.—The Birth day or Moral Dialogues for Juvenile Readers, 12mo. 1802.—Preludes to Knowledge, or amusing and instructive Conversations on History and Geography, 12mo. 1803.—Aurora and Maria, or the Advantages of Adversity, 12mo. 1809.—Leading Strings to Knowledge, or Dame Wise and her Pupils, 1806.

SOMERVILLE, Rt. Hon. JOHN, Baron of the kingdom of Scotland, was born in 1765 at the family seat in Somersetshire. He received his education first at Harrow School under Dr. Heath, from whence he removed for a short time to Peterborough, and lastly to St. John's College, Cambridge; on leaving which university about the year 1786 he made the tour of Europe accompanied by the late Duke of Bedford. On his coming of age his title was contested, but determined in his favor through the energetic exertions of the late Chancellor Thurlow. During the war Lord Somerville raised a troop of yeomanry, and on the establishment of the board of Agriculture he was appointed president; which office he resigned on account of ill health, and then went to Spain and Portugal, where his attention was directed to the Merino sheep, a stock of which he brought with him to England. Lord Somerville may be considered as the founder of the Smithfield club, and latterly he has directed the public attention very much to the improvement of the fishery on our coasts for the supply of the London market. His Lordship has published :

Address to the Board of Agriculture on the subject of Sheep and Wool, 4to. 1800.—The System of the Board of Agriculture, 4to. 1800.—Facts and Observations relative to Sheep, Wool, Ploughs, and Oxen, 8vo. 1803. new edit. 1809.

SOMERVILLE, ROBERT, Surgeon of the first battalion of the Rothsay and Caithness Fencibles.

Memoir on the Medical Arrangements necessary to be observed in Camps, 8vo. 1796.

SOMERVILLE, THOMAS, D. D. F. R. S. Edinburgh, one of his Majesty's Chaplains in ordinary for Scotland, and Minister of Jedburgh. This respectable divine has, in the historical works which he has published, delivered his sentiments with great freedom, and condemned the intolerance of his countrymen at the revolution with a zeal which does him infinite honor. His works are,

History of Political Transactions and of Parties from the Restoration of King Charles II. to the Death of King William, 4to. 1792.—Observations on the Constitution and Present State of Britain, 8vo. 1793.—The History of Great Britain during the Reign of Queen Anne, 4to. 1798.—A Sermon preached before the Society for the benefit of the Sons of the Clergy in Scotland, 8vo. 1811.—A Collection of Sermons, 8vo. 1813.

SOTHEY, WILLIAM, Esq. F. R. S. F. A. S. a gentleman of considerable fortune and of a liberal education, which he has improved by taste and diligence. He formerly resided at Bath, where his first publication was printed in a very splendid style. The country seat of Mr. Sothey is London Lodge in the county of Surrey, and the gardens are laid out in a very beautiful manner. His literary performances are: Poems, consisting of a Tour through parts of North and South Wales, Sonnets, Odes, and an Epistle on Physiognomy, 4to. 1790. 2d edit. 4to. with plates, 1794.—Oberon, a poem from the German of Wieland, 8vo. 1798.—The Battle of the Nile, a poem, 4to. 1799.—The Siege of Cuzco; trag. 8vo. 1800.—The Georgics of Virgil, translated into English verse, 8vo. 1800.—Julian, or the Monks of the Great St. Bernard, trag. 8vo. 1801.—Poetical Epistle to Sir George Beaumont, on the Encouragement of the British School of Painting, 8vo. 1801.—Oberon, or Huon de Bourdeaux, a mask; and Orestes, trag. 8vo. 1802.—Saul, a poem, 4to. 1807.—Constance de Castile, a poem, 4to. 1810.—A Song of Triumph, on the peace, 8vo. 1814.—Six Tragedies, 8vo. 1814.

SOTHEY, Miss, a relative of the preceding gentleman, who has published, Patient Griselda, a tale from the Italian of Boccaccio, 4to. 1799.

SOUTHEY, HENRY HERBERT, M.D. brother of the poet, a resident physician in Queen Ann Street, who has published, Observations on Pulmonary Consumption, 8vo. 1814.

SOUTHEY, ROBERT, Esq. Poet Laureat. He was born August 12, 1774, at Bristol, where his father carried on an extensive business as a wholesale linen draper. The son was educated first under Mr. Foote a baptist minister of great ability, but at that time very aged. After a short time young Southey was removed to a school at Carston, where he remained about two years, and was then entered at Westminster School in 1787, where, in 1790, he fell under censure for his concern in the rebellion excited against the master, Dr. Vincent. In 1792 he became a student of Balliol College, Oxford, with a view to the church, but Unitarian principles and the revolutionary mania put an end to that design. So strongly did he imbibe the new opinions on politics which the explosion in France had produced, that he, with his friends Lovell and Coleridge, projected a plan of settling on the banks of the Susquehanna in North America, and of there founding a new republic. This Utopian scheme was soon dissolved for the want of means, and in 1795 Mr. Southey married Miss Tricker, soon after which event he accompanied his maternal uncle the Rev. Mr. Hill to Portugal, that gentleman being appointed Chaplain to the Factory at Lisbon. In 1801 Mr. Southey obtained the appointment of Secretary to the Right Hon. Isaac Corry, Chancellor of the Exchequer for Ireland. On retiring from office with his patron, our author went to reside in a cottage near Keswick, where also dwelt under the same roof the widow of his friend Lovell and the wife of Mr. Coleridge, both which ladies are sisters to Mrs. Southey. In 1813 he succeeded Mr. Pye as Poet Laureat, and it must be confessed that, with some slight exceptions, his subsequent performances are such as do credit to the appointment. His works are:

Joan of Arc, an epic poem, 4to. 1796.—Poems, 8vo. 1797. 4th edit. 1809.—Letters written during a short residence in Spain and Portugal, 8vo. 1797.—The Annual Anthology, a Miscellaneous Collection of Poetry of which he was the editor and principal writer, 2 v. 8vo. 1799, 1800.—Amadis de Gaul, from the Spanish version, 4 v. 12mo. 1803.—The Works of Chatterton, 3 v. 8vo. 1803.—Thalaba the Destroyer, a metrical romance, 2 v. 8vo. 1803. 2d edit. 1809.—Metrical Tales and other Poems, fr. 8vo. 1804.—Madoc, a poem, 4to. 1803. 2d edit. 1809.—Specimens of later English Poets, with preliminary Notes, 3 v. 8vo. 1807.—Palmerin of England, translated from the Portuguese, 4 v. fc. 8vo. 1807.—Letters from England, 3 v. 12mo. 1807; published under the fictitious name of Don Maque! Valasquez Espriella.—The Remains of Henry Kirke White, with an account of his Life, 2 v. 8vo. 1807. several editions.—The Chronicle of the Cid, Rodrigo Diaz de Bivar, from the Spanish, 4to. 1808.—The History of Brazil, vol. I. 4to. 1810.—The Curse of Kehama, a poem, 4to. 1811. 3d edit. 2 v. 12mo. 1813.—Omciana, 2 v. fc. 8vo. 1812.—Life of Nelson, 2 v. small 8vo. 1813.—Carmen Triumphale, 4to. 1814.—Odes to the Prince Regent, the Emperor of Russia, and the King of Prussia, 4to. 1814.—Roderick the last of the Goths, a poem, 4to. 1814. 2d edit. 2 v. 12mo. 1815.

SOUTHWELL, RICHARD HAYES.

Intellectual Freedom, an Essay on the true Source and Nature of Moral Evil, 8vo. 1803.

SOUTHWOOD, T.

Delworth or elevated Generosity, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1808.

SOWERBY, JAMES, F.L.S. This ingenious artist and naturalist was originally a teacher of drawing, but having devoted himself chiefly to the delineating of plants, he became noticed by some of our principal botanists, particularly Dr. Smith the president of the Linnæan Society, who employed him to illustrate his works. Thus encouraged Mr. Sowerby attained an extensive knowledge of natural history, in which he has made such progress as to have collected a large museum, in the use of which he is very liberal. His publications are,

A Botanical Drawing Book, or an easy Introduction to Drawing Flowers according to Nature, 4to. 1789. 2d edit. 1791.—The Florist's Delight, containing six colored Figures with the Botanical Descriptions, fol. 1791.—English Fungi, with plates, fol. 1796.—British Mineralogy, or colored Figures with Descriptions to elucidate the Mineralogy of Great Britain, 8vo. 1803.—Description of Models to explain Crystallography, 8vo. 1805. He has also some papers in the Transactions of the Linnæan Society.

SPALDING, JOSIAH, A.M. a Dissenting Minister; who has defended the eternity of future punishments in a piece entitled Universalism confounds and destroys itself, 8vo. 1810.

SPARKE, Rt. Rev. BOWYER EDWARD, D.D. Lord Bishop of Ely. This learned prelate was formerly of Pembroke Hall, Cambridge, where he gained the prize in 1779 for the best Greek epigram, and in 1782 obtained the Chancellor's medal. The same year he had the honor of being senior Wrangler; and two years afterwards he gained as senior Bachelor one of the prizes given by the representatives of the University for the best dissertation in Latin prose; having the year before gained that of the middle Bachelor. When the competition took place for the best translation of Gray's Elegy into Greek, Mr. Sparke enrolled himself among the thirteen candidates, and his production did great credit to his learning and genius. Having the good fortune to become tutor to the Duke of Rutland his advancement was the certain consequence. From the Deanry of Bristol he was raised to the See of Chester, and on the death of Dr. Dampier removed to the valuable See of Ely. His Lordship has published the following pieces:

Elegia Thomæ Gray, Græce reddita, 4to. 1794.—Concio apud Synodum Cantuariensem Edæ Paulina habita, 4to. 1808.—A Charge delivered to the Clergy of the Diocese of Chester, 4to. 1813.—A Sermon preached at the Anniversary of the Humane Society, 8vo. 1813.

SPEER, WILLIAM, Supervisor and As-sayer of Spirits in the port of Dublin. He has published,

An Enquiry into the Causes of the Errors and Irregularities which take place in ascertaining the Strength of Spirituous Liquors by the Hydrometer, with a Demonstration of the practicability of simplifying and rendering this instrument accurate, 1802. He has also some communications on the same subject in Mr. Tilloch's Philosophical Magazine.

SPENCE, ELIZABETH ISABELLA. This lady has produced the following works, which we have heard do her much credit. Helen Sinclair, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1799.—The Nobility of the Heart, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1804.—The Wedding Day, 3 v. 12mo. 1807.—Summer Excursions through part of England and Wales, 2 v. 12mo. 1809.—Sketches of the present Manners, Customs and Scenery of Scotland, 2 v. 12mo. 1811.—Commemorative Feelings, 8vo. 1812.—The Curate and his Daughter, a Cornish tale, 8 v. 12mo. 1813.—The Spanish Guitar, a tale, 12mo. 1815.

SPENCE, GEORGE, Esq. of the Inner Temple, Barrister at Law.

Essay on the Origin of the English Laws and Institutions, 8vo. 1812.

SPENCE, WILLIAM, F.L.S. President of the Holderness Agricultural Society. This gentleman, who possesses a large estate near Hull where he resides, has devoted much attention to mathematics, natural history and political economy. A few years ago the love of paradox induced him to attract public notice by an attempt to remove the popular prejudices in favor of trade and manufactures to the disadvantage of agriculture. The opinions of Mr. Spence were ingeniously supported, but the general fallacy of them sufficiently exposed, so that the impression made by his pamphlet soon disappeared. His performances are:

Britain independent of Commerce, 8vo. 1807.—The Radical Cause of the Present Distress of the West India Planters pointed out, 8vo. 1807.—Agriculture the Source of the Wealth of Britain, 8vo. 1808.—The Objections to the Corn Bill refuted, 8vo. 1815.

SPENCE, MRS. SARAH.

Poems and Miscellaneous pieces, 8vo. 1795.—Introduction to the Science of Harmony, 8vo. 1810.

SPENCER, the Hon. CHARLES ROBERT, Son of Lord Charles Spencer, brother of the Duke of Marlborough. He has written a dramatic piece intitled, The Fashionable Friends, a Comedy, with a Prologue by himself, and an Epilogue by the Hon. Mr. Lamb, 8vo. 1802.

SPENCER, JOSHUA, Esq. Barrister at Law. Thoughts on a Union with Ireland, 8vo. 1798.

SPENCER, G.

Letter to the Rt. Hon. G. Canning, 1812.

SPENCER, MRS. WALTER.

Pensive Pleasures—Miscellaneous Poems, interspersed with Sketches in Prose, 8vo. 1813.

SPENCER, Hon. WILLIAM ROBERT, Son of Lord Charles Spencer, nephew to the Duke of Marlborough. He is the brother of the author of Fashionable Friends, and has published:

A Translation of Leonora from the German, a splendid volume with designs by Lady Diana Beauchamp, fol. 1796.—Urania or the illuminée; a Comedy, the Prologue by Lord John Townshend, 8vo. 1808.—The year of Sorrow, 4to. 1804.—Poems, 8vo. 1811.

SPENS, THOMAS, M.D. late President of the Royal College of Physicians at Edinburgh, and Physician to the Infirmary in that city. He has some articles in Duncan's Medical Commentaries, and has also published:

The medical and surgical observations of Richter, translated from the German, 8vo. 1794.

SPILSBURY, F. B. A Surgeon in the Navy who was with the fleet which conveyed Sir Ralph Abercrombie to Egypt, and while there he made several drawings, engravings from which were published in Wittman's travels. Mr. Spilsbury afterwards served on the coast of Guinea, where his ship was taken by the French. Of that voyage he wrote an account inserted in Phillips's collection of Voyages and Travels. He has published separately:

Observations on the acute disease of Egypt called the Ophthalmia, 8vo. 1802.

SPRY, Rev. JOHN HUME, M.A. His father was Prebendary of Sarum, which preferment he obtained from his relation Dr. John Hume, formerly Bishop of that diocese. The son was educated at Winchester and Oxford, after which he became curate to his father. He was for some time assistant to Mr. Archdeacon Daubeney, at Christ Church, Bath, but at present is minister of the New Church at Birmingham. He has published the following pieces:

Reflections on the tendency of a publication entitled: Hints to the Public and the Legislature on the nature and effect of Evangelical Preaching, 8vo. 1809.—Enquiry into the Claims of the British and Foreign Bible Society, to the support of Members of the Established Church, 8vo. 1810.—Farther observations on the British and Foreign Bible Society, 8vo. 1812.

SPURZHEIM, J. G. M.D. This person has a claim to a place in the present volume by having published an exposition of the craniological doctrine, in which extraordinary science he delivered lectures in London, and various parts of England. Knowing full well our national character and love of the marvellous, the disciple and friend of Dr. Gall made a journey hither to improve our heads at the expense of our pockets, and the better to excite public attention he printed,

The Physiognomical System explained, royal 8vo. 1815.

SQUIRE, Miss C.

The Beggar and his benefactor, fc. 8vo. 1809.—Incident and Integrest, or copies from Nature, 2 vols. 12mo. 1810.

SQUIRRELL, R. formerly resident apothecary of the Small pox and Inoculating hospital; and at present a vender of nostrums in Somers-Town. This man kept a shop, some years ago, near Soho-Square, from whence he found it convenient to remove to his present place of abode. He is the father in law of the noted John Gale Jones, and has advertised some wonderful cures performed by his pills, the virtues of which have also been made the subject of two pamphlets, and when the Jennerian discovery took place, he set himself with great diligence to inflame the popular prejudices against the practice, alleging that he had a safe mode of imparting the variolous disease which would render vaccination unnecessary. The pieces which pass under his name are,

Essay on Indigestion and its consequences, or advice to persons affected with debility of the digestive organs, nervous disorders, gout, dropsy, &c. 1796. 8vo.—Maxims of health, 1798. 8vo.—Observations on the cow-pock, showing that it originates in Scrophula, 8vo. 1805.

STABBACK, THOMAS, A. B. late of Oriel College, Oxford; Vicar of Cubert, and Lecturer of Helstone, Cornwall.

The Gospel and Acts of the Apostles illustrated, with annotations and maps, 2 vols. 8vo. 1810.

STACEY, CHARLES BROWNLOW.

The Analysis of Reform, 8vo. 1810.

STACEY, HENRY PETER, LL.B. F.L.S.

This gentleman was grand compounder for his degree at St. Mary Hall, Oxford, July 12, 1791; and, some years ago, he obtained a patent for the manufacture of gun-barrels to prevent them from bursting. He is at present resident chaplain to the India Company in Bengal. He has printed, Observations on the Failure of Turnip Crops, with Proposals for a Remedy, 8vo. 1800.

STACK, RICHARD, D.D. late Fellow of Trinity College, Dublin.

An Introduction to the Study of Chemistry, 8vo. 1802.—Lectures on the Acts of the Apostles, 2nd edition, 8vo. 1805.

STACKHOUSE, JOHN, Esq. F. L. S.

Nereis Britannica, or a botanical description of the British marine plants in Latin and English, 4to. 1795-1801.—Theophrasti Eresii de Plantarum Historia, libri decem, Pars I. 1812; Pars II. 1813.—He has also some papers in the Linæan Transactions, and is a frequent contributor to the Classical Journal.

STACKHOUSE, THOMAS.

A New Essay on Punctuation, 12mo. 1800.—Illustrations of the Tumuli, or ancient barrows, 8vo. 1806.—Horne Tooke revived, or an explanation of the particles of and for, 8vo. 1813.

STAEL-HOLSTEIN, WILHELMINA, Baroness de, is the only daughter of the celebrated M. Necker, by his wife, Susan Curchod, the friend and correspondent of Gibbon. She was born at Paris in 1768, and received the most liberal education under the eye of her accomplished parents. But as Madame Necker encouraged an assembly of literary characters at her house, in which questions of morals, metaphysics, and politics, were freely discussed, the young lady, who witnessed these debates, very early contracted a disputatious and paradoxical spirit. When young, she married the Baron de Stael-Holstein, Swedish Ambassador at the Court of France, but the union was far from being an harmonious one, as the husband soon perceived that his wife was too proud of her own intellectual powers to pay any deference to his opinions. She was besides little attentive to those graces which give a charm to the female character, and her appearance was frequently such as to create disgust by the carelessness of her dress, and the forbidding rudeness of her manners. The first publication of Madame de Stael, was a vindication of the character and writings of Rousseau, in 1789, but prior to this, she had written three short novels, which were printed at Lausanne, in 1795. At the beginning of the French revolution, this lady took a more active part in the convulsions which overturned the monarchy, than became either her sex or her situation as the wife of a foreign ambassador. She involved herself indeed so much in those scenes, as to become an object of public attention; and in 1793, she found it necessary to seek an asylum in England; but, two years afterwards, her husband being appointed ambassador to the French Republic, she had the privilege of returning to Paris; and about this time she endeavoured to conciliate the men in power by publishing her "Thoughts on Peace addressed to Mr. Pitt," a pamphlet filled with sophistry, though it received the praises of Mr. Fox. About this time she lost her mother, and in 1798, her husband, neither of which events could repress her literary ardor or restrain her from publishing, for at this period she wrote a play called "Secret Sentiment," and a work, "On the Influence of Literature upon Society." In 1800, when Buonaparte passed through Switzerland, he visited Madame de Stael, who talked to him a great deal about her plans for the organization of France, on which the First Consul very sarcastically replied: "Who educates your children, Madame?" During her residence in Switzerland she wrote her novel of "Delphine," the elegance of which will hardly be admitted as an excuse for its tendency. Shortly after this she accompanied her father to Paris, but her residence there was short, for the freedom of her opinions, and the popularity of Necker, induced Buonaparte to pronounce a sentence of banishment against Madame de Stael, who said to him, "You are giving me a cruel celebrity; I shall occupy a line in your history." This, perhaps, might be wit, but it was far from being prudent; and she felt the effects of her indiscretion, for having settled near Rouen she was ordered to remove to a greater distance from Paris, on which she withdrew to Frankfort, with her friend and protector, Benjamin Constant. From Frankfort, Madame de Stael went to Berlin, where she received the intelligence of her father's illness, on which she hastened to Weimar, but found that he had died before her arrival, April 9, 1804. As soon as the first emotions of grief subsided, she employed herself in arranging his papers for publication, and they accordingly appeared in print the same year, at Geneva. In this publication, she was mean enough to pay a high-flown compliment to Buonaparte, in hopes, no doubt, of softening down his resentment, though the man himself, and every body else, well knew that the panegyric did not proceed from the heart. The sentence of her banishment remained, and to alleviate her uneasiness under the decree, she travelled to Italy, which produced another novel full as extravagant and beautiful as Delphine. She afterwards resided, for some time, at the Swedish capital, where she formed a close intimacy with the Crown Prince, Bernadotte, to whom she dedicated, in a very flattering style, her little work on Suicide. From Stockholm, Madame de Stael passed over to England, where she remained while the allies were marching upon Paris, to which city she returned on the restoration of Louis XVIII. in 1814. During her residence in this country she published,

A New Edition of her Letters on the Writings and Character of Rousseau, with an Additional Preface, 8vo. 1813.—De l'Allemagne, or of Germany, 3 v. 8vo. 1813. This work was first printed at Paris, by Nicole, but the edition was destroyed by order of Buonaparte.—An Essay on Suicide, 12mo. 1813.

Her other works, which have been translated into English, are these:

Essay on the Influence of the Passions, 8vo. 2nd ed. 1812.—Delphine, nov. 4 v. 12mo. several editions.—Corinna, or Italy, nov. 3 v. 12mo. several editions.—Letters and Reflections of Prince de Ligoe, with a Preface, 2 v. 12mo.—The Influence of Literature upon Society, 2 v. 8vo. 2nd ed. 1812.—Zuluia, a tale, to which is added an Essay on Fictions, 2 v. 12mo. 1814.

STAIR, Rt. Hon. JOHN DALRYMPLE, Earl of, succeeded when young to the title, upon the death of his uncle, William Crichton, Earl of Dumfries and Stair, who, in consequence of the marriage of his mother, Penelope, Countess of Dumfries, in her own right, to William Dalrymple, eldest son of the great Earl of Stair, united both titles in his own person: but upon his death without issue, they separated to the other branches of the respective families. The present Earl was elected one of the representatives of the Scotch peerage to Parliament, in 1770, but during the American war he lost his seat through his opposition to ministers. On the accession of the Fox and Grenville administration to power, the Earl of Stair was again elected one of the sixteen peers of Scotland: but at the next election, he was unsuccessful. He has published these tracts:

The State of the National Debt, 8vo. 1776.—Considerations preliminary to fixing the Supplies of the Year, 8vo. 1781.—Facts and their Consequences submitted to the Consideration of the Public at large, but more particularly to that of the Finance Minister, and of those who are, or mean to become Creditors to the State, 8vo. 1782.

STANFELD, JAMES FIELD, formerly a mariner in the African slave-trade. He is a native of Ireland, and after quitting the sea, he held a principal situation in the Scarborough theatre, which he quitted when Mr. Kemble obtained the management: and after that he became the director of a small company of comedians in the north. He has written, Observations on a Guinea Voyage, 12mo. 1788.—The Guinea Voyage, a poem, 4to. 1789.—Essay on the Study and Composition of Biography, 8vo. 1813.

STANFORD, JOHN, A.M. The Domestic Chaplain, being Fifty-two Short Lectures for every Sunday in the Year, 8vo. 1813.

STANGER, CHRISTOPHER, M.D. Gresham Professor of Physic, and Physician to the Foundling Hospital. Some years ago he was selected by a body of licentiates, in the city of London and its vicinity, to try their right to be admitted Fellows of the College without being members of an English University. But the result was unfavorable to the Doctor and his party, though the cause was managed with sufficient dexterity in Westminster Hall. Dr. Stanger is the author of,

A Justification of the Right of every well-educated Physician, residing within the Jurisdiction of the College of Physicians of London, to be admitted a Fellow of that Corporation, together with an Account of the Proceedings of those Licentiates who lately attempted to establish that Right, 8vo. 1798.—Remarks on the Necessity and Means of Suppressing Contagious Fever in the Metropolis, 8vo. 1802.

STANHOPE, RT. HON. CHARLES MAHON, Earl, is the son of Philip, Earl Stanhope, who was brought up under the care of his uncle the celebrated Lord Chesterfield. The present nobleman was born August 3, 1753, and, at eight years of age, was placed in Eton School, but soon afterwards taken by his father to Geneva, where he was put under the instructions of M. le Sage. Here he studied mathematics with such diligence and success, that at the age of eighteen he obtained an academical prize for a paper on the construction and properties of the pendulum. In 1774, he was candidate for the city of Westminster, but lost his election for that place, and was returned, by family interest, for the borough of High Wycombe, which he continued to represent till his accession to the title in 1786. In the year 1777, Lord Mahon, as he was then called, distinguished himself by his experiments for securing buildings from fire, which made much noise at the time, but soon came to nothing on being found impracticable. Soon after this he invented an arithmetical machine, and having succeeded to a large estate in Devonshire, he projected an extensive canal from the Bristol Channel to the southern part of the county, in which survey he took the levels himself, and carried the theodolite many miles on his shoulders. On this occasion it was that he invented the "double inclined plane." In 1790, he built several vessels on a new construction, to sail against wind and tide; and afterwards he exhibited another in Kensington Gardens, the property of which was to sail with either end foremost. The Earl has also made great improvements in the construction of printing presses, and he has invented a new mode of tuning musical instruments. In his public capacity he has conducted himself in a very remarkable manner by his open declarations in favor of liberty and equality, and presiding in clubs which addressed the Jacobins of France at the worst period of their revolution. His Lordship has been twice married, first in 1774, to Lady Hester Pitt, daughter of the Earl of Chatham, by whom he had three daughters; and secondly to Miss Louisa Grenville, of the Buckingham family, by whom he has three sons. Lord Stanhope has published some valuable papers in the Philosophical Transactions, and the following tracts in a separate form:

On the Means of preventing Fraudulent Practices on the Gold Coin, 4to. 1775.—Principles of Electricity, 4to. 1779.—Observations on Mr. Pitt's Plan for the Reduction of the National Debt, 4to. 1786.—Letter to Mr. Burke on the French Revolution, 8vo. 1790.—The Rights of Juries defended, and the Objections to Mr. Fox's Libel Bill refuted, 8vo. 1792.—Principles of the Science of Tuning Instruments with Fixed Tones, 8vo. 1806.

STANHOPE, LOUISA SIDNEY, a lady who has contributed to the stock of fashionable amusement the following novels:

Striking Likenesses, 4 v. 12mo.—Mouthbrasil Abbey, 2 v. 12mo.—The Bandit's Bride, 12mo.—The Age we live in, 3 v. 12mo. 1809.—Di Montrangs, or the Novice of Corpus Domini, 4 v. 12mo. 1810.—The Confessional of Valombre, 4 v. 12mo. 1812.—Madelina, 4 v. 12mo. 1813.—Treachery, or the Grave of Antoinette, 4 v. 12mo. 1815.

STANLEY, Sir JOHN THOMAS, Bart. F.R.S. He was born in 1766, and in 1790, married Maria, daughter of Lord Sheffield. He has published,

A Voyage to the Orkneys, 4to. 1789.—Leonora, a tale, translated from the German, 4to. 1796.

STANLEY, WILLIAM, Esq.

The Rejected Addresses, or the Triumph of the Ale King, 8vo. 1813.

STAPYLTON, MARTIN, Esq.

Speech delivered at the Anniversary of the York B. Society; with Reference to Authorities on the Moral State of India, 8vo. 1814.

STARK, J.

Biographia Scotica, or a Scottish Biographical Dictionary, 18mo. 1805.—Picture of Edinburgh, 1806.

STARKE, MARIANNA. The father of this lady was formerly Governor of Fort St. David in the East Indies. She resides at Exmouth in Devonshire, and is very highly respected for her accomplishments; particularly in the Italian language and music. She has published many poetical pieces in the magazines, and separately the following works:

The Widow of Malabar, trag. 8vo. 1791.—The Tour-nament, trag. imitated from the German drama entitled Agnes Bernauerin, 1800.—Letters from Italy, 2 v. 8vo. 1800; 2nd edition, with additions, 1815.—The Beauties of Carlo Maria Maggi paraphrased, cr. 8vo. 1811.

STARKIE, RCV. THOMAS, M. A. Vicar of Blackburne in Lancashire, and late Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge.

Address to his Parishioners on the Observance of the Sabbath, 8vo. 1805.

STARKIE, THOMAS, Esq. Barrister at Law.

A treatise on the law of slander, libel, scandalum magnatum, and false rumours, 8vo. 1813.—Treatise on criminal pleading, with precedents of indictments, 2 vols. 8vo. 1814.

STAUNTON, SIR GEORGE THOMAS, Bart. F. R. S. This gentleman is the son of Sir George Staunton, who went to China with Lord Macartney. On that occasion he was accompanied by his son, who, at the age of fourteen, made a great progress in the Chinese language : in consequence of which he was appointed resident for the India Company at Canton. Sir George translated into Chinese the history and process of vaccination, which in consequence was diffused with great success throughout that empire. He has published also a curious work entitled:

The Fundamental Laws, and Penal Code of China, with an Appendix and Notes, 4to. 1810.

STAWELL, WILLIAM, M. A. Rector of Kilmalooda, in the Diocese of Cork.

STEDMAN, JOHN.

The Study of Astronomy, adapted to the capacities of youth, 8vo. 1796.

STEDMAN, THOMAS, M. A. Vicar of St. Chad's, Shrewsbury. He was born at Bridgnorth, and his early friend was the late Mr. Job Orton, a very worthy dissenting minister, by whose persuasion and advice he went to Pembroke College, Oxford, and on entering into orders became curate to Dr. Stonhouse, rector of Little Cheverl in Wiltshire, to which he afterwards had the charge of the curacy of Great Cheverl, where one of his Parishioners was David Sanders, the "Shepherd of Salisbury Plain," celebrated by Mrs. More. In 1775 he obtained the living of Wormington in Gloucestershire; and in 1783 he was presented to the vicarage of St. Chad's. His publications are,

The Country Clergyman's advice to his Parishioners, 12mo.—an Address to the poor belonging to the several parishes within the town of Shrewsbury and the liberties thereof, 8vo. 1786—a Letter to the inhabitants of St. Chad's parish in Shrewsbury on occasion of the late fall of their church, 8vo. 1788—a Letter to a Parishioner on the doctrine of the Atonement, 8vo.—Letters to and from Dr. Doddridge; published from the originals with notes explanatory and biographical, 8vo. 1790—Letters to a young Clergyman, i. e. the editor, from the late Rev. Job Orton, 12mo. 1788—Letters from the Rev. Mr. Orton, and the Rev. Sir James Stonhouse, Bart. to the Rev. Thomas Stedman, 2 vols. 12mo. 1800.

gardeens.—The best method of planting the hot-house vine, with directions for obtaining and preparing proper earths and compositions to preserve tender exotics, observations on the history of gardening, and a contrast of the ancient with the modern taste, 4to. 1793, 2nd edition 1800.

STEELE, ROBERT, Lieutenant of the Royal Marines, and Captain in the Spanish service, was born at Winchester in 1788. He received his education under his father, the master of the Foundation School at Alresford. He entered early in life into the military service, and acted as adjutant to the little garrison of An-holt, when that island was attacked by the Danes. He afterwards distinguished himself in the Peninsular war, and he has written two comedies, which have never been performed nor published; but he has printed,

A Tour through the Atlantic, or recollections from Madeira, the Azores, and Newfoundland, 8vo. 1810.

STEERS, H. of Worcester.

Elegy to the memory of Francis, late Duke of Bedford, 4to. 1802.—Æsop's Fables new versified from the best editions, in 3 parts, 1803.—Leisure hours, or morning amusements.—Poems, fuelscap 8vo. 1811.

STEINKOPF, REV. CHARLES, M. A. Minister of the German Lutheran Chapel in the Savoy, and one of the Secretaries to the British and Foreign Bible Society.

Letters relative to a tour on the Continent undertaken at the request of the committee of the British and Foreign Bible Society, 12mo. 1813.

STEPHEN, JAMES, Esq. Master in Chancery, and one of the Society of Lincoln's Inn. He is a native of the West Indies, and at an early age was sent to England for his education, with a view to the profession of the law. His circumstances being very narrow, and his practice limited, he became editor and reporter of the Morning Chronicle, till his appointment to a situation in the prize court at St. Christopher's. During his residence in the West Indies he realized a handsome fortune, and on his return to England he obtained a seat in Parliament through his matrimonial alliance with the family of Mr. Wilberforce. For his able support of government, and his unquestionable integrity he was made a master in Chancery, and latterly he has relinquished his seat in the house, to attend to the duties of his official situation. In Parliament he greatly distinguished himself by his eloquence which is uncommonly vehement; and on one occasion he attracted particular attention by his liberality in resisting the attempt made by the benchers of Lincoln's Inn, to prevent Barristers from being employed as writers in newspapers. In opposing that regulation Mr. Stephen very candidly stated the fact that he had honestly earned a livelihood by that very practice, and therefore he could not in conscience forbear expressing his decided disapprobation of such an interdict which would go very much to cramp the intellectual energies of young men of genius, but of contracted circumstances. This speech gave great satisfaction to the house, and the benchers prudently rescinded their resolution. Mr. Stephen is supposed to have been one of the projectors of the Christian Observer, and the British Review. He has also published the following pieces:

War in disguise, 8vo. 1805.—Speech of the Hon. J. Raedolph, in the House of Representatives of the United States of America, on a motion for the importation of British merchandize, 8vo. 1806.—American Arguments on British Rights, a republication of letters on neutral trade, by the Hon. W. L. Smith, a member of the American House of Representatives, 8vo. 1806.—The Daggers of the Country, 8vo. 1807.—Speech in the House of Commons, March 6, 1809, on the overtures of the American government, 8vo. 1809.—The history of Toussaint L'Overture, with a preface, 8vo. 1814. which is recorded in the Pamphleteer.

STEPHENS, ALEXANDER, of the Inner Temple, Esq. This gentleman, we believe, exchanged the military profession for that of the law, but without making any extraordinary figure in the one profession more than in the other. As a literary adventurer however he has been equally industrious and successful; though his performances have little chance of passing down to posterity. He was the editor of Phillips's "Public Characters," after the first volume, also of the biographical memoirs of the Houses of Lords and Commons published at the same manufactory; and of some other compilations of equal credit. In his own name have appeared, A History of the wars which arose out of the French Revolution, 2 vols. 4to. 1808.—Memoirs of John Horne Tooke, 2 vols. 8vo. 1813.

STEPHENSON, BENJAMIN, of Pentonville, was born in 1768. He has published under the name of Ebn Osn, Attempts at Poetry, 12mo. 1807.

STEPHENSON, Rev. GEORGE, M.A. Vicar of Kelloe, and Curate of Bishop Wearmouth, in the County of Durham. This respectable divine was formerly Fellow of Magdalen College Oxford, where he took the degree of M.A. October 10, 1783; and about two years afterwards became curate of Bishop Wearmouth, where he has laboured with great diligence and much to the satisfaction of the inhabitants. In 1806 he preached a set of sermons on the corruptions of popery which brought upon him some very illiberal strictures from Mr. Lingard a Romish Priest at Newcastle. We believe that Mr. Stephenson defended his diocesan and himself in two or three sensible tracts which were anonymous, besides which he has printed, The Romish Church, or an Historical and Critical view of some of the leading doctrines of the Church of Rome, 8vo. 1807.

STEPHENSON, WILLIAM, Land Surveyor of Horncastle.

The System of Land Surveying, 4to. 1805.

STERNDALE, MRS. MARY.

The Panorama of Youth, 2 vols. 12mo. 1806.

STEWART, HENRY, LL.D. F.R.S. Edinburgh. He is a native of Edinburgh, at which University he received his education, and obtained his degree. His works are,

Account of a plan for the better supplying the city of Edinburgh with coal, 8vo. 1801.—The works of Salust, 2 vols. 4to. 1806.—He is also supposed to have published under the fictitious name of George Frederic Sydney, the history of Catiline's conspiracy, with the four orations of Cicero and notes, 8vo. 1795.

STEWART, GENERAL SIR JAMES DENHAM, Bart. K. B.

The works of the late Sir James Stewart of Coltness, now first collected with anecdotes of the author, 6 vols. 8vo. 1805.—The principles of Banks and Banking, 8vo. 1810.

STEVENS, JOHN, of the East India Company's Marine Service.

A method of ascertaining the latitude in the northern hemisphere, by a single altitude of the polar star at any time, with tables computed for that purpose, 8vo. 1800.

STEVENS, Rev. JOHN, Minister of the Baptist meeting in Grafton Street Soho. He was formerly minister of a congregation at St. Neot's in Huntingdonshire, and afterwards at Boston in Lincolnshire from whence he was invited to his present situation. He is of the Calvinistic denomination and has published, Helps for the disciples of Immanuel, being an answer to Fuller on the duty of Sinners to believe in Christ, 8vo.—Doctrines of Antinomianism refuted, or the Reviewer Reviewed, in a letter to the Editor of the Gospel Magazine, occasioned by remarks on the preceding, 8vo.—A farewell sermon preached at Boston, July 4, 1811.—Baptism accomplished, a Sermon, 8vo.—An improved selection of Hymns, 12mo.

STEVENS, Rev. ROBERT, M.A. Morning Preacher at the Asylum; Evening Preacher at the Magdalen; Lecturer of St. Margaret's Westminster; Prebendary of Lincoln, and Rector of St. James Garlick-hithe. This highly popular preacher was a scholar of Trinity College, Cambridge, and he has published,

A Sermon preached in the Chapel of the Asylum for the benefit of the Charity, 8vo. 1812.—Sermons on the Doctrines and Duties of Man, 8vo. 1814.

STEVENS, ROBERT, of Lloyd's Coffee House.

An Essay on Average, and other subjects, connected with marine insurance, 8vo. 1813.

STEVENS, W. S.

Homographia, an Essay on the proportions of Man's body, hitherto unknown or undescribed, fol. 1806.
—A Treatise on Piano-forte expression, fol. 1812.

STEVENSON, JOHN, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, and Oculist and Aurist to the Princess of Wales. He was the pupil of the late celebrated Mr. John Cunningham Saunders, whose practice he continues to follow with remarkable success, as appears from his publications in which his method is detailed with cases. These are,

A Treatise on the morbid sensibility of the Eye, 8vo. 1810.—Practical Treatise on Cataract, 1813.

STEVENSON, ROBERT, a dissenting teacher at Castle Heningham in Essex. He is of the Calvinistical persuasion, and has printed a single discourse with this remarkable title,

The Power of Divine Grace exemplified in a Sermon preached at Hackney, before the Patrons and Stewards of the Dissenting Academy at Homerton, June 30th, 8vo. 1813.

STEVENSON, the Rev. THOMAS, A.B. Curate of Blackburne in Lancashire, and formerly of Christ's College, Cambridge.

A Sermon preached at Blackburne, Lancashire, Dec. 5, 1805, 8vo. 1806.—A Sermon on the Fast Day 1807, 8vo. 1807.

STEVENSON, W.

Remarks on the very inferior utility of Classical Learning, 8vo. 1796.—General view of the Agriculture of the county of Surrey, 8vo. 1809.

STEVENSON, WILLIAM, F.S.A. a bookseller and banker at Norwich, was originally a drawing master; but turned his attention with success to the printing business, in which he has profited considerably, particularly in the management of the Norfolk Chronicle. He is also the editor of A Supplement to Bentham's History and Antiquities of the Cathedral of Ely. 4to.

STEWART, ALEXANDER, minister of Moulin in the Highlands, to which he was appointed in 1786, at the age of twenty-two. He is the author of,

An Account of the present revival of Religion in the Highlands of Scotland, 8vo. 1800.—The Elements of Gaelic Grammar, 8vo. 1801.

STEWART, ALEXANDER, a surgeon, and formerly in the East India marine service.

Medical Discipline; or Rules and Regulations for the more effectual preservation of health on board East India ships, 12mo. 1798.

STEWART, CHARLES, Esq. M.A. late Major on the Bengal establishment, and

Professor of Oriental Languages in the East India Company's College, at Hertford. He has published:

A Descriptive Catalogue of the Oriental Library of the late Tippoo Sultaun, 4to. 1809.—The Travels of Mirza Abu Taleb Khan, in Asia, Africa and Europe, from the Persiao, 2 v. 8vo. 1810.—The History of Bengal from the first Mohammedan Invasion to the virtual Conquest of the country by the English, 4to. 1813.

STEWART, CHARLES, F.L.S. and Member of the Natural History Society of Edinburgh. He is printer to the University of Edinburgh of which city he is a native, and where he has published many very interesting works, some with and more without his name. The titles are:

The Religion of the Ancient Greeks illustrated by an Explanation of their Mythology, from the French of Le Clerc, 8vo. 1788.—Insecto-Theology, from the French of Lesser with Notes by Lionnet, 8vo. 1799.—Elements of Natural History, 2 v. 8vo. 1801.—Synopsis Nosologiae Methodicae, 8vo. 1802 and 1813.—Principles of Botany and Vegetable Physiology, from the German of Willdenow, 8vo. 1805.—Lee's Introduction to Botany, a new edition with additions, 8vo. 1811.—Dillenii Historia Muscorum, 4to. 1812. To this last 85 new plates were added, and the modern names are throughout systematically arranged.

STEWART, CHARLES EDWARD, M.A. formerly of Magdalen College, Oxford, where he took his Master's degree in 1773. He has published:

Trifles in Verse, 4to. 1796.—Critical Trifles, 8vo. 1797.—The Regicide, 8vo.—The Foxiad, 4to.—Charley's Small Clothes, 4to.—Last Trifles in Verse, 4to. 1813.

STEWART, Rt. Hon. LORD CHARLES WILLIAM, K.B. and a Major General in the army. This nobleman is brother of Lord Castlereagh and acted as our military minister to the allied sovereigns in the memorable campaign of 1814. He was also envoy extraordinary to the King of Prussia, and distinguished himself with such skill and bravery in the field and the cabinet, as to attract the particular notice of the Emperor Alexander, by whom he was spoken of in his public declarations and dispatches in terms of the highest praise. The consequence was that Sir Charles Stewart in the distribution of honors was raised to the peerage, and since the recommencement of hostilities he has been again employed. He is the author of, Suggestions for the Improvement of the Force of the British Empire, 8vo. 1805.

STEWART, DUGALD, M.A. F.R.S. Edinburgh, and Professor of Moral Philosophy in that university; and honorary member of the Imperial Academy at St. Petersburg, and of the Philosophical Society at Philadelphia. He is the son of Dr. Matthew Stewart, formerly Professor of Mathematics in the same university, and was born there in 1753. In the eighth year of his age he was sent to the High School, and at the age of thirteen admitted a student of the college under the care of Dr. Blair and Dr. Ferguson. Such was his progress that when he was no more than eighteen he was appointed to read lectures for his father, and this he continued to do till the Professor's death. He also taught the class of Dr. Ferguson in the chair of moral philosophy during the absence of that gentleman in America, and when the Professor resigned in 1784, his place was filled by Mr. Stewart, who has enjoyed it with increasing reputation ever since. He long enjoyed the acquaintance of Dr. Reid, and that friendship was of material advantage to him in his metaphysical studies. On one occasion, however, Mr. Stewart seems to have acted very unguardedly and in no candid manner; we allude to the election of a mathematical professor in the University of Edinburgh, the circumstances of which were certainly far from being honorable to those who exerted themselves most strenuously to secure that chair for the person who now fills it. The works of our author are:

Elements of the Philosophy of the Human Mind, 2 v. 4to. 1792-1813.—Outlines of Moral Philosophy for the use of Students in the University of Edinburgh, 8vo. 1793.—Dr. Adam Smith's Essays on Philosophical Subjects, with an account of the Life and Writings of the Author, 4to. 1795.—An Account of the Life and Writings of Dr. William Robertson, 8vo. 1801.—Account of the Life and Writings of Thomas Reid, D.D. 8vo. 1803.—Statement of facts relative to the election of a Mathematical Professor in the University of Edinburgh, 3d edit. 8vo. 1805.—Philosophical Essays, 4to. 1810.—Biographical Memoirs of Adam Smith, LL.D., William Robertson, D.D. and Thomas Reid, D.D., now collected into one volume with additional notes, 4to. 1812.—Some account of a Boy born Blind and Deaf, 4to. 1812. Mr. Stewart is also, we understand, the author of the excellent essays on Political Economy which have appeared in the New Monthly Magazine, under the head of "Recollections of the unpublished Lectures of an eminent Professor."

STEWART, JAMES, Esq. a Member of Council and Solicitor General for the province of Nova Scotia.

Reports of Cases argued and determined in the Court of Vice Admiralty at Halifax, in Nova Scotia, from 1803 to 1813, roy. 8vo. 1814.

STEWART, JOHN, commonly called the Traveller; an unhappy being whose intellects have evidently undergone a melancholy revolution, owing perhaps to an affectation of literature, the love of novelty, and the want of religion. Reader!

the following is a specimen of this gentleman's sublime discoveries, "The philologist moving progressively on the scale of good sense to the index of self-knowledge or manhood makes the end of the philosopher his mean to procure universal good, or universal truth, to all existence in unity of co-eternal essence, co-eternal energy, and co-eternal interest!" He has published:

Travels to discover the Source of Moral Motion, and the Apocalypse of Nature, wherein the source of Moral Motion is discovered, 8vo. 1789.—The Tocsin of Britain; with a novel plan for a Constitutional Army, 8vo. 1794.—The Second Peal of the Tocsin, or Alarm Bell to Britons, 8vo. 1794.—Good Sense, addressed to the British Nation, 8vo. 1794.—Britons United, or Britannia Roused, 8vo. 1800.—The Tocsin of Social Life, addressed to all civilized nations, 8vo. 1802.—The Philosophy of Human Society, 8vo. 1810.—The Moral or Intellectual last Will and Testament of John Stewart, the only man of nature that ever appeared in the world, 8vo. 1810.—The Scripture of Reason and Nature, 8vo. 1813.

SULLIVAN, the Rt. Hon. JOHN, Commissioner for the Affairs of India, where he was resident many years. He has published, Tracts upon India, written in the years 1770, 1780, and 1788, with subsequent Observations, 8vo. 1795.

SULLIVAN, WILLIAM FRANCIS, A.B. late of the Theatres Royal at Windsor and Weymouth, is the son of Francis Slaughter Sullivan, LL.D. formerly Senior Fellow and Professor of Common Law in the university of Dublin. Young Sullivan had his education in the same college, and was designed for the church, but on the death of his parents, before he was nineteen years old, he entered into the army and served abroad till the peace of 1783, soon after which he married and went, with his wife, on the stage. Mr. Sullivan, however, has relinquished that pursuit some years, though his wife, we believe, still continues in the profession of an actress. Her husband has written, Rights of Man, farce, 8vo. 1792.—The Test of Union and Loyalty, 8vo. 1797.—And Poems, 8vo.

SUMBELL, MRS. MARY, (late Wells), whose maiden name was Davies, was born at Birmingham, and losing her father at an early age, she went with her mother to Dublin, and there obtained an engagement in the theatre; after which she came to England and played in several provincial theatres, particularly Shrewsbury. At this place she married Mr. Wells, a performer in the same company, who soon abandoned her for another woman. In 1781, she made her appearance at the little theatre in the Haymarket, being then under the protection of the celebrated Captain Topham. Owing to the embarrassed state of her circumstances, she afterwards became a prisoner in the Fleet, where she contracted an intimacy with Mr. Sumbell, a foreigner, whose name she assumed though that connexion also soon terminated. This lady has thought proper to publish, Memoirs of her own Life, 3 v. 12mo.

SUMMER, JOHN BIRD, of King's College, Cambridge.

An Essay tending to show that the Prophecies now accomplishing are an Evidence of the Christian Religion, 8vo. 1802.

SURR, THOMAS SKINNER, a clerk in the Bank of England, is the nephew of the late Alderman Skinner, and was brought up in Christ's Hospital. He married a Miss Griffiths, sister-in-law of Sir Richard Phillips, and has published, Consequences, nov. 2 v. 12mo.—Christ's Hospital, a poem, 4to. 1797.—George Barnwell, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1798.—Refutation of Certain Misrepresentations relative to the Nature and Influence of Bank Notes, and of the Stoppage of Specie at the Bank of England, upon the Prices of Provisions, 8vo. 1801.—Splendid Misery, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1801.—A Winter in London, 3 v. 12mo. 1806.—The Magic of Wealth, 3 v. 12mo. 1815.

SUSSEX, AUGUSTUS FREDERICK, Duke of, the sixth son of their Majesties, was born, Jan. 27, 1773. In 1792, he went to Germany, from whence he travelled to Italy, and while at Rome, he contracted a marriage, according to the forms of the Romish church, with Lady Augusta Murray, daughter of the Earl of Dunmore, by whom he had a son named George, born Jan. 13, 1794. On the return of the Prince and Lady Augusta to England, they were married by banns, in the parish church of St. George, Hanover Square, but a suit being instituted on the occasion, in the Ecclesiastical Court, the union was declared null and void. It has been said, that his Royal Highness wrote to his father offering to relinquish all right as a member of the family, provided the marriage should not be disturbed. Yet after this, and though he had two children by the lady, he abandoned her, and she was obliged to apply to the Court of Chancery on their behalf. His Royal Highness was created Duke of Sussex in 1801, and on the resignation of his brother, the Prince Regent, he was elected Grand Master of Free-Masons in England. He has published avowedly,

A Speech in the House of Lords on the Catholic Question, with Notes, 4to. 1812.

SUTCLIFFE, JOSEPH, a Methodist preacher of the Wesleyan connexion, who has printed,

An Introduction to Christianity, designed to preserve Young People from Irreligion and Vice, 12mo. 1801.—Sermons from the French of Saurin, 8vo. 1805.—A Sermon on the Divine Mission of the Methodists to revive and spread Religion, illustrated and defended in a sermon preached before the meeting of the district, at Macclesfield, 8vo. 1813.—A Grammar of the English Language, 12mo. 1815.

SUTHERLAND, Mrs. SINCLAIR, a woman who made herself conspicuous at the time when the investigation into the conduct of the Duke of York was carried on; and who was imprudent enough to make a display of her influence, in a pamphlet entitled,

An Appeal to the Public relative to the Misrepresentations contained in the Evidence of Mr. Greenwood at the Bar of the House of Commons, 8vo. 1809.

SUTHERLAND, DAVID, Esq. was born Feb. 28, 1763, at Gibraltar, where his father was Judge of the Admiralty Court, and he afterwards discharged the same office at Minorca. The son was sent to England at the age of ten years, and taken under the protection of the Richmond family, by whom he was sent to the Military Academy at Woolwich. At the age of sixteen he was made an ensign, and soon after obtained a lieutenancy. In 1789, he was promoted to the rank of captain, by purchase, but sold his commission in 1791, and two years afterwards, was appointed Deputy Comptroller General of the Excise. During the royal visit to Cuffnells, in 1801, Captain Sutherland commanded the Lyndhurst and Brockenhurst riflemen, for Major Rose, on which occasion he committed a laughable mistake, for when the King asked how many children he had, the Captain, thinking that his Majesty wanted to know the amount of his company, replied, "one hundred and thirty-five." He also commanded the Local Militia in that district, and was at one time a member of the Athenian Club. He has published:

Tour up the Straits from Gibraltar to Constantinople, with the Leading Events in the War between the Austrians, Russians, and the Turks, to the Commencement of the year 1789, 8vo. 1790.—Letters to the Electors of Great Britain, 4to. 1791.

SUTTON, Most Rev. CHARLES MANNERS, D.D. Lord Archbishop of Canterbury, is the son of Lord George Sutton, and was born Feb. 17, 1755. Being intended for the church, he was educated first at the Charter House, and next at Emmanuel College, Cambridge, where, in 1777, he was in the list of triposes, and took his bachelor's degree. On entering into orders, he obtained some ecclesiastical preferment, and by his affinity to the Rutland family, was raised to the see of Norwich in 1791, with which dignity he was permitted to hold the Deanry of Windsor. On the death of Archbishop Moore, in 1804, his Lordship, by the special favor of his Majesty, was elevated to that high station, which he fills with great credit and satisfaction. It is observable, that above eight years before, the author of the Pursuits of Literature predicted this very removal in the following encomiastic terms: "He is a prelate whose amiable demeanour, useful learning, and conciliating habits of life, particularly recommend his episcopal character. No man appears to me so peculiarly marked out for the highest dignity of the church, sede vacante, as Dr. Sutton." This prelate married, in 1778, Mary, the daughter of Thomas Thorton, Esq. who has brought him thirteen children, eleven of whom are females. One of his sons is at present judge advocate. His Grace has only published, A Sermon preached before the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, at the Abbey Church of St. Peter, Westminster, on the Fast Day, 4to. 1794.—Sermon before the Society for Propagating the Gospel in Foreign Parts, 4to. 1797.

SUTTON, DANIEL, an inoculator for the small pox, whose father was originally a smith or farrier, and having succeeded in the new practice, quitted his trade and travelled the country as a doctor, by which he gained a good fortune. The son has published, The Inoculator, or the Suttonian System of Inoculation, set forth in a plain and familiar manner, 8vo. 1796.

SUTTON, THOMAS, M.D. licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians, late Physician to the forces, and consulting Physician to the Kent Dispensary. Considerations concerning Pulmonary Consumptions, 8vo. 1801.—Practical Account of a Remittent Fever frequently occurring among the Troops in this Climate, 8vo. 1806.—Tracts on Internal Inflammatory Affections, 8vo. 1813.—Letters addressed to the Duke of Kent, on Consumption, 8vo. 1814.

SWIFT, EDMUND, Esq.
The Life and Acts of St. Patrick, 8vo. 1810.

SWIFT, THEOPHILUS, Esq. a native of Herefordshire, and of the same family with the celebrated Dean of St. Patrick's. Mr. Swift has been distinguished, in his day, by his spirit and his genius. He has published,

The Gamblers, a poem, 4to.—Poetical Address to his Majesty, 4to. 1788.—Letter to the King on the Conduct of Colonel Lenox, 8vo. 1789.—Letter to W. A. Browne, Esq. on the Duel of the Duke of York and Colonel Lenox, 8vo. 1789.—Vindication of Renwick Williams, commonly called the Monster, 8vo. 1790.—Mr. Swift has contributed some papers of his relation the Dean, to enrich Mr. Walter Scott's edition of his works.

SYME, PATRICK, flower painter at Edinburgh.

Directions for learning Flower Drawing, 4to. 1809.—Warner's Nomenclature of Colors, with additions, 8vo. 1814.

SYMMONS, CHARLES, D.D. a native of Wales; formerly of Clare Hall, Cambridge, and afterwards incorporated at Jesus College, Oxford, B.D. March 24, and D.D. March 26, 1794. He was, at that time, Rector of Narberth in Pembrokeshire, and Prebendary of Brecon, which preferments he continues to hold though he constantly resides in London, where he was at one time editor of the newspaper called the British Press. He is also one of the writers in the Monthly Review, and distinguished for his attachment to republican principles, of which he gave a striking proof in his edition of Milton's prose works. This reverend gentleman has published, Sermons, 8vo. 1788.—A Sermon for the Benefit of Decayed Clergymen in the Diocese of St. David's, 4to. 1789.—Ioez, a dramatic poem, 1797.—The Life of John Milton, 8vo. 1806.—The Prose Works of John Milton, with the Life of the Author, 7 v. 8vo. 1806.—Poems, by Caroline Symmons and Charles Symmons, D.D. 8vo. 1813.

TAPRELL, RICHARD, a dissenting minister, and originally a methodist preacher. He was settled with a congregation for some time at Milborne Porte in Somersetshire, where, in 1786, he married the sister of a dignified and beneficed clergyman. From thence he removed to South Molton, as the successor of the learned Mr. Badcock, and afterwards he was invited to the charge of the congregation at Barnstaple in Devonshire, but was dismissed from that place on some difference between him and the heads of the meeting, on a similar complaint which had occasioned the removal of the divine just mentioned. He has written,

A Plain Discourse for Children, 12mo. 1789.—Meditations for Prguent Women, 12mo. 1789.—Glory to God and Peace to Men, a Sermon, 4to. 1790.—Lectures on the Lord's Prayer, 8vo. 1792.—A Seasonable Publication on the State of Affairs, 4to. 1792.—Serious Advice to Young People, 2nd ed. 12mo. 1794.—England's Friend, a Sermon, 8vo. 1794.—A Familiar Exposition of the Litany of the Church of England, 8vo. 1808.

TARLETON, BANASTRE, Lieutenant General of the Army, Colonel of the 21st Light Dragoons, and Governor of Berwick upon Tweed. He is the son of an eminent merchant at Liverpool, and, at the commencement of the American war, obtained a commission in the army, where he rose to the rank of Colonel, and distinguished himself on several occasions. On his return to Europe, he gained a seat in the House of Commons, for his native place, but at the last general election he was thrown out. The General has been mostly on the side of opposition, and he certainly did not add to his reputation by his illiberal censures upon the military reputation of the late Marquis Cornwallis. His literary performances are,

A History of the Campaigns in the Southern Provinces of North America, 4to.—Reply to Colonel de Charmilly, 8vo. 1810.—Substance of a Speech intended to have been delivered on the Vote of Credit Bill, 8vo. 1810.—Substance of a Speech in a Committee of the House of Commons, on the Army Estimates, 8vo. 1811.

TARTT, WILLIAM MACDOWAL, was born, in 1788, at Chester, where his father was engaged in the wholesale trade, to which business the son also was brought up, but relinquished it for ease and literature. Having a turn for travelling, he went to America, where he remained above three years. He is the author of, Odes, Sonnets, and other Poems, 8vo. 1808.—And several Anonymous Essays.

TATHAM, CHARLES HEATHCOTE, architect.

TATHAM, EDWARD, D.D. Rector of Lincoln College, Oxford. He is a native of Cumberland, and was originally of Queen's College, Oxford, where he took his degree of M.A. July 9, 1776. Afterwards he was elected Fellow of Lincoln College, where he proceeded B.D. June 5, 1783; and D.D. May 24, 1787. He preached the Bampton Lecture in 1789, on which occasion he did not print his sermons within the time specified by the founder. This is mentioned by old Prince, the bookseller, in a letter as follows: "The preacher for 1789, Dr. Tatham, has put out only one volume. He cannot have his money until he publishes the whole, which he does not seem prepared for, as his matter is not the best digested." The Doctor completed the work afterwards, and he has also distinguished himself as a politician in some tracts on the finances of the country. His publications are, Essay on Journal Poetry, 8vo. 1778.—Twelve Discourses introductory to the Study of Divinity, 8vo. 1780.—The Chart and Scale of Truth, a Series of Discourses at the Bampton Lecture, 2 v. 8vo. 1790-1792.—Letters to Edmund Burke, on Politics, 8vo. 1791.—Letters to Mr. Pitt, on the National Debt and a National Bank, 8vo. 1795, 1797.—An Address to the Members of Convocation, on the Proposed New Statute respecting Public Examinations, 4to. 1807.—Address to Lord Grenville on Abuses in the University, 4to. 1811.—Oxonia Purgata, consisting of a Series of Addresses on the Subject of the New Discipline in the University of Oxford, 8vo. 1813.

TATHAM, WILLIAM, formerly a colonel in the American service; and lately supervisor of the London Docks, was born in 1752, at Hutton in the Forest, in Cumberland, of which his father was rector, as he also was of Appleby, in the adjoining county. This son was the eldest of five children, and was brought up by his maternal grandmother, the widow of Henry Marsden, Esq. of Gisborne Hall in Yorkshire. He received the first part of his education from a Mr. Ashburner, a quaker at Lancaster, after which he successively lived in the families of three respectable clergymen who added the office of tuition to their other duties. In 1769, young Tatham was sent across the Atlantic, to seek his fortune, with only a single guinea in his pocket. Here he was introduced into the employ of Messrs. Carter and Trent, merchants, on James River, in Virginia; but when the revolutionary war broke out he joined the colonial party, and was appointed adjutant of the military force in the new district of Washington. In 1777, his services were rewarded by the appointment of quarter master at Fort William on Nolochuckie river, under General Sevier; and the same year he was one of the commissioners in settling the treaty with the Cherokee Indians. Having been employed on various occasions, civil and military, he turned his attention to the study of the law, and in 1784, was admitted to the bar. In 1786 he laid out and settled the town of Lémber-ton, on the banks of Drowning Creek, in North Carolina, about which time also he rendered great service to that state by his surveys for improving inland navigation. In 1787 he was elected a member of the state legislature of North Carolina, and the same year was appointed lieutenant colonel in the division of Fayette. The year following he visited England, where, notwithstanding the part which he had taken in the American war, he experienced a very friendly reception. In 1789, he returned to Virginia, where he was chosen to make a survey of the southern and western frontiers, which was published afterwards at Philadelphia. In 1795 he went to Spain, on a secret mission, which had for its object an amicable adjustment of differences respecting the boundaries of America and the Spanish provinces. After continuing there some months, he received a polite intimation to leave the kingdom, in consequence of which he came to London, where, in 1801, he was invited to undertake the superintendence of the London Docks at Wapping, but the year following he resigned that situation, and has returned to Virginia. This intelligent and enterprising man, while a resident in England, published,

Remarks on Inland Canals, the Small System of Interior Navigation, and Various Uses of the Inclined Plane, 4to. 1798.—The Political Economy of Inland Navigation, Irrigation, and Drainage, with Thoughts on the Multiplication of Commercial Resources, 4to. 1799.—Communications concerning the Agriculture and Commerce of the United States of America, being an Auxiliary to a Report made by William Strickland, Esq. 8vo. 1800.—Another Volume on the same Subject, with Observations on the Commerce of Spain, 8vo. 1800.—An Historical and Practical Essay on the Culture and Commerce of Tobacco, 8vo. 1800.—Auxiliary Remarks on an Essay on the Comparative Advantages of Oxen for Tillage in competition with Horses, 8vo. 1801.—National Irrigation, or the Various Methods of watering Meadows, 8vo. 1801.—Report on a View of certain Impediments and Obstructions in the Navigation of the River Thames, 8vo. 1803.—Navigation and Conservancy of the River Thames, 8vo. 1803.—He has also several communications in the Monthly, Philosophical, and Commercial, Magazines.

TATLOCK, ELEANOR.

Poems, 2 v. 12mo. 1811.

TATTERSALL, WILLIAM DECHAIR, M.A. vicar of Wotton-under-Edge, and one of His Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the county of Gloucester. He was formerly student of Christ Church, Oxford, where he took his master's degree July 12, 1777. Mr. Tattersall has distinguished himself by a laudable zeal in the improvement of psalmody and church music; but some years ago he incurred the resentment and abuse of Mr. Rowland Hill for suffering an itinerant company of comedians to perform in his parish. Mr. Tattersall, however, was prudent enough to take no notice of the attack. He has published:

A Version, or Paraphrase of the Psalms, originally written by James Merrick, M.A. divided into stanzas, and adapted to the purposes of Public Use, or Private Devotion, 12mo. 1791.—A brief View of the Anatomical Arguments for the Doctrine of Materialism, occasioned by Dr. Ferriar's Argument against it, 8vo. 1792.—Improved Psalmody, in 3 parts, 8vo. 1795.

TAYLOR, JOHN, Esq. oculist to his majesty, and one of the proprietors of the Sun, evening paper. He is the son of the celebrated chevalier Taylor, who made himself conspicuous by his memoirs, published in 1761. This chevalier, so called from having been knighted abroad by a petty prince, was a very extraordinary character, and though not void of professional merit, marred the whole by his egregious vanity. His son, who is a very different character, has published several respectable pieces anonymously, particularly the biographical memoirs which accompany Cadell's British Gallery of Portraits. He is also the author of: Statement of Transactions respecting the King's Theatre at the Haymarket, 8vo. 1791.—A Collection of Poems, fc. 8vo. 1811.

TAYLOR, THOMAS, commonly called the Platonist, was born in London in 1758, of obscure but worthy parents. In his ninth year he was placed at St. Paul's School, being intended for the ministry among the Dissenters. At the age of fifteen, however, he abandoned that pursuit and was placed under a relation who was one of the officers of the dockyard at Sheerness, in which situation young Taylor had an opportunity of following his inclination for the study of mathematics. After residing about three years at Sheerness, he became the pupil of a dissenting preacher, by whose assistance he recovered the rudiments of the Latin and Greek languages, having an intention also to complete his studies at Aberdeen, with a view to the ministry. But a premature marriage and its consequent embarrassments put an end to this design; so that he was obliged to accept of the situation of an usher in a boarding school which he quitted for a clerkship in a banking house. While he was in this employment he devoted his spare hours to the study of Aristotle and Plato, with the ancient commentaries; and having applied also to chemistry, he conceived the idea of being able to discover the perpetual lamp. His trials appeared to be so satisfactory that he even ventured to exhibit a specimen of phosphoric light at the Freemasons' Tavern, but by some accident the experiment failed. It had the effect, however, of procuring the author some powerful friends, by whose assistance he was emancipated from the banking house. His first effort to emerge from obscurity after this was by delivering twelve lectures on the Platonic Philosophy, which procured him some considerable patronage, particularly that of Mr. Meredith, of Harley Place, who has borne the entire expence of printing his translation of Aristotle and some other of his performances. He now became a private teacher of languages, and for some time he was the assistant secretary to the Society for the encouragement of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce, which situation brought him acquainted with the Duke of Norfolk, who has defrayed the charge of printing Mr. Taylor's Translation of Plato. The works of this extraordinary man are:

The Elements of a new method of Reasoning in Geometry, 4to. 1780.—The Hymns of Orpheus, translated from the Greek, with a Dissertation on the Life and Theology of Orpheus, 12mo. 1787.—On the Beautiful, a translation from the Greek of Plotinus, 12mo. 1787.—The Philosophical and Mathematical Commentaries of Proclus on Euclid, translated from the Greek, 2 v. 4to. 1788.—A Dissertation on the Eleusinian and Bacchic Mysteries, 8vo. 1790.—The Phædrus of Plato, a Dialogue concerning Beauty and Love, 4to.—

1792.—The Cratylus, Phædo, Parmenides, and Timæus of Plato; with Notes, 8vo. 1793.—Sallust on the Gods and the World, translated from the Greek, 8vo. 1793.—The Fable of Cupid and Psyche, translated from the Latin of Apuleius, 8vo. 1795.—The Description of Greece, by Pausanias, with Notes, 3 v. 8vo. 1794.—The Metaphysics of Aristotle, translated from the Greek, 4to. 1801.—Two Oration of the Emperor Julian, 8vo.—Five Books of Plotinus, 8vo.—An Answer to Dr. Gillies's Supplement to his Analysis of Aristotle's Works, 8vo. 1804.—The Works of Plato, translated from the Greek, 5 v. 4to. 1804.—The Dissertations of Maximus Tyrinus, translated from the Greek, 2 v. 12mo. 1804.—Miscellanies in Prose and Verse, 8vo. 1806.—The Physics of Aristotle, translated from the Greek, 4to. 1806.—The Organon, or Logical Treatises of Aristotle, 4to. 1807.—The Elements of the true Arithmetic of Infinites, 4to. 1809.—The Works of Aristotle, 9 v. 4to. There were only 75 copies of this undertaking printed.—History of the Restoration of the Platonic Theology, 4to.—Dissertation on Nullities and Diverging Series, 4to.—A New Edition of Hederic's Greek Lexicon, with Additions, 4to. 1803.—Besides these various works Mr. Taylor has communicated many curious articles on Mythology, Ancient History, Philology, and Mathematics to different periodical publications, and is at present a frequent contributor to the New Monthly Magazine.

TAYLOR, THOMAS, a dissenting minister who has published:

Sermons upon subjects interesting to Christians of every Denomination, 8vo. 1803.—A Sermon preached at Carter Lane, on the Death of Joseph Prince, Esq. 8vo. 1810.

TEIGNMOUTH, Right Hon. Sir JOHN SHORE, BARON, of the Kingdom of Ireland. This nobleman was born in Devonshire in 1751, and early in life went to India in the civil service. He there contracted an intimacy with Mr. Hastings, and filled several important offices. In 1786 he married the only daughter of Mr.

Cornish, a respectable medical practitioner at Teignmouth, and in 1793 he was appointed Governor General of Bengal, at which time he was created a Baronet. He was the bosom friend of Sir William Jones, and succeeded him in the presidentship of the Asiatic Society, in which capacity he delivered a handsome eulogy on his predecessor, which was printed together with some other well written essays of his composition in the transactions of that learned body. Lord Teignmouth, in 1803, instituted the British and Foreign Bible Society, the cause of which he has advocated, as its president, with great ability. He is at present one of the commissioners for managing the affairs of India, and the author of:

Memoirs of the Life, Writings and Correspondence of Sir William Jones, 4to. 1804.—The Works of Sir William Jones, with the Life of the Author, 13 v. 8vo. 1807.—A Letter to the Rev. Christopher Wordsworth, D.D. on the subject of the Bible Society, 8vo. 1810.—Considerations on communicating to the Inhabitants of India the knowledge of Christianity, 8vo. 1811.

TEMPLETON, JAMES.

The Shipwrecked Lovers, trag. 12mo. 1801.

TENANT, WILLIAM, a native of Anstruther in Scotland, who in consequence of a misfortune by which he was deprived of the use of his legs had recourse to books, by which he so greatly profited through his own application as to become qualified for the office of tuition. He also occasionally indulged himself in poetical attempts, one of which brought him into general notice and was published. This performance, which is an admirable specimen of comic humor, is entitled:

Anster Fair, 12mo. 2d edit. 1814.

TENCH, WATKIN, General of the Marines. This gentleman went out to New South Wales when that colony was originally formed, and at his return he published a very interesting account of the new settlement. After going through the several gradations in that line of service to which he belongs, and acting with credit in various parts of the world, he attained the honorable rank which he now enjoys. He is the author of:

A Complete Account of the Settlement at Port Jackson in New South Wales, 4to. 1793.—Letters written in France to a Friend in London, 8vo. 1796.

THACKWRAY, Mrs. of Marlborough House School, Walworth.

THARMOTT, MARIA.

Sans Souci Park, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1806.

THELWALL, John, was born in Chandos Street, Covent Garden, and received the rudiments of his education at a private school in Lambeth, after which he was placed in another at Highgate. He is said to have been apprenticed to a taylor, on whose board he recited parts of plays. After this he was for a short time a student at the Royal Academy, and his next situation was that of a copying clerk to an attorney who married his sister. On the death of his principal, Mr. Thelwall applied to the study of physic, and was for some time a pupil of Guy's Hospital, where he composed a prize essay on the principle of vitality, which he places in the blood. When the French Revolution broke out he took an active part in the organization of political clubs, and in delivering orations on liberty, equality and the reform of parliament. For his activity in these concerns he was apprehended and committed to the Tower. When the time of trial drew near, he intimated to Mr. Erskine his counsel an intention to defend his own cause; "then if you do," said the barrister, "I tell you for your consolation, that you will be hanged." Thelwall in reply observed, "Then I'll be hanged if I do." He prudently relinquished his design and was acquitted. After this he delivered a series of inflammatory lectures purporting to have the Roman history for their subject, but in reality aiming at the British constitution. These he delivered for a season in Beaufort Buildings in the Strand, and afterwards travelled about the country on the same errand. At Yarmouth, Lynn and other places, however, he experienced some rough treatment, and after spending a few months in Scotland, where he had a sharp controversy with Mr. Jeffray, the editor of the Edinburgh Review, he returned to London. For some time he resided in France, and afterwards settled on a small farm in Wales, but being of an active spirit, he turned his attention to another line of business in which he has proved very successful. This was the delivery of lectures on elocution, uniting with that profession the very flattering one of curing impediments of speech. By means of advertisements and printing some specious pamphlets on this subject, he has been enabled to realize a handsome income. A few years ago this adventurer published books under the title of Dr. Beaufort, but for the most part he has affixed his real name to his productions which are as follows:

Orlando and Almeyda, a legendary tale in verse, 4to. 1787.—Poems on various subjects, 2 v. 8vo.—Essay towards a Definition of Animal Vitality, in which several of the opinions of John Hunter are examined and controverted, 4to. 1793.—The Peripatetic, or Sketches of the Heart, of Nature and Society, in a series of politico-sentimental journals, in verse and prose of the eccentric excursions of Sylvanus Theophrastus, supposed to be written by himself, 3 v. 12mo. 1793.—Poems written in confinement, 1795.—The natural and constitutional right of Britons to Annual Parliaments, Universal Suffrage and the Freedom of Popular Association, 8vo. 1795.—Strike! but Hear!! a Dedication to his Majesty's Ministers, the Crown Lawyers, and the Majority of both Houses of Parliament, 8vo. 1796.—The Rights of Nature against the Usurpations of Establishments, a series of letters to the People of Britain on the State of Public Affairs, 8vo. 1796.—An Appeal to Popular Opinion, against Kidnapping and Murder, including a narrative of the late Atrocious proceedings at Yarmouth, 8vo. 1796.—The Tribune, containing the Political Lectures of J. Thelwall, taken in short hand, and revised by the Lecturer, 3 v. 8vo. 1796.—Sober Reflections on the Letter of Edmund Burke to a noble Lord, 8vo. 1796.—A particular Account of the late Outrages at Lyon and Wisbeach, 8vo. 1796.—Democracy Vindicated, an Essay on the Constitution and Government of the Roman State by Walter Moyle, with a preface and notes, 8vo. 1796.—The Retort Courteous to Master Burke, 8vo.—The Fairy of the Lake, 8vo. 1802.—A Letter to Mr. Francis Jeffray, editor of the Edinburgh Review, relative to certain Calumnies and Misrepresentations which have appeared in that work, 8vo. 1804.—Reply to the Editors of the Edinburgh Review, 8vo. 1804.—The Trident of Albion, an epic effusion, and an Oration on the Influence of Elocution on Martial Enthusiasm, 8vo. 1805.—Monody on the Rt. Hon. Chas. James Fox, 8vo. 1806.—The Plan and Terms, of Instruction at the Author's Institution for the Cure of Impediments of Speech, 8vo. 1809.—The Vestibule of Eloquence, 8vo. 1810.—A Letter to Henry Cline, Esq. on Defective Developements of the Faculties, 8vo. 1810.—Illustration of Rhythmus, 8vo. 1811.—Results of Experience in a Treatment of Deficiency in the Root of the Mouth and other Mal-conformations, 8vo. 1814.

THICKNESSE, ANNE, was born in the Temple, Feb. 22, 1737. Her maiden name was Ford, and her father an eminent Solicitor, whom she left to avoid a marriage which she disliked. Her attainments in literature and music were such that she was enabled to acquire a very handsome sum by a concert, after which she went to reside with Lady Betty Thicknesse, wife to the eccentric Governor Thicknesse. On the death of her friend, the Governor made her an offer of his hand, which she accepted, and they were married in 1762. At this wedding, it is said, there were three hundred persons of fashion present. In consequence of the embarrassed state of their affairs this couple were obliged to reside abroad many years. The governor died in a fit while travelling near Boulogne in 1792, soon after which his wife was arrested and confined in the convent of Ursulines by the Republicans. On obtaining her liberty after the fall of Robespierre, she went to reside at Bath where she publicly sung in a chapel for the benefit of a poor labourer who had fractured his leg. She has published: Sketches of the Lives and Writings of the principal Literary Ladies in France, 3 v. 8vo. 1778.—School for Fashion, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1800.

THIRLWALL, CONNOP, the son of the Rev. Thomas Thirlwall, was born at Mile End in 1798. At the age of three years he began to learn Latin, and such was his progress that when he was four he began Greek, making an uncommon progress in both languages, as also in French. He was taken under the patronage of the late Dr. Percy, Bishop of Dromore, and by that means obtained a Craven scholarship at Cambridge. Under his name has appeared a volume with this title, Primitive, or Essays and Poems, by Connop Thirlwall 11 years of age, with a preface by his Father.

THIRLWALL, THOMAS, M.A. Rector of Bower's Gifford in Essex, and one of his Majesty's Justices of the Peace for the county of Middlesex. He is a native of Lincolnshire and was educated at Brasenose College, Oxford, where he took his degree of M.A. Nov. 24, 1786. On entering into orders he obtained the curacy of the Trinity Church in the Mino-ries, and the lectureship of Stepney, where he married the widow of an apothecary with a good fortune. By this lady he has several children, one of whom is mentioned in the preceding article. Mr. Thirlwall has distinguished himself as a public speaker on several occasions, particularly at the India House, where he is a proprietor, and he also acted with such spirit in the Middlesex election against the democratic party as to gain an appointment to the Magistracy. He has published:

The Alarming Situation of the Times, a fast sermon, 4to. 1795.—The Dawn of National Prosperity, a sermon, 4to. 1798.—The Instability of Human Power and the Insufficiency of Human Means, a sermon, 4to. 1802.—The Child Jesus a Pattern of early Piety, a sermon, 4to. 1803.—Diatessaron, seu Iotegra Historia D. THOMPSON, BENJAMIN, is the son of Benjamin Blaydes Thompson, Esq. a merchant and magistrate at Hull, who gave his son an excellent education with a view to the profession of the law, which however was declined by our author. By a long residence in Germany he acquired a complete knowledge of the language, as a proof of which he sent several translations of plays to England, particularly the Stranger, which made its appearance at Drury Lane. On his return he married the daughter of the Rev. Mr. Bourne of Chesterfield, and settled for some time at Nottingham, but latterly he has resided in London devoting his time to literature. His publications are:

The Stranger, 8vo. 1798.—La Perouse, a play, 8vo. 1799.—The Happy Family, 8vo. 1799.—Conscience, trag. 8vo. 1800.—Count Beyowsky, 8vo. 1800.—Count Koeigsmark, 8vo. 1800.—Dagobert, trag. 8vo. 1800.—Emelia Galotti, trag. 8vo. 1800.—The Ensign, com. 8vo. 1800.—False Delicacy, dram. 8vo. 1800.—Inez de Castro, trag. 12mo. 1800.—Indian Exiles, com. 8vo. 1800.—Lovers' Vows, dram. 8vo. 1800.—Otto of Wittelsbach, 8vo. 1800.—Pizarro, 8vo. 1800.—Robbers, trag. 8vo. 1800.—Adelaide of Wulsingen, trag. 8vo. 1801.—Deaf and Dumb, 8vo. 1801.—Don Carlos, 8vo. 1801.—Rolla, 8vo. 1801.—Stella, 8vo. 1801.—The Dramatic Works of Kotzebue, 3 v. 8vo. 1802.—The Recal of Momus, a bagatelle, 4to. 1801.—An Account of the Introduction of Merino Sheep into the different states of Europe, from the French of Lestayrie 8vo. 1810.—The Ring, or the Merry Wives of Madrid, 8vo. 1799.—The Escape, a narrative from Kotzebue. Mr. Thompson also collected his Translations of German Dramas and republished them with great success under the title of the German Theatre.

THOMSON, Rev. J.

Poems, Moral, Descriptive, and Elegiac, 12mo. 1807.

THOMSON, THOMAS, M.D. F.R.SS. of London and Edinburgh, F.L.S. member of the Wernerian Society, of the Geological Society, and of the Imperial Academy of Petersburg. He is a native of Edinburgh, and has distinguished himself greatly by his philosophical communications to the Royal Society, Nicholson's Journal, and other scientific miscellanies; besides which he has published:

Fourcroy's Elements of Chemistry, with Notes, 5th ed. 3 v. 8vo. 1800.—A System of Chemistry, 4 v. 8vo. 1802, 3d ed. 1807.—The Elements of Chemistry, 8vo. 1810.—History of the Royal Society of London, 4to. 1812.—Travels in Sweden, during the Autumn of 1812, 4to. 1813.—Dr. Thomson is also the editor of the Annals of Philosophy, a monthly Work, which began to be published with the year 1813.

THOMSON, WILLIAM, LL.D. was born in 1746, at Burnside in Perthshire. His father was a carpenter, in low circumstances, but the lad discovering superior parts was sent to a grammar school, and finally to the University of St. Andrew's, where his proficiency recommended him to the patronage of the Earl of Kinnoul, who made him his librarian, and purposed to have bestowed on him a living. The young man was accordingly ordained, as assistant to the minister of Monivaird; but the gaiety of his disposition, and some amorous adventures, put an end to his ecclesiastical prospects, and he quitted Scotland for the English capital, though not without obtaining from his noble patron a pension of fifty pounds a year. Soon after his arrival in London, he was employed in revising and completing Dr. Watson's history of Philip the Third, and he did his part so well as to gain much credit, the friendship of many men of literary eminence, and the gratuitous degree of LL.D. from the University of Glasgow. He was now an author by profession, and one of his first employments was the compiling a commentary on the Bible, which was published under the name of Harrison. He also edited a new translation of Josephus, and besides some original works of his own composition, he translated and carried through the press Alexander Cunningham's History of Great Britain. He was likewise employed as reporter of parliamentary debates, and among other periodical works in which he was engaged, were the English Review, the European Magazine, the Political Herald, and the Whitehall Evening Post. In 1792 he communicated a valuable letter to Dr. Parr on the subject of political revolutions, which the Dr. printed at the end of his reply to Mr. Curtis, with high encomiums. Dr. Thomson also compiled the historical part of Dodsley's Annual Register for ten years, and he was the editor of many books which have passed under the names of other men, particularly Stedman's History of the American War. His publications, as far as can be ascertained, are these:

Man in the Moon, 2 v. 12mo. 1782.—Travels in Europe, Asia, and Africa, 8vo. 1782.—Memoirs of the War in Asia, from 1780 to 1784, 2 v. 8vo. 1788.—Mammoth, or Human Nature displayed upon a grand Scale, in a Tour with the Tickers into the central parts of Africa, 2 v. 12mo. 1789.—Letters from Scandinavia, 8vo.—Appeal to the People of England in behalf of Mr. Hastings, 8vo. 1788.—Goldsmith's History of Greece, with a Continuation, 2 v. 8vo.—Buchanan's Travels in the Hebrides, 8vo. 1793.—Introduction to the History of the Trial of Mr. Hastings, 8vo. 1796.—Military Memoirs, 2d ed. 8vo. 1805.—Acerbi's Travels to the North Cape, translated from the Italian, 4to.

THOMSON, Mrs. wife of the last-mentioned literary veteran, is very highly esteemed among her friends for her virtues and talents. She has written:

The Labyrinths of Life, a novel, 12mo.—Excessive Sensibility, nov. 12mo.—Fatal Follies, nov. 12mo.—The Pride of Ancestry, 4 v. 12mo. 1804.

THORN, WILLIAM, major of the twenty-fifth regiment of Light Dragoons, and late deputy quarter-master general in the island of Java. He is a native of North Britain, and had his military education in Germany, after which he went to India, where he served in all the actions under Lord Lake. In his passage to Europe he was detained six months at St. Helena, where he digested the narrative of the last great military service in which he was employed, and has since published it with this title:

Memoir of the Conquest of Java, and a Survey of the Oriental Archipelago, 4to. 1815.

THORNHILL, R. B. Esq.

The Shooting Directory, 4to. 1804.

THORNTON, EDWARD, Esq. son of the late John Thornton, of Clapham, Russia merchant, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the King of Sweden.

THORNTON, REV. JOHN.

Christian Consolations, 12mo.—The Advantages of Early Piety unfolded, 12mo. 1811.—Maxims and Reflections for Youth, 18mo. 1811.

THORNTON, ROBERT JOHN, M.D. is the son of Bonnell Thornton, one of the editors of the Connoisseur, and joint translator of Plautus. He died in 1768 leaving his child an infant, who received, however, a liberal education at a public school, after which he was sent to Trinity College, Cambridge, with a view to the church. His own inclinations led him to study medicine, and the kindred sciences of chemistry and botany. On leaving Cambridge he became a student of Guy's and St. Thomas's hospitals, and when he had taken his degree he commenced practice in the metropolis. His success, indeed, as a physician hath not been great, though he endeavoured to attract notice some years ago by a new treatment of pulmonary complaints. Another speculation of his proved equally deceptive, that of publishing a splendid work on botany, with plates of an extraordinary size, and coloured from nature. The expenses attending this undertaking were very great, and the returns by no means answered the author's expectation; who to indemnify himself had recourse to a plan which had already been tried by Boydell and Bowyer. He applied to parliament for leave to dispose of his works by lottery, and thus ended a scheme which may at least have the effect of checking the spirit of literary empiricism. Dr. Thornton has read lectures on botany to select companies, and also at Guy's hospital. His son is likewise a lecturer on astronomy and geography. The publications of the father are:

Medical Extracts on the nature of Health, and the Laws of the Nervous System, 4 v. 8vo. 3d ed. 1798.—The Politician's Creed, or Political Extracts, 3 v. 8vo. 1799.—The Philosophy of Medicine, 5 v. 8vo. 4th ed. 1809.—Pictureque Botanical Plates of the new Illustration of the Sexual System of Linnæus, 2 v. fol. 1799:—1804.—Facts decisive in favour of the Cow-Pox, 8vo. 1802; 4th ed. 1803.—Plates of the Heart, illustrative of the Circulation of the Blood, 4to.—A complete course of Lectures on Botany by the late William Curtis, with the life of the Author, 2d ed. 3 v. roysl 8vo. 1804.—History of Medical Plants, 8vo.—Elements of Botany, 2 v. 8vo.—Temple of Flora, 5 v. fol.—Vaccinæ Vindiciæ; or a Vindication of the Cow-Pox, 8vo. 1806.—Practical Botany, being a new illustration of the Genera of Plants, 8vo. 1808.—The Philosophy of Botany, 4to. 1809.—Outlines of Botany, or Introduction to that Science, 8vo. 1810.—A Family Herbal, and complete System of Medical Botany, 8vo. 1810.—A Grammar of Botany, 18mo. 1811.—A School Virgil, 12mo. 1813.—Illustrations to the School Virgil, 12mo. 1814.—Various communications to the Philosophical Magazine, Monthly Magazine, and other journals.

THORNTON, THOMAS, formerly lieutenant-colonel of the West York militia. This person, who is celebrated in sporting history, is the son of a very respectable gentleman, who, in the rebellion of 1745, raised a company of volunteers in the defence of government, and commanded them himself. Being afterwards introduced with his lady, who was remarkable for her beauty, to George the Second, the monarch paid him many compliments for his spirit and loyalty, adding these words: "But till I saw this lady I knew not the real value of your services." The colonel was born in London, and educated at the Charter-house school, after which he was sent to the University of Glasgow. On coming into the possession of his estate of Thornville Royal, he distinguished himself as a keen sportsman, and among other peculiarities he revived falconry on a very extended scale. When the peace of Amiens took place he went to France for the purpose of examining the state of sporting in that country. In his publications he has been materially assisted by the Rev. Mr. Martyn, a clergyman, who, after many adventures, found an asylum in the King's Bench. Under the colonel's name have appeared :

A Sporting Tour through the North of England and the Highlands of Scotland, 4to. 1804.—A Sporting Tour through France, 2 v. 4to. 1806.—Vindication of Colonel Thornton's Conduct in his Transactions with Mr. Burton, 8vo. 1806.

THORNTON, THOMAS, Esq. clerk in the India department of the Custom-house. He has published :

A Compendium of the Laws recently passed for Regulating the Trade with the East Indies, 8vo. 1814.

THOROLD, Rev. J. Rector of Kencot, in Oxfordshire.

Treatise on the Seventy Years' Captivity of the Jews retold by Jeremiah, 8vo. 1809.

THORP, J. a silk manufacturer of Spital Square, who has published :

A Letter to the Lords of Trade on the Cotton and Silk Manufactures, 8vo. 1807.

THORP, Rev. ROBERT, D.D. Archdeacon of Northumberland.

The Duty of the Parochial Clergy in the Religious Education of the children of the Poor, 8vo. 1811.

THORP, WILLIAM, minister of the independent meeting in Castle Green, Bristol, and some years ago pastor of that in New Court, Carey Street. This popular preacher has published :

A Sermon for the Missionary Society at Surry Chapel, 8vo. 1804.—Speech in the Guildhall at Bristol, on the Petition against the Catholic Claims, 8vo. 1812.

THORPE, ROBERT, LL.D. late chief justice of Sierra Leone, and Judge of the Vice-Admiralty Court in that colony. On his return to England this gentleman quarrelled with the African Institution, and out of resentment he aspersed some of its members in a way which called forth a pointed reply, and strong censure in the public papers. His performance is intitled :

A Letter to William Wilberforce, Esq. M.P. containing Remarks on the Reports of the Sierra Leone Company and African Institution, 8vo. 1815. This publication occasioned a Special Report of the Directors of the Institution, which was printed, and certainly little to the credit of the person who had provoked the discussion.

THROCKMORTON, Sir JOHN COURTENAY, Bart. LL.D. of Buckland, in Berkshire, was born in 1753. He is a Roman Catholic and a member of the board for carrying into effect their petition to the legislature. His brother George Courtenay Throckmorton, Esq. of Weston Underwood, in Buckinghamshire, was the esteemed friend of Cowper, the poet. The baronet has published :

Considerations arising from the Debates in Parliament on the Petition of the Irish Catholics, 8vo. 1806.

THURLOW, EDWARD, Lord, is the son of the late Dr. Thomas Thurlow, Bishop of Durham, brother of the great Lord Chancellor Thurlow. The mother of his lordship was a woman of a very low extraction, and when the Doctor married her, she had not received the least education. As the chancellor had no legitimate issue of his own, he procured a settlement of his title on the sons of his brother the bishop. The present Lord was educated at the Charter-House, and afterwards at Cambridge. He is now law clerk of the presentations in the Petty Bag Office, Patentee of the Bankrupts' Office, Clerk of the Custody of Lunatics and Idiots, one of the Clerks of the Hanaper, and one of the Prothonotaries of the Court of Chancery, in reversion. In 1814 he married the accomplished Miss Bolton, of Covent Garden Theatre, the daughter of an attorney in Long Acre. His Lordship has published :

The Defence of Poesy, by Sir Philip Sidney, 4to. 1810.—Verses on several Occasions, 8vo. 1812.—Moonlight, a poem, with several Copies of Verses, 4to. 1814.—The Doge's Daughter, with Translations from Anacreon and Horace, 8vo. 1814.—Carmen Britannicum, or the Song of Britain, 4to. 1814.

THURSTON, Rev. FREDERIO, M.A.

England Safe and Triumphant, or Researches into the Prophecies, 2 v. 8vo. 1812.

TIBBS, THOMAS, farmer, and lately land steward to Lord Grenville.

The Experimental Farmer, 8vo. 1808.

TICKEN, WILLIAM, late professor of mathematics, geography, and history at the Royal Military College at Marlow. He has published :

An English Grammar, 12mo. 1806.—A Statistical Synopsis of the Strength of the chief Powers of Europe, 4to. 1810.—Santos de Montenos, or Anals of a Patriot Family, 3 v. 12mo. 1811.—Historical Chart of the Reign of George III. 1811.

TIDY, E. junior.

Miscellaneous Effusions of the Muse, 12mo. 1805.

TIERNY, Right Hon. GEORGE, M.P. for Appleby. This gentleman was originally intended for the bar, and had a suitable education in one of the Inns of Court ; but his inclination led him to political science and financial speculations, rather than the dry practice of the King's Bench and Common Pleas. Having small means and great ambition he made a desperate effort to get into parliament for Colchester, but without success, and what was worse, the expences attending the contest have never been paid to this day. The next place where Mr. Tierney tried his strength on the popular interest was Southwark, against the late George Woodford Thelluson in 1796. Here also he failed on the poll, but succeeded by a petition in displacing his rival on the treating act. In 1798 he fought a duel with Mr. Pitt, occasioned by some pointed reflections which the minister had delivered against him in the House of Commons, but the affair terminated by an exchange of shots without either of the parties being wounded. On the change of administration which produced the peace of Amiens, Mr. Tierney was appointed treasurer of the navy, on which occasion he obtained also a pension for his lady. He now became lieutenant-colonel commandant of the Somerset-House corps of volunteers, and he also had the same rank in a regiment raised in the borough of Southwark; but shortly afterwards some differences arose between these bodies and their commander, which occasioned a separation between them, and at the next election Mr. Tierney lost his seat. In the short administration of Lord Grenville, this gentleman was at the head of the Board of Control for India affairs, but when his party retired from office, he also was displaced, and ever since he has been an active member of the opposition. His publications are:

The real Situation of the East India Company considered, with respect to their Rights and Privileges, 8vo. 1787.—Two Letters on the Colchester Petition, 4to. 1791.—A Letter to the Right Hon. Henry Dundas on the Situation of the East India Company, 8vo. 1791. This Pamphlet, which was anonymous, produced a very able and satisfactory reply, written by the late George Anderson, who, from the lowest line of life, raised himself by his talents to the situation of Accountant in the Commissioners' Office for the Affairs of India. Mr. Tierney then published, with his name, a Letter to the Right Hon. Henry Dundas on the Statement of the Affairs of the East India Company lately published by George Anderson, Esq. 8vo. 1791.

TIGHE, RICHARD, Esq.

Testimonies from the Sacred Scriptures relating to the Glory and Extent of the Kingdom of God, cr. 8vo. 1812.—Account of the Life and Writings of the late Rev. William Law, 8vo. 1813.

TINSEAU, the Chevalier de.
Statistical View of France, 8vo. 1803.

TITFORD, WILLIAM JOWIT, M.D. is the son of Isaac Titford, Esq. of Spanish Town, in the Island of Jamaica, and was born there in 1783. He received his education under Mr. Freeman at Ponder's End in Middlesex, and in the nineteenth year of his age returned to his native island, where, in 1804, he was appointed a master extraordinary in chancery. But after this he turned his attention to the study of medicine, sold his plantation in Jamaica, and came to England, where he settled at Cranbrook in Kent. He has published:

Sketches towards a Hortus Botanicus Americanus, 4to. 1812.

Tocquet, J. F. M.A. of the University of Paris. He has published:

A French and English Dictionary, of which several editions have been printed.—A new and easy Guide to the Pronunciation and Spelling of the French Language, 12mo. 1806.—Latin Scholar's Guide, a new ed. 8vo. 1812.

TOD, GEORGE, surveyor and builder of hot-houses.

Plans, Elevations, and Sections of Hot-houses, Green-houses, and Conservatories, fol. 1807.

TODD, HENRY JOHN, M.A. F.A.S. rector of Allhallows, Lombard-street, chaplain in ordinary to His Majesty, and keeper of the manuscripts belonging to the library at Lambeth. He was formerly of Hertford College, Oxford, where he proceeded M.A. May 4, 1786. Soon after this he was made minor canon of Canterbury cathedral, and vicar of Milton, in Kent, which preferments he relinquished on settling in London, where he gained the patronage of the late Duke of Bridgewater and the present Marquis of Stafford. By Charles Dilly, the bookseller, he was greatly esteemed, and as a mark of it that gentleman bequeathed to him a legacy of five hundred pounds. The late Isaac Reed also put a great value on Mr. Todd's friendship, and left him a legacy, for which the latter wrote the preface to the Bibliotheca Reediana. This worthy divine and most accomplished scholar has published:

Some Account of the Deans of Canterbury, 8vo. 1793.

—Comus, a masque, by John Milton, with Notes and Illustrations, to which is added, a copy of the Masque, from a MS. belonging to his Grace the Duke of Bridgewater, 8vo. 1798.—The Poetical Works of John Milton, with Notes of various Commentators, and a Life of Milton, 6 v. 8vo. 1801, 2d ed. 1810.—Catalogue of the Books and Manuscripts in the Library of Christ Church, Canterbury, 8vo. 1802.—A Sermon preached in the Parish Church of St. Chad, Shrewsbury, for the Salop Infirmary, 8vo. 1803.—The Works of Edmund Spenser, with Notes, and the Life of the Author, 8 v. 8vo. 1805.—Public Spirit illustrated in the Life of the Rev. Dr. Bray, with Additions, 2d ed.

8vo. 1808.—Illustrations of the Lives and Writings of John Gower and Geoffrey Chaucer, 8vo. 1810.—The Dictionary of Dr. Samuel Johnson, with Additions, 4to. 1814. This last is now publishing in parts.

TOLLER, SAMUEL, Esq. of Lincoln's-Inn, barrister at law.

TOMKINS, THOMAS, a writing-master in Foster Lane, who has published, besides some beautiful specimens of penmanship, a work entitled:

Rays of Genius, collected to enlighten the Rising Generation, 2 v. 12mo. 1807.

TOMLINE, EDWARD PRETYMAN, M.A. son of the Bishop of Lincoln. He was educated at Westminster, on the foundation, and elected from thence to Trinity College, Cambridge, where he displayed considerable talents; of which he gave a luminous specimen in

A Speech on the Character of the Right Honourable William Pitt, delivered in the Chapel of Trinity Coll. 4to. 1806.

TOMLINE, Right Rev. GEORGE, D.D. F.R.S. Lord Bishop of Lincoln. This learned prelate is the son of Mr. Pretymann, a respectable tradesman at Bury St. Edmund's, at the grammar school of which town he and his brother, Dr. John Pretymann, the Archdeacon of Lincoln, received the elements of their education; after which they removed to Pembroke Hall, Cambridge. The Bishop was distinguished at the University as a classical scholar of the first eminence, and also as a good mathematician. In 1772 he was senior wrangler, and in 1781, being then M.A. and fellow of his college, he served the office of moderator. Having the good fortune to become tutor to Mr. Pitt he soon experienced the gratitude of his pupil, who appointed him his private secretary, and gave him a prebendal stall in the church of St. Peter, Westminster. In 1787 he was made bishop of Lincoln, to which preferment was added the deanry of St. Paul's, and on the death of Dr. Randolph, he was offered the see of London, but declined that dignity, though it is generally supposed that either Winchester or Durham will be found worthy of his Lordship's acceptance. On obtaining a considerable estate from a relation he changed his name to Tomline. His Lordship's publications are:

A Sermon before the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, 4to. 1792.—A Sermon before the King and the Two Houses of Parliament at St. Paul's, on the Day of Thanksgiving, 4to. 1796.—Elements of Christian Theology, 2 v. 8vo. 1799.—A Charge to the Clergy of his Diocese, 4to. 1803.—Sermon before the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge at St. Paul's, 4to. 1810.—Refutation of Calvinism, 8vo. 1812.—Introduction to the Study of the Bible, 12mo. 1813.

TOOKE, REV. WILLIAM, F.R.S. This respectable divine was born in 1744, and educated under Mr. John Shield, who kept a school at Islington. Mr. Tooke had for a school-fellow Mr. John Nichols, with whom he also served his time to Mr. Bowyer, the printer: but having an inclination to the Church he was ordained in 1770, and soon after appointed chaplain to the factory at Petersburg, where he continued till 1792, when he returned to England to take possession of a fortune that came to him by the death of a relation. Mr. Tooke has ever since resided in the metropolis, where he has chiefly devoted himself to literary pursuits. One of his ancestors, Dr. Thomas Tooke, founded the grammar school at Bishop Stortford, and another, Andrew Tooke, Master of the Charter House School, is noted for his having published Pomey's Pantheon under his own name, without any acknowledgment of the real author. The works of Mr. William Tooke are,

The Loves of Othniel and Achsah, rom. 2 v. 12mo. 1767.—Translation of Falconet's and Diderot's Pieces on Sculpture, 4to. 1777.—Russia, or a Complete Historical Account of all the Nations which compose that Empire, 4 v. 8vo. 1780.—Varieties of Literature, 2 v. 8vo. 1795.—Selections from Foreign Journals, 8vo. 1798.—Life of Catherine II. Empress of Russia, 3 v. 8vo. 1797.—View of the Russian Empire during the Reign of Catherine II. to the Close of the 18th Century, 3 v. 8vo. 1799.—History of Russia from the Foundation of the Empire to the Accession of Catherine II. 2 v. 8vo. 1800.—Picture of Petersburg, from the German of Storch, 8vo. 1800.—The Sermons of Zollikofer on the Dignity of Man, 2 v. 8vo. 1803.—Sermons of Zollikofer on the Evils that are in the World, 8vo. 1803.—Sermons of Ditto on Education, 2 v. 8vo. 1806.—Sermons of the Same on the Festivals and Fasts of the Church, 2 v. 8vo. 1807.—Sermons on Prevalent Errors and Vices, 2 v. 8vo. 1812.—Devotional Exercises and Prayers from the German of Zollikofer, 8vo. 1814.—Mr. Tooke edited, in 1798, the General Biographical Dictionary, in 15 v. 8vo.; and he has also been a contributor to the Gentleman's Magazine.

TOOKE, WILLIAM, younger son of the preceding gentleman, was born at Petersburg, in 1777. He was bred to the law and is at present a respectable practitioner in Bedford Row. Mr. Tooke is a leading member of the Society for the Encouragement of Arts, and presides there as the chairman of the committee of correspondence. He is also editor of the Transactions of that useful body, and an occasional contributor to the New Monthly Magazine, and to Dodsley's Annual Register. He has published,

The Works of Charles Churchill, with Observations, Notes, and the Life of the Author, 2 v. 8vo. 1802.

TOONE, WILLIAM, attorney at law.

The Magistrate's Manual, or a Summary of the Duties and Powers of a Justice of the Peace, 8vo. 1813.

TOPHAM, EDWARD, Esq. is the son of Dr. Francis Topham, Master of the Faculties and Judge of the Prerogative Court at York, who was lampooned by Sterne, in his Adventures of a Watch Coat. The subject of the present article was educated at Eton, under Dr. Foster, after which he removed to Trinity College, Cambridge, on leaving which, he obtained a commission in the first regiment of Life Guards. Of this corps he became adjutant, and distinguished himself greatly in the fashionable world, particularly as the writer of prologues and epilogues; some of which were uncommonly popular. After rising to the rank of major, and figuring in London as the proprietor of the newspaper called the World, he retired to his family seat in Yorkshire, with three daughters which he had by the once celebrated Mrs. Wells. His several publications are,

Letters from Edinburgh, containing Observations on the Scotch Nation, 8vo. 1776.—Address to Edmund Burke, Esq. on his Letter to the Sheriffs of Bristol, 4to. 1777.—The Fool, a farce, 8vo. 1786.—Life of the late John Elwes, Esq. 8vo. 1790; new edition enlarged, 1805.—An Account of a Remarkable Stone which fell from the Clouds on his Estate in Yorkshire, 4to. 1798.—Major Topham also wrote a farce called Deaf Indeed! acted in 1780; another of the name of Small Talk, in 1786; one bearing the title of Bonds without Judgment, which made its appearance in 1787; and another, which obtained some notice, having the name of the Westminster Boy, acted for the benefit of Mrs. Wells.

TOPHAM, THOMAS.

A New Compendious System on Several Diseases incident to Cattle with the Remedies, 8vo. 1801.

TOPLIS, REV. J. B. D. Fellow of Queen's College, Cambridge.

A Translation of the Treatise upon Analytical Mechanics, which forms the Introduction to the Mécanique Céleste of La Place, with Explanatory Notes and Additions, 8vo. 1814.

TORRENS, ROBERT, Esq. Major in the army and Captain of the Royal Marines, was born in Ireland, in 1783. He entered, early in life, into the military service, and in March, 1811, he commanded the marine garrison at the Isle of Anholt, where he succeeded in repulsing the Danes. Afterwards he served in the Peninsula, where he was appointed Colonel of a Spanish legion. His publications are,

The Ecconomists refuted, or an Inquiry into the Nature and Extent of the Benefits conferred by Trade and Commerce, 8vo. 1808.—Celibacy chusing a Husband, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1809.—The Victim of Intolerance, rom. 12mo.—An Essay on Money and Paper Currency, 8vo. 1812.—Thoughts on the Catholic Question, 8vo. 1813.—An Essay on the External Corn Trade, 8vo. 1815.

TOULMIN, GEORGE HOGGART, M.D. a physician at Wolverhampton, who, many years ago, contrived to excite some attention by a few sceptical publications, the object of which, if not directly atheistical, had a very near affinity to it. His performances are,

The Antiquity and Duration of the World, 8vo. 1780.—The Eternity of the World, 8vo. 1786.—The Instruments of Medicine, or the Philosophical Digest of Physic, 8vo. 1789.—The Eternity of the Universe, 8vo. 1789.—Elements of the Practice of Medicine, 8vo. 1810.

TOULMIN, JOSHUA, D.D. a Baptist minister, who resided many years at Taunton in Somersetshire, where also he kept a bookseller's shop; but on the removal of Dr. Priestley to America, he went and settled at Birmingham as the minister of a united Socinian congregation. This gentleman, who has distinguished himself by his zeal for the principles of his friend, Dr. Priestley, obtained a doctor's degree from some college in America. His works are,

Sermons addressed to Youth, with a Translation of Isocrates, 8vo. 1770; 2nd edit. 12mo. 1789.—Two Letters on the Address of the Dissenting Ministers on Subscription, 8vo. 1774.—Memoirs of the Life and Writings of Faustus Socinus, 8vo. 1777.—Letters to Dr. Sturges on the Church Establishment, 8vo. 1782.—Dissertations on the Evidences of Christianity, 8vo. 1785.—Essay on Baptism, 8vo. 1786.—Mr. William Foot's Account of the Ordinance of Baptism, 3rd edit. 8vo. 1787.—Review of the Life of John Biddle, M.A. 8vo. 1789.—The History of the Town of Taunton, 4to. 1791.—Character and Reward of a Faithful Servant, a Funeral Sermon for the Rev. Thomas Watson, 8vo. 1793.—Two Sermons at Essex-Street Chapel, 8vo. 1794.—Neal's History of the Puritans, a new edition, with the Life of the Author and Notes, 5 v. 8vo. 1794-1797.—The Practical Efficacy of the Unitarian Doctrine considered, 8vo. 1796.—The Injustice of classing Unitarians with Deists and Infidels, 12mo. 1797.—Biographical Tribute to the Memory of Dr. Priestley, 8vo. 1804.—Addresses to Young Men, 12mo. 1804.—Mason's Student and Pastor, with Notes and an Essay on Catechising, 12mo. 1807.—A Sermon before the Supporters of the Unitarian Fund, 8vo. 1806.—Memoirs of the Rev. Samuel Eburne, one of the Pastors of the New Meeting at Birmingham, 8vo. 1809.—Sermons on Devotional Subjects, 8vo. 1810.—Four Discourses on Baptism, 12mo. 1811.—A Manual of Morning and Evening Prayers, 12mo. 3rd edit. 1812.—Historical View of the State of the Protestant Dis- senters in England, 8vo. 1814. He has also been a contributor to the Theological Repository, the Non-conformist's Memorial, the Monthly Magazine, and other miscellanies.

TOURNAY, WILLIAM, D.D. Warden of Wadham College, Oxford, Rector of St. James's, Dover, and Vicar of Hougham in Kent. He is the author of, A Sermon preached in Lambeth Chapel, at the Consecration of the Rt. Rev. Dr. John Farsous, Bishop of Peterborough, 4to. 1814.

TOWERS, JOHN, minister of an Independent congregation in Barbican, formerly a porter and afterwards a methodist preacher in Whitfield's connexion. He has printed some sermons and a pamphlet against Madan entitled, Polygamy Unscriptural, 8vo. 1780.

TOWERS, JOSEPH LOMAS, is the only son of the late Dr. Joseph Towers, author of the "Life of Frederick II. King of Prussia," and a principal writer in the "Biographia Britannica," in conjunction with Dr. Kippis. The greater portion of Mr. Towers's life has been spent in literary pursuits, and we believe him to have been the author of several anonymous publications: but the only one to which his name is affixed is,

The Expediency and Practicability of the Resumption of Cash-Payments by the Bank of England, or Thoughts on the Present Serious State of the Circulating Medium of the Kingdom; and a Series of Measures proposed, whereby sufficient supplies of Specie might be introduced into the Channels of Circulation, and kept there, without the probability of its disappearing, 8vo. 1811.

TOWNLEY, GEORGE STEPNEY, M.A. Rector of St. Stephen's, Walbrook. He was bred at Merchant Taylor's School, of which his father was head master; after this, he went to St. John's College, Oxford, where he proceeded to his master's degree, February 17, 1774. He has published, Six Sermons preached, on Public Occasions, before the Lord Mayor and Common Council, 8vo. 1794.—Six Sermons during his Chaplainship, in 1797, 8vo.

TOWNLEY, JAMES.

TOWNSEND, GEORGE, minister of an Independent congregation at Ramsgate, and formerly a preacher in Lady Huntingdon's connexion. He is the brother of the Rev. John Townsend, and has printed these tracts:

Testimony for Truth, against Frend on the Divinity of Christ, 8vo. 1788.—The Replication, or a Familiar Letter to William Frend, 8vo. 1789.—Brief Rejoinder against the Same, 8vo. 1789.—Word of Caution against Socinian Poison, 8vo. 1789.—Sermon preached before the Missionary Society, 8vo. 1802.

TOWNSEND, Rev. GEORGE, B.A. late of Trinity College, Cambridge, and now Vicar of Hackney. He was the intimate friend of the late Mr. Richard Cumberland, and has published the following works :

Poems, 8vo. 1810.—Armageddon, a Poem, to be completed in twelve books, 4to. 1815.

TOWNSEND, JOHN, minister of the Independent congregation in Jamaica Row, Bermondsey. He was originally a tinplate worker, but being converted under the late Dr. Peckwell, he became a pupil in one of Lady Huntingdon's seminaries, and an occasional preacher at her chapels in town and country, particularly that of Orange Street, Leicester Fields. About the year 1784, he was ordained as pastor of the Calvinistic meeting in Bermondsey. About the year 1792, Mr. Townsend drew up and published an address on the condition of deaf and dumb children, which led the way to a charitable institution for their education and support. Of this charity he acted several years as gratuitous secretary, and he has never failed to give it the most effectual aid. He has printed,

A Sermon on the Death of Dr. Henry Peckwell, preached at Orange Street Chapel, 8vo. 1786.—Remarks on the Charge of the Bishop of Rochester, 8vo. 1796.—Three Sermons, 8vo. 1797.—Nine Discourses on Prayer, 8vo. 1799.—Hints on Sunday Schools and Itinerant Preaching, 8vo. 1801.—A New Year's Gift for the Children of Charity and Sunday Schools, 12mo. 1803.—Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress abridged, 12mo. 1806.—Christ the Life, and Death the Gain, of True Believers, a Sermon on the Death of Mrs. Hawkes, 8vo. 1808.

TOWNSEND, JOSEPH, M.A. Rector of Pewsey in Wiltshire. He was formerly Fellow of Clare Hall, Cambridge, and, at one time, studied physic under Dr. Cullen, at Edinburgh. At his outset in the ministry, he distinguished himself as a preacher among the Calvinistic methodists, and occasionally officiated in Lady Huntingdon's chapel at Bath; but of late years, his zeal on that side has been considerably abated. His publications are, Every True Christian a New Creature, 12mo. 1765.—Observations on various Plans for the Relief of the Poor, 8vo. 1788.—Journey through Spain, 3 v. 8vo. 1790.—Free Thoughts on Despotism and Free Governments, 8vo. 1791.—The Physician's Vade Mecum, 8vo. 1794; 10th edition, 1807.—A Guide to Health, 2 v. 8vo. 1795.—Dissertation on the Poor Laws, 8vo. 1796.—Sermons on Various Subjects, 8vo. 1805.—The Character of Moses established, 2 v. 4to. 1812-1815.

TRELAWNEY, Rev. Sir HARRY, Bart. M.A. and Prebendary of Exeter. He is the son of the late Sir William Trelawney who died at Jamaica in 1772, of which island he was governor. The present baronet, who was at that time a minor, received his education at Westminster School and Christ Church, Oxford, where he took his degree of B.A. in 1776; but becoming a convert to Methodism he turned preacher, and was greatly followed in all parts of the West of England. At length he joined the dissenters, and was ordained at Poole in Dorsetshire, but after some more changes he fell in love with a clergyman's daughter near Taunton, and to obtain her, he returned to the church, took his degree of M.A. at Christ Church, June 22, 1781, was ordained at Exeter, and became a very orderly parish priest in his native county. The late bishop Buller, who wanted the baronet's borough interest for his family, gave him a prebend in his church and also a valuable rectory in Cornwall. Sir Harry has six children, four sons and two daughters; two of the former are in the army and one of them has taken the name of Salisbury in compliance with the will of Owen Salisbury Brereton, Esq. The sermon preached at the ordination of the baronet among the Dissenters was printed with a pompous account of the proceedings. He has also published a discourse while in that connexion, entitled, Ministers Laborers together with God; a Sermon, 8vo. 1779.

TREMENEERE, WILLIAM, A.B. Chaplain in the Royal Navy.

The Iliad of Homer translated into English, book 1. 4to. 1792.—Verses on the Victory of Trafalgar, 4to. 1806.

TREMLET, THOMAS, a Merchant at Exeter, who has published several anonymous pieces and also the following:

TRIMMER, JOSHUA KIRBY.

Inquiry into the present State of Agriculture in the Southern parts of Ireland, 8vo. 1809.—Further Observations on the same Subject, 8vo. 1812.

TRINDER, REV. WILLIAM MARTIN, M.D. This gentleman was born in 1747, of an ancient family in Wiltshire, and educated at Exeter College, Oxford, where he took the degree of B.C.L. Oct. 31, 1770. He afterwards studied physic and obtained his Doctor's degree in that faculty; but lastly entered into orders though without settling on any living. He married the daughter of Dr. Frank Nichols, physician to George II. but this connexion did not prove harmonious. The doctor has published:

Essay on English Grammar, 12mo. 1781.—Experiments on the Essex Mineral Waters, 8vo. 1783.—A Volume of Practical Sermons, 8vo. 1787.—The Philanthropic Monitor; or New Practical Discourses, 8vo. 1793.—An Essay on the Application of Oil to the Human Body, 8vo. 1797.—Sermons on various subjects preached at Hendon in Middlesex, 2 v. 8vo. 1800.—The English Olive Tree, or a Treatise on the Use of Oil and the Air Bath, 8vo. 1802. 3d edit. with an Analysis of the Barnet Well Water, 1804.—Letters on Military Subjects, 8vo. 1804.

TRIST, REV. BENJAMIN, M.A. Vicar of Verran in the county of Cornwall. He has published:

A Sermon preached at St. Mary's Church, Truro, at the visitation of the Bishop of Exeter, 4to. 1812.

TROTTER, COUTTS, Esq.

The Principle of Currency and Exchange, applied to the Report of the Bullion Committee, 8vo. 1811.

TROTTER, JAMES, farmer at Newton in the parish of Abercorn. He is the author of

A General View of the Agriculture of West Lothian, 8vo. 1812.

TROTTER, JOHN BARNARD, Esq. This gentleman, who is a native of Ireland, was private secretary to Mr. Fox, of whom he published a very strange account after his death, which drew forth some strong animadversions from different writers, and among the rest Dr. Moseley flatly contradicted the author with respect to the medical treatment of the illustrious statesman. The publications of Mr. Trotter are:

A Letter to Lord Viscount Southwell on the Catholic Question, 8vo. 1809.—Memoirs of the last Years of the Rt. Hon. Charles James Fox, with a Postscript, 8vo. 1811.—Stories for Calumniators, 2 v. 12mo. 1810.

TROTTER, S. Esq.

The Law of Executors and Administrators, 8vo. 1806.

TROTTER, THOMAS, M.D. Physician to the Fleet. He is a native of Roxburghshire, and was educated at the University of Edinburgh with a view to the medical profession. In 1782, when very young, he was appointed Surgeon in the royal navy; and in his treatise on the scurvy he says, that he was the first member of his corps who was obliged to seek employment in the African trade. On his return from Africa in 1785 he settled at a small town in Northumberland, and, during his residence there, obtained his Doctor's degree at Edinburgh, the subject of his thesis being "De Ebrietate," which was praised by Dr. Cullen. By the friendship of Admiral Roddam he was appointed surgeon of his flag-ship at Portsmouth in 1789; and the same year he was examined before the Committee of the House of Commons appointed to inquire into the slave trade. In 1793 he was appointed physician to the Royal Hospital at Portsmouth, and the next year Physician to the Fleet. Dr. Trotter has been for several years settled at Newcastle upon Tyne, where he practises with great reputation, occasionally amusing himself with poetry and other elegant literary pursuits. His publications are:

Observations on the Scurvy, 8vo. 1786. 2d edit. 1792.

—De Ebrietate, ejusque effectibus in Corpus Humanum, 4to. 1788.—Review of the Medical Department of the British Navy, 8vo. 1790.—Medical and Chemical Essays, 2d edit. 8vo. 1796.—Medica Nautica, or an Essay on the Diseases of Seamen, 3 v. 8vo. 1799.—Suspiria Oceani, a Monody on the late Earl Howe

4to. 1800.—An Essay on Drunkenness, and its Effects on the Human Body, 8vo. 1804. 4th edit. 1812.—An Address to the Proprietors and Managers of Coal Mines, on the Means of destroying Damp, 8vo. 1806.—A View of the Nervous Temperament, being a Practical Treatise on Nervous, Bilious, Stomach and Liver Complaints, 3d edit. 8vo. 1812.—The Noble Foundling, trag. 4to. 1813. He has many communications in the European Magazine, the Medical Journal, and other periodical works.

TROUTBECK, REV. JOHN, Chaplain to the late Duke of Leeds, and the author of a work entitled,

A Survey of the Ancient and Present State of the Scilly Islands, 8vo. 1796.

TROWARD, RICHARD, Attorney at Law. Collection of the Statutes and Orders of the House of Commons respecting Elections, 8vo. 1790. 2d edit. 1796.—The same Work continued and improved, 8vo. 1802.

TROY, RT. REV. DR. TITULAR OR ROMAN CATHOLIC BISHOP OF DUBLIN. This divine made himself conspicuous some years ago by a prosecution against the proprietors of the Antijacobin Review, for a supposed libel, in which he gained a verdict with fifty pounds damages. He has published

A Pastoral Letter, addressed to the Catholics of his Diocese, 8vo. 1793.

TRUSLER, JOHN, LL.D. This singular character, who may be considered as the very cameleon of literature, was born in London in 1735. He had no academical education, but was bred to physic in a very humble line, though afterwards he contrived to obtain orders, and for some time officiated as a curate in and about London. In the year 1771 he started a project peculiar to himself, that of abridging the Sermons of eminent divines, and printing them in the form of manuscripts, so as not only to save clergymen the trouble of composing their discourses, but even of transcribing them. The scheme succeeded, and to the disgrace of the age there were not wanting many dignitaries of the Church, who gave their encouragement to this scandalous species of quackery; which has found imitators in one or two benefited clergymen of the present day. Dr. Trusler next established a printing and bookselling business upon an extensive and very lucrative scale. He resided several years at Bath on the profits of his trade, and latterly at his estate on Englefeld Green in Middlesex. This wholesale dealer in compilations has manufactured the following works, several of which, however, it must be acknowledged, have the merit of utility.

Hogarth Moralized, 8vo. 1766.—Chronology, or a Concise View of History, 12mo. 1769; of this little work there have been numerous editions, and one in two volumes 12mo.—Principles of Politeness, extracted from Chesterfield's Letters, 12mo. 1775.—Account of the Islands lately discovered in the South Sea, with an Account of the Country of Kamtschatka, 8vo. 1777; this is an abridgment of Cooke's Voyages.—Practical Husbandry, or the Art of Farming, 8vo. 1780.—The Sublime Reader, or the Morning and Evening Services of the Church, pointed as they should be read, 12mo. 1782.—View of the Common and Statute Law of England, an abridgment of Blackstone's Commentaries, 4to. 1784.—Compendium of Useful Knowledge, 12mo. 1784.—A Dictionary of Rhymes, 8vo. 1784.—Modern Times, or the Adventures of Gabriel Outcast, 3 v. 12mo. 1785.—The London Adviser and Guide, 8vo. 1786.—The Country Lawyer, 12mo. 1786.—The Honors of the Table, or Rules for Behaviour during Meals, with the Art of Carving, 12mo. 1788.—Eight Years' Almanack, on a Sheet, 1788.—Summary View of the Constitutional Laws of England, 8vo. 1788.—On the Importance of a Farmer's Life, a sermon, 8vo. 1793.—The Life and Adventures of William Rumble, Esq. 3 v. 12mo. 1793.—The Art of Gardening, 8vo.—Essay on Literary Property, 8vo. 1798.—The Assessed Tax Act explained, 8vo. 1798.—A Third Volume of his Chronology, 12mo. 1805.—Memoirs of his Life, part I. 4to. 1806.—Detached Philosophic Thoughts on Man, 2 v. 12mo. 1810.—Proverbs Exemplified, 12mo. 1811. Among other compilations sent forth by the Doctor, we must not omit to mention one, in numbers, intitled the Habitable World Displayed, besides which he has also printed the Clerical Almanack, Moore's Almanack Improved, and other things of a like kind.

TUCKER, BENJAMIN, ESQ. Secretary to Earl St. Vincent, formerly one of the Commissioners of the Admiralty, and now Surveyor General for the County of Cornwall.

Observations on Sir Home Popham's concise Statement of Facts relative to the Ronney, 8vo. 1803.

TUCKER, HENRY ST. GEORGE, ESQ. of the East India Company's Service.

TUCKETT, J. R.

Urbino, or the Vaults of Lepanto, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1813.

TUCKER, JAMES HINGSTON, ESQ. Commander in the Royal Navy, was born at Cork in 1776, entered the navy in 1793, and was appointed in 1798 a Lieutenant in the East Indies, from whence, after serving seven years, his ill state of health obliged him to return to England. In 1802 he was appointed First Lieutenant of his Majesty's Ship Calcutta, on a voyage to establish a colony on the South Coast of New Holland. In the same post of First Lieutenant of the Calcutta, he continued until her capture by a large squadron of French ships in 1805 on her return from St. Helena with an East India convoy. A nine years' captivity was only terminated by the revolution that subverted Buonaparte's power: and during this period of forced and unhappy leisure the Maritime Geography was chiefly compiled. On returning to England, Mr. T. was promoted to the rank of Commander. He is the author of an Account of a Voyage to establish a Colony at Port Philip on the East Coast of New South Wales in 1802, 8vo. 1804.—Maritime Geography and Statistics, or a Description of the Ocean and its Coasts, Maritime Commerce, Navigation, &c. 4 v. 8vo. 1815.

TUITE, Lady, niece to the Countess Dowager of Moira.

TUKE, SAMUEL, a relation of the above, and the author of,

A Description of the Retreat, an Institution near York for Insane Persons of the Society of Friends, 4to. and 8vo. 1813.

TUKE, JOHN, land-surveyor. Besides some papers in miscellaneous publications he is the author of,

A General View of the Agriculture of the North Riding of Yorkshire, 8vo. 1800.

TUPPER, JAMES RICHARD, F.L.S. and member of the Royal College of Surgeons in London. He has published,

An Essay on the Probability of Sensation in Vegetables, 8vo. 1811.

TURNBULL, JOHN. This person was, in the year 1799, second mate of the Barwell East Indiaman, after which he engaged, with some speculative men in London, on an expedition to the north west coast of America, of which enterprise he had the chief management. The result he published on his return to England in the account of

A Voyage round the World, in the years 1800 and 1804, 3 v. small 8vo. 1805. This work reached a second edition in a quarto form in 1813.

TURNBULL, WILLIAM, M.A. Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, and medical director of an Institution for the Relief of the Ruptured Poor. He has published,

The Medical Works of the late Dr. William Turnbull, his father, with a Life of the Author, 12mo. 1805.

TURNER, REV. BAPTIST NOEL, M.A. Rector of Denton, Lincolnshire, and of Wing in Rutlandshire. He was formerly Fellow of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, and the intimate friend of Dr. Johnson, to whom he first introduced Dr. Richard Farmer, afterwards master of his college. Mr. Turner is a scholar of the first rank, and he has printed the following pieces, besides some articles in the Gentleman's Magazine, the Orthodox Churchman's Magazine, and the New Monthly Magazine:

Candid Suggestions in Eight Letters to Soame Jenyns, Esq. 12mo. 1782.—The True Alarm, consisting of a Descant on the National Prosperity, Sketch of a Refutation of Mr. Locke, and Thoughts on an equal Representation, 8vo. 1783.—On the Modes of raising Money for the Improvement of Church Lands, 8vo. 1788.—The Words of Eternal Life, or an Explanation of the Catechism, 12mo. 1804.—A Catechism of Conformity adapted to the Use of Schools, 12mo. 1814.

TURNER, CHARLES, the orphan son of the late Brigadier General Turner, who died of excessive fatigue at Visapoor in the East Indies. He was sent to England and placed under Dr. Dupré at Berkhamsted School, by Mr. Francis Pemberton, governor of Visapoor, and the intimate friend of his father. After leaving school, he was bound apprentice to a surgeon and apothecary, on leaving whom he married very imprudently, and thereby offended his friends. After many trials in his own profession, and also in others, particularly that of keeping a school, Mr. Turner was reduced to the greatest distress, from which he has been relieved by a subscription and placed in a druggist's shop. He has printed, The Affectionate Widow, a poem, 12mo. 1807.—The Orphan, a poem, 12mo. 1812.

TURNER, DAWSON, F.R.S. also of the Antiquarian and Linnæan Societies, and member of the Imperial Academy of Natural History at Petersburg. This excellent botanist has published many valuable articles in the Philosophical Transactions, those of the Linnæan Society, and other miscellaneous collections of the highest character. He is also the author of these works,

USKO, Rev. JOHN F. Rector of Orsett in Essex. This gentleman was born Dec. 12, 1760, at Lyck in Prussia, and educated in the provincial college of that town, after which he was sent, in 1777, to the university of Koningsberg, where he studied philosophy and divinity, with the mathematics and classics; also the oriental languages, and at his leisure hours, the English, Italian, and Dutch. In 1780 he was admitted as a candidate for divinity, with a license to preach, and at the same time he had the charge of instructing young students at Royal College, or Collegium Fredericianum. In 1782 he was appointed, by the city of Dantzick, Chaplain to the Germans at Smyrna, where he discharged his office with great satisfaction. He also did occasional duty to the English factory, and that with so much credit as to be nominated chaplain, by the Levant Company, in 1789. The same year he made a voyage to Egypt, and afterwards he travelled through Syria and other parts of the East. In 1792, he visited Constantinople, to study the Turkish language, of which he made himself a master. In 1795 he accompanied Mr. Randle Wilbraham on a journey to Babylon and Persia, in the course of which tour Mr. Usko perfected his knowledge of the Persian language. From Bassora our travellers crossed the desert, on camels, to Aleppo, and after a short stay there, they went to Jerusalem. At Jaffa they parted, Mr. Wilbraham for the Islands of the Archipelago, and Mr. Usko for Smyrna, where he arrived in June, 1796. In 1798, our author visited England, where he was well received by the Levant Company, who recommended him to the late Dr. Porteus, Bishop of London, an introduction which proved the most fortunate circumstance of his life. After staying two months in England, he went to see his friends in Prussia, where he experienced a very flattering reception from the late Queen. At Lyck he had the pleasure of meeting his mother alive, though at the age of eighty one. Having stayed there two months, he returned over land to Smyrna, where, in 1800, he married a lady whom he had educated himself. In 1804 he visited Athens, but in 1807 he was obliged to quit his station, together with the other Europeans, owing to the disturbed state of affairs. On his arrival in England he was well received by the Bishop of London, who procured for him an act of naturalization, gave him orders, and a presentation to the valuable rectory which he now enjoys. Mr. Usko is at present engaged in publishing an "Arabic Grammar;" and he has printed, though not published,

A Brief Narrative of his Travels and Literary Life, 12mo. 1808.

UVEDALE, ROBERT, M.A. Vicar of Fotherby in Lincolnshire, is the eldest son of the late Rev. Dr. Robert Uvedale, Rector of Langton, in the same county, and a descendant of Peter de Uvedale in the reign of Edward III. which nobleman was the patron of William of Wykeham. Mr. Uvedale was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, and, besides a number of communications on antiquarian subjects in the Gentleman's Magazine, and the Memoirs of the Manchester Literary Society, of which he was elected a member in 1795, he has published,

A Thanksgiving Sermon on his Majesty's Escape from Assassination, 8vo. 1800.—An Examination of Bishop Lowth's Objections to the Account, given by Leland, of the Patronage and Education of William of Wykeham, 8vo. 1801.

UWINS, DAVID, M.D. Physician at Aylesbury, and a licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians of London. He has several communications in the Medical and Physical Journal, besides which he also compiled the medical articles in Gregory's Cyclopaedia, and separately he has published, Modera Medicine, 8vo. 1808.—Observations on Fever 8vo. 1810.

VAILLANT, JOHN, Esq. Barrister at Law, of the Inner Temple. He was formerly a gentleman commoner of Christ Church, Oxford, where he took the degree of M.A. April 2, 1788. He has published, The Reports of Chief Justice Dyer, now first translated into English, with the Life of the Author, 3 v. royal 8vo. 1793.

VALENTIA, GEORGE, Lord Viscount, was born Dec. 4, 1770, at Arley Hall, one of the seats of the Lytlettons, being the eldest son of Arthur, Earl of Mountnorris, by his first wife, Lucy Fortescue Lytletton, only daughter of George Lord Lytletton, of which family she became the representative on the death of her brother Thomas, the late Lord. His Lordship's descent on the father's side is ancient and noble, and on that of his mother, of royal origin, her family being descended from the legitimate daughter of John of Gaunt, by Catherine Swinford. The larger proportion of the considerable family property is in Ireland. Lord Valentia received the early part of his education at Upton upon Severn; under the tuition of the clergyman of that place. He was subsequently removed to Stanford in Worcestershire, and placed under the care of the Rev. Dr. Butt, one of the King's chaplains; till he reached his thirteenth year, at which period he went to Rugby School, then raised to a very flourishing condition by the abilities and management of Dr. James, the master. At sixteen his Lordship was entered of Brazen Nose College, Oxford, where he continued only a short time in consequence of his entering the army. In 1789 he visited France, and fixed his residence chiefly at Strasburg, with a view of facilitating his acquirement both of the German and French languages. On the appearance of the troubles in France, and the prospect of a speedy rupture with England, his Lordship returned to his native country, and soon after married Miss Anne Courtenay, one of the daughters of the late Wm. Viscount Courtenay, by whom he has one son. Upon his marriage he quitted the army and settled at his estate of Arley, which was bequeathed to him by his uncle, Thomas Lord Lytleton, in 1779. At this beautiful and picturesque spot Lord Valentia continued to reside until June, 1802, at which period he embarked for the East Indies, with the intention of putting in execution his long-formed and favorite project of visiting the principal districts of those celebrated and extensive regions, together with many other interesting and remote countries. He was attended on his travels by his draughtsman and secretary, Mr. Salt, the nephew of his Lordship's former tutor and friend, Dr. Butt. His Lordship returned to England at the close of the year 1806, and about two years afterwards was returned to Parliament for the borough of Yarmouth in the Isle of Wight. His Lordship has for many years been a member of the Royal, Antiquarian, and Linnæan, Societies. He was also one of the original proprietors of the Royal Institution. He has published, Voyages and Travels in India, the Red Sea, and Abyssinia, 3 v. 4to. 1809; 2nd edition, 6 v. 8vo. and 1 v. 4to. of plates, 1811.

VALPY, RICHARD, D.D. F.A.S. Rector of Stradishall, Suffolk, and Master of the Grammar School at Reading. He is a native of Jersey, and had his academical education at Pembroke College, Oxford; where he took the degree of M.A. June 25, 1784, and accumulated those of B. and D.D. January 21, 1792. Dr. Valpy has presided for a long period over Reading School, with the greatest reputation, and he has brought up many eminent scholars who now adorn the church and the world of letters by their virtues and their talents. In the Introduction to his Latin Grammar the Doctor says, that by the improved method which he has there laid down, his scholars made as great a progress in three months as they usually before had done in six. This excellent preceptor, besides Latin and Greek plays performed by his scholars, adapted some of Shakspeare's for their use, and two or three were, we understand, performed for the benefit of a public charity. One of these plays so altered, King John, was brought out, in 1803, at Covent Garden, for the benefit of Mrs. Litchfield, and with such effect that it was often repeated on several theatres. The various publications of Dr. Valpy are:

Poetical Blossoms, or a Collection of Pœms, Odes, and Translations, 4to. 1772.—Elements of the Latin Language, or an Introduction to the Latin Grammar, 12mo. 1782; 11th edit. 1814.—Two Assize Sermons, with Notes and an Appendix, 8vo. 1793.—Poetical Chronology of Ancient and English History, with Notes, 12mo. 1794; 6th edit. 1812.—The Roses, or King Henry VI. of Shakspeare, an historical tragedy, 8vo. 1795; 2nd edit. 1812.—King John, an historical tragedy, altered from Shakspeare, 8vo. 1801.—The Second Part of King Henry IV. altered from Shakspeare, 8vo. 1801.—The Merchant of Venice, altered from Shakspeare, 8vo.—Sermon at the Anniversary Meeting of the Royal Humane Society, 8vo. 1802; 4th edit. 1811.—Pœms, Odes, Prologues, and Epilogues, spoken at Reading School, 8vo. 1804.—Elements of the Greek Grammar, 8vo. 1805; 4th edit. 1814.—Latin Dialogues, collected from the best Writers, 3rd edit. 12mo. 1813.—A New Latin Vocabulary, adapted to the best Latin Grammars, 4th edit. 12mo. 1811.—Delectus Sententiarum et Historiarum, 15th edition, with Explanations and Directions, 12mo. 1815.—Delectus Sententiarum Græcarum, 12mo. 2nd edit. 1814.—First Exercises, to be translated into Latin, with Familiar Explanations, 12mo. 4th edit. 1813.—Sermons on Public Occasions, with Historical, Critical, and Political Notes: with an Appendix containing, 1. The Law of the Twelve Tables respecting Debtors; 2. The Causes which must prevent the Establishment of a Republic in France; 3. The Catholic Question; 4. The Practice of Liberal Piety vindicated; 5. Rivalry of France; 6. The Prophecies relating to the Fall of Rome; 7. The Disposition of the French Government to Peace; 8. Deeds without a Name; 9. Defence of the Country; 10. Insensibility in Suspended Animation; 11. Interests of the Church of England; 2 v. 8vo. 1811.—An Address from a Clergyman to his Parishioners, 3rd edit. 8vo. 1811.—Principia Officiorum, Historiæ et Geographiæ, 2nd edit. 12mo. 1811.—*M. VAN MILDERT, WILLIAM, D.D. Regius Professor of Divinity in the University of Oxford, Rector of St. Mary le Bow, and Preacher to the Honorable Society of Lincoln's Inn. This learned divine is the son of a merchant in London, who was descended from Dutch parents. The son received his education at Merchant Taylor's School, and next at Queen's College, Oxford, where he took his degree of M.A. July 17, 1790. On the death of the Rev. Mr. Griffiths, chaplain to the late Archbishop Moore, he was presented to the rectory of St. Mary le Bow, where he suffered a peculiar hardship in being sued by a qui tam attorney for non-residence; though, as there was no parsonage house in the parish, he could not well reside there. It was proved that he discharged the duties regularly, and that he lived within a convenient distance of the church, notwithstanding which, a verdict was given against him, and that proved the source of many vexations to other worthy clergymen, both in town and country, till an act was passed to put a stop to these iniquitous suits. In 1804, Mr. Van Mildert was appointed to preach the Boyle's Lecture Sermons, which he afterwards published, and these gave such satisfaction, that the Society of Lincoln's Inn chose him for their preacher, on the resignation of Archdeacon Nares; and the present Archbishop of Canterbury, besides giving him a living in Surrey, recommended him as a fit person for the divinity chair at Oxford, on the elevation of Dr. Howley to the see of London. The works of the professor are,

An Historical View of the Rise and Progress of Infidelity, in a series of Sermons preached at Boyle's Lecture, 2 v. 8vo. 1806; 2nd edition, with an Additional Appendix, 1807.—A Sermon preached before the Honorable Society of Lincoln's Inn, on the Occasion of the Assassination of the Rt. Hon. Spencer Perceval, 8vo. 1812.—Sermons preached before the University of Oxford, at the Bampton Lecture, in 1814, 8vo. 1815.

VANSITTART, Rt. Hon. NICHOLAS, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and M.P. for Harwich. He is the son of George Vansittart, Esq. of Bisham Abbey, in Berkshire, by his lady, who was the daughter of the late Rev. Sir James Stonhouse, Bart. Mr. Vansittart was educated at Westminster School, and removed from thence to Christ Church, Oxford, where he went out grand compounder for his master's degree, Jan. 29, 1791. Having displayed great talents as a financier, and possessing also considerable interest, with the reputation of the highest integrity, he was chosen to fill the office of Chancellor of the Exchequer, on the lamented death of Mr. Perceval; and though he has been keenly attacked in his official capacity, all parties have concurred in bearing testimony to his solid abilities, his unremitting application to business, and the urbanity of his temper. The publications of Mr. Vansittart are, Reflections on the Propriety of an Immediate Peace, 8vo. 1793.—Letter to Mr. Pitt, on the Conduct of the Bank Directors, with Observations on Morgan's Pamphlet respecting the National Debt, 8vo. 1795.—An Inquiry into the State of the Finances of Great Britain, 8vo. 1796.—Substance of Two Speeches on the Report of the Bullion Committee, 8vo. 1811.—Three Letters on the British and Foreign Bible Society, 8vo. 1812, recorded in the Pamphleteer, No. 1.—Speech in the House of Commons, Feb. 20, 1815, on the Committee of Ways and Means.—The Budget for 1815. These two Pamphlets were published in the Pamphleteer, No. XI. with revisions and corrections.

VANSITTART, REV. WILLIAM, M.A. of the same family with the preceding, and Rector of White Waltham in Berkshire. He is the author of,

A New Translation of the 49th Psalm, with an Appendix on the Leviathan of Job.—A Sermon before the University of Oxford, 8vo. 1810.—Observations on Select Places of the Old Testament, 8vo. 1812.

VAN VOORST, JOHN.

An Address to the Proprietors of the intended Gas-Light and Coke Company, 8vo. 1809.—Speech delivered before a Meeting of the Proprietors of the Company, 8vo. 1809.—Address to the Legislature, showing the Necessity of rendering the Nation independent of the Powers of the Baltic, 8vo. 1810.

VAUGHAN, WILLIAM, Esq. an eminent West India merchant in the city of London, who has distinguished himself in many patriotic concerns, particularly in the institution of the Society for the Improvement of Naval Architecture, which held its meetings originally at the shop of honest John Sewell, the bookseller, in Cornhill. The papers published by that society, in two volumes, 8vo. 1793, are enriched with several valuable articles from the pen of Mr. Vaughan, who was also an active promoter of the London Docks, and he suggested, as far back as 1791, the plan of a society for collecting information respecting the most remarkable shipwrecks and other disasters at sea, with schemes for the preservation of life and property in such cases. The publications of this gentleman are,

A Treatise on Wet Docks, Quays, and Warehouses, for the Port of London, with Hints respecting Trade, 8vo. 1793.—Plan of the London Docks, with some Observations respecting the River, immediately connected with Docks in general, and the Improvement of Navigation, 8vo. 1794.—Letter to a Friend, on Commerce, Free Ports, and London Docks, 8vo. 1795.—Examination in a Committee of the House of Commons, on the Commerce of the Port of London, and the Accommodation of Shipping, &c. 8vo. 1796.—Reasons in favor of the London Docks, 8vo. 1797.—Answer to Objectious against the London Docks, 8vo. 1797.—A Comparative Statement of the Advantages and Disadvantages of the Docks in Wapping, and the Docks in the Isle of Dogs, with General Remarks on the Advantage of making the Port of London a Great Depot, 8vo. 1799.—Narrative of the Sufferings of Captain Woodard and Four Seamen, who lost their Ship, while in a Boat at Sea, and surrendered themselves to the Malays in the Island of Celebes; with an Introduction and an Appendix, 8vo. 1804; 2nd edit. 1805.

VERNON, the hon. EDWARD VENABLES, Lord Archbishop of York. This most reverend prelate is the younger son of George Venables, Lord Vernon, by his third wife, Martha, sister to Simon, first Earl of Harcourt. He was born in 1757, and educated first at Westminster School, from whence he removed to Christchurch, Oxford, where he took the degree of B.C.L. April 27, 1786, and that of D.C.L. May 4, following, both as grand compounder. In 1784 he married Lady Anne Leveson Gower, sister to the Marquis of Stafford, by whom he has several children. In 1791 Dr. Vernon, being then canon of Christchurch, was consecrated Bishop of Carlisle on the removal of Dr. Douglas to Salisbury, and in 1807 he succeeded Dr. Markham in the See of York. His Grace, in parliament, opposed the petition of the Roman Catholics, as being a claim to political power; and he has printed:

A Sermon preached before the House of Lords, Jan. 30, 1794, 4to.—A Sermon before the Society for Propagating the Gospel in Foreign Parts, 4to. 1799.

VERNON, G. W. barrister at law in Ireland, published, in conjunction with J. B. Scriven:

Andrews' Reports of Cases in the Court of King's Bench, in the 11th and 12th of Geo. II. with an Appendix, 8vo. 1792.

VESEY, FRANCIS, barrister at law, and one of the six clerks in the Court of Chancery:

Reports of Cases argued and determined in the High Court of Chancery, 18 v. roy. 8vo. (Vol. 1. in association with J. Beame, esq.) Index to the same, 1 v. roy. 8vo.—Case upon the Will of the late Peter Thellouss, Esq. 1799, 4to.—Reports of Cases in Chancery, determined during the time of Lord Eldon, beginning with the Sittings before Easter Term, 1801, and ending Easter Term, 1802, 1803, fol.

VEYSIE, DANIEL, B.D. Rector of Plymtree, Devon, and late fellow of Oriel Coll. Oxford, where he took his degree of M.A. June 17, 1778, and that of B.D. July 1, 1788. He is a native of the county where he is beneficed, and recently has had a protracted suit with his parishioners on the tithes, which ultimately came to a decision in his favor in the House of Lords. Mr. Veysie is an able divine, and an elegant classical scholar. His works are:

The Doctrine of St. John, and the Faith of the first Christians, not Unitarian; a Sermon before the University of Oxford, 8vo. 1791.—The Doctrine of the Atonement illustrated and defended, in eight Sermons preached at the Bampton Lecture, 8vo. 1795.—Examination of Mr. Marsh's Hypothesis respecting the Origin of our three first Canonical Gospels, 8vo. 1808.—Preservative against Socinianism, 8vo. 1809.—A Grammatical Dissertation on the Greek Prepositive Article, 8vo. 1810.—A Defence of the Preservative against Unitarianism, in Answer to Lant Carpenter, a preacher of that sect at Exeter, 8vo. 1811.

VICKERS, T. Esq.
Levinz's Reports of Cases in the Court of King's Bench and other Courts, from 12 Car. II. to 8 Will. III. 3d ed. 3 v. 8vo. 1800.

VIDAL, ROBERT STUDLEY, Esq. F.A.S. barrister at law of the Inner Temple. He is a native of Exeter, and resides on his paternal estate in the northern part of Devonshire. Besides some communications in the Archæologia, he has published:

Commentaries on the Affairs of the Christians, from the time of Constantine the Great. Translated from the Latin of Mosheim, 2 v. 8vo. 1813.

VIDLER, WILLIAM, originally a methodist preacher in Wesley's connexion, which he left to become the head of those called Universalists, with whom he is associated at a meeting in Artillery Court, Spital Fields. He is now also a Socinian, and for some time kept a bookseller's shop in High Holborn. He has printed some single sermons, and a posthumous piece of Mr. Winchester, in answer to Paine: also,

Letters to Andrew Fuller on the Universal Restoration, with a Statement of Facts attending that Controversy, 8vo. 1803.

VIGIER, JOHN, teacher of the Spanish, French, and Italian languages.

VINCE, Rev. SAMUEL, M.A. F.R.S. Plumian professor of Astronomy and Experimental Philosophy in Cambridge, and Archdeacon of Bedford. He was originally a member of Caius College, where, in 1775, he obtained one of Smith's prizes as a proficient in mathematics. The same year he was senior wrangler, and took his degree of B.A. after which he became a fellow of Sidney College. In 1796 he was elected Plumian professor, and the lectures, which are wholly experimental, comprise mechanics, hydrostatics, optics, astronomy, magnetism, and electricity. Various machines are exhibited in the course of the lectures, and their construction and uses explained. Mr. Vince has several valuable papers in different volumes of the Philosophical Transactions, and separately he has published the following works:

Elements of the Conic Sections, 8vo. 1781.—A Treatise on Practical Astronomy, 4to. 1790.—Plan of a Course of Lectures on the Principles of Natural Philosophy, 8vo. 1793.—The Principles of Fluxions, 2 v. 8vo. 1795.—The Principles of Hydrostatics, 8vo. 1796; 2d ed. 1800.—A complete System of Astronomy, 2 v. 4to. 1797-1799; new ed. with additions, 3 v. 4to. 1814.—The Credibility of Christianity Vindicated, in Answer to two Objections of Mr. Hume; two Discourses preached before the University of Cambridge, 8vo. 1798; 2d ed. 1809.—The Principles of Astronomy, 8vo. 1799.—A Treatise on Plane and Spherical Trigonometry, with an Introduction, explaining the Nature and Use of Logarithms, 8vo. 1800.—A Confutation of Atheism from the Laws of the Heavenly Bodies, in four Discourses, preached before the University of Cambridge, 8vo. 1806.—Observations on the Hypotheses which have been assumed to account for the cause of Gravitation from Mechanical Principles, 8vo. 1806.—On the Divisions among Christians, a Charge delivered at his first Visitation of the Archdeaconry of Bedford, 8vo. 1811.

VINCE, Rev. SAMUEL BERNEY, B.A. Fellow of King's College, Cambridge. He is the son of the professor, and has published

The Propagation of Christianity not indebted to any Secondary Causes, a Hulsean Prize Essay, 8vo. 1807.

VINCENT, A. private teacher of writing and accounts at Oxford, and the inventor of the British Abacus. He has published an ingenious and useful book on a common subject entitled,

An Introduction to Arithmetic, in which the Method of teaching the Elements of the Science is simplified and particularly adapted to Private Instruction, 8vo. 1815.

VINCENT, Rev. JOHN, B.A. curate of Constantine in Cornwall.

Sermons on Practical Subjects, 8vo. 1815.

VINCENT, L.

New Geographical Exercises, 12mo. 1808.

VINCENT, WILLIAM, D.D. Dean of Westminster. This very learned Divine was born in London, where his father was a respectable dealer in a wholesale trade, Nov. 2, 1739. In 1753 he was admitted a King's scholar of Westminster School, and in 1757 elected to Trinity College, Cambridge, where, in 1761, he took the degree of B.A. and the year following he was appointed Usher of Westminster School. In 1764 he took the degree of M.A. and in 1776 that of Doctor in Divinity. In 1778 he was presented to the united rectories of Allhallows the Great and Less in Thames Street; and about the same time made Chaplain to the King. On the promotion of Dr. Markham to the Archbishopric of York, he appointed his friend, Dr. Vincent, Subalmoner. In 1788 he became head master of Westminster school, but was without any considerable preferment in the Church till the year 1801, when he received from Mr. Addington the acceptable situation of a prebend in the collegiate church of Westminster. On the translation of Bishop Horsley from Rochester to St. Asaph, Dr. Vincent succeeded the learned prelate in the deanery, which was the boundary of his ambition, and where he was content to set up his staff for the remainder of his days. Shortly after this the dean was engaged in a controversy with some of his dignified brethren, occasioned by a very indiscriminate charge which had been brought against our public schools in one or two public sermons. The dean naturally feeling himself affected by the reflections that had been thrown out in these discourses, entered into a warm defence of the seminary over which he had long presided, and he succeeded in convincing every liberal minded person that the accusation of neglecting religious instruction there, was sufficiently repelled. In the late published correspondence of Mr. Gibbon are some admirable letters of the dean, which show his candor and ability in the strongest light. The works of Dr. Vincent are,

A Letter to Dr. Richard Watson, Regius Professor of Divinity at Cambridge, occasioned by his Sermon preached before the University, 8vo. 1780.—A Sermon preached at the yearly meeting of the Charity Children at St. Paul's, 4to. 1784.—Considerations on Parochial Music, 8vo. 1787.—A Sermon at the Anniversary Meeting of the Sons of the Clergy, 4to. 1789.—A Sermon, preached at St. Margaret's, Westminster, for the Grey Coat School of that parish, 8vo. 1792. Of this Sermon above 50,000 were distributed by the Association at the Crown and Anchor.—De Legione Manliana Quæstio, ex Livio desumpta, et rei Militaris Romanæ studiosis proposita, 8vo. 1793.—The Origination of the Greek Verb, 8vo. 1794. This was afterwards altered in the title to the second edition thus, "The Greek Verb analysed," 8vo. 1795.—The Voyage of Nearchus to the Euphrates, collected from the original Journal preserved by Arrian, 4to. 1797.—The Periplus of the Erythrean Sea, part I. containing an Account of the Navigation of the Ancients from the Red Sea to the Coast of Zanguebar, 4to. 1800. Part II. was published in 1805.—A Defence of Public Education, in a Letter to the Lord Bishop of Meath, 8vo. 1802.—A Sermon preached before the House of Commons, on the Day of General Thanksgiving for Peace, 4to. 1802.—The Voyage of Nearchus, and the Periplus of the Erythrean Sea, 3 v. 4to. 1809. Dr. V. is a frequent contributor to the Classical Journal.

VOISON, E. J.

A Key to Chamblaud's Exercises, 12mo. 1802.

VON FEINAGLE, G. a native of Germany, who came to England a few years since for the purpose of lecturing on a discovery he pretended to have made for the improvement of the human mind, by an enlargement of its retentive faculties. In illustration of this discovery he has published a book entitled, The New Art of Memory, 8vo. 1812.

VOWLES, JOHN, Attorney at Law, and one of the Proctors of the Consistorial Court at Bristol. He is the author of An Attempt to show the Nature and Extent of the Oath of Canonical Obedience taken by the beneficed Clergy, 8vo. 1801.

VYSE, CHARLES, formerly master of an academy in Portland Street; and since a private teacher at Vauxhall. He has published several popular and very useful school books.

The Shorter Catechism of Luther in German and English, 12mo. 1810.

WADD, WILLIAM, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons in London. Besides some articles in the Medical Journal, he is the author of a valuable treatise entitled, Observations on the best Mode of relieving Strictures in the Urethra, 8vo. 1811. 2d edit.

WADDINGTON, SAMUEL FERRAND, Esq. is the son of a clergyman who was a fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, and Rector of Tuxford in Northamptonshire. The son was born at Walkeringham in that county in 1759. After receiving an extensive education in a German University he was bred to commerce, and became largely engaged in the hop trade, till he was prosecuted on a charge of illegally raising the price of that article. About the year 1795 he was chairman of the London meetings, the object of which was to petition parliament and the throne for the restoration of peace. Not long after this he was expelled the Surrey Troop of Light Horse, on account of his politics. He resides at present at Southborough near Tunbridge in Kent, but occasionally attends public meetings in London. Besides some anonymous literary essays in various periodical works, he has published,

A Review of Mr. Burke's three Letters on a Regicide Peace, 8vo. 1796.—Letter to the Hon. Thomas Erskine on the Subject of Forestalling Hops, 8vo. 1799.—An Appeal to the British Hop Planters, 8vo. 1800.—The Metaphysics of Man, translated from the German, 8vo. 1805.—The Critical Moment, 8vo. 1805.—Three Letters to that greatest of Political Apostates the Rt. Hon. George Tierney, 8vo. 1806.—A Letter to the Lord Mayor relative to Matters of the highest Importance to a Free People, 8vo. 1810.—The Oriental Exposition, presenting to the United Kingdom an open Trade to India and China, 8vo. 1811.—A Key to the Delicate Investigation, 8vo. 1812. This was published under the name of Esculapius.—An Address to the People of the United Kingdom, under the name of Algernon Sidney, 8vo. 1812.

WAIT, REV. WILLIAM, A.B. late of Edmund Hall, Oxford, and now curate of Maryport Church, Bristol.

The Last Days of a Person who had been one of Thomas Paine's Disciples, 8vo. 1802.

WAITE, REV. THOMAS, M.A.

Vindiciæ Ecclesiasticæ, a Refutation of the Charge that the Church of England does not preach the Gospel, a Sermon preached at Greenwich, 8vo. 1811.

WALTHAM, ROBERT, Common Councilman for the Ward, of Farringdon. He was born at Wrexham in 1765, and having served his apprenticeship to a linen draper, became an assistant in the same business, after which he opened a shop at the corner of Bridge Street, Black Friars, which he has carried on with great success several years. The popularity of Mr. Waltham as a city orator on all political occasions, no doubt contributed very much to his interest in trade; and this induced him at the last general election to offer himself as one of the candidates, to represent the City in parliament. After a sharp contest, however, he failed in his attempt, as he had before done we believe in a similar endeavour in conjunction with a neighbour of his of the same principles at Maidstone. Mr. Waltham married his first cousin, Miss Davis, about the time of his entering into trade on his own account, which was in the year 1787; and this union has been productive of a large family. This gentleman has printed these pamphlets: War proved to be the real Cause of the present Scarcity, and the enormous High Price, of every Article of Consumption, 8vo. 1800.—A Letter to the Governors of Christ's Hospital, being a Refutation of the Injunctives of the Rev. Mr. Warren, 8vo. 1808.

WAKE, REV. WILLIAM ROBERT, Rector of Great Bromley and Vicar of Blackwall.

He was formerly vicar of Bakewell in Somersetshire, where he distinguished himself by the part which he took in supporting the extraordinary case of George Lukins, who pretended to be possessed by dæmons. On this occasion much altercation took place in the Western papers, and some pamphlets were published by Mr. Wake, Mr. Norman, and others, but these are now passed into oblivion. The other publications of this gentleman are; Two Sermons on the Times, 4to. 1793.—A Literal Version of the Psalms into Modern Language, 2 v. 8vo. 1793.—A Letter to the Solicitor General, on a late Trial in the King's Bench, 8vo. 1805.

WAKE, WILLIAM ROWLAND.
Poems on several occasions, 8vo. 1800.

WAKEFIELD, DANIEL, Esq. Barrister at Law. This gentleman is the son of the ingenious Mrs. Priscilla Wakefield, and a few years since formed a very unhappy connexion with a woman who pretended to be a person of great family and fortune; but from whom Mr. Wakefield was under the necessity of obtaining a legal separation by a suit in the Commons. He has published several pamphlets without his name, and is the acknowledged author of those which follow:

A Letter to Thomas Paine, in reply to his Decline and Fall of the English System of Finance, 8vo. 1796.—Observations on the Credit and Finances of Great Britain, in reply to the Earl of Lauderdale and Mr. Morgao, 8vo. 1797.—An Inquiry into the Truth of the two Positions of the French Economists, that Labor employed in Manufactures is unproductive, and that all Taxes ultimately fall on Land, 8vo. 1799.—An Investigation of Mr. Morgan's Comparative View of the Public Finances from the beginning to the close of the late Administration, 8vo. 1801.—A Letter to the Landholders and other Contributors to the Poor's Rates in the Hundred of Dengye, in Essex, 8vo. 1802. He has also some papers in Arthur Young's Annals of Agriculture.

WAKEFIELD, EDWARD, Esq. elder brother of the preceding. He had for some years a large farm in Essex, and was afterwards employed in making a survey of Ireland, in which it is pretty confidently stated by competent judges, that he neither displayed candor nor judgment. The result of his inquiries appeared in An Account of Ireland, Statistical and Political, 2 v. 4to. 1812.

WAKEFIELD, PRISCILLA, mother of the two preceding gentlemen. Her parents were quakers of the Trewman family, allied to the Barclays; but we believe that she is not herself in the society of friends. Mrs. Wakefield, who lives at Tottenham, has been very successful in her efforts to improve the rising generation; and she was also the original promoter of those useful institutions called "Frugality Banks," for the benefit of the industrious poor. The literary performances of this lady are :

Juvenile Anecdotes founded on Facts, 18mo. 1795.—Mental Improvement, 3 v. 18mo. 1797, new edit. 1805.—Leisure Hours, or entertaining Dialogues, 2 v. 12mo. 1796.—An Introduction to Botany, in a Series of Letters, 8vo. 1796. 2d edit. 1798.—Reflections on the present Condition of the Female Sex, with Suggestions for its Improvement, 8vo. 1798.—The Juvenile Travellers, 12mo. 1801.—A Familiar Tour through the British Empire, 12mo. 1804.—Domestic Recreation, or Dialogues illustrative of Natural and Scientific Subjects, 12mo. 1805.—Excursions in North America, 12mo. 1806.—Sketches of Human Manners, delineated in Stories illustrative of the Characters of the Inhabitants of different parts of the World, 12mo. 1807.—Variety, or Selections of Anecdotes and Curious Facts, 12mo. 1809.—Perambulations in London and its Environs, 12mo. 1810.—Instinct Displayed, or Facts exemplifying the Sagacity of various Species of Animals, 12mo. 1811.—The Traveller in Africa, 12mo. 1814.

WALDRON, FRANCIS GODOLPHIN, a Veteran of the stage, who belonged to the Drury Lane establishment in the time of Garrick, by whom he was appointed to the charge of the theatrical fund. Mr. Waldron was for some time manager of the theatres at Windsor and Richmond, with other provincial companies. He was also a bookseller in London, and for some years prompter at the little theatre in the Haymarket. He obtained the materials which Mr. Walley had collected for an edition of Ben Jonson's Works. Mr. Waldron communicated an interesting memoir of Thomas Davies, the bookseller and actor, to Mr. Nichols, who inserted it in his Literary Anecdotes, calling the author "my kind and very intelligent friend." He has published the following pieces:

The Maid of Kent, com. 8vo. 1778.—The Sad Shepherd of Ben Jonson completed, 8vo. 1783.—The King in the Country, a drama, 8vo. 1784.—Literary Museum, or Ancient and Modern Repository, 8vo. 1792.—The Biographical Mirror, published by Harding, 4to. 1793.—Heigho for a Husband, com. 8vo. 1794.—The Prodigal, a dramatic piece, 8vo. 1794.—Free Reflections on the supposed Manuscripts of Shakspeare in the possession of Samuel Ireland, 8vo. 1796.—The Loves of Troilus and Cressida, written by Chaucer, with a commentary by Sir Francis Kynaston, never before published, 8vo. 1796.—The Virgin Queen, a drama, 8vo. 1797.—Shaksperian Miscellany, 4to. 1802. He is also the author of several dramatic pieces which have not been printed.

WALFORD, W.

Lectures on the Evidence and Nature of Christianity, 8vo. 1804.

WALKER, ADAM, lecturer in natural and experimental philosophy. This self-taught genius was born on the banks of Windermere, in the county of Westmorland. His father employed a few hands in the woollen manufacture: and having a large family, he took his son from school before the boy could read a chapter in the bible. The mechanical turn of the youth was not however to be smothered by hard labor. He copied corn mills, paper mills, and fulling mills, the models of which were constructed on a brook near his father's dwelling, to the surprise of passengers. He also borrowed books, and built a house for himself in a bush to read without interruption on Sundays. Thus he went on with such success, that a person, who discovered his extraordinary talents, offered him the ushership of Ledsham School, in the West Riding of Yorkshire. Here he began his career of teaching when he was no more than fifteen years of age, and had frequently to study over night what he had to impart to his pupils the next morning. After continuing three years in that situation, he was chosen writing master and accountant to the free school at Macclesfield, where he resided four years, and perfected himself in mathematics by his own application. At this place he embarked in trade, but failing in his business, he resolved to turn hermit in one of the islands on the lake of Windermere, from which romantic scheme he was diverted by the ridicule of his friends. His next enterprize was that of lecturing on astronomy at Manchester, where he met with a very favorable reception, which enabled him to establish an extensive seminary. This however he relinquished for the purpose of travelling as a lecturer in natural philosophy; and after visiting most of the great towns in the three kingdoms, he visited Dr. Priestley, by whose recommendation he undertook to lecture in the Haymarket in 1778. The encouragement which he experienced in the metropolis induced him to take a house in George Street, Hanover Square, where he read lectures every winter to numerous audiences. He was also engaged by Dr. Barnard, provost of Eton College, to lecture in that seminary; which example was followed by Westminster, Winchester, and other great schools. Among the variety of inventions with which Mr. Walker has amused himself, may be mentioned various engines for raising water; three methods by which ships may be easily pumped at sea; carriages to go by wind and steam; the patent empyreal air stove; the patent celestina harpsichord; the Eidouranion, or transparent orrery; the rotatory lights on the island of Scilly; a boat that works against the stream; another that clears the bottoms of rivers by the stream or tide; a weather gauge which, united to a clock, shows the quantity of rain, the direction and strength of the wind, the height of the barometer, the heat and moisture of the air; an easy method of turning a river into a wet dock; a road mill; a machine for watering land; a dibbling plough, &c. &c. The literary performances of Mr. Walker are,

WALKER, GEORGE, a bookseller, and dealer in music in Great Portland Street. He was born in Falcon Square, Cripplegate, Dec. 24, 1772; and at the age of fifteen went to learn the bookselling business in the shop of Mr. Cuthell, Middle-row, Holborn. Two years afterwards, and with only a few shillings, he set up for himself, and by uninterrupted perseverance succeeded so well as to have two shops in Portland Street, where also he married the daughter of a neighbouring tradesman, with some property. He has written numerous pieces anonymously in the magazines, and other periodical publications, besides which he is the author of the following:

The Romance of the Cavern, 2 v. 12mo. 1792.—Haunted Castle, 2 v. 12mo. 1794.—House of Tyninn, WALKER, JAMES, A.M. late of St. John's College, Cambridge, and a minister of the Scotch episcopal church at Edinburgh. He has published the following works:

Individual Vice the Source of National Calamity, a Fast Sermon, 8vo. 1795.—On the Influence attributed to Philosophers, Free-Masons, and the Illuminati, translated from the French of Monnier, 8vo. 1801.—A Sermon preached at Edinburgh on the General Fast, 8vo. 1804.—The Condition and Duties of a Tolerated Church, a Sermon preached at Dundee at the consecration of the Right Rev. Dr. Daniel Sandford, a Bishop of the Scotch Episcopal Church, 8vo. 1806.—The Motive and Recompense of Duty, a Sermon preached on the death of Bishop Strachan, 8vo. 1810.

WALKER, JAMES. This artist, in conjunction with Mr. John Augustus Atkinson, a painter, visited Russia, where they made numerous drawings, the result of which appeared in a work, entitled:

A Picturesque Representation of the Manners, Customs, and Amusements of the Russians, in 100 colored plates, fol. 1803.

WALKER, J.

On Draining Fens, 8vo. 1812.

WALKER, JOHN, M.D. He was born at Cokermonth, a borough town in Cumberland, in 1759. He adventured to Dublin in 1779, and became a pupil of Esdale, the finest artist in that city in the etching and engraving of figure and landscape: here he embraced the principles of the quakers, laid aside his port-crayon and burin, and commenced teacher of the classics and mathematics. In 1793 he prepared for the publication of the second edition of his Geography, making extensive tours through different provinces of Ireland, throughout England and in Wales. From the heavy duty, in the mean time, laid on books imported from Ireland, he found it necessary to publish in London, and his school passed into the hands of the Rev. John Foster, author of the Moral Essays. He now thought it eligible to adopt medicine as a profession, which his relations had objected to, on its being proposed to them, when he was yet a lad at school, that he should succeed the late Dr. Woodville, in his apprenticeship to a neighbouring apothecary. The lady to whom he was under an engagement of marriage, enabled him to pursue his medical studies at London and Leyden. While he was thus engaged he visited Paris, in the very heat of the war, and there he formed an intimacy with many of the leading political characters of the revolution, as well French as English. He also acted as secretary and interpreter to the society calling themselves Theophilanthropists, of which we believe the notorious Paine was the founder. The manual of belief of this curious sect was translated by our author into English, and sent to London for publication. In 1799 he obtained his doctor's degree at Leyden, on which occasion, as he persisted in wearing his hat, the rector and professors did the same. Shortly after his return to England he gained permission to go to the Mediterranean in a King's ship, with Dr. Marshall, and while there visited the coast of Egypt. When the Royal Jennerian Institution was established in Salisbury Square, he was appointed the resident inoculator, with a handsome salary; but having given some offence to the directors in the mode of his practice, he was dismissed; on which, with the aid of some friends, he established an opposition society in the city, assuming the name of the London Vaccine Institution. His publications, without mentioning the articles which have appeared in the Medical Journal and other periodical works, are these:

The Elements of Geography and of Natural and Civil History, 8vo. 1796.—The Universal Gazetteer.—A Dissertation on the Necessity for Contracting Cavities between the Venous Trunks and the Ventracles of the Heart; on the Use of Venous Sinuses in the Head; on the wonderful provision made for the Transition from the Fœtal to the Breathing State; on Palpitation; on Death; and on Life.—Fragments of Letters and other Papers written during a voyage to the Levant, for the propagation of Vaccination; and during the Campaign in Egypt, under Sir Ralph Abercrombie and General Hutchinson, now Lord Donoughmore. On this occasion he undertook the medical care of the brigade of seamen ashore, after arresting the progress of the small-pox throughout the army and navy, in the expedition, previous to which some had fallen victims to the deleterious disease. He is also the author of various essays in different periodical publications; and of Rodiments of Science, under the three general heads of Words, Things, and Affairs, printed, in part, but not yet published.

WALKER, JOSIAH, A.M.

Monody on John Thurlow, Esq. 4to. 1782.—Ode addressed to the Society of Universal Goodwill, 4to. 1785.—The Defence of Order, a poem, 8vo. 2d ed. 1803.

Lit. Cal.

WALKER, MAYNARD CHAMBERLAIN, a barrister at Dublin, and nearly related to Mr. Sheridan. He has printed:

WALKER, RALPH. He is the son of a farmer, and was born near Stirling, in Scotland. From 1768 to 1783 he followed a seafaring life, and then settled as a planter at Jamaica, where his attention was turned to the improvement of the Mariner's compass, for which he was liberally rewarded by the board of longitude in 1793. Having presented a plan for the projected wet docks, in 1796, it was so highly approved that Mr. Walker was appointed the engineer to superintend their construction, and he has since been extensively engaged in similar undertakings. His publications are these: On Magnetism, with a description and explanation of the Meridional and Azimuth Compass, 8vo. 1794.—A Treatise on the Magnet, with Tables of the Variation of the Needle for all Latitudes and Longitudes, 8vo. 1798.

WALKER, THOMAS, formerly a merchant at Manchester, who engaged so deeply in the political intrigues which agitated the public at the commencement of the French revolution, as to bring upon himself a prosecution, after which he emigrated to America. He has written: A Review of some of the Political Events which have occurred in Manchester, 8vo. 1794.

WALKER, THOMAS, portrait painter at Hull, and the author of these works: Treatise on the Art of Flying by Mechanical Means alone, 8vo. 1810.—Essays on Natural History and Rural Economy, 8vo. 1812.—Economic History of the Hebrides and Highlands of Scotland, 2 v. 8vo. 1812.

WALKER, WILLIAM, lecturer on astronomy, and the son of Mr. Adam Walker. He was born at Kendal, in Westmoreland, in 1766; educated first at York, and afterwards at Eton; but at the age of sixteen he commenced lecturer on the Eidouranion, or transparent orrery, invented by his father. He has some articles in Young's Annals of Agriculture and Nicholson's Philosophical Journal; besides which he has printed:

An Epitome of Astronomy, with the New Discoveries, 8vo. 1798.

WALKER, W. S. a scholar of Eton College, who was born in 1797, and at the age of sixteen published:

Gustavus Vasa, and other Poems, 8vo. 1813.

WALL, MARTIN, M.D. physician, and reader in chemistry at Oxford. He is the son of Dr. John Wall, formerly an eminent practitioner at Worcester, and celebrated both as a painter and physician. The son was bred at New College, Oxford, where he proceeded M.A. July 2, 1771; M.B. June 9, 1773; and M.D. April 9, 1777. He has published:

The Medical Tracts of Dr. John Wall, collected, with the Author's Life, 8vo. 1780.—Dissertations on Select Subjects in Chemistry and Medicine, 8vo. 1783.—Clinical Observations on the Use of Opium in Slow Fevers, 8vo. 1786.—Malvern Waters, being a republication of Cases formerly collected by John Wall, M.D. and since illustrated with Notes by his Son, 8vo. 1806.—He has also some curious papers in the Transactions of the Manchester Literary Society.

WALLACE, JOHN, Esq. This gentleman, who is the son of John Wallace, Esq. of Golden Square, went to India some years ago, and has returned from thence with a handsome fortune. He is the author of these dramatic pieces: Cefina, a play, 8vo.—Merchant of Guadaloupe, a play, 8vo. 1802.

WALLACE, Lady, a native of Scotland, and the daughter of Sir William Maxwell, Bart. whose other daughter was the late Duchess of Gordon. The present lady married Sir James Wallace, a captain in the royal navy, from whom she obtained a divorce, on account of ill usage. Her ladyship then went abroad, and contracted an intimacy with the noted General Dumourier. She has published, A Letter to a Friend, with a poem, called the Ghost of Werter, 4to. 1787.—Diamond cut Diamond, a comedy, 8vo. 1787.—Itha Tou, com. 8vo. 1788.—The Whim, com. 8vo. 1795.—The Conduct of the King of Prussia and General Dumourier investigated, 8vo. 1793.—A Supplement to the last mentioned Tract, 8vo. 1794.—An Address to the People on Peace and Reform, 8vo. 1798.

WARD, ROBERT, Esq. barrister at law, clerk of the ordnance, and M.P. for Haslemere. He is a native of Hampshire, and was educated first at Westminster School, and next at Christ Church, Oxford. On leaving the university he travelled over part of the continent, and at his return became a student of the Inner Temple, where he was called to the bar in 1795. He went for some time on the northern circuit, but afterwards confined his practice chiefly to the Court of Appeals. In 1802 he was elected into parliament for Cokermonth, and became an advocate of Mr. Pitt. In 1805 he quitted the bar to become under secretary of state in the foreign department. The next year he went out of administration on the death of Mr. Pitt, but returned again to office in 1807, at which time he was returned to parliament for Haslemere. He also was made one of the Lords of the Admiralty, which place he exchanged in 1811 for the clerkship of the ordnance. He married the fourth daughter of Mr. Maling of the county of Durham, and sister of the Countess of Mulgrave. The works of this gentleman are:

An Inquiry into the History and Foundation of the Law of Nations in Europe, from the times of the Greeks and Romans to the Age of Grotius, 2 v. 8vo. 1795.—Treatise on the relative Rights and Duties of Belligerent and Neutral Powers in Maritime Affairs, 8vo. 1801.—An Essay on Contraband, 8vo. 1801.—An Inquiry into the Modes in which the different Wars of Europe have commenced, with the Authorities stated, 8vo.—The manuscript of this last work was submitted to the inspection of Mr. Pitt, from whose hand it received some corrections.

WARDLE, GWYLLYM LLOYD, Esq. a native of North Wales, formerly a Colonel of the Welsh Fusiliers, with whom he served in Ireland during the rebellion in that kingdom. Afterwards he got into Parliament for the borough of Okehampton, and distinguished himself by his exertions against the Duke of York, in such a manner as to excite no small clamor in the nation; and to gain a little short-lived popularity for himself. By degrees the whole business faded away from the public mind, and the principal agent sunk into obscurity. The Colonel has since employed himself a little more usefully, in farming concerns, near Tunbridge. He appears to be the author of,

A Letter to Lord Ellenborough on his Charge to the Jury, on the Trial of Wardle versus F. and D. Wright and M. A. Clarke, 8vo. 1809.

WARDROP, JAMES, F.R.S. Edinburgh; Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, and one of the surgeons to the Public Dispensary in that city. Besides various articles in the Medical Journal, he has published the following:

WARING, EDWARD SCOTT, Esq. of the Bengal civil establishment.

A Tour to Sheeraz, 4to. 1807.

WARINO, JOHN SCOTT, Esq. formerly Major Scott, in the East India service, and a Member of Parliament, where he distinguished himself greatly as the advocate of Mr. Hastings, with whom he had contracted an entire friendship abroad, and who appointed him his agent at the time that Mr. now Sir Philip Francis began to make his attacks upon the character of the governor general and his administration. Mr. Scott Waring is a native of North Britain, and nearly related to the noble family of Buccleugh. He entered, at an early period of life, into the India service, and manifested there equal skill and bravery. About the year 1781 he returned with a moderate fortune and married Miss Hughes, a celebrated actress, but who retired from the stage on succeeding to an estate. This lady died in a very melancholy manner, at the beginning of 1812, by falling down stairs at her house in Hammersmith. When found in the morning she was quite dead, and is supposed to have missed her footing and so to have been precipitated down the steps backwards. This gallant veteran has since expressed his admiration of theatrical females by uniting himself to the celebrated Mrs. Estlin. The publications of the Major are as follows:

Short Review of the Transactions in Bengal during the last Ten Years, 8vo. 1782; a second edition of this tract appeared in 1784, with this title, Narrative of the Transactions in Bengal during the Administration of Mr. Hastings, 8vo.—Two Letters to the Rt. Hon. WARNER, Miss, daughter of the last mentioned gentleman. She has published a novel entitled, Herbert Lodge, 3 v. 12mo. 1810.

WARREN, CAROLINE MATILDA;

Conrade, or the Gamblers, a nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1806.

WARREN, Rev. DAWSON, M.A. Vicar of Edmonton, and formerly of Trinity College, Oxford, where he took his master's degree in 1799. This gentleman was made the object of a virulent attack some years ago, on account of his having a son in the school of Christ's Hospital, which occasioned so much contest in the Court of Common Council that the youth was dismissed. Mr. Warren has published, The Parish Priest, a poem, translated from the Latin of Benton, 4to. 1800.—Letter to William Mellish, Esq. on a late Dispute in the Parish of Edmonton, and on the alleged Abuses in Christ's Hospital, 8vo. 1808.

WARREN, E.

The Poet's Day, or Imagination's Ramble, 8vo. 1804.

WARREN, Sir JOHN BORLASE, Bart. K.B. and Admiral of the Blue. He is descended from a very ancient family which was originally settled in Cornwall, and a branch of which removed to Great Marlow in Buckinghamshire, where they had estates. On the death of Sir John Borlase, Bart. in 1688, his lands came to an only daughter, Anne, married to Arthur Warren, Esq. of Stapleford in Nottinghamshire, by whom he had issue Borlase Warren, whose grandson is the subject of the present article. He was born at the family seat, in 1754, and at an early age was placed under the Rev. Mr. Princeps, at Bicester in Oxfordshire, from whose instruction he was removed to Winchester School, but happening to go down one day in summer to the sea side, he entered as a volunteer in a king's ship. When his friends heard of this adventure, they procured him an appointment as a midshipman on board the Alderney sloop, commanded by Captain O'Hara. After spending some time in the North Sea, young Warren returned to England and became a pupil of Professor Martyn, at Taplow near Cambridge. He was next admitted as a gentleman commoner of Emmanuel College under the same gentleman, and in 1776 he took the degree of M.A. After this he made a tour on the continent, and when he returned to England, made a purchase of the island of Lundy, in the Bristol Channel, with the romantic view of colonizing that spot. This project, however, quickly terminated, and having sold his new settlement, he obtained a seat in Parliament for the borough of Great Marlow, which place he twice represented. About this period he was created a Baronet, and served for some time with Lord Howe, in America. In 1779 he was made master and commander of a sloop of war, and about a year afterwards received his commission as Post Captain, being appointed to the Ariadne of twenty guns, from which ship he was soon removed to L'Aigle of forty four. At this period he married one of the daughters of General Clavering. When the French revolution broke out he obtained the command of the Flora, in which ship he hoisted his broad pendant as Commodore of a flying squadron employed in the Channel to annoy the enemy. He afterwards did the same on board La Pomone, a fine French frigate which he had captured. While on this service he was engaged in assisting the unfortunate royalists of La Vendée; but the rebellion breaking out in Ireland, he was dispatched for the purpose of intercepting any supplies or reinforcements which might be sent to the insurgents from France. On this occasion Sir John succeeded, Oct. 11, 1798, in defeating a fleet of the enemy, and capturing the Hoche, a ship of the line, with three frigates full of troops and stores. For this important service he received a vote of thanks from both Houses of Parliament. On the next promotion he was made a Rear Admiral of the Blue, and hoisted his flag on board the Temeraire, with which ship he joined the Channel fleet. In 1801 he was detached to the Mediterranean, but the peace which happened shortly after, prevented the Admiral from distinguishing himself on that station. We find him next filling the high office of ambassador to the court of Russia, where he was much occupied in negotiations relative to Malta. When hostilities broke out with America, Sir John was appointed to command on that station, where, however, he was superseded by Admiral Cochrane; since which he has retired to private life. He has published, though without his name, a useful volume with this title, A View of the Naval Force of Great Britain; in which its Present State; Growth and Conversion of Timber; Constructions of Ships, Docks, and Harbours; Regulations of Officers and Men, in each Department; are considered and compared with other European Powers, 8vo. 1791.

WARREN, THOMAS ALSTON, B.D. Fellow of St. John's College, Oxford, lecturer of Dunstable, and curate of Flamstead and Kenworth in Hertfordshire. He is the son of the late eminent physician, Dr. Richard Warren, and the author of, An Address to the Public, on the Subject of the Vaccine Inoculation, 8vo. 1803.—Beneficence, addressed to the Society for bettering the Condition of the Poor, 4to. 1803.—A Sermon preached on the Thanksgiving Day, 8vo. 1805.

WARRINGTON, REV. GEORGE. De Salkeld, or the Knight of the White Rose, a poetical tale, 4to. 1811.

WARRINGTON, REV. WILLIAM, Chaplain to the Earl of Besborough.

The History of Wales, 4to. 1786; 2nd edit. 2 v. 8vo.

WARWICK, REV. THOMAS, LL.B. of University College, Oxford, where he took his degree, Jan. 27, 1779. Besides many fugitive sonnets and other poems in the European Magazine, he has published, The Rights of Sovereignty asserted, an ode, 4to. 1777.—Edwy, a dramatic poem, 8vo. 1784.—Abelard to Eloisa, an epistle, with Sonnets and a Rhapsody, 4to. 1784; 2nd edit. 1785.

WASHBOURN, REV. DANIEL.

A Commentary on the Book of Ecclesiastes, by Bishop Reynolds, revised and corrected, 8vo. 1811.

WASTELL, WILLIAM.

A West Wind, or off for London, a musical farce, 8vo. 1812.

WATERS, EDWARD PYE, A.B. Curate of Great Barr, Staffordshire.

Sermons on Various Subjects, 8vo. 1800.

WATERS, E. Esq. one of the proprietors of the Opera House, between whom, and the rest of that concern, there has been an endless succession of legal disputes, to the no small vexation of the Lord Chancellor, and the emolument of the lawyers. He has published, The Opera Glass, or a Narrative of the Proceedings respecting the King's Theatre, 8vo. 1808.

WATERS, WILLIAM.

The Expeditious Calculator, or the Merchant, Owner, Sea Captain, and Mate's Assistant, 8vo. 1795.

WATHEN, JAMES, Esq. a gentleman of property in Herefordshire, who possesses a fine taste for the arts, particularly in landscape drawing, to indulge which he has travelled over most parts of the British Islands. He next projected a tour on the continent, but the war rendering that scheme inconvenient, he undertook a voyage to the East Indies, solely for the purpose of delineating the scenery of that extensive continent. The result of this enterprize as illustrated by his pencil has appeared, with a promise of a continuation, in

The Journal of a Voyage to Madras and China, &c. 1814.

WATKINS, Capt. FREDERICK, of the Royal Navy. This gallant officer was First Lieutenant of the Blanche frigate, in the action fought with the La Pique in the West Indies, when the brave Captain Faulkner was killed Jan. 4, 1795. On this occasion Mr. W. displayed so much bravery and coolness in the command of the ship, and the capture of the enemy, as to be made Post. He is the author of a work entitled,

The Young Naval Hero; or Hints to Parents and Guardians on educating and preparing Young Gentlemen for his Majesty's Navy, 8vo. 1809.

WATKINS, HENRY GEORGE, M.A. Rector of the united parishes of St. Swithin and St. Mary Rothaw, Cannon Street; and Lecturer of St. Dunstan in the West. This gentleman is the son of an auctioneer in Holborn, and was originally intended for the same profession, but preferring the ecclesiastical pulpit, he was sent to Edmund Hall, Oxford, where he took his master's degree in 1794. Being of the Calvinistical persuasion, he succeeded Mr. Romaine in the lectureship of St. Dunstan's, and some years afterwards obtained the living, which he now holds by the presentation of his father. He has published,

A Sermon on the Jubilee, preached in the Church of St. Swithin, London Stowe, 8vo. 1809.

WATKINS, JOHN, LL.D. This gentleman is a native of Devonshire, and had his education at Bristol, with a view to the ministry among the Protestant dissenters; but, at the same time with his friend the ingenious Mr. Samuel Badcock, he conformed to the Church of England, and for some years kept an academy in his native county. He has published many pieces anonymously, and the following are his avowed productions, Essay towards a History of Bideford, in the County of Devon, 8vo. 1792. Of this work only a limited number of copies was printed for the accommodation of some friends.—A Letter to Earl Stanhope, in which the Necessity of the War is stated, and the Conduct of Great Britain and her Allies vindicated, 8vo. 1794.—A Collection of Essays, Moral, Biographical, and Literary, inscribed to Mrs. Hannah More, 8vo. 1796.—A Word of Admonition to Mr. Gilbert Wakefield, occasioned by his Letter to William Wilberforce, Esq. 8vo. 1797.—The Universal Biographical and Historical Dictionary, 8vo. 1800; 3rd edit. 1806.—Scripture Biography, 12mo. 1801; 2nd edit. 8vo. 1809; 3rd. edit. 1812.—Characteristic Anecdotes of Men of Learning and Genius, 8vo. 1808.—The History of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ harmonized, royal 8vo. 1810.—Boydell's Illustrious Heads from the Reign of Queen Elizabeth to William the Third, with Biographical Memoirs, folio, 1812.—The Family Instructor, or a Regular Course of Scriptural Readings for every Day in the Year, 3 v. 12mo. 1814.—Dr. Watkins was the Editor of the Orthodox Churchman's Magazine till its termination, and he has been a constant contributor to the New Monthly Magazine. We understand that he has also been long engaged on a very extensive and elaborate History of the Bible with Notes and Dissertations, which is now drawing to a conclusion.

WATKINS, THOMAS, M.A. F.R.S. He is a clergyman of considerable landed property at Brecknock, in South Wales. He was formerly a member of Christ Church, Oxford, where he took his master's degree in 1780. He has published, Travels through Switzerland, Italy, Sicily, and the Greek Islands, to Constantinople, through Part of Greece, Ragusa, and the Dalmatian Isles, 2 v. 8vo. 1792.

WATKINS, Misses, of Stoke Lake in Somersetshire.

WATSON, JOSEPH, LL.D. Master of the School for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, at Bermondsey. On the arrival of the Abbé Sicard lately in the metropolis, a correspondence took place between Dr. Watson and that able Professor, with regard to the conduct of the English seminary; the event of which was highly creditable to both parties, and such as reflected honor on the management of our own Institution. Dr. W. has published, Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, or a View of the Means by which they are taught to understand and speak a Language, 2 v. 8vo. 1810.

WATSON, Right Rev. RICHARD, D.D. F.R.S. Lord Bishop of Landaff, Archdeacon of Ely, Rector of Knappstoft in Leicestershire, Regius Professor of Divinity in the University of Cambridge, and Trustee of the Hunterian Museum. This venerable prelate was born in August, 1737, at Heversham, five miles from Kendal, in Westmoreland, where his father, who was a clergyman, had the mastership of the Grammar School. The son received his entire education at home till he arrived at a proper age to remove to the University of Cambridge, where he was entered, in 1754, of Trinity College. In 1759 he took the degree of B.A. being second wrangler; that of M.A. in 1762; at which time he was fellow of his college; two years afterwards he was appointed Professor of Chemistry, and in 1771 created D.D. by royal mandate, being the same year unanimously chosen Regius Professor of Divinity, with the rectory of Somersham, in Huntingdonshire, annexed. Being admitted a Fellow of the Royal Society, he enriched the volumes of that learned body with many valuable communications, most of which he afterwards incorporated in his Chemical Essays. In 1774, he was presented to a Prebend in the Church of Ely, and in 1780 succeeded Dr. Plumtre as Archdeacon of that diocese. The same year he was presented to the rectory of Northwold in Norfolk, and having the good fortune to become tutor to the late Duke of Rutland, his patron first gave him the valuable rectory of Knaptoft in Leicestershire, and next exerted his interest for his advancement to the bishopric of Landaff. He was consecrated in 1782, and soon after attracted attention by a letter to the Archbishop of Canterbury, on an equalization of the church revenues. In 1786 another of his pupils, Mr. Luther, of Ongar in Essex, bequeathed to him a legacy of 20,000*l*. At the time of the King's illness in 1789, Bishop Watson advocated the unqualified right of the Prince of Wales to assume the regency, which, with some other political doctrines occasionally advanced by him in the American War, and during the French Revolution, had the effect, it is supposed, of impeding his translation to a better bishopric. His Lordship is an admirable preacher, and the writer of this well remembers the delight with which he heard him plead for the Humane Society on two occasions; one in 1791, at St. Martin's in the Fields; and the next time, in 1797, at St. Bride's Church in Fleet Street. Neither of these discourses has been printed. The Bishop has greatly cultivated his estate of Calgarth Park in Westmoreland, where he has planted a prodigious number of trees, with such success as to gain him a premium of the Society for the encouragement of Arts, Manufactures, and Commerce. He has a numerous family; and his friendship has been sought by many distinguished personages of various countries. His publications are,

Institutiones Metallurgicæ, 8vo. 1768.—An Assize Sermon preached at Cambridge, 4to. 1769.—An Essay on the Subjects of Chemistry and their General Divisions, 8vo. 1771.—Two Sermons preached at Cambridge, one on the 29th of May, and the other on the Anniversary of his Majesty's Accession, 4to. 1776.—An Apology for Christianity, in a Series of Letters to Edward Gibbon, Esq. 12mo. 1776. This has been several times reprinted.—A Sermon before the University of Cambridge, on the Fast Day, 4to. 1780.—A Discourse delivered to the Clergy of the Archdeaconry of Ely, 4to. 1780.—Chemical Essays, 2 v. 12mo. 1781. These were succeeded by three more volumes; and the whole collection has been since frequently reprinted.—A Letter to Archbishop Cornwallis on the Church Revenues, 4to. 1783.—A Sermon before the Lords, in Westminster Abbey, on the 30th of January, 4to. 1784.—Visitation Articles for the Diocese of Landaff, 4to. 1784.—Collection of Theological Tracts selected from Various Authors for the Use of the Younger Students in the University, 6 v. 8vo. 1785.—The Wisdom and Goodness of God in having made both Rich and Poor, a Sermon, 4to. 1785; 2nd edit. 1793.—Sermons on Public Occasions, and Tracts on Religious Subjects, 8vo. 1788.—Address to Young Persons after Confirmation, 12mo. 1789.—Considerations on the Expediency of revising the Liturgy and Articles of the Church of England, 8vo. 1790. WATT, JAMES, F.R.S. and Engineer at Birmingham. Mr. Watt is a native of Glasgow, where he was born about the year 1737. Having finished his grammatical studies and laid in a stock of useful elementary knowledge, he was apprenticed to what is called in the north an instrument maker, whose business consists in making and repairing the various machines and articles used in different professions, as music, surveying, navigation, &c. After serving three years he came to London, and worked some time with a mathematical instrument maker; but having contracted a complaint by sitting in winter at the door of the workshop, he went down to his native country where he set up for himself. While he was thus employed, the professor of natural philosophy in the University of Glasgow engaged him in repairing the old model of a steam engine which by length of time had grown out of use. The artist in the course of his labor, was much struck with the contrivance, but he soon perceived defects which prevented it from being of more general advantage. From that instant he devoted himself to the improvement of this machine, particularly with regard to the saving of heat in the production and condensation of steam. By repeated observations he found that near four times the quantity of steam was wasted in comparison of that which actually worked the machine. He therefore endeavoured to diminish this waste, and after many trials he completely succeeded. This was about the year 1763, at which period he married a lady of Glasgow, without any property, by whom he had two children, which obliged him to lay aside his speculations; till Dr. Roebuck, a gentleman of science and property, joined him in his schemes; but their means were not adequate to their objects. In this situation, Mr. Boulton fortunately becoming acquainted with Mr. Watt, instantly made him an offer of partnership which was accepted, and Dr. Roebuck being reimbursed for what he had expended, Mr. Watt removed with his family to Birmingham, where he has ever since been employed in the most extensive concerns, and in the sale of his engines, for which a patent was obtained, and an act of parliament to prolong its duration. Mr. Watt is also the author of many other inventions, particularly of the copying machine, by the help of which, what has taken a person several hours to write, may be transcribed in a few seconds. Soon after his settlement in Birmingham, having lost his wife, he married Miss M'Gregor, of Glasgow. Though a man of profound science and incessant activity, he is represented as being a lively companion, and very fond of reading novels and romances. Mr. Watt has some communications in the Philosophical Transactions, the Philosophical Magazine, and the Memoirs of the Manchester Society. He is also the author of these separate works,

Description of a Pneumatic Apparatus, with Directions for procuring the Factitious Airs, 2d edit. 8vo. 1795.—Considerations on the Medicinal Use of Factitious Airs, and on the Manner of obtaining them, two parts, 8vo. 1795.

WELLESLEY, Rt. Hon. RICHARD, MARQUIS, K.G. This distinguished nobleman is the eldest son of Francis, the second Lord, and first Earl of Morington, by the Hon. Anne Hill, eldest daughter of Arthur, first Viscount Dungannon. The Marquis was born June 20, 1760, and at the age of fourteen sent to Eton, where he is said to have been the rival of the present Earl Grey, in a house of commons consisting of Schoolboys. From thence he removed to Oxford, and in 1784 he succeeded to the family honors and estates on the demise of his father. He was at this time elected into parliament for Windsor, and on the creation of the order of St. Patrick, he was appointed one of the knights companions of that order. He displayed great ability as a speaker in the senate on the ministerial side of the house, and particularly at the commencement of the French Revolution, which procured him the appointment of Governor General of India, where his administration was splendid and energetic to such a degree as to draw upon him no small portion of envy with some threats of impeachment, which were never carried into effect. In truth his government was productive of so many important and beneficial results to the parent state and the company that the enemies of his Lordship felt ashamed of their hostility, and relinquished their attacks. In 1797 he was created a British peer by the title of Baron Wellesley, of Wellesley in the county of Somerset, and in 1799 Marquis Wellesley, of Norragh in the kingdom of Ireland. At the beginning of the war in the peninsula he was sent on a special mission to that country, where he materially contributed to the assembling of the Cortes and the organization of the military force. He was for some time secretary of state in the foreign department, but relinquished that situation about the time of the settlement of the Regency, since which he has led a retired life. The Marquis married in 1794 Hyacinthe Gabrielle Roland, by whom he has several children. There have appeared under his Lordship's name the following pieces :

Substance of a Speech in the House of Commons on a Motion for an Address to his Majesty at the Commencement of the Sessions of Parliament, Jan. 21, 8vo. 1794.—Notes relative to the Peace concluded between the British Government and the Mahratta Chieftains, 4to. 1804.—Letter to the Government of Fort St. George relative to the new form of Internal Government established there, 8vo. 1812.—Letter to the Directors of the East India Company on the Trade of India, 8vo. 1812.

WESLEY, Rev. S.

Tales instructive and entertaining, 12mo. 1812.

WEST, BENJAMIN, Esq. President of the Royal Academy. He was born at Springfield in Chester county, Pennsylvania, Oct. 10th; 1738. His ancestors, who were quakers, emigrated from England with the celebrated legislator of Pennsylvania, and Mr. John West, the father of the artist who was of the same persuasion, went over to America where the other branches of his family had settled. He married a relation in that country, by whom he had ten children, the youngest of whom was Benjamin. This youth discovered a strong propensity to painting at a very early age, and though that profession is not encouraged by the principles of the society in which he was bred, his friends indulged his inclination so much that before he was twenty he had executed many historical pictures and portraits in various parts of his native country. In 1760 he left Philadelphia for Leghorn where he procured letters of recommendation to many persons of the highest distinction at Rome, by virtue of which he formed an intimacy with Mengs, Batteni and other artists of the first character in that city. After spending some time in the ancient capital of the world, he returned to Leghorn, and proceeded from thence to Florence, where he pursued his studies in the galleries of that place with such unwearied ardor as considerably injured his health. Having completed his tour of Italy, he came to London through France, and after visiting several places in England was about to return to America, when by the advice of Reynolds and Wilson, the two greatest painters of their day, he was induced to alter his resolution and to remain in this country. He had before his departure from Philadelphia formed an attachment to a Miss Shewell, who being apprized of his resolution to settle in England, came over with the father of her lover, and the young couple were married in London in 1764. The year following Mr. West was chosen a member and one of the directors of the society of artists, which three years afterwards became incorporated with the Royal Academy, in the formation of which Mr. West had a principal concern. It was about this time that he had the honor of being particularly noticed by his Majesty, to whom he was introduced by Dr. Druummond, Archbishop of York. On this occasion the King gave him a commission to paint for him the picture of Regulus, which was the first piece exhibited by Mr. West on the opening of the Royal Academy in 1769. From that period his exertions have been unparalleled in the extent and variety of his productions; as there has not been one exhibition without some distinguishing specimen of his genius. His merits as a painter, however, and the description of his professional performances cannot here be distinctly stated, as not falling within our peculiar plan; and more especially as they will form a very prominent and interesting article in the Dictionary of Living Artists now in a state of forwardness for the press. During the short interval of peace after the treaty of Amiens, Mr. West visited Paris for the purpose of inspecting the works of art, and when his design was made known to his Majesty directions were given to accommodate him with letters of recommendation to our ministers there, and the high authorities of that country. At Paris he received many flattering marks of distinction, and all places containing works of art were ordered to be opened to him for his observation. Nor have the honors which he has received in England been sparing; for in 1772 he was appointed historical painter to his Majesty; and in 1790 surveyor of the royal pictures. In 1791 he was elected president of the royal academy, and the same year he was chosen a member of the society of Dilettanti. In 1792 he was chosen a member of the society of Antiquaries, and in 1801 a governor of the Foundling Hospital. In 1804 he became a member of the Royal Institution. Abroad he has been chosen a member of the academy of Florence; a member of the National Institute at Paris, and also of the Philosophical Society of Philadelphia. He is besides a member of the society established at Boston for the encouragement of arts and sciences; and of the academy of arts at New York. At the close of a long and active life devoted uniformly to the higher branch of art, which he has cultivated in a manner that will be equally glorious to himself and his royal patron, Mr. West produced the largest picture ever exhibited, and one which displays the most vigorous powers of conception and execution. This is the great painting of our Saviour presented to the view of the people by Pilate; and which followed the truly admirable one of Christ healing the sick. In the present year, we are concerned to say that this incomparable artist and truly amiable man had the misfortune of losing his wife, to whom he had been married above fifty years. Mr. West has written two excellent letters on the advantages of sculpture to painting, which are inserted in Lord Elgin's Memorandum of his Pursuits in Greece; and besides these, he is the author of

A Discourse delivered to the Students of the Royal Academy at the Distribution of Prizes; and a Speech at the Anniversary Meeting, 4to. 1793. We believe that he has also printed but not published, an Address to the Sovereign on the State and Advancement of the Fine Arts in England.

WEST, JANE, the wife of a farmer in Northamptonshire; who has, notwithstanding the narrowness of her education and the variety of her occupations at the head of a numerous family, found time to cultivate her genius and to produce several works which have justly experienced a very favorable reception from the public. These publications are, Miscellaneous Poems, 4to. 1786.—Edmund, a tragedy, 8vo. 1791.—A Gossip's Story, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1796.—Elegy on the Death of the Rt. Hon. Edmund Burke, 4to. 1797.—A Tale of the Times, 3 v. 12mo. 1799.—Poems and Plays, 2 v. 12mo. 1799.—The Advantages of Education, 2 v. 12mo.—Letters to a Young Man on his First Entrance into Life, 3 v. 12mo. 1801.—The Infidel Father, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1802.—Poems and Plays, vols. 3 and 4, 12mo. 1805.—Letters to a Young Lady, wherein the Duties and Characters of Women are considered, 2 v. 12mo. 1806.—The Mother, a poem, fc. 8vo. 1809.—The Refusal, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1810.—The Loyalists, a historical novel, 3 v. 12mo. 1812.

WEST, Rev. MATTHEW, Vicar of Clare in Ireland. This gentleman, who was educated at Trinity College, Dublin, is the author of three plays which possess considerable poetical merit, though they do not appear to have been represented. The last on the history of Charlotte Cordéy, who assassinated Marat, is a pathetic performance. The titles of the plays are as follows:

Ethelinda, trag. 12mo. 1796.—Pizarro, trag. 12mo. 1799.—Female Heroism, trag. 8vo. 1803.

WEST, WILLIAM.

Observations and Reflections on what is styled Catholic Emancipation, 8vo. 1812.

WESTALL, RICHARD, Esq. R.A. This gentleman, of whom a more detailed account will appear in the Dictionary of Living Artists, is a native of Reepham in Norfolk, and was intended for the law, but relinquished that profession to follow his natural propensity to the study of the fine arts. He has succeeded eminently in the several branches of portrait, conversation and history; nor has he neglected literary pursuits as will be seen from these publications,

A Day in Spring, and other poems, 8vo. 1808.—Illustrations of the Lady of the Lake, 4to. 1811.—Illustrations of Cowper's Poems, 8vo. 1811.—Illustrations of the Common Prayer, 8vo. 1814.—Illustrations of the Bible, fol. 1815.

WESTALL, WILLIAM, brother of the preceding artist, and himself very eminent as a landscape painter, in which capacity he was engaged to accompany Captain Flinders on his voyage of discovery. During that important, but ill-fated expedition, Mr. Westall drew many beautiful views, some of which have been engraved at the expense of the Admiralty for the illustration of the narrative of that voyage. Afterwards Mr. Westall made some other voyages with the intention of improving his general acquaintance with the beauties of nature, but to the detriment of his health.

He has published with appropriate descriptions,

A Series of Views of Scenery in Madeira, the Cape of Good Hope, the East Indies, St. Helena and Jamaica, fol. 1811—1814.

WESTERN, CHARLES, Esq. M.P. for Essex. This patriotic gentleman who possesses large landed property in the county which he represents, has distinguished himself by his speeches on several great constitutional questions. He has also printed,

A Letter to his Constituents on the Corn Trade, 8vo. 1815.

WESTON, ANNA MARIA.

Pleasure and Pain, nov. 3v. 12mo. 1814.

WESTON, CHARLES, of Kensington.

Remarks on the Poor Laws, and on the State of the Poor, 8vo. 1802.

WESTON, ROBERT HARCOURT, Esq.

Letters and Documents relative to Edystone Lighthouse, 4to. 1811.

WESTON, STEPHEN, B.D. F.R.S. F.S.A. Rector of Little Hempston, and of Mamhead in Devonshire. This elegant scholar and profound divine who has been happily characterized by George Steevens as "the classic Weston," is the grandson of Dr. Stephen Weston, formerly Bishop of Exeter. He was born in Devonshire, and after receiving a grammatical education at Tiverton school, removed to Exeter College, Oxford, where he obtained a fellowship, took his degree of M.A. Nov. 14, 1770; and that of B.D. May 2, 1782. Mr. Weston has contributed much valuable aid to many literary concerns of high consequence, particularly Bowyer's Conjectures on the New Testament, and he has also published several anonymous pieces of great merit; besides which have appeared from his pen the following works, Hermesiana sive Conjecturae in Athenæum, 8vo. 1784.—A Sermon on Isaiah xiv. 18-20, in which it has been endeavoured to preserve the genuine sense and original meaning of the Prophet, in an exact and literal translation, 4to. 1786.—An Attempt to translate and explain the difficult passages in the Story of Deborah, 4to. 1788.—Letters from Paris, 2 v. 8vo. 1793.—Elegia Grayiana Græcè, 4to. 1794.—Conjectures, with some Comments and Illustrations of various Passages in the New Testament, particularly the Gospel of St. Matthew, 4to. 1795.—A Fast Sermon, 4to. 1799.—A Specimen of the Conformity of the European Languages particularly the English, with the Oriental Languages especially the Persian, in the order of the Alphabet, 8vo. 1802.—Q. Horatius Flaccus cum locis quibusdam à Græcis Scriptoribus collatis, quæ Critici in Commentariis suis nondum Animadverterunt, 8vo. 1805.—Arabic Aphorisms, with Persian Comment, 8vo. 1805.—Fragments of Oriental Literature, with an outline of a Painting on a Curious China Vase, 8vo. 1807.—Supplement to the German Grammar, 8vo. 1808.—The Turtle Dove, a poem, 8vo. 1808.—The Sunday Lessons for the Morning and Evening Service throughout the Year, 12mo. 1808, 1809.—Kien Lung, a Chinese poem 4to. 1809.—Conquest of the Miaotse, engraved from the original Chinese poem, 4to. 1810.—Remains of Arabic in the Spanish and Portuguese, 8vo. 1810.—Persian and English Ambassadors, with 15 new Persian Tales, and a portrait of Sir Robert Shirley, 4to. 1812.—Specimen of a Chinese Dictionary, with the Keys explained, 4to. 1812.—Persian Distichs, or Florilegium Persicum, 8vo. 1814.—Episodes from the Shah Nameh, or Annals of the Persian Kings, 8vo. 1815. Mr. Weston is also the author of "Crachepe in the Shades," the "Tears of the Booksellers on the death of Dr. Gossett," and an occasional contributor to the Classical Journal.

WEWITZER, RALPH, a comic performer at Drury Lane Theatre, was born in London of Swiss parents, and bred a jeweller. His sister being an actress and a singer, he was induced to make his first appearance at Covent Garden for her benefit. His performance was in the character of Ralph in the "Maid of the Mill," which he performed with so much arch humor as to obtain an instant engagement. In the parts of Frenchmen and Jews he has been unrivalled, and he was the original Israelite in the Young Quaker. He continued at Covent Garden till 1789, when he undertook the management of the Royalty Theatre, though without adding to his profit or fame by that connexion. He next procured an engagement at Drury Lane and occasionally performed at other places. He has produced a play entitled "The Gnome," which was never printed, and he is also the author of

The Magic Cavern, a drama, 8vo. 1785.—The Royal Pedigree of his Majesty George III. from Egbert, 8vo. 1812.—School for Wits, a New Jest Book, 12mo. 1814.

WEYLAND, JOHN, Esq. one of his Majesty's justices of the peace for the counties of Oxford, Berks and Surry. He had a principal concern in the establishment of the British Review of which he was for some time the reputed editor, and he has published:

A short Inquiry into the Policy, Humanity and Effect of the Poor Laws, 8vo. 1807.—Observations on Mr. Whitbread's Poor Bill, and on the Population of England, 8vo. 1807.—The Hon. Robert Boyle's Occasional Reflections, with a Preface, 8vo. 1808.—A Letter to a Country Gentleman on the Education of the Lower Orders, 8vo. 1808.—A Letter to Sir Hugh Inglis, late Chairman of the East India Company on the State of Religion in India, with Suggestions for its Improvement, 8vo. 1813.

WHALLEY, THOMAS SEDGEWICK, D.D. a beneficed clergyman of considerable fortune at Mendip in the county of Somerset, but who has disposed of his seat and gone to live in France.

Edwy and Edilda, a tale, 8vo. 1779. 2d edit. with plates, 1794.—The Fatal Kiss, a poem, written in the last stage of an atrophy, by a beautiful young lady, 4to. 1781.—Verses addressed to Mrs. Siddons, 4to. 1782.—Mont Blanc, a poem, 4to. 1788.—The Castle of Montval, trag. 8vo. 1781. 2d edit. 1799.—Poems and Translations, 8vo.—Kennet and Fenelia, a legendary tale, 8vo. 1809.

WHARTON, RICHARD, Esq. M.P. F.R.S. Barrister at Law, and joint Secretary of the Treasury. This respectable gentleman, who is descended of a very ancient family in the north of England, has published, Observations on the Authenticity of Bruca's Travels in Abyssinia, 4to. 1800.—Fables from the Italian Poets, 2 v. 8vo. 1805.—Remarks on the Jacobinical Tendency of the Edinburgh Review, 8vo. 1809.—Ronscevalles, a poem, 4to. 1812.

WHATELY, G. N. Esq.

Hints for the Improvement of the Irish Fisheries, 8vo. 1803.—Remarks on some Characters in Shakspeare, 12mo. 1811.

WHATELY, THOMAS, Esq. Member of the Royal College of Surgeons in London, and distinguished for his skill in treating strictures of the urethra with the diseases of the bladder. He has published, Practical Observations on the Cure of Wounds and Ulcers on the Legs, without Rest, 8vo. 1799.—Practical Observations on the Cure of the Gonorrhœa Virulenta in Men, 8vo. 1801.—Observations on Mr. Hume's Treatment of Strictures in the Urethra, 8vo. 1801.—An Improved Method of treating Strictures of the Urethra, 8vo. 1804; 2nd edit. 1805.—Cases of Two Extraordinary Polypi removed from the Nose, 8vo. 1805.—Description of the Treatment of an Affection of the Tibia, produced by Fever, 8vo. 1810.—Observations on Necrosis of the Tibia, 8vo. 1815.

WILBERFORCE, WILLIAM, Esq. M.P. and Director of the Sierra Leone Company. This friend of the human race was born in 1759, at Hull, of which town his grandfather was twice mayor. By the death of Mr. Wilberforce's father, while he was very young, the care of his education devolved on his mother, who placed him under the Rev. Mr. Pockington, and afterwards in the grammar school superintended by the exemplary Joseph Milner. About the year 1775, he was entered at St. John's College, Cambridge, and while at the university he contracted a close friendship with the late Mr. Pitt, and the present Dean of Carlisle. On coming of age, he was chosen one of the representatives for his native town, and at the general election he was returned for that place, and also for the county of York, when he made his option for the latter. In 1787 he brought forward a motion for the abolition of the slave trade, in consequence of which a vast number of petitions appeared in favor of that measure from all parts of the kingdom. The next year Mr. Pitt, in the name of his friend Mr. Wilberforce, who was at that time ill, submitted some resolutions on the subject to the house; but the business was delayed till the following session, when the propositions were supported by Wilberforce; Pitt, Burke, and Fox: and the question carried without a division. Still the great work was not yet completed, and our great philanthropist had to contend with many formidable interests in the progress of his benevolent object. By repeated discussions, however, the traffic became moderated, and the condition of the slaves in our colonies was considerably improved. At length, however, the consummation of this triumph of humanity was effected by parliament; and there is reason to hope that the example which this nation has set will operate on all the other states of Europe, as well as America. But the generous efforts of this excellent man have not been confined to one description of his fellow creatures, for every charity in the empire, and every subscription for the relief of the distressed, have been aided by his purse, and recommended by his eloquence. In the great contest for the county of York, carried on by the families of Fitzwilliam and Lascelles, Mr. Wilberforce was put to a considerable expense, but on that occasion he had the satisfaction of seeing how much he was beloved, not only in his native county, but in every part of the kingdom. Though he was successful in that instance, he deemed it prudent to retire at the next election, since which he has sat for Bramber in Sussex. About the year 1797, Mr. Wilberforce married Miss Spooner, the daughter, of an opulent merchant at Birmingham, with whom he obtained a handsome fortune. The publications of this worthy man are as follows :

Speech in the House of Commons, on the Abolition of the Slave Trade, 8vo. 1789.—A Practical View of the Prevailing Religious System of Professed Christians in the Higher and Middle Classes of this Country, contrasted with Real Christianity, 8vo. 1797; 9th edit. 1812.—An Apology for the Christian Sabbath, 8vo. 1799.—A Letter on the Abolition of the Slave Trade, 8vo. 1807.—Substance of his Speeches on the Bill for promoting the Religious Instruction of the Natives of British India, 8vo. 1813.

WILD, JAMES, son of the late prompter of Covent Garden Theatre, and the author of these dramatic pieces :

Doubt and Conviction, a farce, 12mo. 1804.—Fidelity and Hypocrisy, 12mo. 1804.—From Ima to Ima, an opera, 12mo. 1804.—Twenty one, an operatic after-piece, altered from the French of Duval, 12mo. 1804.—Wives, after-piece, 12mo. 1804.—Dramas from the French, adapted to the English Stage, 12mo. 1805. He is also supposed to be the translator of a comic opera, entitled Une Folie, 8vo. 1803.

WILDE, JOHN, Esq. F.R.S. and Professor of Civil Law in the University of Edinburgh. He is the son of a tradesman at Edinburgh, and was brought up at the High School, under Dr. Adam, after which he became a student in the University, and lastly was admitted an advocate of the Scottish bar, where his genius and eloquence presaged his attainment of the highest honors. But unfortunately his professional and literary career was closed by a sudden mental derangement which becoming incurable he was confined in a private receptacle for lunatics. Out of respect, however, to his talents, he was still suffered to retain nominally his professorship of civil law, and Mr. Irving, the acting lecturer, is obliged to allow him half the salary. Before his misfortune came upon him, Mr. Wilde published,

An Address to the lately-formed Society of the Friends of the People, 8vo. 1793.—Sequel to the Address, 8vo. 1797.—Preliminary Lecture on the Institutions of Justinian; together with an Introductory Discourse, 8vo. 1794.

WILKINS, CHARLES, LL.D. F.R.S. and librarian to the East India Company at their house in Leadenhall Street. This gentleman was for many years resident in Bengal, as senior merchant in the Company's service, and while there, he distinguished himself not only by studying the Sanscrit and other languages, but by his exertions in typography. Of this, a curious account is given in a letter from Mr. George Perry to Mr. Nichols, the printer, in a Letter dated at Calcutta, Oct. 1, 1783 "Soon after my arrival here, in 1782, I had the pleasure of seeing our old school-fellow Gladwin, whom I found busily engaged in his translation of the 'Ayeen Akbery, or the Institutes of the Emperor Akber,' of which he had published a specimen at London, in 4to. 1777; printed by W. Richardson. The work complete is now in the press of Mr. Wilkins here, and the first volume (as it will consist of three) nearly finished. Mr. Wilkins is the gentleman in whose hands typography has made a rapid progress: some years ago, when in the interior parts of the country, and in the midst of thickets, with no assistance but of a people hardly civilized, he made every tool necessary to forming the punches and matrices, and casting a complete fount of Bengal characters so currently united as not to leave their junctions visible but on very minute examination; as you may see in Mr. Halhed's Bengal Grammar, at Elmsley's. He has since that formed a very correct and beautiful fount of Persian Talik characters, in which the contrivances and divisions in exactly imitating the writing in the same space are truly admirable; and intends, when his present avocations will permit, to cast a complete set of Shanscrit characters, in order to print a grammar of that recondite language, which he has composed. Such typographical merit as this gentleman's should surely be known whilst he is living, and secured from oblivion when the world is unfortunate enough to lose him: on which account I have long been solicitous to obtain from him the dates of his transactions in the typographical labors he has performed, as proper to be inserted amongst the Fasti Typographici which several ingenious persons have favored the public with, particularly your late History of Printing." The Dr. is a member of the Asiatic Society, whose volumes he has enriched with many valuable papers; besides which he has published as follows:

The Bhagvat Geeta, or the Dialogues of Kreashna and Arjoon, with Notes, 4to. 1785.—The Hectopades of Veeshno Sarma, in a series of connected Fables from an Ancient Manuscript in Sanscrit, with Notes, 8vo. 1787.—The Story of Dooshwanta and Sacontala, translated from the Sanscrit, 12mo. 1795.—A Grammar of the Sanscrit Language, 4to. 1808.—Richardson's English, Persian, and Arabic, Dictionary, a new edition improved, 2 v. 4to.

Lines addressed to Mrs. Hay Drummond, on the Singular Circumstance attending the Interment of her First Child, 8vo. 1811.

WILKINS, WILLIAM, M.A. F.R.S. late Fellow of Gonvill and Caius College, Cambridge. He is a native of Norfolk, and on quitting college, where he was high among the wranglers in 1800, he went upon his travels into Greece, which he surveyed with classical taste and scientific accuracy. He has published, The Antiquities of Magna Græcia, fol. 1807.—The Civil Architecture of Vitruvius, part I. 4to. 1813.

WILKINSON, CHARLES.

An Epitome of the History of the Islands of Malta and Gozo, 8vo. 1804.—A Tour through Asia Minor and the Greek Islands, 8vo. 1806.—An Account of the Navigation and Commerce of the Black Sea, 8vo. 1807.—A General Historical and Topographical Description of Mount Caucasus; translated from the German, 2 v. 8vo. 1807.

WILKINSON, CHARLES HENRY, surgeon and lecturer on experimental philosophy at St. Bartholomew's Hospital. He is the author of,

Essays Physiological and Philosophical on the Distortion of the Spine, the Motive Powers of Animals, the Fallacy of the Senses, and the Properties of Matter, 8vo. 1798.—Essay on the Leyden Phial, with a view of explaining this remarkable phenomenon on pure mechanical principles, 8vo. 1798.—A New Method of Curing Gonorrhæa, 8vo. 1802.—An Essay on Medical Electricity, 8vo. 1799.—An Analysis of a Course of Lectures on Experimental Philosophy, 8vo. 1799.—Elements of Galvanism in Theory and Practice, 2 v. 8vo. 1804.

WILKINSON, GEORGE, a surgeon at Newcastle on Tyne, who has published some papers in the London Medical Journal, and separately a volume entitled, Experiments and Observations on the Cortex Salicis Latifolia, or Broad-leaved Willow Bark, 8vo. 1804.

WILKINSON, REV. H. W. M.A. curate of Sudbury.

WILKINSON, THOMAS, M.A. Rector of Great Houghton in Northamptonshire, and the author of these works;

Harmonia Apostolica, or the Mutual Agreement of St. Paul and St. James, translated from the Latio of Bishop Bull, 8vo. 1801.—Milner's Ecclesiastical History Reviewed, in a Sermon preached at the Visitation of the Archdeacon of Northampton, 8vo. 1805.

WILKS, MARK, a Norfolk farmer and Methodist preacher at Norwich, who has distinguished himself by his eccentricities in politics no less than in religion, being a violent republican, and in the early part of the French revolution an active conventionalist amongst the English reformers, as they called themselves. He has printed the following tracts:

The Origin and Stability of the French Revolution, a Sermon, 8vo. 1791.—Athaliah, or the Tocsin sounded, two sermons preached for collecting money to defray the expenses of the defendants in the late trials for high treason, 8vo. 1795.

WILKS, LIEUT. COLONEL MARK, governor of St. Helena, and for many years in the civil and military service of the East India Company, in Bengal, where he arrived in 1783; and in 1790 resigned his situation at Madras to join the army under General Stuart. He was afterwards military and private secretary to Lord Clive, governor of Madras; and in 1804 political resident at the Court of Mysore. He has published, Historical Sketches of the South of India, 2 v. 4to. 1810.

WILKS, MATTHEW, a Methodistical preacher at Tottenham Court Chapel, and brother to Mark Wilks of Norwich. These persons were converted by the celebrated Whitfield, after which they became very zealous itinerants in the propagation of Calvinism. Mr. Matthew Wilks married and settled in Bethnal Green, where to his other professions he established a wholesale stationery business, for the purpose of supplying the societies with which he was connected, paper for printing their magazines, journals, and other religious productions. By these means, and others of a similar description, he has managed to realize a very handsome fortune. The Evangelical Magazine in particular, which was set up by a bookseller in Fleet Street, at his own charge, was drawn out of his hands and made the property of this gentleman and his partners to their no little advantage, considering the large numbers which are sold of that immaculate publication. Besides his communications to this and other periodical works, Mr. Wilks has printed,

A Sermon preached at the General Meeting of the Missionary Society, 8vo. 1812.

WILKS, REV. SAMUEL CHARLES, A.B. of St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, and curate of Norton-Malloreward and Chewstoke in Somersetshire.

An Essay on the Signs of Conversion and Unconversion in Ministers of the Church, to which the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge in the Diocese of St. David's adjudged their premium in 1811, 8vo. 1814.—The Divine Claims on British Gratitude, a Sermon preached in consequence of the late abundant harvest and various military successes, 8vo. 1814.

WILL, Rev. P. minister of the German Lutheran Chapel in the Savoy. He has translated several novels and other works from his native language, and among the rest,

The Spirit of the Times, from the German of Arndt, 12mo. 1808.

WILLIAMS, CHARLES VERULAM.

The Life and Administration of the Rt. Hon. Spencer Perceval, 12mo. 1812.—The Depositions on the Investigation of the Conduct of the Princess of Wales, 8vo. 1813.

WILLIAMS, CONSTANTINE.

The Campaign in Egypt, a poem, 8vo. 1811.

WILLIAMS, DAVID; born in Glamorganshire, and educated at a seminary in Carmarthen appropriated to the purpose of training up youths to the dissenting ministry. His first appearance in that character was at Frome in Somersetshire, from whence he removed to take the charge of the Meeting at Exeter where Peirce and Hallett had officiated. Here he attempted to introduce a reformed liturgy, as it was called, which for a little while rendered him popular; but the levity of the preacher and some supposed deviations from that line of conduct which ought to mark the Christian pastor, occasioned his dismissal and he was obliged to quit the West of England abruptly. He then settled in London, and, for a little time, acted as minister to a small congregation at Highgate; but as his principles were rather free, he soon broke off his connexion with the dissenters, and commenced a new plan of education, which promised wonders and ended in nothing. This scheme, however, he carried on for some time at Chelsea, and had Dr. Franklin for a lodger, with whom he concerted the plan of establishing a deistical congregation. The project, on being matured, was brought out with great parade at a chapel in Margaret Street, Cavendish Square; and among others who contributed towards the support of this attempt to undermine Christianity the great Frederick of Prussia was mentioned. For some time the novelty attracted great notice, and many persons of distinction attended the lectures, but infidelity itself affords few charms for the public, and certainly is ill calculated for popular instruction, so that it is no wonder the chapel was soon deserted, and this minister of the religion of nature left to exert his wits in some other calling. At the breaking out of the French revolution our author was honored with the approbation of the botchers who were busily employed in the manufacture of constitutions; and he was actually invited over by them to assist them in their labors. Mr. Williams, however, had more good sense and liberality than to encourage the desperate leaders in the troubles of that country in their ferocious designs; and he had even the courage to oppose them, for which he was denounced as a royalist. On this he returned to England, and soon after was employed by Mr. Bowyer to write a continuation of the History of England from the Revolution, but the manner in which he performed this service giving just offence he was dismissed. The best performance of Mr. Williams was that of establishing the Literary Fund, for which he has been rewarded by a provision out of the funds of that institution, and a residence in the house. His publications are:

Letter to Mr. Garrick on his Conduct as a Manager and Performer, 8vo. 1770.—Essays on Public Worship, Patriotism, and Projects of Reformation, 12mo. 1773.—An Appendix to the Essays, 12mo. 1774.—Sermons upon Religious Hypocrisy, 2 v. 8vo. 1774.—A Treatise on Education, 12mo. 1774.—The Philosopher, consisting of Three Polemical Conversations, with Dedications to Lord Mansfield and Bishop Warburton, 8vo.—Liturgy on the Universal Principles of Religion and Morality, 8vo. 1776.—Letter to the Protestant Dissenters upon the Impropriety of the Political Conduct of their Body, 8vo.—The Nature and Extent of Intellectual Liberty, in a Letter to George Saville, Esq. 8vo. 1779.—Apology for professing the Religion of Nature, 8vo.—Lectures on the Universal Principles and Duties of Religion and Morality, 2 v. 4to. 1779.—Letters on Political Liberty, 8vo. 1782.—Letters concerning Education, 8vo. 1785.—Royal Recollections, 11th ed. 8vo. 1788.—Lectures on Political Principles, 8vo. 1789.—Lectures on Education, 3 x. 8vo. 1789.—A Plan of Association on Constitutional Principles, 8vo.—Lessons to a Young Prince, 8vo.—The History of Monmouthshire, illustrated by Views taken by the Rev. WILLIAMS, HELEN MARIA, a lady who has figured very considerably during the revolution in France, where she has resided almost from the very beginning of its troubles. In 1779 she resided at Berwick, but not long afterwards came to London, under the patronage of Dr. Kippis, who first introduced her to the world as a writer, when she was about eighteen years old. The success of her first poem encouraged her to pursue the literary career in a variety of ways; but that in which she was most eminently successful, was in the character of a novelist. Two volumes of her poems were published by subscription and produced her a considerable sum, which enabled her to visit France about the year 1788. The reception she experienced in that country induced her to leave her own entirely in the turbulent era of 1791, and she has continued to reside at Paris ever since. During the reign of Robespierre, she was for some time confined in the Temple; but when the tyrant fell, she obtained her release, and resumed her literary and political course, having the noted Mr. Stone for her friend and protector. Though a violent republican, this woman could stoop to eulogize the late usurper of France; and, to her eternal disgrace, she undertook the employment of editing the Correspondence of Louis XVI. accompanying all the letters with the basest calumnies, and the most brutal observations. The following is a list of her publications:

Edwin and Elfrida, a legendary tale in verse, 4to. 1782.—Ode on the Peace, 4to. 1783.—Pern, a poem, 4to. 1784.—A Collection of Miscellaneous Poems, including the preceding pieces, 2 v. 12mo. 1786.—Poem on the Slave Trade, 4to. 1788.—Julia, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1790.—Letters written in France in the Summer of 1790, to a Friend in England, 8vo. 1790; 2d edit. in 2 v. 1792.—A Farewell, for two years, to England, a poem, 4to. 1791.—Letters, containing a Sketch of the Politics of France, 4 v. 8vo. 1796.—Paul and Virginia, translated from the French of St. Pierre, 12mo. 1796.—A Tour in Switzerland, with Comparative Sketches of the Present State of Paris, 2 v. 8vo. 1798.—Sketches of the State of Manners and Opinions in the French Republic, in a series of letters, 2 v. 8vo. 1800.—Poems, Moral, Elegant, and Pathetic, selected from various Authors, 12mo. 1796.—The Political and Confidential Correspondence of Louis XVI. with Observations on each Letter, 3 v. 8vo. 1803.—The Personal Travels of M. de Humboldt to the Equinoctial Regions of the New Continent, 4 v. 8vo. 1814.

WILLIAMS, Rev. JOHN, M.A. Rector of Nantmel in Radnorshire, and master of Ystradmeirig School.

Nautical Odes, 4to. 1800.—A Dissertation on the Pelagian Heresy, which obtained the prize given by the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge in the Diocese of St. David's, 8vo. 1808.

WILLIAMS, JOHN, Esq.

The Climate of Great Britain, or Remarks on the Changes which it has undergone, 8vo. 1806.

WILLIAMS, JOHN, Esq. of the Inner Temple, and editor of the Mercantile Quarterly Magazine.

The Laws of Trade and Commerce, designed as a Book of Reference in Mercantile Transactions, 8vo. 1812.

WILLIAMS, JOHN, a literary aspirant of the lowest description, who would have done well in keeping always concealed under his assumed name of ANTHONY PASQUIN, but as he hath frequently published under his real denomination, we must give him a place from necessity. He was born in the metropolis and had his education at Merchant Taylor's School, where he suffered chastisement for an epigram upon Mr. Knox, the third master. At the age of seventeen, he was placed with a painter, but quitted that profession to commence author and translator. When he was no more than eighteen, he wrote a defence of Garrick against Dr. Kenrick, which procured him the friendship of the British Roscius. About two years afterwards, he went to Ireland, and during his residence in Dublin, he edited several periodical publications; but having attacked the government during the administration of the Duke of Rutland, a prosecution was commenced against him, and he was obliged to decamp, leaving the printers to endure the judgment. In 1784, he was associated with Mr. Bate Dudley in conducting the Morning Herald, but a violent quarrel breaking out between them, Williams wrote an intemperate satire on his antagonist for which he was prosecuted. The action, however, terminated by the interference of some friends. In 1787, Williams accompanied his friend Pilon to France, and on his return commenced a paper called "The Brighton Guide." He next settled at Bath, from which place he was also under the necessity of withdrawing precipitately; and in 1797, we find him in the court of King's Bench, as plaintiff in an action against Faulder the bookseller, for a libel contained in Mr. Gifford's poem, entitled "The Baviad," where, in one of the notes, the author speaking of this scribbler, observes, that "he was one so lost to every sense of decency and shame, that his acquaintance was infamy, and his touch poison." In this cause the plaintiff was nonsuited, solely from the proof that was exhibited of his having himself grossly libelled every respectable character in the kingdom, from the sovereign down to the lowest of his subjects. Some time ago this man was engaged as a theatrical reporter in one of our newspapers; but happening to write a critique on a celebrated actor, who, in fact, did not perform at all on the night when he was described as having murdered his part, the calumniator was dismissed. His publications, as far as we think them worth enumerating, are as follow:

The Royal Academicians, a Farce, 8vo. 1786.—The Tears of Ierne, a Poem, on the Death of the late Duke of Rutland, 4to. 1787.—The Children of Thespis, a Dramatic Satire, 8vo. —Poems by Anthony Pasquin, 2 v. small 8vo. 1789.—Shrove Tuesday, a Satiric Rhapsody, 8vo. 1791.—A Treatise on the Game of Cribbage, 8vo. 1791.—The Life of the Earl of Barrymore, 8vo. 1793.—A Crying Epistle from Britannia to Colonel Mack, 8vo. 1794.—A Critique on the Exhibition of the Royal Academy, 8vo. 1794.—A Critical Guide to the Exhibition of the Royal Academy, for 1796, 8vo.—History of the Professors of Painting in Ireland, 8vo. 1796.—The New Brighton Guide, 8vo. 1796.—The Pic Basket to the Children of Thespis, a Satire, with Notes, Biographical, Critical, and Explanatory, 4to. 1797.—A Touchstone to the Present Exhibition, 8vo. 1797.—A Critical Guide to the Present Exhibition, 8vo. 1797.—A Looking Glass for the Royal Family, with Documents for British Ladies, and all Foreigners residing in London, 8vo. 1797.—The Dramatic Censor, to be continued monthly, 8vo. 1811.

WILSON, ALEXANDER PHILLIP, M.D. F.R.S. Edinburgh, physician at Worcester. He is a native of Scotland, and received his education at Edinburgh, where he was admitted a member of the College of Physicians. His works are these:

An Inquiry into the Remote Cause of Urinary Gravel, 8vo. 1792.—An Experimental Essay on the Manner in which Opium acts on the Living Body, 8vo. 1796.—A Treatise on Febrile Diseases, 3 v. 8vo. 1802.—A fourth volume was added to this work in 1804.—An Analysis of the Malverto Waters, 8vo. 1806.—Observations on the Use and Abuse of Mercury, 8vo. 1806.—An Essay on the Nature of Fever, 8vo. 1807; 3d edit. 1813.

WILSON, DANIEL, M.A. This gentleman, who ranks among the Calvinistic clergymen of the church of England, called by themselves evangelical, is the son of Thomas Wilson, Esq. of Hackney, an eminent dissenter, and the great patron of Homerton academy. This son, however, was educated at St. Edmund Hall, Oxford, a seminary famous in the history of methodism, ever since the expulsion of the six students, which proceeding did not, it seems, clear the soil, as that house has continued to furnish an ample supply of gospel preachers from that period to the present day. Mr. Wilson was ordained on the curacy of Chobham, in Surry, of which his friend, the late Mr. Cecil was rector; and when that gentleman's infirmities incapacitated him for public duty, Mr. Wilson purchased his chapel in Bedford Row, where he still officiates. He has been for some years vice-principal of Edmund Hall. His publications are:

Obedience the Path to Religious Knowledge, a Sermon preached before the University of Oxford, 8vo. 1810.—The Blessedness of the Christian in Death, two Funeral Sermons on Mr. Cecil, 8vo. 1810.—Substance of a Conversation with John Bellingham, the day previous to his Execution, 8vo. 1812.

WILSON, GAVIN, a journeyman boot-maker of Edinburgh, who styles himself poet laureat to the lodge of St. David in that city. He has published:

A Collection of Masonic Songs, 12mo. 1738.—The Convention, a Poem, in three Cantos.—The Whipman Play, another Poem, in three Cantos, with various other Pieces and Songs, 12mo. 1812.

WILSON, GLOUCESTER, Esq. F.R.S. and one of the Commissioners of His Majesty's Customs.

Defence of Abstract Currencies, in reply to the Bullion Report of Mr. Huskisson, 8vo. 1811.—Farther Defence of Abstract Currencies, 8vo. 1812.

WILSON, Rev. HARRY BRISTOW, B.D. curate and lecturer of St. Michael's Bas-ishaw, lecturer of the united parishes of St. Anthony and St. John the Baptist, and second master of Merchant Taylor's school, where he was educated, after which he removed to Lincoln College, Oxford, and took his degree of M.A. in 1799. He has published:

A Letter to Lord Grenville on the repeated publication of his Letter to the Secretary of the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, 8vo. 1807.—Sermons on various Subjects, 8vo. 1808.—Two Sermons on the Death of Children, 8vo. 1810.—The History of Merchant Taylor's School, from its foundation to the present time, 4to. 1815.

WILSON, HORACE HAYMAN, assistant surgeon in the service of the East India Company, and secretary to the Asiatic Society at Calcutta. During his residence in the East, Mr. Wilson, without neglecting his professional duties, has applied, with uncommon assiduity, to the study of the Sanscrit language, the Persian, and various Asiatic dialects. A specimen of his diligence appeared from the Calcutta press in the translation of a poem, written in Sanscrit by Calidasa, the author of Sacontala. Of this work, and the translator, the late Lord Minto, in a discourse delivered at the public disputation in the college of Fort William delivered his judgment in the following words: "This work of Calidasa, which, we are to believe, may claim nine centuries of antiquity, and which some refer to still earlier ages, unfolded now for the first time to such distant generations as our own, displays that uniformity in the character and genius of our race, which seems to unite at once the most remote regions of time and space, and which it always gratifies the human mind to discern, through the superficial varieties in which some slight difference of external or even intellectual fashions may disguise it.

In Calidasa we find poetical design, a poetical perception, and thence poetical description of Nature in all her forms moral and material, poetical imagery, poetical invention, just and natural feeling, with all the finer and keener sensibility of the human heart. In these great immutable features we recognize in Calidasa the fellow and kinsman of the great masters of ancient and modern poesy; familiar to us, but with whom he never communicated; we acknowledge genius, taste and judgment in his work, equalled no doubt, but not always surpassed by the most admired authors whom we are accustomed to read in their own languages.

The excellence of Mr. Wilson's version, regarding it only as an English work, lifts him far above the humble though useful rank of translator. I have had occasion before, in another translation from the Sanscrit, I believe not published, to remark both his powers and taste in the construction of English verse, which, in his hands, singularly unites smoothness, harmony and force. His translations are not more grateful to the ear than to the mind. His poetical organs seem to seize on the poetry of his author, and make it his own. We feel in a word, that his translations can only be written by a poet." The work on which this praise was bestowed was printed at Calcutta in royal 4to. and on being imported here was republished with this title:

The Mégha Dûta, or Cloud Messenger, a poem written in the Sanscrit Language, and translated into English verse with notes and illustrations, 8vo. 1814.

WILSON, JAMES, D.D. minister of Falkirk.

A Defence of Public or Social Worship, 8vo. 1792.—The History of Egypt from the earliest accounts of that Country to the Expulsion of the French in 1801, 3 v. 8vo. 1805.

WILSON, JAMES, Captain in the royal marine service.

The Soldier's Friend and Traveller's Vade Mecum, 8vo. 1799.

WILSON, J. a surgeon in Piccadilly who has published:

A familiar Treatise on Cutaneous Diseases, 8vo. 1813.—This tract, however, appears to be simply an abstract of Dr. Willan's elaborate work.

WILSON, JOHN, late of Magdalen College, Oxford, and now resident on his estate near the lake of Winandermere. While at Oxford he obtained a prize given by the late Sir Roger Newdgate to junior members of that university, for the best poem on this subject:

Recommendation of the Study of Ancient Architecture, Sculpture, and Painting, 12mo. 1806.—He has since published "The Isle of Palms, and other poems," 8vo. 1812.

To your Tents; an Address to the Volunteers, 8vo. 1806.

WILSON, RICHARD, Esq. a magistrate for the county of Tyrone, and some years ago member of parliament for the borough of Barnstaple in Devonshire. He was bred to the bar, and practised some time in the court of Chancery; but some disputes, and a separation from his wife, who was the daughter of the late Lord Rodney, occasioned his retirement to Ireland, where he now resides. He has printed:

A Letter to Lord Loughborough on the Subject of his Bill of Divorce, 8vo. 1798.—Correspondence with the Rt. Hon. William Elliot, and the Rt. Hon. George Pousouby, relative to the Persecution of the Roman Catholics, 8vo. 5th edit. 1807.

WILSON, ROBERT, Esq. accomptant at Edinburgh, and one of the directors of the Bank of Scotland.

Observations on the Depreciation of Money, 8vo. 1811.—Further Observations on the same subject, 8vo. 1811.

WILSON, Sir ROBERT THOMAS, Knt. of the imperial military order of Maria Theresa, of the Portuguese order of the Tower and Sword, and of St. George of Russia; a major general in the army, lieutenant-colonel of the 22d regiment of dragoons, and aide-de-camp to his majesty.

This gallant officer was cornet in the 15th regiment of dragoons in the action fought at Villers en Couché near Cambray, April 24, 1794, and for the bravery which he displayed on that occasion, received from his Imperial Majesty the gold medal and riband of Maria Theresa, accompanied with a gold chain in allusion to the reign of Edward III., the grand symbol of military merit and knighthood. After serving in most of the campaigns on the continent of Europe during that period of the revolutionary war, he went to Egypt with Sir Ralph Abercrombie. Of that expedition he published a most luminous and interesting account in opposition to one drawn up under the authority of Buonaparte, by general Regnier. In the English memoir a particular detail was given of the atrocities committed by the French commander in that country, as well in poisoning his own sick soldiers at Cairo, as in the massacre of his Turkish prisoners at Jaffa. The circumstances related by Sir Robert produced a great sensation, and were strongly suspected of being apocryphal, had not the silence of the French authorities on the one hand, and the corroborating evidence of many respectable witnesses on the other, contributed to support the integrity of his narrative. At present the veracity of the historian cannot be called in question, and his work stands in the highest estimation as a military journal, and an important record. When the war broke out in the peninsula, Sir Robert was employed in organizing the troops of Portugal, which service he accomplished with distinguished honor to himself, and the army which he formed and systematized. To such a pitch of perfection indeed did he bring the Portuguese recruits, that the French general in one of his bulletins, complained of our having clothed British veterans in the dress of the native troops by way of deception; which charge probably was the finest compliment that could have been paid both to the one and the other. When the struggle for universal dominion was transferred by Napoleon from the south of Europe to the heart of Russia, Sir Robert Wilson hastened to that country, where he manifested so much energy and skill, as to draw down upon him some bitter censures and reproaches in the official French accounts. He was at the head quarters of Kutusoff when Lauriston appeared there with overtures from his master for an armistice; and it is generally believed that the most complete confidence was placed in the counsels of our brave countryman at that momentous crisis. The publications of Sir Robert are

An Account of the Campaign in 1801, between the French Army of the East, and the English and Turkish Forces in Egypt, Translated from the French of General Regnier, 8vo. 1802.—An Historical Account of the British Expedition to Egypt, with some Important Facts relative to General Buonaparte, 4to. 1802.—The British Expedition to Egypt, carefully Abridged from the larger volume, 12mo. 1808.—An Inquiry into the Present State of the Military Force of the British Empire, 8vo. 1804.—Account of the Campaigns in Poland in 1806 and 7, with Remarks on the Character and Composition of the Russian Army, 4to. 1811.

WINSTANLEY, REV. CALVIN, M.A. of Liverpool, and late of Brazenose College, Oxford, where he took his master's degree, April 18, 1787. Mr. Winstanley is a respectable scholar, and has long been engaged in the instruction of youth, but he was very unfortunate in his attempt to depreciate the value of Mr. Granville Sharpe's illustration of the definitive article in the Greek text of the New Testament. Mr. Sharpe defended his principle in a dissertation published as a fifth appendix to his work, and to this Mr. Winstanley was prudent enough to make no reply. His publications are these, Elementa Grammatica Ciceronianæ, 12mo. 1802.—A Vindication of Certain Passages in the Common English Version of the New Testament, 12mo. 1805.

WINTER, Robert, D.D. an eminent dissenting minister, and the son of a venerable divine, who succeeded the celebrated Thomas Bradbury at the meeting house in New Court, Carey Street. Dr. Winter was born in London about the year 1761, and studied at the academy at Homerton from 1778 to 1782, at which time he became pastor of the congregation of Presbyterians at Hammersmith, from whence he removed to the chapel in Hanover Street, Long Acre, in 1795. About the year 1803 he went to Newport in the Isle of Wight, but two years afterwards he returned to the Metropolis as pastor of the meeting over which his father had presided. He is also one of the preachers of the Merchants' Lecture every Tuesday evening at New Broad Street Meeting. His doctor's degree was conferred on him by the College of New Jersey in North America. His publications are as follows :

The Importance of Religious Education, a sermon preached for the benefit of the Bartholomew Close School, 8vo. 1784.—The Happy Tendency and Extensive Influence of the Christian Dispensation, a sermon, 8vo. 1788.—The Reasonableness of National Humiliation, a fast sermon, 8vo. 1793.—The Painful and Pleasing Vicissitudes of Life, a sermon, 8vo. 1795.—The Dominion of Jesus Christ over the Elements of Nature, a sermon, in commemoration of the great storm in 1703, 8vo. 1798.—Public Mercies acknowledged and improved, on a general Thanksgiving, 8vo. 1798.—A Charge at the Ordination of the Rev. Frederick Hamilton, at Brighton, 8vo. 1799.—Reflections on the present state of Popery, compared with its former state, 8vo. 1800.—Endless duration of future Punishments, 8vo. 1802.—A Sermon on the same Subject, 8vo. 1806.—Obstacles to Success in Religious Education, 8vo. 1808.—A Sermon before the Missionary Society, 8vo. 1808.—A Sermon at the separation of the Rev. John Bruce to the Pastoral office over the congregational church at Newport in the Isle of Wight, 8vo. 1808.—Reflections on the Character and Translation of Enoch, preached at Hammersmith, on the Death of the Rev. William Humphreys, 8vo. 1809.—Sermon at Lower Tooting, on the Death of the Rev. James Bowden, 8vo. 1812.—The Rule and Benefit of Youthful Caution, a sermon, 8vo. 1813.

He is related to the preceding gentleman and has published,

A Digest of the Income Tax, with Explanatory Notes and Illustrations, 8vo. 1799.

WITHEY, ROBERT, Solicitor.

A practical Treatise upon the Law of Annuities, 8vo. 1800.

WITTMAN, WILLIAM, M.D. This gentleman was surgeon in the Royal Artillery, in which capacity he visited Egypt with the British forces, and while there was appointed physician to the Grand Vizier. This gave him many advantages of information the result of which appeared on his return to England in a work entitled,

The English Military Mission into Turkey, Syria, and Egypt.—Travels into Turkey, Asia Minor, and across the Desert into Egypt during the year 1799 and 1801, 4to. 1803.

WIX, SAMUEL, M.A. Rector of Inworth, Essex, and Vicar of St. Bartholomew the Less, London.

Scriptural Illustrations of the Thirty-nine Articles of the Church of England, 8vo. 1808.

WOLCOTT, JOHN, M.D. This gentleman who is more generally known by his poetical name of PETER PINDAR, was born at Dodbrook in Devonshire and educated at Kingsbridge after which he was taken under the protection of his uncle, a surgeon and apothecary at Fowey in Cornwall. Here young Wolcott studied pharmacy with becoming diligence, occasionally amusing himself with poetry and drawing. On the appointment of Sir William Trelawney to be governor of Jamaica in 1768, John obtained permission to go out in his suite, and the ship touching at Madeira, he wrote some of his best sonnets, descriptive of the natural beauties of the island. At Jamaica he commenced practice as a surgeon and was nominated also physician to the governor, to qualify himself for which, he procured a diploma from Scotland. A very remarkable circumstance, however, occurred which had nearly diverted the pursuits of our author into another channel, and to have fixed him in the West Indies for life. The rector of St. Anne's dying while he was there, Dr. Wolcott was prevailed upon to officiate as a minister for some time, and this duty he discharged so much to the satisfaction of the planters, that they intreated the governor to procure the living for him. But as this could not be granted without the consent of the bishop of London, the doctor returned to England for that purpose. Being disappointed, and Sir William Trelawney dying in the interim, he gave up all farther idea of the church and went to settle as a physician at Truro, where he practised several years with some credit though not without occasional bickerings with Mr. Rosewarne and other gentlemen of the neighbourhood, owing to the doctor's unconquerable turn for satire. Not long after his settlement at Truro, his circumstances were rendered easy by the death of his uncle, who left him an estate and about two thousand pounds in money. It was here that he had an opportunity of befriending genius by taking under his instruction and patronage John Opie, who from being an apprentice to a house carpenter in the village of St. Agnes, rose to be a celebrated painter and professor of the art in the Royal Academy. The doctor in his rides through the village was much struck with some rude sketches in chalk and a few on paper, that were shown him of this lad's performance, on which he invited Opie to his house, and there gave him such lessons and helps as enabled him in a short time to set up as an itinerant portrait painter. About the year 1778 Dr. Wolcott removed from Cornwall to London, where he resolved to live at his ease and to indulge in literary amusements, which, however, soon proved of very substantial benefit. As a satirist he struck into a new line, and by a rich vein of humor peculiar to himself, contrived to fascinate the public attention. His works were read with great eagerness, and multiplied in successive editions, both here and abroad. It is however to be lamented that this son of humor did not observe uniformly more decorum in his productions, and particularly in the deference due to high rank and virtue. His attacks on the sovereign have been generally laughable, but too frequently scurrilous; and it cannot be denied, even by the warmest admirers of the facetious bard that he has often exceeded even the bounds of poetical licence in his caricatures of great personages and men of eminence. Some years ago he had a suit in chancery with his publishers, respecting the construction of an agreement by which they were to pay him two hundred and forty pounds a year for the copyright of his works. At the time when this contract was made, the doctor was laboring under an asthmatic complaint, and to all appearance had not long to live. By going into Cornwall, however, he recovered his health and returned to London without any cough, which was far from being a pleasing sight to the persons who were bound to pay his annuity. A plea was then setup that the agreement extended to all future pieces as well as to the past; and on this ground an action was commenced which in a short time was compromised. The doctor was also embroiled in an unpleasant dispute with Mr. William Gifford, who having treated him rather severely in his Baviad and Mæviad, was assaulted by the redoubtable Peter, staff in hand, in Wright's shop in Piccadilly. Subsequently to this, our merry wight has been prosecuted on a charge of another nature, by the husband of a young woman to whom he gave some lectures in the histrionic art. Luckily, however, nothing more serious came of this affair than a laughable exposure in the newspapers. The doctor, who is now far advanced in years, has been for some time deprived of sight by an incurable glaucoma. His publications are these:

A Poetical Epistle to the Reviewers; 4to. 1778.—Lyric Odes to the Royal Academicians, 4to. 1782.—More Lyric Odes to the Academicians, 4to. 1789.—Lyric Odes for the year 1785, 4to.—The Lousiad, an heroic-comic poem, cantos 1, 2, 3, 4to. 1785.—Farewell Odes to the Academicians, 4to. 1786.—A Poetical and Congratulatory Epistle to James Boswell, 4to. 1786.—Bozzy and Piozzi, or the British Biography, 4to. 1786.—Ode upon Odd, or a peep at St. James's, 4to. 1787.—Instructions to a celebrated Laureat, 4to. 1787.—An Apologetic postscript to Ode upon Odd, 4to. 1787.—Brother Peter to Brother Tom, i. e. (anon.) 1813. Latterly the name of Peter Pindar has been unwarrantably assumed by one Lawler, a poetaster of little or no wit, merely to deceive the public and to bring some profit to the writer and his bookseller.

WOLF, JENS, Esq. an eminent merchant in America Square, and consul for the King of Denmark. This gentleman, who is a native of that country, has long resided here with a high commercial reputation. He is the author of, Sketches and Observations taken on a Tour in 1785, through a part of the South of Europe, 4to. 1802.—Sketches on a Tour in Copenhagen, through Norway and Sweden, 4to. 1814.

WOLLASTON, FRANCIS, LL.D. F.R.S. Precentor of St. David's, Rector of the united parishes of St. Vedast, Foster Lane, and St. Michael le Quern, London. He is the second son of the celebrated divine and mathematician, Mr. William Wollaston, the author of "the Religion of Nature delineated," and received his education at the university of Cambridge. When the association was formed at the Feathers' tavern for the purpose of obtaining a reform in the Liturgy, and an abolition of subscription to the thirty nine articles, this gentleman took an active part in the proceedings, and advocated the design from the press. He has had prudence enough, however, to retain his preferments, notwithstanding this disappointment. His publications, besides many valuable communications to the philosophical Transactions, are as follows:

Address to the Clergy of the Church of England and to all Christians, 8vo. 1772.—Queries relating to the Book of Common Prayer, 8vo. 1774.—The Preface to a Specimen of a General Astronomical Catalogue, 8vo. 1789.—Specimen of a General Astronomical Catalogue arranged in Zones of North-polar distances, folio, 1789.—Directions for making an Universal Meridian Dial, 4to. 1793.—Fasciculus Astronomicus, containing observations on the Northern Circumpolar Region, 4to. 1800.—A Portraiture of the Heavens, on ten plates, fol. 1811.

WOOD, REV. MANLEY, M.A. late curate and lecturer of St. Bride's Church, Fleet Street. He is a native of Tiverton in Devonshire and had his education at the Grammar School of that place, after which he studied at Cambridge, and on taking orders settled in London. He has published,

An Edition of Shakspeare printed for Kearsley, 8vo.—Sermons on Public Occasions, 4to.

WOOD, SIR MARK, Bart. Colonel in the East India Company's Service, and M.P. for Gatton in Surrey, where he has a seat. He is the son of Alexander Wood, of Perth, Esq. a lineal descendant from the Woods of Largo to the honors and estates of whom Sir Mark also succeeded on the decease of John Wood, Esq. late Governor and Captain General of the Isle of Man. The Baronet went out to India with his brother George, who became a colonel in the Bengal Infantry. Here he obtained a commission and the appointment of chief engineer, acting in most of the campaigns against Tippoo Saib in the Mysore. Having realized a handsome fortune in the East, he returned to England, purchased Gatton Park, and obtained a seat in parliament. He has published :

A Review of the Origin, Progress and Result of the late War with Tippoo Sultaun, 4to. 1800.—The Importance of Malta considered ; with Remarks during a Journey from England, through Egypt to India, in 1779, 4to. 1803.

WOODD, BASIL, M.A. proprietor and minister of Bentinck Chapel, Lisson Green ; afternoon lecturer of St. Peter's, Cornhill ; and rector of Drayton Beauchamp, in Buckinghamshire. He is the son of a silk mercer in Tavistock Street, Covent Garden, and was related to the late Dr. Conyers, of Deptford, by the mother's side, in consequence of which, having a serious turn, he was educated for the church. He took his degree of M.A. at Christchurch, Oxford, and about the same time settled as a popular preacher in London. The late Benjamin Way, Esq. of Acton, though not at all related to Mr. Wood, bequeathed him ten thousand pounds, as a testimony of the high esteem in which he held his character as a friend and a minister. The publications of Mr. Wood have been all practically useful. The following list of them, we believe, will be found correct :

Funeral Sermon occasioned by the Death of Mr. J. J. jun. Feb. 23, 8vo. 1794.—The Duty of Frugality, and the Sin of Waste, considered, 12mo. 1794.—An Address to Young Persons on the Nature and Benefit of Confirmation, 12mo. 1794. Of this tract there have been no less than nineteen editions.—A Sermon preached at St. Mary's, Oxford, before the University, 8vo. 1796.—A Memoir of Bowyer Smith, an eminently pious child, who died aged seven years, 12mo.—Prayers for Morning and Evening, with the Collects, 12mo.—A Short Introduction to the Church Catechism, 12mo.—The Church Catechism, with Short Questions designed for the use of Sunday Schools, 12mo.—A Brief Explanation of the Church Catechism, by way of Question and Answer, 12mn.—A Short Summary of Christian Doctrine and Practice, extracted from Bishop Gashell's Institutes, 12mo.—Advice to Youth, 12mo.—The Day of Adversity, or Reflections suited to the Hour of Sorrow or the Loss of Beloved Relatives, 16th edition, 12mo.—Memoirs of Mrs. Hannah Woodd, 8vn.—Sermon before the Missionary Society, at St. Anne, Black Friars, 8vo. 1807.—The Duties of the Marriage State, 12mo. 1807.—The Excellence of the Liturgy, 8vo. 1811.

WOODFALL, GEORGE, an eminent printer, is the son of Mr. George Henry Woodfall, the proprietor and printer of the Public Advertiser, in which appeared the Letters of Junius. This family has long been distinguished in the annals of typography ; and eminent also for producing literary characters. The present gentleman has published, The Letters of Junius, with Fac-Similes of his Handwriting, 3 v. 8vo. 1812.

WOODFALL, SOPHIA, but now Mrs. Mc'Gibbon, of Covent Garden Theatre. She is the daughter of the late Mr. William Woodfall, the celebrated reporter and the original publisher and proprietor of the Morning Chronicle. She has been many years on the stage, and has published, WOOLCOMBE, WILLIAM, M.D. a gentleman of very ancient family in Devonshire. He was originally bred a surgeon, in which capacity he served some time in the navy, and at Plymouth; but on taking up his degree as a physician, he commenced practice in his native county. Dr. W. is the author of, Remarks on the Frequency and Fatality of Different Diseases, 8vo. 1808.

WOOLL, JOHN, M.A. late Fellow of New College, Oxford, Rector of Blackford, in Somersetshire, and master of the Free Grammar School at Midhurst, in Sussex. He was bred at Winchester School, under Dr. Warton, after which he removed to Oxford, where he took his master's degree, July 5, 1794. Mr. Wooll has published,

The King's House at Winchester, a poem, 4to. 1793.—Memoirs of the late Rev. Joseph Warton, D.D. 4to. 1806.

WOOLSEY, ROBERT, an attorney in London, who for some time kept an academy near Hampstead, but failing in that line, returned again to the law. He was patronized by the late Sir George Wright, who was at the expense of publishing a showy work by him, exhibiting on plates a view of the heavens. His performances are, Reflections upon Reflections, including Observations on the Constitution and Laws of England, 8vo. 1790.—The Celestial Companion, or Projections in Plano of the Starry Heavens, with a Treatise on the Elements of Astronomy, fol. 1802.—An Elegy sacred to the Memory of Lady Wright, 4to. 1802.—He has also published a tract, under the name of Peter Pennyless, endeavouring to show the Danger to the Country from the Increase of Bank Notes, 8vo.—and an Abstract of the Doctrines of Emanuel Swedenborg; 8vo.

WORDSWORTH, CHRISTOPHER, D.D. Dean and Rector of Bocking, and Domestic Chaplain to the Archbishop of Canterbury. He was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, where, in 1796, he stood high among the wranglers for his bachelor's degree, and in 1798 gained one of the members' prizes for a dissertation in Latin prose. He was also chosen fellow of his college, and his publication on the uses of the Greek article recommended him to the patronage of the Archbishop of Canterbury. He has since displayed considerable energy in opposing the Bible Society, the objects of which he regards as unfavorable to the established church, and this has brought him into a controversy with Lord Teignmouth and other zealous friends of that institution. The works of the Dean are as follows:

Six Letters to Granville Sharpe, Esq. respecting his Remarks on the Uses of the Definitive Article in the Greek Text of the New Testament, 8vo. 1802.—Ecclesiastical Biography, or the Lives of Eminent Men connected with the History of Religion in England, from the Reformation to the Revolution, 6 v. 8vo. 1809.—Reasons for declining to become a Subscriber to the British and Foreign Bible Society, 8vo. 1810.—A Letter to Lord Teignmouth, in Vindication of the Reasons, &c. 8vo. 1810.—A Second Letter to Lord Teignmouth on the same Subject, 8vo. 1810.—Sermons on various Occasions, 2 v. 8vo. 1815.

WORDSWORTH, WILLIAM, Esq. late of St. John's College at Cambridge, and at present distributor of stamps for the counties of Cumberland and Westmoreland. This gentleman stands at the head of a particular school of poetry, the characteristic of which is simplicity. His publications are,

WRANGHAM, REV. FRANCIS, M.A. F.R.S. Rector of Hunmanby, Yorkshire. He was a student of Trinity Hall, Cambridge, where he shared largely in the honors bestowed upon those members who are most diligent in their studies; but afterwards he removed to Trinity College, of which society he is still a member. He was third wrangler at taking his bachelor's degree in 1790; and the same year he obtained Dr. Smith's second mathematical prize, and the Chancellor's first classical medal. While an undergraduate he had gained one of Sir William Browne's medals for Greek and Latin epigrams; and he has been subsequently successful in obtaining four of Seaton's prizes for poems on sacred subjects. In 1805, when a prize was given by Dr. Buchanan for the best poem, written by any member of the University, upon "the Restoration of Learning in the East," Mr. Wrangham was a candidate, and though the prize was awarded to another, he was complimented with a request to print his performance. A few years afterwards, when the same gentleman sent one hundred pounds to be distributed to members of the University, for sermons at St. Mary's Church, upon the expediency of translating the Scriptures into the oriental languages, Mr. Wrangham was appointed one of the preachers. His publications are as follows:

Roma is fallen, a visitation Sermon preached at Scarborough, 8vo. 1798.—Thirteen Practical Sermons founded on Doddridge's Rise and Progress of Religion in the Soul, 8vo. 1800; 2nd edition, with the preceding Sermon, 1802.—The Holy Land, a Seaton Prize Poem, 4to. 1800.—Poems, containing the Restoration of the Jews, a Seaton Prize Poem, and many Translations, cr. 8vo. 1795.—Leslie's Short and Easy Method with the Deists, with his Supplementary Essay on the Truth of Christianity, compressed, cr. 8vo. 1802.—The Advantages of Diffused Knowledge, a Charity School Sermon, 4to. 1803.—The raising of Jairus' Daughter, a poem, to which is annexed a Short Memoir, &c. of the late Caroline Symmons, cr. 8vo. 1804.—The Restoration of Learning in the East, a poem, 4to. 1805.—A Dissertation on the best Means of civilizing the Subjects of the British Empire in India, 4to. 1805.—On the Translation of the Scriptures into the Oriental Languages, a Sermon, 4to. 1807.—Human Laws best supported by the Gospel, an Assize Sermon, preached in the cathedral church of St. Peter, York, 4to. 1808.—The Gospel best promulgated by National Schools, an Assize Sermon at York, 4to. 1808.—Earliest Contention for the True Faith, a Visitation Sermon at Scarborough, before the Archbishop of York, 4to. 1809.—The Sufferings of the Primitive Martyrs, a Seaton Prize Poem, 4to. 1811.—Laing's Translation of Plutarch's Lives, a new edition, corrected, 6 v. 8vo.—and an occasional contributor to the Classical Journal.

WRAXALL, SIR NATHANIEL WILLIAM, Bart. This excellent writer was born in Queen Square, Bristol, April 8, 1751; being descended from the ancient family of that name settled at Wraxall, in the county of Somerset. Sir John de Wraxall was knight of the shire, and represented Somerset and Dorset in parliament under Edward I. but by the marriage of Alicia de Wraxall to Ralph de Corges, in the reign of Edward III. the village and manor of Wraxall passed into the latter family, who were summoned to parliament as Lords thereof. The immediate ancestors of the present baronet, however, continued to reside at that village, or in the adjoining parish of Portbury, till 1696, when they removed to Bristol, in which city his grandfather and father were considerable merchants till the American war produced a stagnation in trade. Sir Nathaniel was educated in his native city, but in 1769 he was sent to Bombay, in the civil service of the East India Company, and there he accompanied the forces of that presidency as judge advocate and paymaster on the two expeditions to Guzerat, and against Baroche in 1771. The year following he returned to England, and passed near seven years on the continent, almost every country of which he visited from the frontiers of Lapland to Lisbon and Naples. In 1780 he was elected into parliament for the borough of Hindon; and in 1784 for that of Luggershall. On the dissolution in June, 1790, he was elected for Wallingford. In November, 1813, he was raised to the dignity of a baronet, and in April last he produced "The Historical Memoirs of his own Times;" one of the most important publications that has appeared since the posthumous Memoirs of Bishop Burnet; and though, like that work, it has experienced some severe attacks both in the King's Bench and from other quarters, its value will be felt and duly appreciated by posterity. It is a remarkable circumstance that the first edition of this work was sold in thirty three days though it consisted of one thousand copies. The lover of literary and political anecdote will find his curiosity amply gratified by the perusal of these interesting volumes, which contain information that cannot be obtained in any other work. Our author married in 1789, Jane, eldest daughter of Peter Lascelles, Esq. of Knights in Hertfordshire, descended from the ancient family of Lascelles, of Mount-Grace in the North Riding of Yorkshire; a branch of which family has been since raised to the peerage; first, in the person of Edwin Lascelles, created Baron of Harewood; and since, of Henry, successively created Baron and Earl of that name. The Baronet has two sons, William Lascelles, and Charles Edward. The publications of Sir Nathaniel Wraxall are,

A Tour round the Baltic, 8vo. 1775. Of this work there have been four editions.—History of the Kings of France of the race of Valois, 2 v. 8vo. 1777. This was accompanied by a Tour through the Interior Provinces of France.—History of the Reign and Age of Henry III. and Henry IV. Kings of France, preceded by a View of the State of Europe, between the middle and the close of the Sixteenth Century, 3 v. 4to. WYNN, CHARLES WATKINS WILLIAMS, Esq. M. P. he is the third son of Sir Watkins Williams Wynn, the fourth Baronet by Lady Charlotte, daughter of the Rt.

Hon. George Grenville, and sister to George Marquis of Buckingham. The subject of the present article was born at Wynnstay, the family seat in Denbighshire, Oct. 9, 1775. He received his education at Westminster, after which he entered at the Temple, and was called to the bar; but does not practise the law as a profession. In 1806, he married Mary the eldest daughter of Sir Foster Cunliffe, Bart. of Acton Park, in the county of Denbigh, by whom he has a daughter. Mr. Wynn is the author of WYVILL, CHRISTOPHER, M.A. formerly rector of Black Notley, in Essex, and chairman of the late committee of association for parliamentary reform in the diocese of York. He is a native of that county, and received his education at Cambridge, where he became intimate with Dr. Jebb, which produced a change in his religious opinions, and no little zeal in his political judgment. After holding the valuable rectory of Black Notley above thirty years, though he had been a member of the celebrated association for a reform of the church, held at the Feathers Tavern, he resigned the living to Bishop Porteus, and his letter on that occasion is certainly curious enough to merit insertion in this place. The reader, however, will naturally wonder how any man could keep a benefice so long with the sentiments which are herein confessed.

Burton Hall near Bedal, Yorkshire, September 22nd, 1806.

MY LORD,

When the venerable Archdeacon Blackburne, and other respectable clergymen of the Church of England, proposed, about thirty-four years ago, to petition Parliament for relief respecting Subscription to our Articles of Religion, I thought it my duty to concur in the measure. Since that time I have taken various opportunities publicly to avow my humble opinion, that a temperate Reformation in the System of our Church would be advantageous to religion; particularly that it would tend to promote the cause of truth and sincerity, by freeing the Clergy from many painful and distressing difficulties, which at present embarrass them, if subscription to our Articles of Religion were discontinued: that it would render our forms of public worship still more affecting and more edifying than they are, and probably would reconcile and re-unite to our Church many pious Protestants, who differ on some points of smaller moment, but agree with the established religion in all its most important doctrines, if our Liturgy were duly corrected by the wisdom and authority of the Governors of the Church; removing some unnecessary repetitions, some obscure expressions, and some metaphysical doctrines, which occur in the Creeds and Prayers; expunging every blemish of unscriptural language which may be found in them, or in any other part of the Book of Common Prayer; and in conformity with the example of the gospel, uniformly addressing prayer to God alone, yet still through the mediation of our blessed Saviour Jesus Christ.

And now, my Lord, having lived to an advanced age, and observed no appearance whence it may be collected that any such Reformation in the Church is intended by the Bishops, I think it proper that I should add, before I am disabled by the infirmities incident to my time of life, the farther testimony of my unaltered sentiments in favor of an Ecclesiastical Reformation, such as I have here alluded to, by tendering to your Lordship my resignation of the rectory of Black Notley: and I do tender to you my resignation of it accordingly, for the reasons, and with the views, here stated. At the same time I think it right to declare, that, by making this tender to your Lordship, I ought not to be understood to act from motives of hostility to the Church of England, or of partiality to any other church or sect of Christians. I wish to satisfy my mind, by thus retiring from my station as a minister of our Church; but it is not my intention to separate myself from her communion. I have the honor to be, my Lord, your most humble servant;

C. WYVILL.

He was formerly of Jesus College, Cambridge, and has been many years an active promoter of the Literary Fund, of which he is at this time one of the treasurers. Some time since he circulated proposals for "Memoirs of Public Charities; or an Historical Illustration of the Charitable Institutions in and about the Cities of London and Westminster, with Anecdotes of their Founders and most active Supporters;" but this design we believe has never been completed, which is rather to be lamented, as such a work properly executed could not fail of proving highly useful. This respectable practitioner having published in the London medical and physical Journal, an extraordinary case of Ischuria, or discharge of urine by the mouth, in the person of one Anne Foulkes of Bedford, was severely attacked by two apothecaries at that place, both of whom roundly affirmed the whole to be an imposture. A smart controversy ensued, and when similar instances were cited from the most respectable medical writers, the sceptical gentlemen denied the truth of those facts also. Dr. Yeats has several valuable papers in that Journal, and in Duncan's Annals of Medicine, besides which he has published

YOUNG, ARTHUR, Esq. F.R.S. and secretary to the board of agriculture. He was born at Bradfield Hall, in Suffolk, the paternal estate consisting of about two hundred acres of land, on which the family have resided above two centuries. The subject of the present article was a younger son, and being intended for trade, was apprenticed to a wine merchant at Lynn. About the year 1761, however, his commercial pursuits were changed for those of agriculture, being called to the management of the farm at Bradfield. Here he experienced many losses and disappointments owing to his inexperience and propensity to new theories and projects: the event of which was a temporary removal from the estate. He now took a farm in Hertfordshire near North Mimms, where he made numerous experiments, but after residing there about nine years he found his embarrassments increase, in consequence of which he returned to Bradfield Hall, and his mother dying soon after he came into full possession of the estate. He now commenced his career as an author, and an agricultural tourist, beginning with his travels in Ireland, which he completely surveyed in successive visits from 1776 to 1779. In 1784, he began his well known Annals of Agriculture, a work which abounds with valuable information, on a vast variety of subjects connected with rural economy and topography. In 1787, Mr. Young made an excursion to France, in which journey he was accompanied by M. Lázowski, and the Duke de la Rochefoucault. He returned to that country in 1789, and completed his agricultural survey, of which he published an account. The intermediate space between this period and his appointment as secretary to the Board of Agriculture, was filled up by a variety of pursuits of practical utility; being either engaged upon his own farm, or in making observations and improvements in different parts of the kingdom. When Sir John Sinclair succeeded in prevailing on Mr. Pitt to establish the board, he had also interest enough to secure the nomination of Mr. Young to the place of secretary, with a salary of four hundred pounds a year, and this office he has held with credit ever since. Waiving all observations on the utility of such an institution itself, or of the general conduct of the board; it is but justice to say, that the secretary has been indefatigable in his exertions for the accomplishment of the views which constituted the ostensible grounds of this legislative measure. Mr. Young has personally made and published several surveys, and he has been the instrument of adopting many excellent regulations and improvements, particularly with respect to the breed and management of cattle. Yet it is somewhat extraordinary, that so zealous a friend to new discoveries should have uniformly, and rather pertinaciously, opposed the practice of the "drill husbandry," even after the importance and benefit of that mode of cultivation has been clearly ascertained. The publications of Mr. Young, without enumerating his various communications through the Annals of Agriculture, and other miscellaneous collections, are as follows:

The Farmer's Letters to the People of England, 8vo. 1767, 2d edit. in 2 v. with this title, "The Farmer's Letters to the Landlords of Great Britain," 8vo. 1771.—A six weeks' Tour through the Southern Counties of England and Wales, 8vo. 1768; 2d edit. 1769.—On the Management of Hogs, 8vo. 1769.—The Expediency of a free Export of Corn, 8vo. 1769.—A six months' Tour through the North of England, 4 v. 8vo. 1770.—The Farmer's Guide in hiring and stocking Farms, 2 v. 8vo. 1770.—Rural Economy, or Essays on the practical parts of Husbandry, 8vo. 1770.—A Course of Experimental Agriculture, 2 v. 4to. 1770.—The Farmer's Tour through the East of England, 4 v. 8vo. 1771.—Proposals to the Legislature for the numbering of the People, 8vo. 1771.—Observations on the Present State of the Waste Lands in Great Britain, 8vo. 1772.—Political Arithmetic, 8vo. 1774.—Considerations on the Means of Raising the Supplies within the year, 8vo. 1779.—Tour in Ireland, with general Observations on the Present State of that Kingdom, 4to. 1780.—Correspondence with Mr. Loffit on building country ships, 8vo. 1783.—An Essay on the culture of Cole-seed, for feeding Sheep and Cattle, 8vo.—The Question of Wool stated, 8vo. 1787.—A Speech that might have been spoken, 8vo. 1788.—Travels in France, 2 v. 4to. 1792-1794.—The Example of France a warning to Britain, 8vo. 1793.—An Idea of the present state of France, 8vo. 1795.—The Constitution safe without Reform, 8vo. 1795.—Invasion, National Danger, and the means of Safety, 8vo. 1798.—General View of the Agriculture of the County of Suffolk, 8vo. 1797.—Enquiry into the State of the Public Mind among the Lower Classes, 8vo. 1798.—General View of the Agriculture of the County of Lincoln, 8vo. 1799.—The Question of Scarcity plainly stated, 8vo. 1800.—Letter to Mr. Wilberforce on the state of the Public Mind among the Lower Classes, 8vo. 1799.—A Review of the corrected Agricultural Survey of Lincolnshire, 8vo. 1800.—An Inquiry into the Propriety of applying Wastes to the support of the Poor, 8vo. 1801.—The Farmer's Calendar, 8vo. 1804. 8th edit. 1812.—Essay on Manures, 8vo. 1804.—General View of the Agriculture of Hertfordshire, 1804.—General View of the Agriculture of Norfolk, 8vo. 1805.—Survey of the Agriculture of Essex, 2 v. 8vo. 1806.—General View of the Agriculture of Oxfordshire, 8vo. 1808.—General Report on Inclosures; 8vo. 1809.—Advantages which have resulted from the establishment of the Board of Agriculture, 8vo. 1809.—On the Husbandry of the three celebrated British Farmers, Bakewell, Arbuthnot, and Duckett, 8vo. 1811.—Inquiry into the progressive Value of Money as marked by the Price of Agricultural Products, 8vo. 1812.—Baxteriana; containing a Selection from the Works of Richard Baxter, 12mo. 1815.—An Inquiry into the Rise of Prices in Europe, with Observations on the Effect of High and Low Prices, and on the Present State of Agriculture, 8vo. 1815.

YOUNG, REV. ARTHUR, son of the preceding, was educated at the university of Cambridge, and on taking orders he obtained ecclesiastical preferment in his native county. This gentleman made himself remarkably conspicuous on the trials of Arthur O'Connor and his associates at Maidstone, by a letter to a gentleman of Bury St. Edmund's in which he said "I exerted all my eloquence to convince three of the gentlemen who had been summoned as jurymen on these trials how absolutely necessary it was, at the present moment, that the felons should swing. That the acquittal of Hardy and Co. laid the foundation of the present conspiracy, &c. I urged them by all possible means in my power, to hang them through mercy, as a memorial to others. That had others suffered, the deep laid conspiracy which is coming to light, would have been necessarily crushed in its infancy. These, with many other arguments, I pressed with a view that they should go into court, avowedly determined in their verdict no matter what the evidence." This letter was read in court, and produced so powerful a sensation in the mind of the judge and the whole court, that a role was made to strike off from the list of jurors all the persons of that hundred, and the severest animadversions were pronounced on the writer. Since the peace this reverend patriot has published a declaration in the newspapers, saying that he has purchased lands in the Crimea where no tax-gatherer is seen, and inviting his countrymen to emigrate with him to that blessed region. His performances are: General Report on Inclosures, 8vo. 1807.—A Survey of the Agriculture of Sussex, 8vo. 1808.

YOUNG, F.

The Epicure, or a Treatise on the Essence of Anchovies, Wines, &c. 8vo. 1815.

YOUNG, Rev. GEORGE, minister of the Associate Congregation in Cliff Lane, Whitby. He is a native of Scotland, and has published:

laide and Antiquine, or the Emigrants, a tale, 4to. 1794.—Rosamound Castle, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1798.—Liudorf and Caroline, or the Danger of Credulity from the German of Cramer, 3 v. 12mo. 1803.—Right and Wrong, or the Kinsman of Naples, 4 v. 12mo. 1803.—Moss Cliff Abbey, or the Sepulchral Harmonist, a tale, 4 v. 12mo. 1803.—Dooatan, or the Witches of Glenoshel, 2 v. 12mo. 1805.—Memoirs of Mrs. Crouch, with anecdotes of several of the most eminent persons of the present age, 2 v. 12mo. 1806.—The Heir of Drumecondra, nov. 3 v. 12mo. 1810.—Summer at Brighton, 4 v. 12mo.—Voltaireana, 4 v. 12mo.

YOUNG, SAMUEL, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London. He has several articles in the Medical and Physical Journal, and has published also in a separate form,

An Inquiry into the nature and action of Cancer, 8vo. 1805.—An Attempt at a systematic reform of the modern practice of Adhesion, 8vo. 1807.—Minutes of Cancer and Cancerous Tendency, 8vo. 1815.

YOUNG, THOMAS, M.D. F.R.S. and Physician to St. George's Hospital. This valuable writer received his medical education partly at Gottingen and partly at Edinburgh where he took his doctor's degree with great credit. On coming to London he became lecturer at the Royal Institution, but relinquished that situation when he obtained his appointment at the Hospital, to the duties of which he pays the most assiduous attention. Dr. Young has numerous papers in the Philosophical Transactions, besides which he has been an occasional correspondent in the Gentleman's Magazine, Nicholson's Journal and other periodical works. His distinct publications are these:

De Corporis Humani Viribus Conservatricibus, 8vo. Gott. 1796.—Syllabus of a Course of Lectures on Natural and Experimental Philosophy, 8vo. 1803.—Analysis of the Principles of Natural Philosophy, 8vo. 1803.—A Reply to the Animadversions of the Edinburgh Reviewers, 8vo. 1804.—A Course of Lectures on Natural Philosophy and the Mechanical Arts, 2 v. 4to. 1807.—A Syllabus of a Course of Lectures on the Elements of the Medical Sciences, and on the Practice of Physic, 8vo. 1809.—A System of Practical Nosology, with an Introduction to Medical Literature, intended as a Guide to Students, and an Assistant to Practitioners, 8vo. 1812. Dr. Young has also some classical articles in Hodgkio's Calligraphia Græca, Lond. 1794, and Dalzell's Collectanea Majora, Edinb. 1797 and 1802.

ZOUCH, REV. THOMAS, D.D. F.L.S. Prebendary of Durham, and Rector of Wycliffe in Yorkshire. This venerable divine was born in 1737, at Sandal near Yorkshire, and in 1757 removed from the school of the latter place to Trinity College, Cambridge. In 1760 he was elected into one of Lord Craven's scholarships, along with Mr. Joah Bates, celebrated afterwards for his skill in music. The year following Mr. Zouch took his degree of Bachelor of Arts, and was classed as the third Wrangler. Having been chosen fellow of his College in 1763, he was appointed assistant tutor, which office he discharged with extraordinary credit, though his assiduity so much impaired his health that he was obliged to quit the University: on which his College presented him in 1770 to the rectory of Wycliffe in the North Riding of Yorkshire. In this country retirement he continued many years, performing the office of a parish priest with great diligence, and augmenting his knowledge of natural history. His botanical excursions in a pleasant and romantic part of Yorkshire, contributed not a little to invigorate his constitution. By the death of his elder brother, the Rev. Henry Zouch, in 1795, he succeeded to an estate at Sandal, where he now resides. On the demise of Dr. Smith, the Master of Trinity College, one of the most learned mathematicians of his age, he was requested by the vice-master and senior fellows to deliver a Latin funeral oration in honor of his memory, which is said to have been much admired for the classical elegance of its language. In 1798 Mr. Pitt had an idea of appointing him to the mastership of Trinity, which design however was set aside in favor of the present Bishop of Bristol. But in 1805, the same minister gave him the second prebend in the Church of Durham, and the same year he took his degree of D.D. In 1808 the see of Carlisle was offered to Dr. Zouch, but in consequence of his advanced age and retired habits he thought proper to decline the acceptance. Besides some anonymous publications, he is the author of, Crucifixio, a Seaton prize poem, 4to. 1765.—A Sermon preached at the Visitation of the Bishop of Chester, 4to. 1789.—An Inquiry into the Prophetic Character of the Romans as described in Daniel viii. 23—25, Newcastle, 8vo. 1792.—An Address to the Clergy of the Deaneries of Richmond, Catterick, and Boroughbridge, 4to.—A Discourse delivered to the Clergy of the three Yorkshire Deaneries in the diocese of Chester, 4to.—The Good Schoolmaster, exemplified in the character of the Rev. John Clarke, M.A. formerly fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, and successively master of the schools of Shipton, Beverley, and Wakefield, 8vo. 1798.—An Attempt to illustrate some of the Prophecies of the Old and New Testament, 12mo. 1800.—A Sermon preached in the Cathedral Church of Durham, at the Assizes holden July 30, 1806, 4to.—Memoir of the Life and Writings of Sir Philip Sidney, 4to. 1808.—Memoir of the Life of John Sandbury, D.D. Dean of Durham, 4to. 1808.—Dr. Zouch is also the editor of these works; Love and Truth. In two modest and peaceable Letters concerning the distempers of the present times. Written from a quiet and conformable citizen of London, to two busy and factious shopkeepers in Coventry. With Notes and a Preface by the editor, 8vo. 1795. This edition of a tract written by Isaac Walton, is dedicated to Mr. Henry Zouch.—The Lives of Dr. John Donne, Mr. Richard Hooker, Mr. George Herbert, and Dr. Robert Sanderson. By Isaac Walton, with Notes and the Life of the Author, 4to. 1796.—An octavo edition appeared in 1798.—In a volume entitled "Odes on Peace and War, written by many eminent and distinguished persons," printed at Loodna in 1795, are three poems, one by Henry Zouch, B.A. Trinity College, and two by Thomas Zouch, B.A. Fellow of the same College and University School, &c.

ABB

ABBOTT, Right Hon. CHARLES. The father of the Speaker was a schoolmaster in Devonshire, who left his family in good circumstances. The widow married Mr. Jeremy Bentham, an eminent practitioner in Chancery, who behaved with paternal tenderness to the children, and gave them an excellent education at Westminster School and Christ Church, Oxford. The eldest of these, Mr. John Farre Abbott, was called to the bar, and, having married a lady of fortune, he was thereby enabled to purchase the valuable situation of Clerk of the Rules in the Court of King's Bench, with a condition that in the event of his demise the place should devolve to his brother, which it did shortly afterwards. Mr. Charles Abbott was elected to Oxford as King's Scholar, from the foundation, and proceeded B.C.L. April 30, 1783, and D.C.L. as grand compounder, March 23, 1793. He incurred some animadversion from the advocates for Catholic emancipation, as it is called, on account of his remarkable observations on that measure in a speech to the throne, at the close of the session in 1813: and in the ensuing meeting of parliament an attempt was made by opposition to fasten a public vote of censure upon his conduct, but the motion fell to the ground. Besides the works already mentioned he is the author of An anonymous tract "On the Use and Abuse of Saftire," 8vo. Oxford, 1786.—A Speech in the Committee of the House of Commons on the Catholic Question, 8vo. 1813.

ABBOTT, THOMAS EASTOE.
Peace, a Lyric poem, 4to. 1814.

ABERNETHY, JOHN, Esq. F.R.S. Surgeon to St. Bartholomew's Hospital. He was brought up in the excellent school of anatomy and operative surgery where he now officiates with so much credit. His master and friend was Sir Charles Blicke, to whom his first publication was dedicated with an affection which did equal credit to the teacher and his pupil. Mr. Abernethy has several papers in the Medical Journal, the Philosophical Transactions and other scientific collections, besides which, and the works already mentioned, he has published,

An Inquiry into the probability and rationality of Mr. Hunter's Theory of Life, being the subject of the first two Anatomical Lectures before the Royal College of Surgeons, 8vo. 1814.—A Second Lecture before the same College, on some of Mr. Hunter's opinions respecting Diseases, 8vo. 1815.

ACCUM, FREDERIC. He is a native of Germany, and has obtained patents for some discoveries of a useful character. He also professes to give lectures on practical chemistry to persons of both sexes, for which he is extremely well qualified. Mr. Accum has recently published,

A Treatise on Gas Light, roy. 8vo. 1815.

ADAM, WILLIAM, Esq. This gentleman who has recently been appointed one of the Barons of the Court of Exchequer in Scotland, is also the author of A Speech in the House of Commons on the St. James's Poor Bill, 8vo. 1803.

ADAMS, JAMES, F.R.S. Edinburgh, was formerly professor of languages in the college at St. Omer's, from whence he was driven by the terror of the revolution which destroyed the seminaries of education as well as the foundations of religion. He then retired to Edinburgh, of which city he is a native, and where he published a whimsical though ingenious treatise entitled Euphologia Linguae Anglicanae, 8vo. 1795.

ADAMS, JOHN, late President of the United States of North America, in which situation he succeeded Washington, died at New York, Oct. 2, 1803. Of this moderate republican, who strenuously endeavoured to prevent the introduction of French politics into his country, the following anecdote is related. He was the first ambassador to the English court from the United States in 1783, and on that occasion was as usual introduced to his Majesty in his closet, where in making his speech he was very much embarrassed. The King perceiving his confusion, said, "Sir, the whole of this business is so extraordinary, that the feelings you discover upon the occasion appear to me to be very just and proper. I wish, Sir, to be clearly understood before I reply to the very obliging sentiments you have expressed in behalf of the United States of America. I am, you may well suppose, the last person in England that consented to the dismemberment of the empire by the independence of the United States; and while the war was continued, I thought it due to my subjects to prosecute that war to the utmost: but, Sir, I have consented to their independence, and it is ratified by treaty; and I now receive you as their minister plenipotentiary, and every attention, respect, and protection granted to other plenipotentiaries, you shall receive at this court. And, Sir, as I was the last person that consented to the independence of the United States, so I shall be the last person to disturb or in any manner to infringe upon their sovereign independent rights; and I hope and trust that from blood, religion, manners, habits of intercourse, and almost every other consideration, the two nations will continue for ages in friendship and confidence with each other." This speech which was unpremeditated made a great impression on the mind of Mr. Adams, who, after his return to America, always spoke of his Majesty in the highest terms of admiration.

ADAMS, JOSEPH, M.D. F.L.S. is a native of London, and descended, by his own account, from Sir Thomas Adams, bart. the patriotic Lord Mayor of London in the reign of Charles the Second. The father of the doctor was an apothecary, and brought his son up to the same profession. After practising some time in the metropolis he obtained a diploma from Scotland, and went to Madeira, where he officiated as a physician, and by marriage increased his fortune. He then returned to England and on the death of Dr. Woodville succeeded to his appointment at the Small Pox Hospital. Latterly he became candidate at Middlesex Hospital but was obliged to give way to the superior interest of Dr. Southey. For some time Dr. Adams was joint editor with Dr. Bradley of the Medical and Physical Journal, which publication contains many of his essays and cases. He has lately printed,

A Philosophical Dissertation on hereditary peculiarities of the Human Constitution, 8vo. 1814.—An Illustration of Mr. Hunter's Doctrines concerning the Life of the Blood in answer to the Edinburgh Reviewers, 8vo. 1814.

ADAMS, WILLIAM, Oculist to the Prince Regent. He is a native of Cornwall and was brought up under an eminent surgeon at Barnistaple, after which he came to London and became a pupil of the late celebrated Mr. John Cunningham Saunders, who imparted to him his mode of practice on disorders of the eyes, particularly confirmed cataract. The death of that excellent and accomplished young man opened a wide field to Mr. Adams, of which he did not fail to avail himself. He established an institution in Devonshire and another at Bath for diseases of the eye; where he performed many extraordinary cures, which led to his operating on some pensioners in Greenwich Hospital. His success in restoring sight to several persons who were totally blind was made the subject of an official report, and he also received the honor of knighthood, since which an attempt has been made to procure for him a parliamentary grant; but as his mode of treatment cannot be considered as his own, the design has been prudently relinquished.

ADDINGTON, JOHN, surgeon in Spital Square; and one of the earliest practitioners who adopted the Jennerian mode of inoculation, is the son of Dr. Stephen Addington, a dissenting minister who conducted a school for many years, first at Market Harborough, and afterwards at Stepney. He was also pastor of the Independent Congregation in Miles's Lane, and died in 1796, at an advanced age. Dr. Addington was the author of an excellent Greek and English Grammar, a practical Treatise on Arithmetic, and several other publications in science and theology.

ADKIN, LANCASTER, D. D. Rector of Belauigh and Scotto, Norfolk, and perpetual Curate of St. Peter's, Norwich, died at Windsor in October 1806.

AGO, JOHN. This person was not a linen draper, as erroneously stated in the account of him, but bred a printer and bookseller, at Evesham, after which he established himself in the same capacity at Bristol, where he published a newspaper under the name of the Mercury. He also proposed to print by subscription a history of that great commercial city, in numbers, but the design failed, and the author also. He then repaired to London, where he has continued to live by compiling various books, some of which possess ingenuity.

AIKIN, ARTHUR. This gentleman is now secretary to the Geological Society, and has published,

A Manual of Mineralogy, 8vo. 1814.—Also in conjunction with his brother Charles, an Account of the most important recent Discoveries and Improvements in Chemistry and Mineralogy, 4to. 1814.

AIKIN, MISS LUCY. Besides the several publications already mentioned, she has written a very charming tale entitled Lorimer, 12mo. 1814.

AITKEN, JOHN, M.D. He was originally a surgeon, and lecturer on chirurgical anatomy and pharmaceutic chemistry at Edinburgh. Besides the work already noticed he has written, Essays on Chirurgical Subjects, 8vo.—Systematic Elements of the Theory and Practice of Surgery, 8vo. 1779.

AITON, WILLIAM TOWNSEND. He has lately published

An Epitome of the second edition of Hortus Kewensis, to which is added a selection of Esculent Vegetables and Fruits, cultivated in the Royal Gardens at Kew, 8vo. 1814.

ALDERSON, JOHN, M.D. He is the father of Mrs. Opie, and in the course of last year formed an establishment for the reception of lunatics at Hull, being the first institution of the kind in that place or the neighbourhood.

ALEXANDER, WILLIAM, F.S.A. and L.S. is the eldest son of Henry Alexander, coachmaker of Maidstone in Kent, where he was born in 1768. He received his education there under the Rev. Thomas Cherry, the present master of Merchant Taylor's School; but at the age of fifteen he left his native town to study the arts in London, where at first he received instruction from Mr. Parr in the Strand and afterwards at the Royal Academy.

Lit. Cal.

In 1792 he accompanied Lord Macartney in his embassy to the court of China, and, on his return, various drawings selected from his numerous sketches were engraved to illustrate Sir George Staunton's narrative of that voyage. Not long after his return to England, Mr. Alexander published a work entitled "The Costume of China," containing forty-eight colored engravings with descriptions; which was so well received by the public, as to encourage the author to bring out another fasciculus on the same subject, comprising a similar quantity of plates and letter press, though the engravings are of a different character. On the formation of the Royal Military College at Great Marlow, Mr. Alexander was appointed Professor of Drawing in that institution, which situation he resigned on being chosen by the Trustees of the British Museum, to the second place in the department of antiquities. Three volumes of engravings from the ancient marbles and terra cottas deposited in the Museum, have been published by the Trustees, the drawings of which were executed by Mr. Alexander, and the descriptive part written by Mr. Taylor Combe of that Institution.

ALEXANDER, WILLIAM, M.D. This person died at Edinburgh in 1788.

ALISON, ARCHIBALD, LL.B. This accomplished divine is a native of Scotland, and took his degree at Balliol College, Oxford, March 23, 1784. Being related to the late Bishop Douglas, that prelate gave him a prebend in his cathedral, and procured for him the vicarage of High Ercal in Shropshire, to which was afterwards added the rectory of Rodington in the same county. Mr. Alison has recently published a volume of excellent Sermons on practical subjects, 8vo: 1814; the success of which has induced him to favor the world with another volume now in the press.

ALLAN, THOMAS. Mineralogical Nomenclature, 8vo. 1815.

ALLOTT, RICHARD, M.A. Dean of Raphoe in Ireland. He is the son of a clergyman in Yorkshire and has published, A Sermon before the House of Commons on the Fast day, 4to. 1806.

ALLWOOD, REV. PHILIP, A.M. curate of Putney. He has recently printed Twelve Lectures on the Prophecies relating to the Christian Church, and especially to the Apostasy of Papal Rome, preached in the Chapel of Lincoln's Ian at the lecture founded by Bishop Warburton, 2 v. 8vo. 1815.

AMBROSE, BERTIE.

Opoleya, or a tale of Iad; in four cantos, fc. 8vo. 1815.

ANDERSON, REV. CHRISTOPHER, of Edinburgh.

A Memorial on the behalf of the Native Irish, with a view to their improvement in moral and religious knowledge through the medium of their own language, 8vo. 1815.

ANDERSON, REV. WILLIAM.

Sketches of the History and Present State of the Russian Empire, 8vo. 1815.

ANDREWS, MILES PETER, Esq. died at his house in Cleveland row, July 18, 1814. His father was intimately acquainted with the principal dramatic writers and performers of his time; particularly Garrick and Foote, whose conversation it is supposed gave the son a turn for theatrical composition. He was the bosom friend of Thomas Lord Lyttleton who died in 1779, and it is said that as that nobleman had a presage of his dissolution, so Mr. Andrews obtained an intimation of that event in a way equally supernatural. Being in bed at Dartford with a candle in the room, he saw, as it is supposed in a dream, the appearance of his Lordship dressed in a damask night gown, such as he usually wore in a morning, and the spectre said, "Andrews, 'tis all over with me." On returning to town Mr. Andrews received a letter informing him of the death of his friend at the very time that he had seen this appearance of him. The death of Mr. Andrews was also sudden, for he had just before sent out two hundred cards of invitation to his acquaintance to see the fireworks in the park from his house.

ANSPACH, the MARGRAVINE OF. This lady was cruelly treated by her first husband, whose brutality was so great that her friends were obliged to interpose and effect a separation. Her letters, descriptive of the countries which she passed through in her travels, were printed at first for the benefit of M. Mercier, and having become exceedingly scarce, a new edition with additions was published in one volume quarto 1814. Since that her ladyship has given to the world

A causory Account of Bourdeaux, translated from the French, 8vo. 1815.

APPLETON, Miss ELIZABETH, formerly preceptress in the family of the Earl of Leven and Melville. This ingenious and accomplished female has published an admirable little work entitled

Private Education, or a practical plan for the Studies of Young Ladies with an Address to Parents, Private Governesses, and Young Ladies, 12mo. 1815.

ASPLAND, ROBERT, Unitarian or Sociarian Preacher at the Gravel Pit meeting, was originally a mechanic, but having a turn for speaking and some ingenuity he became a dissenting minister. Besides the tracts already enumerated, he has printed,

A Plea for Unitarian Dissenters, 8vo. 1814.

ASTLEY, PHILIP. This singular man was a private in Elliott's regiment of light horse, on quitting which service he collected some performers and established an equestrian theatre in St. George's Fields, which succeeded so well in England that the manager went to France and formed a similar concern at Paris, but was obliged to relinquish it on the breaking out of the Revolution. He then served as a volunteer under the Duke of York in Flanders, which procured him the patronage of his Royal Highness. After conducting several minor theatres with great spirit, by which he realized a considerable property, he resigned his concerns to his son and retired to private life. He died of the gout in his stomach at Paris in November 1814.

AUCKLAND, WILLIAM EDEN, LORD. The family of Eden was settled in the county of Durham in the 14th century, for by an episcopal inquisition made in 1413, it appears that Robert de Eden died possessed of three messuages and ten oxgangs of land with their appendages held in capite of the bishop. Sir Robert Eden, the first baronet, died in 1720, having enjoyed the title which was created in him forty-eight years. Sir Robert Eden, the third baronet, had a large family of whom the late lord was the fourth child, educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford, where he took the degree of M.A. June 2, 1768. About the same time he was called to the bar by the hon. society of the Middle Temple, and for a few years he went the Northern circuit with his friend Wedderbourne afterwards Lord Chancellor. His publication on the penal laws brought him into notice with the minister, by whom he was made Under Secretary of State for the Northern Department, in which situation he gave such satisfaction as to be appointed one of the directors of Greenwich Hospital. He also obtained the patronage of the Duke of Marlborough, by whose interest he was elected into parliament for Woodstock. In 1776 he was nominated one of the Lords of Trade and Plantations, and two years after appointed a commissioner with Lord Carlisle and Governor Johnstone, to effect a reconciliation with the revolted Americans. In 1780 he accompanied Lord Carlisle to Ireland as his private secretary, but on the change of ministers he retired with his noble friend, whose cause he defended with great spirit in a letter to Earl Shelburne. His subsequent appointments and honors have already been noticed, but it should be observed in justice to his memory, that even the virulence of party in the most effervescent times, never attempted to question his integrity or to fasten an imputation of slander upon his abilities. On one occasion indeed when Mr. Eden, he drew upon himself a pleasant jeu d'esprit from his old friend Charles Fox, who being asked what was the matter when the house was in a roar of laughter at some slip of the tongue which the subject of this article had committed, replied, "O nothing, only the devil has once more got into EDEN." His Lordship had the misfortune to lose his eldest son, the Hon. William Frederic Eden, in a very melancholy manner, the body being found in the Thames near Millbank, Feb. 25, 1810, after having been missed above a month. He was a fine young man only twenty-six years of age, and commanded the St. John's and St. Margaret's Volunteers as their Colonel. Lord Auckland died, May 28, 1814 at Eden Farm, near Bromley, suddenly, while he sat at breakfast with his family.

AYTON, RICHARD.

A Voyage round Great Britain, undertaken in the summer of 1813, and commencing with the Land's End in Cornwall. The views taken by William Daniell, A.R.A. roy. 4to. 1814.

B

BAILLIE, MATTHEW, M.D. F.R.S. His father Dr. James Baillie was professor of divinity at Glasgow, where he died in 1778. The son after receiving a liberal education at his native city, removed to Balliol College, Oxford, where he proceeded M.A. June 14, 1786; B.M. July 15, 1786; and D.M. July 7, 1789. He studied under his uncle Dr. William Hunter, and afterwards became an associate with Mr. Cruickshanks in the anatomical theatre, Windmill Street.

BALFOUR, WILLIAM, M.D. Edinburgh. Observations on Adhesion, with two Cases demonstrative of the Powers of Nature to reunite parts which have been separated from the Animal System, 8vo. 1814.

BANDINELL, Rev. BULKELEY, M.A. is the son of the late Dr. James Bandinell, of Jesus College, Oxford, and in June 1815, he married the eldest daughter of the late J. Phillips, Esq. of Culham, in Oxfordshire. Mr. Bandinell is at present engaged upon a new edition enlarged from Mr. Gough's Copy of Kennet's Parochial Antiquities, and he has published A Catalogue of the Books relating to British Topography, and Saxoa and Northern Literature, bequeathed to the Bodleian Library, by Richard Gough, Esq. 4to. 1814.

BANKES, Rev. W. H. mentioned in col. 1. p. 13, should be William Higgs Barker, M.A. vicar of Caermarthen, and formerly master of the grammar school in that town. His Hebrew Grammar was printed in 1773; and his Hebrew and English Lexicon without points, at Caermarthen by Ross, in 1775. This last is particularly valuable, on account of the analogies noted in it between the Welsh and the Hebrew languages.

BANKES, Sir JOSEPH, Bart. is the son of William Bankes Hodgkinson, Esq. of Revesby Abbey, Lincolnshire, and was born there, Dec. 13, 1743. He succeeded to the family estates on the death of his father in 1761, and in 1763 he went to Hudson's Bay, after which his thirst of knowledge led him to embark with the immortal Cook, in his voyage of discovery. Mr. Bankes was accompanied by his friend Dr. Solander, and both these eminent naturalists had a narrow escape for their lives on Terra del Fuego: while they were exploring the interior of that desolate region in search of curiosities, they lost their way, and the frost in the night being intensely severe, they were near perishing, being kept awake with the greatest difficulty. In 1771, he was created doctor of civil law by the university of Oxford, and in 1781, obtained the dignity of baronet, but three years afterwards he was attacked in his office of president, by some of the ablest members of the royal society, on account of his harsh treatment of Dr. Hutton, and his marked contempt for the mathematical part of that learned body. Sir Joseph has long been a martyr to the gout, and when the Eau d' Medicinale of Husson was imported by Dr. Jones, he derived such benefit from it, as to be the principal means of giving it popularity. The disorder, however, has returned with its wonted violence, and the reputation of that specific has consequently abated. Sir Joseph married, March 29, 1779, Dorothea, daughter and co-heiress of William Weston Hugessen of Provender, in the county of Kent, Esq. but has no issue.

BARING, CHARLES, Esq. He is the second son of Charles Baring, the younger brother of the late Sir Francis Baring, an eminent merchant and banker of the city of London. The mother of the present Mr. Charles Baring was Margaret, daughter and heiress of William Gould, Esq. of East Looe in Cornwall.

BARNARD, HON. RICHARD BOYLE, M.P. for Bandon Bridge, in Ireland, and brother of Lord Viscount Barnard, was educated at St. John's College, Cambridge, where he obtained the honorary degree of M.A. in 1807. He has published, A Tour through some parts, of France, Switzerland, Savoy, Germany, and Belgium, 8vo. 1815.

BARNES, J. col. 2. p. 14. In this article the new edition of Euripides is erroneously ascribed to him, when in fact it is only a reprint of the text, originally published in 1690, by the learned Joshua Barnes, who died in 1712.

BARRETT, FRANCIS. This person, who styles himself F.R.C. which denotes that he is a Fellow of the Rosicrucian fraternity, has lately published, Lives of Alchemetistical Philosophers, with a critical Catalogue of Books in Occult Chemistry, and a Selection of the most celebrated Treatises on the Theory and Practice of the Hermetic Art, 8vo. 1815.

BARROW, Rev. J. vicar of Newton. This is a fictitious name, fabricated to give some degree of credit to three very indifferent, though inoffensive compilations.

BARROW, JOHN, Esq. under-secretary to the board of admiralty. He was formerly an assistant in Dr. James's academy at Greenwich, and his mathematical talents recommended him to the government as a proper person to accompany Lord Macartney in his embassy to China. Many of Mr. Barrow's observations are contained in the narrative of that interesting mission, published by Sir George Staunton.

BARRY, Rev. EDWARD, M.D. vicar of Wallingford, is the son of Dr. Samuel Barry, an eminent apothecary at Bristol, who died in the present year, in his 85th year. The son was educated at Trevecka College, South Wales, in Lady Huntingdon's connexion, which he forsook, and after officiating in his father's business and other employments, he obtained orders from the late Bishop of Man, whose irregularity in admitting candidates without titles, was matter of considerable complaint to the rest of the episcopal order. Dr. Barry has printed several tracts, but he was not the compiler of the Justice of Peace, which bears his name.

BARTLEY, O. W. formerly a surgeon at Nailsworth, in Gloucestershire, but now acting as a physician at Bristol, where he has recently published, A Treatise on Forensic Medicinæ, or Medical Jurisprudence, 8vo. 1815.

BARWICK, EDWARD, Esq. and M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. This gentleman is the author of a volume which has been erroneously ascribed to his uncle Mr. Edward Barwick, author of the Life of Apollonius Tyanæa, and other works; A Treatise on the Church, chiefly in Relation to its Government, 8vo. 2d edit. 1815.

BATEMAN, THOMAS, M.D. This gentleman was the pupil and friend of the late Dr. Willan, whose family have been obliged to apply to the Court of Chancery for an injunction upon his work on Cutaneous Diseases, which is alleged to have been unfairly taken, for the most part, from that ingenious physician's very elaborate but unfinished work on the same subject. Dr. Bateman has printed Two Fasciculus of Cutaneous Diseases, 4to. 1815.

BATES, ELY, Esq. a gentleman of fortune who has distinguished himself by defending civil government and religious order, in several respectable publications, the principal of which are these: Chinese Fragments, 8vo.—Observations on some Important Points in Divinity, 12mo. 1794.—A Cursory view of Civil Government, chiefly in Relation to Virtue and Happiness, 8vo. 1797.—Christian Politics, 8vo. 1802.

BATHURST, Rev. HENRY, LL.B. now archdeacon of Norwich, and a near relation of the bishop of that diocese. The true Spirit of the Church of England, considered in a Charge to the Clergy of the Archdeaconry of Norwich, 4to. 1815.

BAYNTON, THOMAS, surgeon at Bristol, served his apprenticeship there to Mr. Smith, a gentleman of considerable eminence. Mr. B. has acquired great credit by his discoveries in the curative part of his profession, particularly in the treatment of ulcers and wounds. Besides the tract mentioned in his article he has printed, Account of a Successful method of treating Diseases of the Spine, 8vo. 1814.

BEADON, Dr. RICHARD, lord bishop of Bath and Wells. He is a native of Somersetshire, and was educated at Tiverton

School, Devonshire, from whence he removed to Cambridge, where he was entered at St. John's College, and stood high among the wranglers for his degree in 1758, in which year he was also a successful candidate for one of the chancellor's medals. In 1760 he gained one of the prizes given by the representatives of the university, for the best dissertation in Latin prose. About this time he was elected fellow of Jesus College, of which house he became master, and it is not a little to the credit of his government that he should have obtained the unqualified praises of the splenetic Gilbert Wakefield. Besides the sermon mentioned as having been preached before the Lords, the bishop has printed

A Sermon before the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, &c.

BECKET, ANDREW, Esq. a gentleman who has applied himself with diligence to the study of our old writers, particularly Shakspeare, on whose language he published an anonymous tract, which he has since enlarged into a more substantial form. His publications are:

The Dramatic Works of James Shirley, with Notes, Observations, and an Account of the Life of the Author, 4 v. 8vo.—Shakspeare's himself again; or the Language of the Poet asserted, 2 v. 8vo. 1815.

BECKFORD, PETER, Esq. a relation of Mr. William Beckford, and settled at Steepleton, in Dorsetshire. He is the author of Thoughts on Hunting, in a series of Letters, 4to. 1781, and several times reprinted.—Familiar Letters from Italy to a Friend in England, 2 v. 8vo. 1806.—This work has been improperly ascribed to Mr. William Beckford who is also erroneously said to have travelled as the preceptor of Mr. Patrick Brydone, when the reverse was the fact, the latter gentleman having been the companion and tutor of Mr. Beckford.

BEEKE, HENRY, D.D. late professor of history at Oxford, and now dean of Bristol. He was formerly of Oriel College, where he proceeded M.A. June 6, 1776; B.D. April 18, 1786; and D.D. April 5, 1800.

BEILBY, SAMUEL, D.D. The real name of this gentleman, who died in December 1813, was Herbert, which some years ago he changed in pursuance of the will of a female relation, who left him a handsome fortune. He was a native of Hull, and bred at Trinity College, Cambridge: B.A. 1770; M.A. 1774; and D.D. 1786. About forty years ago he was a frequent guest at the table of John, Duke of Rutland; by whom he was presented in 1776 to the vicarage of Croxton, in Leicestershire. The doctor married in 1792, Miss Rastell of Newark, by whom he had issue, and on her death he espoused the daughter of the Rev. William Manners, of Grantham, who died in childhood. Besides the discourses mentioned in his article, he published,

A volume of Occasional Sermons, 8vo. 1804.

BELL, ANDREW, D.D. &c. He is a native of Scotland, and was educated at Edinburgh, after which he obtained orders in the church of England, and went as chaplain to the East Indies, where he adopted the Hindu mode of tuition, and improved it with great success. Having published his system which was little known, it was taken up and carried into effect by Joseph Lancaster, in St. George's Fields, but without any acknowledgement of the source from whence it was derived. This afterwards produced a warm controversy, though the evidences of the case were so plain and palpable, as to reduce the matter within a very narrow compass. Dr. Bell has recently received from the bishop of Durham, the valuable mastership of Shireburn Hospital. Besides the works already mentioned, he is the author of,

Elements of Tuition containing the English School, or the History, Analysis, and Application of the Madras System of Education, 8vo. 1814.

BELL, GEORGE, M.A. chaplain to the Earl of Craven, and vicar of Bloxham, in Oxfordshire, where he has taken the most laudable pains to recover for the poor some lands which the piety of former times had bequeathed to their use, and which the rapacity of a succeeding generation had alienated to private benefit. He is the author of a charity sermon preached at Banbury, entitled Rejoice and do Good, or the Road to Happiness, 8vo. 1805.

BELSHAM, REV. THOMAS. This gentleman was latterly engaged in an attempt to prove the superiority of Dr. Priestley as a scholar and divine over the late bishop Horsley, whose classical attainments and biblical learning were of the very first order. Mr. Belsham has also ventured to engage in the controversy respecting the faith of the primitive church, against the present Bishop of St. David's, who is characterized by him as superficial, bigotted, and ignorant. As a proof of the liberality of this polemic, the publisher of the Gentleman's Magazine found himself under the necessity of softening down Mr. Belsham's letter, and of correcting its asperity. He has published also,

The Claims of Dr. Priestley in the Controversy with Bishop Horsley, restated and vindicated, 8vo. 1814.—

Letters to the Bishop of London, in vindication of the Unitarians, 8vo. 1815.

BERE, REV. THOMAS, M.A. Rector of Butcombe near Bristol. This gentleman, who was also a magistrate for the county of Somerset, died at Beaconhill, near Bath, Oct. 29, 1814. Some years ago he attacked Mrs. Hannah More, on account of her charity schools in the neighbourhood of Mendip, and which he asserted were conducted on principles of methodism.

BERESFORD, REV. JAMES, M.A. late Fellow of Merton College, and now Rector of Kibworth in Leicestershire. He is the author of

A Sermon on the Thanksgiving for the Peace, 8vo. 1814.—An essay with this title: Does Faith insure Good Works? answered in the Negative. 8vo. 1814.—

A Letter to Philo, in answer to his Objections against an Essay on Faith and Works, 8vo. 1815.

BERRINGTON, REV. JOSEPH. He is a native of Shropshire, and at the age of eleven years was sent to St. Omer's for his education, and did not return till after almost twenty years of what he calls miserable exile. In that period he was admitted to the priesthood, which he exercised in his native county till the freedom of his opinions on some points excited the jealousy and displeasure of his superiors, by whom he has been considered as verging upon heterodoxy. To Mr. Berrington's publications should be added the following:

A Letter to Dr. Fordyce, on the Delusive and Persecuting Spirit of Popery, 8vo. 1779.—The State and Behaviour of English Catholics, from the Reformation to the Year 1780, with a View of their Present Number, Wealth, Character, &c. 8vo. 1780.—Literary History of the Middle Ages, 4to. 1814.

BERWICK, REV. EDWARD, M.A. The Treatise on Church Government attributed to this elegant scholar and accomplished divine, was not written by him, but his nephew, who is called in the title-page of the second edition, published in 1814, Edward Berwick, Esq. The present gentleman has since favored the world with,

The Lives of Asinius Pollio, C. Terentius Varro, and Cornelius Gallus, with Notes, post 8vo. 1815.

BETHELL, REV. SAMUEL, M.A.

A Visitation Sermon preached at Richmond in Yorkshire, 8vo. 1811.

BEVAN, JOSEPH GURNEY. This person, who was a respectable member and preacher in the society of Friends or Quakers, died at Stoke Newington, in September, 1814.

BIDDULPH, REV. THOMAS TREGANNA, M.A. minister of St. James's parish Bristol, is the son of an eminently pious cler-gyman at Padstow in Cornwall, and educated at the grammar school of Truro; from whence he removed to Queen's College, Oxford, where he took his degree of M. A. July 7, 1787. He ranks high among that class of divines who bear the name of Evangelical, and, besides the works already mentioned, has published,

A Tract on the Inconsistency of Conformity to the World, 12mo.—God glorified in his Ministering Servants, a Funeral Sermon for the Rev. Thomas Drewitt, of Cheddar, 8vo. 1803.

BIDLAKE, JOHN, D.D. formerly master of the grammar school, Plymouth, died there in the spring of 1814, aged fifty-nine. In addition to the works mentioned under his article, may be noticed,

A Sermon preached at St. Andrew's, Plymouth, at the Visitation of the Archdeacon of Totness, 8vo. 1803.

BIGLAND, JOHN. This indefatigable compiler, who may be considered as almost wholly self-taught, has published, besides the books mentioned in the list of his productions,

The History of Spain, 2 v. 8vo. 1810.

BINGLEY, REV. WILLIAM, M.A. He is also the author of Animated Nature, or Elements of the Natural History of Animals, 8vo. 1814.

BIRCH, JOHN, Esq. late surgeon to the Prince Regent and to St. Thomas's Hospital, died at his house in Spring Gardens, in February, 1815.

BIRKBECK, MORRIS, a farmer, who has published an interesting book, chiefly of an agricultural character and the result of practical observations, entitled: Notes in a Journey through France in 1814, 8vo. 1815.

BLACK, REV. JOHN.

The Free School, a poem, 2nd edit. to which is added an Elegy on the Death of Edmund Jenney, Esq. of Beardfield; and of Philip Bowes Broke, Esq. of War-ton; 8vo. 1801.

BLACOW, REV. RICHARD, B.A. minister of West Derby Chapel, and of the New Church, Liverpool.

A Letter to Matthew Gregson, Esq. Treasurer of the Blue-Coat School, Liverpool, 8vo. 1814.

BLAKENEY, REV. L. M.A. curate of Lechlade in Gloucestershire. He has published,

A Sermon on the Thanksgiving Day, 8vo. 1814.—A Pair of Odes for the New Year, 4to. 1814.

BLAND, ROBERT, M.D. In addition to his work on parturition, must be mentioned a very curious and learned compilation, entitled, Proverbs, chiefly taken from the Adagia of Erasmus, with Explanations, and illustrated by Examples from the Spanish, Italian, French, and English, Languages, 2 v. cr. 8vo. 1814.

BLISS, NATHANIEL, M.A. F.R.S. and formerly Astronomer Royal, in which situation he succeeded Dr. Bradley, as he had twenty years before Dr. Halley in the Savilian Professorship of Geometry. He was a Fellow of Pembroke College, Oxford, and died at the Royal Observatory, in an advanced age, Sept. 3, 1764. The Observations of Mr. Bliss having been published with those of his predecessor occasioned the error of giving him a place in this volume.

BLIZARD, Sir WILLIAM. This eminent surgeon has also published
The Hunterian Oration delivered at the Theatre of the Royal College of Surgeons, 4to. 1815.

BLOMFIELD, Rev. C. J. of Trinity College, Cambridge, has published, besides the works mentioned, Æschyli Persæ, 8vo. 1814.—R. Porsoni Adversaria, 8vo. 1814.—Callimachi quæ superscript recensuit et cum notarum delecto, 8vo. 1815.

BONAR, Rev. ARCHIBALD, minister of Cranwerd, in Scotland.

Sermons, chiefly on Devotional Subjects, 8vo. 1815.

BOND, Mrs. ELIZABETH, of Fortrose.

Letters of a Village Governess, descriptive of Rural Scenery and Manners, 2 v. 8vo. 1814.

BOOTH, GEORGE, a merchant in London, who has published, Observations on Paper Currency, Bank of England Notes, Principles of Coinage, and a Circulating Medium, 8vo. 1815.—Supplement to Observations on lowering the Rent of Land, 8vo. 1815.

BOOTHBY, Sir BROOKE, Bart. F.L.S. This family was settled in England before the Norman conquest, at Boothby Paynell, in Lincolnshire. Henry Boothby was created a baronet by Charles I. for his loyal services, but the patent not being sealed the title was confirmed in due form at the restoration. The present baronet, who is the sixth, succeeded his father in 1789. He married Susanna, daughter and heiress of Robert Bristow, in Hampshire, and by her had an only child who died, to the great grief of her parents, March 13, 1791. The family has two seats, one called Ashbourne Hall, in Derbyshire, and the other Croperdy, near Banbury in Oxfordshire. Besides a pamphlet on the Regency, printed anonymously in 1788, the baronet has published,

A Letter to Mr. Burke, on his Reflections, 8vo. 1791.
—Observations on the Appeal from the New to the Old Whigs, and on Paine's Rights of Man, 8vo. 1792.
—Sorrows, sacred to the Memory of Penelope, a series of elegiac poems on his daughter, with plates, fol. 1796.—Britannicus, a tragedy, 8vo. 1803.—Fables and Satires with a Preface on the Æsopian Fable, 2 v. 8vo. 1809.

BOURNE, VINCENT, M.A. formerly Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge, and second master of Westminster School, died in the prime of life, Dec. 2, 1747. From the purest motives, the fear of not being qualified to discharge the duty, he declined taking orders, though a very valuable living was offered to him by a noble duke, and his circumstances were far from being affluent. The new edition of his excellent poems was the cause of the mistake in placing his name among living writers.

BOWDEN, A. of the Navy Office.

A Treatise on the Dry Rot, in which are described the Nature and Causes of that Disease, in Ships, Houses, Mills, &c. with Methods of Prevention and Cure, dedicated by permission to Lord Melville, 8vo. 1815.

BOWDLER, THOMAS, Esq. This respectable gentleman, who is a native of Bath, and distinguished by his philanthropy, is the brother of the ingenious lady who published anonymously a volume of sermons, with which the late Bishop Porteus was so pleased, that under an idea of their having been written by a clergyman, he offered through the publisher, to confer a living upon the author. Mr. Bowdler has printed, besides the work already mentioned,

The Life and Character of Lieut. General Villetes, late Governor and Commander of the Forces in Jamaica: to which are added, Letters, written during a Journey from Calais to Geneva, 8vo. 1815.—A Postscript to the Letters written in France in 1814, 8vo. 1815. This last was published to assist in providing free seats for the poor by enlarging the parish church of Swansea.

BOWERBANK, JOHN, late Lieutenant of his Majesty's ship the Bellerophon.

An Extract from his Journal kept on board that Ship, from July 15, to August 1, 1815; being the period during which Napoleon Buonaparte was on board the Bellerophon, 8vo.

BOWERBANK, Rev. T. F. M.A. Vicar of Chiswick.

A Sermon preached at Chiswick, July 30, 1815, previous to a Collection for Sufferers in the Victory of Waterloo, 8vo.

BOWLES, JOHN, Esq. Barrister at Law. This gentleman, with his fellow commissioners, suffered a very violent attack grounded on much misrepresentation, for a supposed want of regularity in the management of the proceeds of the Dutch prizes. Besides the various tracts already enumerated, he is the author of,

Letters of the Ghost of Alfred to Mr. Erskine and Mr. Fox, on the State Trials, 8vo. 1795.—An Appeal to the Head and Heart of every Man and Woman in Great Britain, respecting the threatened Invasion, 8vo.
—A Second Address to the People on the threatened Invasion, 8vo. 1802.—A View of the Moral State of Society at the Close of the Eighteenth Century, with a new preface and additions, 8vo.—A Letter to the Hon. Charles James Fox, on his Speech in the House of Commons, respecting the Character of the late Duke of Bedford, 8vo. 5th edit. 1803.—A Letter to the Freeholders of Middlesex, on the Election, 8vo. 1804.—Observations on the Restrictions of Volunteer Corps, 8vo.—A Dialogue between Buonaparte and Talleyrand, 8vo.

BOWLES, WILLIAM LISLE, M.A. is also Rector of Bremhill, in the county of Wilts; the parsonage of which, with the grounds adjoining, he has highly improved and laid out in a style of the greatest elegance. To his works should be added,

A Sermon at St. Paul's, for the Sons of the Clergy, 4to. 1802.—Ten Plain Parochial Sermons, 8vo. 1814.

—The Missionary, a poem, 2nd ed. 8vo. 1815. He has also occasionally contributed to the Classical Journal.

BOWMAN, REV. THOMAS, M.A. formerly Vicar of Martham and Cawston, in Norfolk, died June 15, 1792. He was a zealous Calvinist, and published a vindication of that system in one volume octavo; and a farther defence of it in some letters in the London Magazines.

BOWLES, W. R. He is also the translator of,

Elizabeth, or the Exiles of Siberia, from the French of Madame Cottin, fc. 8vo. 1814.

BOWRA, THOMAS. This should be Bourn, Thomas, whose work is already mentioned in the preceding page.

BOYD, HUGH STEWART, Esq.

A Selection from the Poems and Orations of Gregory Nazianzen, cr. 8vo. 1814. He has also occasionally contributed to the Classical Journal.

BOYD, WALTER, Esq.

Reflections on the Financial System of Great Britain, and particularly on the Sinking Fund, 8vo. 1815.

BRADLEY, THOMAS, M.D. died in the rules of the King's Bench, in December, 1813, aged 62. He was a native of Worcester, where for some years he kept a mathematical school. He was then a Quaker and having an inclination to medical studies, he was enabled to follow that pursuit; and after taking his doctor's degree at Edinburgh, he settled in Westminster, but being of retired habits and quitting the society of friends, his practice was limited, till at length he sunk into obscurity and died in distress.

BRADY, JOHN, the author of the Clavis Calendaria, of which he published an abridgment in one volume 12mo. was a clerk in the Victualling Office, and died at Kennington, Dec. 5, 1814.

BRAMAH, JOSEPH. This ingenious mechanic was born at Stainsborough in Yorkshire, April 2, 1749. His parents intended him for their own occupation of farming, but at the age of sixteen an incurable lameness in his right leg altered their designs, and he was bound apprentice to a carpenter and joiner who was a man of considerable ingenuity. Previous to this, young Bramah had evinced his mechanical genius, and among other things, he had actually constructed two violoncellos and a violin. Having served out his time he came to London, and after working as journeyman to a cabinet maker, he began business for himself in the same line. Happening to be employed in constructing some water closets, he formed an idea of improving those articles, in which he succeeded so well as to take out a patent. After this he went on exercising his genius in various inventions, the principal of which were his locks and his hydraulic machines. For some time before his death he was employed in erecting several large works on the bank of the Thames for sawing stones and deals; but by over exertion he brought on a complaint which carried him off rather suddenly, early in 1815, in the sixty-sixth year of his age.

BRAND, REV. JOHN. This worthy divine took his degree of B.A. at Cambridge, in 1766; and that of M.A. in 1769. His poetical essay entitled Conscience, was unsuccessful, merely from the casualty of having been delayed on the road beyond the period allowed by the University. Mr. Brand at the time of his death, which happened in February, 1809, was rector of St. George's in Southwark, and of Wickham Skeith in Suffolk. Besides the works already mentioned, he published a pamphlet in defence of Mr. Reeves's Thoughts on the English Constitution, 8vo; another on his rights, which he considered as violated by the erection of a chapel in St. George's Fields, for the use of the Philanthropic Society; and a Refutation of the Charge brought against the Marquis Wellesley, on account of his conduct to the Nabob of Oude, 8vo. 1807. This last tract was drawn up from official documents.

BRAND, HON. THOMAS, M.P. for the county of Hertford; and son of the Baroness Dacre. This public spirited member of the House of Commons, who is usually on the side of the popular interest, has published,

A Letter to William Wiltshire, Esq. on the Corn-Laws, 8vo. 1814.

BRENAN, JOHN, M.D. of Dublin, and physician to the lying-in hospital in that city.

Thoughts on Puerperal Fever and its Cure by Spirits of Turpentine, 8vo. 1814.

BRICHAN, DR. DAVID, died at the Mause of Dyke, in the shire of Moray, North Britain, in April, 1814.

BRIDEL, E. P. LL.D. died at Islington, in August, 1815, aged sixty-two. The drama on the fifth of November, was written for the use of his pupils, who performed it on that anniversary.

BRITTON, JOHN, F.A.S. This gentleman is a native of Wiltshire, and was brought up a printer in Messrs. Crowders' office. Having a turn for letters and speculation, he began to write in some of the periodical publications, and at length he ventured upon compilations of a topographical character, which were successful. He had, however, dexterity enough to call to his assistance several persons whose pursuits and practical knowledge were calculated to give an air of originality to the works on which they were employed. To his publications should be added, The Rights of Literature, or an Inquiry into the Justice of the Claims of Public Libraries for Eleven Copies of every New Work, 8vo. 1814.—The History and Antiquities of Salisbury Cathedral, 4to. 1814. This is to be followed by all the Cathedrals in the Kingdom!!

BROADHURST, JOHN, Esq. formerly an officer in the 10th Light Dragoons, in which capacity he distinguished himself during the campaign in Spain under the late lamented Sir John Moore. Since quitting the army he has been returned member for Heydon. Except when his Parliamentary duties call him to London, he resides on his estate, Foston Hall in Derbyshire, where he devotes much of his time to the study of political economy. This gentleman is entitled to a place in this work by the following publication, which reflects much credit on the writer.

Substance of a Speech against the proposed Alteration in the Coru Laws, intended to have been spoken in the House of Commons, on June 6, 1814. 8vo.

BROMLEY, HENRY. The History of the Fine Arts ascribed to this gentleman was the production of the late Rev. Robert Anthony Bromley, B.D. rector of St. Mildred's in the Poultry. It is a very flimsy performance, and was stigmatized in a very proper manner by Mr. Fuseli in some of his lectures at the Royal Academy, which drew upon him a volley of abuse from the irritated author.

BROMLEY, WALTER, Esq. late paymaster to the 23rd regiment of Welsh Fuzileers.

Two Addresses on the Deplorable State of the Indians, one delivered at Free Masons' Hall, Aug. 3, 1813; the other at the Royal Arcadian School, March 8, 1814; both at Halifax in Nova Scotia; 8vo. 1815.

BROOKES, SAMUEL, F.L.S.

Lit. Cal.

An Introduction to the Study of Conchology, 4to. 1815.

BROOME, Rev. A. late of Balliol College, Oxford.

Selections from the Writings of Fuller and South, with some Account of the Life and Character of the former, 12mo. 1815.

BROUGHTON, CHARLES, Esq. of Edinburgh.

Memoir respecting a New Theory of Numbers, 4to. 1814.

BROUGHTON, S. D.

Letters from Portugal, Spain, and France, 8vo. 1815.

BROUGHTON, THOMAS DUER, Esq.

Selections from the Popular Poetry of the Hindoos, arranged and translated, 8vo. 1814.

BROWN, RICHARD, architect and professor of perspective.

The Principles of Practical Perspective, or Scenographic Projection, 4to. 1815.

BROWN, Rev. WILLIAM, M.D. of the church of Scotland.

History of the Propagation of Christianity among the Heathen since the Reformation, 2 v. 8vo. 1814.

BROWNE, C. B.

Philip Stanley, nov. 2 v. 12mo. 1807.

BROWNE, W. G. Esq. This enterprising traveller, after encountering innumerable hardships in exploring the source of the Nile, undertook a journey into the interior of Africa, but was made prisoner and detained a long time at Darfur. After his return to Europe, such was the ardour of his mind, that he engaged in a journey to the Caspian Sea, whence it was his intention to have advanced to Samarcand and Bochara, and that tract of country which we are accustomed to call Tartary. He had proceeded as far as Tabriz, when he was attacked by a band of robbers who allowed his attendants to escape, but murdered Mr. Browne for his gold, in July 1813.

BRYER, JAMES, member of the Royal College of Surgeons at Edinburgh.

Practical Observations on the Inoculation of the Cow-Pox, 8vo. 1802.

BOCHANAN, Dr. CLAUDIUS, was a native of Scotland, but educated at Cambridge, and on taking orders he went to India, where he applied with great diligence to the study of the oriental languages, and distinguished himself as the president of the college at Fort William. He gave several liberal donations as prizes in the English and Scotch universities, for essays on subjects connected with the propagation of religion among the Hindoos, and among the rest, for sermons to be preached at Oxford and Cambridge, which excited much public attention, particularly at the India House. In 1809 he presented to the University of Cambridge, as a return for the degree of D.D. about eighty volumes of oriental MSS. which are deposited in the public library. Dr. Buchanan died in February, 1815, at Broxbourne, where he was engaged in printing an edition of the Syriac New Testament, for the Eastern Christians. Besides the works already mentioned, he published,

An Address delivered at a Special Meeting of the Church Missionary Society, to the Rev. Thomas Norton, and the Rev. William Greenwood, destined for Ceylon; and to the Rev. John Christian Scharrer, and the Rev. Charles Theophilus Rhenius, about to sail as Missionaries to Tranquebar, 8vo. 1814.

BUCHANAN, ROBERTSON, civil engineer at Glasgow; is also the author of, Practical Essays on Millwork and other Machinery mechanical and descriptive, 3 v. 8vo. 1814.

BUCK, REV. CHARLES, a dissenting minister and pastor of the meeting in Bury Street, St. Mary Axe. He died in August, 1815, aged forty-four.

BUCKNER, RT. REV. JOHN, Bishop of Chichester. This venerable prelate, who, with one of the officers of Lord Albemarle's army, alone remain of the club instituted to commemorate the capture of the Havannah, has also published,

A Sermon preached before the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, 4to. 1802.—A Sermon at the Meeting of the Charity Children in St. Paul's 4to. 1800.

BIDDLE, JOHN, engineer and surveyor of coal mines.

The First Report of a Society at Newcastle for preventing Accidents in Coal Mines, 8vo. 1814.

BUDWORTH, JOSEPH. This gentleman, who was formerly a lieutenant in the army, but retired from the service, changed his name to Palmer on succeeding to an estate. He died of an apoplexy at East Bourne, in October, 1815.

BUFFA, JOHN, M.D. physician to the forces.

Travels through the Empire of Morocco, 8vo. 1810.

BURGESS, Right. Rev. THOMAS, D.D. Bishop of St. David's. This excellent prelate has repeatedly refused translation to more easy and lucrative sees, being conscientiously devoted to his diocese, which he continues to improve by unwearied diligence, and the greatest liberality. To the list of his works should be added the following:

The Spirit of Prophecy the Testimony of Jesus, a Sermon, 8vo. 1802.—Charity the Bond of Peace and of all Virtues, a Sermon at Durham for the benefit of the Society of the Sons of the Clergy, 8vo. 1803.—A Charge to the Clergy of his Diocese, 4to. 1814.—A Brief Memorial on the Repeal of the Statute relative to the Doctrine of the Holy Trinity, 8vo. 1814.—Tracts on the Doctrine of the Holy Trinity, 8vo. 1814.—A Praxis of the Hebrew, Samaritan, and Sy-riac Alphabets, 8vo. 1814.—Carmen Toghrat, with Hebrew and Arabic Comparative Vocabulary, 8vo. 1815.—The Bible and nothing but the Bible the Religion of the Church of England, 8vo. 1815. His Lordship had lately a controversy in the Gentleman's Magazine, with Mr. Thomas Belsham, respecting the Faith of the Primitive Church, in which he was treated with a petulance and illiberality that reflected shame on his Antagonist. His Lordship is also an occasional contributor to the Classical Journal.

BURN, ANDREW, Major General of the Royal Marines, died at Gillingham in Kent, in October, 1814. He was a native of Scotland, and had been long distinguished by his zeal in support of missions, the Bible Society, and other religious institutions.

BURN, EDWARD, M.A. of Birmingham, was formerly of Edmund Hall, Oxford, where he took his degree of M.A. June 22, 1791. He is of the class of divines who call themselves evangelical, and has also published,

A Sermon preached at St. Anne's, Black Friars, before the Church Missionary Society, 8vo. 1805.

BURNEY, CHARLES, Mus. D. F.R.S. died at Chelsea College, April 12, 1814. This venerable professor of the harmonic science had his first musical education under Mr. Baker, a scholar of Dr. Blow, and at that time organist of Chester Cathedral. About 1741 he returned to his native town, where his half brother, James Burney, was an eminent teacher, and an organist, which situation he filled fifty-four years, and died in 1789, aged eighty. In 1744, he met with Dr. Arne, who persuaded his friends to send him to London, and he was accordingly placed under that great master for three years. In the winter of 1749, he composed for Drury Lane the dramas of Alfred, Robinhood, and Queen Mab. In 1763 he was admitted to the degrees of B. and Mus. D. as a member of the University of Oxford. About this period he became acquainted with Dr. Johnson, who ever cherished for him a great esteem; and always spoke highly of his literary abilities; a more convincing proof of which could not well be given than that of his adopting Dr. Burney's Musical Tour as the model of his own published account of his journey to the Hebrides.

BURNS, ALLAN, surgeon at Glasgow. He is also the author of some papers in the Edinburgh Medical Journal, and of the following work, Observations on the Surgical Anatomy of the Head and Neck; illustrated by Cases and Engravings, 8vo. 1812.

BURTON, EDMUND, Esq. M.A. formerly of Trinity College, Cambridge, and a barrister at law, has been dead many years.

BUTLER, CHARLES, Esq. Barrister at Law, of Lincoln's Inn and Ormond Street, is the nephew of the Rev. Alban Butler, the celebrated author of the Lives of the Saints. Mr. Butler was educated at St. Omer's, and on his return to England, became a student of the law, in which he has deservedly obtained a considerable reputation. It has been inconsiderately stated, that he is not a man of weight among his own communion; the reverse of which is the fact, unless by the term communion be meant only his rigid and unbending brethren who are disinclined to make any concessions for the security of the Protestant church. With the liberal part of his profession, Mr. Butler enjoys that distinction to which he is entitled by his talents and his virtues. He has some papers in the Gentleman's Magazine, and recently has printed, An Essay on the Life of Michel de l'Hopital, Chancellor of France, 11. 8vo. 1814.

BUTLER, CHARLES, mathematical tutor at Cheam School. He has published, An Easy Introduction to the Mathematics, 2 v. 8vo. 1815.

BYRON, the Rt. Hon. GEORGE GORDON, Lord, was born in 1788. His mother, whose paternal name was Gordon, was the last of that branch of the family that is descended from Jane Stuart, daughter of James II. of Scotland, who married the Earl of Huntley. On the decease of his great uncle, in 1798, the title devolved to this young nobleman, who was educated partly in Scotland and partly at Harrow, after which he went to Cambridge. Soon after his coming of age he took his seat in the House of Lords, and then went on his travels, which he extended to Greece and the Ionian Islands. At Athens he was an eye-witness of the Gothic ravages committed upon the venerable ruins of that seat of classic antiquity. These spoliations he deplored and censured in a poem, which, though not admitted into the collection of his works, is known to have issued from his pen, and a copy of it may be seen in the New Monthly Magazine, vol. iii. p. 240. in which miscellany also is an interesting memoir of his Lordship, accompanied by a very striking portrait. Lord Byron married, a few months since, the only daughter of Sir Ralph Milbanke, Bart. It is remarkable that the two first poets of the age should both have been lame from their infancy; yet such is the case with Lord Byron and Mr. Walter Scott. Besides the productions of this nobleman mentioned in the preceding account of him, he has published, Ode to Napoleon Buonaparte, 8vo. 1814.—The Corsair, a tale, in three cantos, 8vo. 1814.—Lara, a tale, 12mo. 1814.—Hebrew Melodies, 8vo. 1815.

C

CALDER, JOHN, D.D. died at Lisson Green, Paddington, aged eighty-two, June 10, 1815. Dr. Calder was a native of Aberdeen, at which university he received his education and degree. He was for some time pastor of a congregation of dissenters near the Tower, but had relinquished the clerical profession many years before his death. The late Duke of Northumberland honored him with his friendship, and made him his private secretary. Besides the works mentioned in his article, it should be observed that he contributed material assistance to the folio edition of Dr. Rees's Cyclopedia, and the new edition of the Biographia Britannica.

CAMPBELL, Rev. A. C. M.A.

The Rights of War and Peace including the Law of Nature and Nations, from the Latin of Grotius, with notes and illustrations, 3 v. 8vo. 1814.

CAMPBELL, CHARLES, Esq.

The Traveller's Complete Guide through Belgium, Holland, and Germany, 12mo. 1815.

CAMPBELL, Rev. JOHN, a dissenting minister and pastor of Kingsland Chapel. He was sent out by the London Missionary Society to examine into the state of their African establishments, which service he discharged so much to the satisfaction of his employers that on his return they published at their own expense, for his benefit, the journal which he had kept, under this title:

Travels in South Africa, undertaken at the request of the Missionary Society, 8vo. 1815.

CAPPE, Mrs. CATHERINE, of York. This lady has the merit of bringing to public notice and patronage Mrs. Charlotte Richardson, whose circumstances and poetry have excited much attention in her native county. Recently Mrs. Cappe has published Thoughts on various Charitable and other Important Institutions, dedicated, by permission, to Mr. Wilberforce, 8vo. 1814.

CARD, Rev. HENRY, M.A. This gentleman who has lately been inducted to the living of Great Malvern in Worcestershire, has also published An Essay on the Holy Eucharist, 8vo. 1814.

CAREY, GEORGE, teacher of the mathematics, is the author of

A Planisphere, or Map of the Principal Stars of the Northern Hemisphere, with Tables of their Right Ascensions, Declinations, and Meridian Altitudes at Edinburgh, for 1814. on a sheet.

CARNELL, P. P. Esq.

A Treatise on Domestic Wine-making, 8vo. 1814.

CARSTAIRS, J. teacher of writing on a new plan in Bond Street, is the publisher of these works, which reflect credit on his abilities as an instructor :

Lectures on the Art of Writing, 8vo. 1814.—Tachygraphy, or the Flying Pen, 8vo. 2nd ed. 1815.—Writing made easy, in a Set of Copy Books, 4to.

CHAD, G. W. Esq. This gentleman visited Holland soon after the landing of the Prince of Orange, where, during a residence of four months, he had abundant opportunities of obtaining the most correct account of the country, the result of which he has published in A Narrative of the late Revolution in Holland, 8vo. 1814.

CHALMERS, ALEXANDER, Esq. This indefatigable compiler was originally a surgeon in Scotland, but no way related to his equally industrious countryman, Mr. George Chalmers. After making a voyage or two to the coast of Africa in a slave ship, he devoted himself to literature by the advice of the late George Robinson, the bookseller. He is the author of a series of papers called the "Projector," originally published in the Gentleman's Magazine, and since collected into 2 v. 8vo.

CHALMERS, REV. THOMAS, D.D. of Kilmeny in Scotland. To the works of this respectable divine should be added the following :

A Sermon before the Society for the Relief of the Destitute Sick at Edinburgh, 8vo. 1813.—The Influence of Bible Societies on the Temporal Necessities of the Poor, 8vo. 1814.—The Evidence and Authority of the Christian Revelation, 8vo. 1814.

CHAMBERS, JOHN, of Warmsworth near Doncaster.

An Improved Harmony of the Four Gospels, 8vo. 1814.

CHAPPLE, WILLIAM, of Exeter. This person, who died in 1784, at a very advanced age, was a landsurveyor and entirely self-taught. He had a competent skill in antiquities, and projected a history of his native county, of which the survey by Risdon was intended as a basis. That work was printed in a miserably garbled manner in 2 volumes 1714; but even that wretched edition was become very scarce. Unfortunately, though Mr. Chapple had great industry in collecting materials, he had no genius in the disposition of them: the consequence of which was that, at the time of his death, about ten sheets only were perfected at the press, which his executor, Mr. Gullet of Honiton, caused to be distributed among the subscribers. The manuscripts of Chapple were disposed of to Sir Lawrence Palk, in whose library they remain for the use of some future antiquary, who shall venture upon a better History of Devonshire than has yet appeared.

CHASE, SAMUEL, M.A.

Messiah's Advent, or Remarks on the Moral Tendency of the Doctrine of Christ's Manifestation in the Flesh, 8vo. 1815.

CHATEAUBRIAND, FRANÇOIS AUGUSTE

DE, an eloquent French writer and loyalist, is the nephew of the virtuous Mallesherbes, the advocate of Louis XVI. M. de Chateaubriand, who is a native of Bretagne, being obliged by the revolution to quit France, went to America; and it was while on his travels that he conceived the plan of his elegant work on the beauties of Christianity. Returning to Europe he went to Germany, where he was made prisoner by the Austrian troops in 1799, but soon obtained his release, after which he visited England, where he published some political works, particularly that on Revolutions. Here also he began to prepare his treatise on the genius of Christianity. His literary friends obtained permission for him to visit France, where he assisted in editing the Mercury. In 1803 he was secretary to the French embassy at Rome, but he resigned his office in a few months. Since then he went to the East, but when the change of affairs called for his talents, he displayed them with great energy on the side of the legitimate monarchy, for which he has received the title of Count, and was nominated ambassador to the Court of Sweden. His works are as follows :

Atala, or the Amours of Two Savages in the Desert.—The Beauties of Christianity; with Notes, &c. by the Rev. Henry Kett, 3 v. 8vo.—The Martyrs, or the Triumph of Christianity, 2 v. 8vo.—Travels in Greece, Palestine, Egypt, and Barbary, during the years 1806-7, 2 v. 8vo. 2nd edit. 1812.—Of Buonaparte and the Bourbons, 8vo. 1814. several editions; it has also been recorded in the Pamphleteer.—Political Reflections on the True Interests of all Frenchmen.—An Essay on the Revolutions of Empires, 8vo. 1815.—Recollections of Italy, England, and America, with various Essays on Literature and Morals, 2 v. 8vo. 1815.—Report on the State of France, made in Louis XVIII. in Council, 1815.

CHRISTIAN, OBADIAH. This is an assumed appellation, in which some person, under the guise of a Quaker, thought proper to attack the Rev. Mr. Clayton the elder, for his extreme bigotry and want of liberality to the rest of his dissenting brethren.

CHRISTIE, JAMES, Esq. This gentleman is the son and successor of the celebrated auctioneer. He has had a most liberal education, which is evinced by his very classical publications. To those already mentioned, is to be added the following:

An Essay on the Earliest Species of Idolatry, the Worship of the Elements, 8vo. 1815.

CHURCHEY, WILLIAM, of Brecon. This person, who has had no education, obtained a great number of subscriptions to his poem on the moral character of human nature, in which he had the hardihood to measure his strength with Pope. He is also the author of,

An Addition to Collins's Ode on the Passions, and an Elegy on Cowper, 8vo.—A Philippic on Idleness, 8vo.

CHURTON, RALPH, M.A. F.A.S. Archdeacon of St. David's, took his degree of M.A. in 1778. Besides the works already mentioned, he has published,

A Sermon preached before the University of Oxford, on the Fast Day, 4to. 1793.—A Sermon preached at the Visitation of the Bishop of Peterborough, 4to. 1798.—A Sermon in Lambeth Chapel, at the Consecration of Dr. Thomas Burgess, Bishop of St. David's; and Dr. John Fisher, Bishop of Exeter; 4to. 1803.—The late Mr. Gough bequeathed to Mr. Churton his highly enriched copies of Wood's Athenæ Oxonienses, and Kennett's Parochial Antiquities; the former of which he has liberally imparted to Mr. Bliss for his improved edition, and the latter to Mr. Bandinel for republication.

CLAPHAM, REV. SAMUEL, M.A. This respectable clergyman, besides the works already enumerated, has several essays on theological subjects in the Orthodox Churchman's Magazine. He has also published,

A Translation of Massillon's Charges under the name of Theophilus St. John, 8vo. 1805.—A Sermon preached at Blandford, at the Visitation of the Lord Bishop of Bristol, August 20, 1813, 8vo. 1814.

CLARK, RICHARD, late of St. George's Free Chapel at Windsor, Deputy of the three choirs in London, and Secretary to the Glee Club.

The Words of the most Favorite Pieces performed at the Glee Club, the Catch Club, and other Public Societies, 8vo. 1814.

CLARKE, ANNE, a lady who has published a miscellaneous collection by subscription, but so little to her satisfaction, that she has inserted some very angry letters in the Gentleman's Magazine, complaining of the penurious conduct of her patrons. This volume is entitled, Literary Patch-Work, 8vo. 1813.

CLARKE, HEWSON, was born at Maryport in Cumberland, March 16, 1787; and admitted of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, in 1806. While at the University he published his paper called the Saunterer, and in 1809, he became a writer in Cumberland's Review. Besides many anonymous essays, he has published, The Art of Pleasing, printed at Cambridge, 8vo. 1807. — History of the Campaigns in Russia, 8vo. 1813.—At present he is said to be engaged on a History of Wars arising out of the French Revolution; a Continuation of Hume; and a Supplement to Johnson's Lives of the Poets. He has also been the editor of several periodical Journals.

CLARKE, REV. JAMES STANIER, LL.B. This respectable divine was formerly a chaplain in the navy, in which capacity he served on the coast of America. His intimacy with the late Admiral John Payne led to his appointment in the royal household. The Life of Nelson, though bearing the joint names of our author and Mr. M'Arthur, is known to have been wholly composed by the former, who has also published, Essays, Moral and Entertaining, on the various Faculties and Passions of the Human Mind, by Edward Earl of Clarendoo; a new edition, dedicated by permission to Princess Elizabeth, 2 v. 12mo. 1815.

CLARKE, JOHN EDWARD.
A Dissertation on the Dragon, Beast, and False Prophet of the Apocalypse, with a Dissertation on the Number 666, 8vo. 1814.

CLEAVER, Rt. Rev. WILLIAM, D.D. Bishop of St. Asaph, died at his house in Bruton Street, after a short illness, April 15, 1815. In 1786 he succeeded Dr. Barker as principal of his college, which situation he discharged with exemplary care till within two years of his death. The Bishop is generally supposed to have been the author of an attack upon Dr. Marsh's Dissertation on the Origin of the three Gospels of Matthew, Mark, and Luke, which called forth a very severe reply from the Professor, who being answered again from the Oxford press, retorted in a strain of asperity highly unbecoming his character, and not called for by the subject. Bishop Cleaver also published,

A Sermon at the Anniversary Meeting of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, 4to. 1794; and a Collection of his own Sermons with those of his Father, 8vo. 1808.

CLEPHANE, A. Esq. advocate at the Scottish bar.

Decisions of the First and Second Division of the Court of Session from Nov. 1812, to Dec. 1813, Feb. 1815. This collection has been formed by appointment of the faculty of advocates, and in the work are associated with Mr. Clephane the following advocates: Messrs. Bell, Campbell, and Dunlop.

CLIFFORD, ARTHUR, Esq.
Carmen Seculare, an ode in commemoration of the Hundredth Anniversary of the Accession of the House of Hanover to the British Throne, 8vo. 1814.—Tixall Poetry, with notes and illustrations, 4to. 1814.

CLINCH, J. B. Esq. Barrister at Law, in Dublin, and a member of the Catholic board, in whose service he has approved himself a determined zealot, as may be seen in his tract entitled, An Inquiry, Legal and Political, into the Consequences of giving to his Majesty a Negative upon the Appointment of Irish Catholic Bishops and Priests, 8vo. 1808.

CLOWES, Rev. JOHN, M.A. Rector of St. John's, Manchester, and an ardent defender of the Swedenborgian mysticism, as will be apparent from the titles of his numerous tracts, to which may be added the following:

An Affectionate Address to the Clergy on the Theological Writings of Emmanuel Swedenborg, 8vo.—Dialogue between a Churchman and a Methodist, on the Opinions of Emmanuel Swedenborg, 8vo.—The Gospel of St. Matthew translated from the Greek, with Illustrations from the writings of Swedenborg, 8vo.—Dialogues on the Nature, Design, and Evidence, of the Writings of Swedenborg, 8vo.—Sermons preached in the Church of St. John, Manchester, 2 v. 12mo.—Security the Privilege of God's Elect, a Fast Sermon, 8vo. 1801.—The Present Scarcity, its Causes and Cure, 8vo. 1801.—The End and Design of the Lord's Supper, 8vo.—The Caterpillars and the Gooseberry Bush, three dialogues for youth, 12mo.

CLUBBE, Rev. WILLIAM, LL.B. died at Framlingham, in November, 1814, aged seventy. He was the son of the Rev. John Clubbe, Rector of Wheatfield, and author of a very ingenious history of that parish, written in a happy style of burlesque. This was, after his death, reprinted with several miscellaneous pieces in 2 vols. 12mo.

COBBIN, Rev. JOHN, a dissenting minister at South Molton, in Devonshire, who has published a tract on the immorality of the stage, 8vo: a single sermon, and,

The French Preacher, consisting of Discourses translated from the most eminent Catholic and Protestant Divines, with Biographical Notes, 8vo. 1814.

COBBETT, WILLIAM. To the list of his publications should be added one which could hardly have been expected from the pen of a candidate for popularity, being a justification of high rents, tythes, and corn restrictions. It is entitled, A Letter to the Inhabitants of Southampton, on the Corn Bill, 8vo. 1814.

COBBOLE, Rev. JOHN SPENCER, A.M. of Ipswich. He has also published The Importance of Religion both to Society and the Individual, an Assize Sermon at Bury, March 30, 1815, 4to.

COBBOLD, Mrs. J. An Ode on the Victory of Waterloo, 4to. 1815. This poem was published for the benefit of the Waterloo subscription.

COCHRANE, the Hon. THOMAS, commonly called Lord Cochrane, is the eldest son of the Earl of Dundonald. He was bred to the navy and distinguished himself so well as to be rewarded with the Order of the Bath. He also obtained a seat in the House of Commons for Westminster, and was very popular in that city: but just as he was about to go out to America as Captain of the Tonnant, he was discovered to have been a party in a conspiracy to impose false rumors upon the Stock Exchange, for which he with his associates were tried and found guilty. The most ignominious part of the sentence was remitted, but he was confined in the King's Bench, expelled the House of Commons, and degraded from the Knighthood. To the surprise of all consistent persons he was re-elected for Westminster, and just before the expiration of his imprisonment he found means to effect his escape. After some days search he was found in the body of the House of Parliament, and reconducted to the Bench. He has since taken his seat and published the following tracts:

A Letter to Lord Ellenborough, 8vo. 1814.—An Address to the Electors of Westminster, 8vo. 1815.

COCKBURN, Lieut. General.

A Voyage to Cadiz and Gibraltar, up the Mediterranean to Sicily and Malta, 2 v. 8vo. embellished with numerous sketches, 1815.

COCKIN, Rev. JOSEPH, a dissenting minister at the Square Chapel, Halifax. Besides a sermon preached before the London Missionary Society, and printed in their collection, he has published, The Oppressor Punished, a Sermon on the Thanksgiving Day, Jan. 13, 1814, 8vo.

COKE, Rev. THOMAS, LL.D. This divine was a native of Brecon in South Wales, and educated at Queen's College, Oxford, where he took his degree of B.A. and entered into orders, soon after which he became a disciple of Mr. John Wesley, in whose connexion he figured as an itinerant preacher. Some years before the death of that extraordinary man, he was prevailed upon by his friend Coke to consecrate him a bishop, which ceremony was performed, though in a private manner and in an upper room, thus completing the violation of all religious order in the circumstance of one simple presbyter conferring episcopal authority upon another of the same quality. After this the new Bishop, or Superintendent as he was called, obtained a degree suited to his rank from a foreign university, and with great parade, took upon him to ordain deacons and priests after the Methodistical rule, in England and America. Dr. Coke died on his voyage to India, May 3, 1814.

COLLAND, JOHN, should be COLLARD, and his works were published with his name reversed in the title thus, Dralloc. He died some years ago, at Birmingham, where he carried on the drug business.

COLLINS, JOSHUA, A.M. Rector of Newport. This is a fictitious personage, and the little volume that passes under his name was written, at least the original part of it, by a gentleman well known in the literary world. The real publisher, however, contrived to make this useful manual a vehicle for recommending his own compilations; and to do this more effectually he ascribed it to an author that never had an existence. In a late edition, by one Catlow, the Rev. Mr. Collins is said to be defunct!!

COLLYER, WILLIAM BENGO, D.D. It is erroneously stated that this gentleman obtained a gratuitous degree from the University of Edinburgh; but the real fact is that the honour was obtained for him by the direct interest of the Duke of Kent. This doctor has also published, Fugitive Pieces, 2 v. 12mo.—The Rock of Israel, a Sermon at Salter's Hall, 8vo.—Presumption overthrown by the God of Battles, a volunteer sermon at Peckham, 8vo. 1804.—The Mysteries of Providence, a sermon on the death of Mrs. Brooksbank, 8vo. 1805.—The Voice of Years, delivered at Broad Street Meeting, for the benefit of the Friendly Female Society, 8vo.—Tears wiped away, a Funeral Sermon for Mrs. Hobbard, of Peckham, 8vo.—Sermon at Salter's Hall, Jan. 2, 1814. 8vo.

COLMAN, GEORGE, Esq. To the works of this facetious writer, who was born in London, Oct. 21, 1762, should be added, Eccentric Tales, under the name of Coraelius Crambo, 12mo. 1808.

COLQUHOUN, PATRICK, LL.D. This excellent writer and magistrate has also published,

A Tract upon the Abuse of Public Houses, 1800.—A Treatise on the Wealth, Power, and Resources, of the British Empire in every quarter of the World, including the East Indies, 4to. 2nd edition, improved, 1815.

CONGREVE, Sir WILLIAM, Bart. was born May 20, 1772, and succeeded his father, Lieut. General Sir William, April 30, 1814. The title was created in the person of the last mentioned general in 1812; and to this honor the present Baronet adds the Order of St. Anne of Russia, which was conferred upon him by the Emperor Alexander, for the services rendered by his rockets at the battle of Leip-sic. The scientific skill of the present Baronet has been displayed in several valuable improvements, but perhaps in none more than the method of constructing locks for canals by which much labor is saved, as well as water. Sir William is representative in Parliament for the borough of Gatton, Comptroller of the Royal Laboratory, and superintendent of military machines. He has published, in addition to his volume on naval ordnance,

A Description of the Construction and Properties of the Hydro-Pneumatic Lock, 4to. 1815.

COOKE, JOHN, Esq. of Gray's Inn. This name was inserted by an oversight arising from the reprint of a tract in favor of the republican form of government, written by John Cooke, the secretary to the infamous High Court of Justice of which the brutal Bradshaw was president. The book was printed in 1651, and in the year 1660 the author was executed as a traitor in company with Hugh Peters.

COOKE, NATHANIEL, Esq.
Creed Philosophic, on the Immortality of the Soul, 4to. 1813.

COOKE, WILLIAM.
A New Picture of the Isle of Wight, illustrated with Plates, and a Voyage round the Coast, 8vo. 1809.

COOPER, JOHN. This person calls himself a professor of astrology, and an expounder of the mysteries of that sublime science to the understandings of the vulgar. His work is entitled: Primum Mobile; with Theses to the Theory and Canons of Practice, wherein is demonstrated from Astronomical and Philosophical Principles, the Nature and Extent of Celestial Influx on Man, 8vo. 1814.

COOPER, WILLIAM, of Dublin. He was originally a pocket-book maker and a Methodist preacher in Whitechapel, where, some years ago, he made a great noise by his labors to convert the Jews. At that time he printed a rhapsodical discourse entitled, The True Messiah, 8vo. 1795.

COPESTON, Rev. EDWARD, D.D. Provost of Oriel College. He is a native of Devonshire, where his ancestors were settled on their estate long before the conquest. On the death of Dr. Eveleigh he was elected to the government of his college, and admitted to his degree as D.D. To the list of his works should be added the following:

A Reply to the Calumnies of the Edinburgh Review against Oxford, 8vo.—A Second Reply to the Edinburgh Review, 8vo. 1810.—The Classical Parts of which have been recorded in the Classical Journal.

CORP, HARRIET.
An Antidote to the Miseries of Human Life, or the Widow Placid, and her daughter Rachel, 2 v. 8v. 181a.

COX, D. member of the Society of Water Color Painters, in Spring Garden.

Treatise on Landscape Painting in Water Colors from the First Rudiments to the Finished Picture, fol. 1814.

COXE, EDWARD, Esq. of Hampstead Heath, died May 26, 1814, aged sixty-six.

COXE, WILLIAM, M.A. F.R.S. This excellent divine and elegant writer is the son of Dr. William Coxe, physician to St. Thomas's and Guy's Hospitals. He was born about 1750, and in 1764 was admitted a scholar of Eton, from whence he was elected to King's College, where of course he succeeded to a fellowship. B.A. 1769: and M.A. 1772. On his return from his travels he became chaplain to the Duke of Marlborough, and afterwards to Bishop Douglas, who gave him a prebend in his cathedral, and the living of Willey in Wiltshire, which he exchanged for the rectory of Bemerton. He afterwards obtained the Archdeaconry of Wilts. In addition to the list of his works should be added,

A Sermon at St. Paul's for the Sons of the Clergy, 4to. 1807.—Letter to John Benett, Esq. showing the Impracticability of commuting Tythes, 8vo. 1815.

COZENS, ALEXANDER, Esq. the elegant author of the "Principles of Beauty," and the "Treatise on drawing Landscape," died at his house in Duke Street, Piccadilly, in May 1786.

CRABBE, REV. GEORGE, LL.B. This ingenious writer has been lately presented, by the Duke of Rutland, to the living of Trowbridge, void by the resignation of Mr. Beresford. In a preface to a new edition of his poem called "The Library," he says, that while he was composing it, he was honored by the advice of Mr. Burke, in whose presence part of it was written, and the whole submitted to his judgment. Through Mr. Burke, he was introduced to Dr. Johnson, who expressed his approbation of the poem in warm terms. The reputation which he acquired by this piece procured him the patronage of the late Duke of Rutland, on whom he attended as chaplain to Ireland, and whose funeral sermon he preached in the chapel at Belvoir. In 1789, by the recommendation of the Duchess Dowager, Lord Thurlow presented him to the rectories of Muston in Leicestershire, and West Allington in Lincolnshire. The year following he communicated "The Natural History of the Vale of Belvoir" to Mr. Nichols, who has incorporated it into his History of Leicestershire. From this time to 1807, Mr. Crabbe resigned himself wholly to parochial duties and the improvement of a numerous family; the courtship of the Muses only occupying a few casual hours. The volume of poems which he published in the last mentioned year, was honored with the critical examination of Mr. Fox and his nephew Lord Holland, in the manuscript state, and from their remarks, the whole received both strength and polish.

CRAIG, JOHN, Esq.

Elements of Political Science, 3 v. 8vo. 1814.

CRAVEN, WILLIAM, D.D. This venerable divine died at Cambridge early in 1814, aged eighty-four. He was nearly related to the noble family of his name, and as such was elected to one of the Craven scholarships on his entrance at the University. He took his degree of B.A. in 1753, at which time he was fourth wrangler and a chancellor's medallist. He proceeded M.A. in 1756, and D.D. in 1789, on being elected to the mastership of St. John's. He was at that time Arabic Professor, in which chair he succeeded Leonard Chappelow, but he resigned that situation in 1795.

CREECH, WILLIAM, of Edinburgh, and the author of Fugitive Pieces, was a native of Newcastle, where his father was a respectable clergyman of the established church. After obtaining a good education, the son went to the continent, and in 1771 succeeded his friend, Mr. Kinnaid, in that part of the printing business which was unconnected with the patent of King's printer for Scotland. Mr. Creech was concerned in all the respectable publications of his time, by which he realized a handsome fortune. In 1811 he discharged the office of Lord Provost, and died at the beginning of 1814, after carrying on the bookselling business forty-four years, in the course of which he enjoyed the friendship of the first literary characters, particularly Dr. Ferguson, Dr. Robertson, Dr. Blair, Dr. Adam Smith, Lord Kaimes, David Hume, and Dr. Beattie.

CROFT, SIR HERBERT, Bart. He was born November 1, 1751, and received his academical education at University College, Oxford, where he took the degree of B.C.L. April 6, 1785; at which time he was a student in the Middle Temple. After having been called to the bar he entered into holy orders, but has had no preferment. Temporary embarrassments obliged him to go abroad several years ago, and he was one of the English detained in France by the tyranny of Buonaparte. On the restoration of Louis XVIII. Sir Herbert caused to be printed at Didot's press, two tracts with the following titles :

Consolatory Verses, addressed to her Royal Highness Madame, Duchess of Angoulême, and dedicated to his Royal Highness the Prince Regent, 4to. 1814.—Reflexions Soumises à la Sagesse des Membres du Congrès de Vienne, et à tous ceux pour le bonheur desquels ils sont ressemblés, 8vo. 1814.

CROWTHER, BRYAN, surgeon in Boswell Court, died April 17th, 1815. In the late investigation of the state of Bethlem Hospital, the apothecary to that institution gave a most disgusting and illiberal character of Mr. Crowther, out of resentment, as it should seem, on account of the report of some cases which reflected upon the medical treatment of the patients in that house.

CULLEN, MARGARET. This lady is the daughter of the celebrated Dr. Cullen of Edinburgh, and in addition to the novel mentioned under her name, she has published another entitled, Mornton, 3 v. 12mo. 1814.

CUMMING, ALEXANDER, Esq. F.R.S. This very ingenious mathematician and mechanic, was a native of Edinburgh, and bred a watch maker, which business he carried on with great reputation many years in Bond Street. On retiring from trade he settled in Pentonville, where he had several houses. He was also appointed a magistrate for the county, and continued to pursue his mechanical studies with diligence to the time of his death, which happened in March, 1814. His son, James Cumming, Esq. F.S.A. and editor of Feltham's Resolves, is one of the senior clerks to the India Board.

CUNNINGHAM, REV. J. W. M.A. Vicar of Harrow. To his works should be added the following :

The Velvet Cushion, a tale, 8vo. 1814.—On Church of England Missions, 8vo. 1814.—De Rance, a poem, 8vo. 1815.

CURRY, DR. JAMES, of Guy's Hospital, is a native of Scotland, and received his education at Edinburgh. In 1787, he came to England, and settled at Kettering, from whence he removed to London, where he has gained deservedly great reputation and considerable practice. Besides the works in the line of his profession, he has published :

A Brief Sketch of the Causes which gave rise to the late High Price of Grain, 8vo. 1815.

D

DACRE, CHARLOTTE. This, we understand, is also an assumed name, the real author of the productions mentioned, being Mrs. Byrne, the wife of N. B. Esq. editor of the Morning Post.

DAKINS, REV. WILLIAM WHITFIELD, D.D. precentor of Westminster, and chaplain to his Royal Highness the Duke of York. He is a native of Hampshire, and was educated first at Wykeham's school, and afterwards at St. Alban Hall, Oxford, where he took his degree of B.C.L. He was for some time curate of St. John's, Westminster, and was appointed minor canon of the Abbey by the late Bishop Horsley, who also made him his chaplain, and intended to have given him the valuable living of Chirk, but was disappointed by death. Dr. Dakins has edited the stereotyped Greek Testament, also the Latin Testament of Beza, and Young's Latin and English Dictionary, printed at Wilson's press. Besides these works he has published,

A Translation of the History of Catherine, Empress of Russia, in 2 v. from the French, 8vo. 1798.—A Sermon on the Fast Day, before the Volunteers of St. John's and St. Margaret's, 4to. 1801.—A Sermon preached at the Anniversary Meeting of the Royal Humane Society, 8vo. 1810.

DALRYMPLE, REV. DR. WILLIAM, minister at Ayr, died at that place, in 1813, aged ninety, and in the sixty-eighth year of his ministry.

DANIEL, WILLIAM.

A Familiar Treatise on Perspective, designed for Ladies and those who are unacquainted with the Principles of Optics and Geometry, 12mo. 1807.

DAUBENEY, REV. CHARLES, LL.B. This respectable divine is the son of an eminent merchant at Bristol, of which city his brother, some years ago, was one of the representatives in parliament. The Archdeacon received his education at Winchester School, and New College, Oxford; after which he was elected Fellow of Winchester College. He was the principal instrument in erecting the Free Church at Bath, where he has continued to officiate regularly, and with so much reputation as to obtain from the late Bishop Douglas, first a prebend in his cathedral, and next the Archdeaconry of Sarum. To his works should be added the following :

A Sermon preached at the Visitation of the Archdeacon of Wilts, 8vo. 1793.—A Letter to a Sound Member of the Church, with a Supplement containing Two Letters sent to the Christian Observer, 8vo. 1805.—A Sermon at Christ Church, Bath, on the Attempt made on his Majesty's Life, 8vo. 1800.—Sermon on Threatened Invasion, 8vo. 1803.—A Second Volume of Sermons on Practical Subjects, 8vo, 1805.—Remarks on the Unitarian Method of interpreting Scripture, 8vo. 1815.

DAVENPORT, SELINA.

The Sons of the Viscount and Daughters of the Earl, nov. 4 v. 1814.—The Hypocrite, or Modern Janus, nov. 5 v. 12mo. 1814.—Donald Monteith; the Handsomest Man of the Age, nov. 5 v. 12mo. 1815.

DAVIES, GRIFFITH.

A Key to Bonycastle's Trigonometry, 8vo. 1814.

DAVIES, REV. HUGH, F.L.S. Rector of Aber, in Anglesea, and one of the best naturalists in Wales, as is testified by the late Mr. Pennant, and also by Messrs. Turner and Dillwyn, all of whom acknowledge the benefit they have derived from his communications. He has published, Welsh Botany, containing a Systematic Catalogue of the Native Plants of the Isle of Anglesea, and an Alphabetical Catalogue of the Welsh Names of Vegetables, rendered into Latin and English, 8vo. 1813.

DAVIES, WILLIAM.

An Olio of Biographical and Literary Anecdotes and Memoranda, 12mo. 1814.

DAVES, MATTHEW, Esq. The sermons and metaphysical tracts mentioned in his article, were the productions of the Rev. M. Daves, formerly of John's College, Oxford, and Rector of St. Michael's, Cornhill. To the works of Mr. Matthew Daves should be added,

An Introduction to the Knowledge of the Law on Real Estates and of Remainders, 8vo. 1814.

DAWSON, DR. BENJAMIN, was an active writer in the controversy excited by the publication of the confessional, and in favor of the petitioners for the abolition of subscription to the thirty-nine articles. He died at his rectory, in July, 1814, aged eighty-five. The Doctor was one of the five sons of a dissenting minister at Halifax, and was bred, with three of his brothers, to the same profession. But afterwards he and two others, of whom one was Abraham, mentioned in the preceding article, conformed to the established church, and obtained ecclesiastical preferment through the interest of the respectable family of Barne, in the county of Suffolk.

DEALTRY, REV. WILLIAM, M.A. Rector of Clapham, Surry, and chaplain to the Bishop of Bristol. To the works already mentioned should be added the following: Sermon at St. Aone's Black Friars, before the Church Missionary Society, 8vo. 1813.—A Review of the Rev. H. Norris's Attack on the Bible Society, 8vo. 1815.

DE CHARMILLY, PETER FRANCIS VEAULT. The asperity with which the late Bryan Edwards noticed this gentleman, in his History of St. Domingo, occasioned a reply from the Colonel, in 1797.

He afterwards obtained rank in our service, and was employed in the Peninsular war. The observations of General Tarleton upon his conduct drew from him a Narrative of Transactions in Spain, 8vo. 1810. He obtained permission of the Prince Regent to offer his services to Louis XVIII. but died at Ghent in June, 1815.

DE COETLOGON, CHARLES EDWARD, M.A. This gentleman, on leaving the university, became a very popular preacher of the Calvinistic cast, and was appointed assistant to the late Mr. Madan, at the Lock Chapel. To his works should be added the following:

The Divine Message, a Sermon, 8vo.—The Nature and Advantages of the Lord's Day, 8vo.—A Sermon in the Chapel at Newgate, to several Condemned Persons, 8vo. 1781.—The Justice of God in the Damnation of Sinners, a Sermon, 8vo. 1788.—A True Estimate of the Light of Inspiration and Light of Human Learning, written in answer to a Discourse by Bishop Horsley, 8vo. 1788.

DELAVAL, EDWARD HUSSEY, Esq. F.R.S. died in Parliament Place, Westminster, August 14, 1814, aged 85.

DELL, JOHN, author of the Poetical Effusions, died at Sturry in Kent, in November, 1810, aged fifty-three. From bodily infirmity, which rendered him a recluse at an early period, he contracted a love of literature, which was evinced in numerous pieces in several periodical publications, under the signature of Rusticus.

DIBDIN, CHARLES. This ingenious man died at his house in Arlington Street, Camden Town, July 25, 1814, leaving a wife and a daughter to mourn his loss. At the age of sixteen he brought out an opera at Covent Garden, under the auspices of Dr. Arne. For some time after this he was principally engaged in composing music for the performances of others, among which were Love in the City, Lionel and Clarissa, the Padlock, the Jubilee, and the Christmas Tale. In 1768, he appeared on the stage as the original Mungo, in the Padlock, in which character, as also in that of Ralph in the Maid of the Mill, he gained considerable applause. In 1793, Mr. Dibdin obtained a verdict, with £200. damages against the publisher of the Observer newspaper, for a libel on his character.

DOMER, DR. WILLIAM, of Dover Street. He resided some time at Naples, where he contracted an intimacy with Sir William Hamilton, by whose recommendation he obtained considerable practice both in the Mediterranean and in England. After superintending the botanic garden at La Valletta in Malta, he came to London, where he died April 20, 1815, aged 52.

DONNE, BENJAMIN who is a Schoolmaster and Methodist Preacher at Bristol, where his uncle of both his names kept a naval academy, and the city library many years. The subject of the present article has also printed,

An Abstract of English History, for the use of Schools, 18mo. 1812.

DRALLOE, JOHN. The real name of this man was Collard; he died about seven years ago at Birmingham, where he carried on the business of a druggist.

DREWITT, THOMAS, M. A. late curate of Cheddar, was buried there, Oct. 17, 1803. It appears from his funeral sermon by Mr. Biddulph, that the deceased, a short time before his death, had embraced the Calvinistic doctrine with great zeal, having been converted by reading the treatise on practical religion, by Mr. Wilberforce. After this Mr. D. preached twice on a Lord's day, and once on a week day evening, without any increase of salary.

DUNCAN, FRANCIS, M.D.

A Letter to Sir Walter Farquhar, Bart. on the subject of a particular Affection of the Bowels, frequent in the East Indies. 8vo. 1801.

DUNCAN, JOHN, LL.D. This gentleman was a native of Scotland, and pastor of the Scotch Church in Peter Street, Westminster. He died June 20, 1814, aged 73.

DUNLOP, JOHN.

The History of Fiction, being a critical account of the most celebrated prose works of fiction from the earliest Greek romances to the novels of the present age, 3 v. post 8vo. 1814.

DUNSFORD, MARTIN, the author of the history of Tiverton, died in his native town, in March 1807. He was engaged in the woollen trade, and published the history with a view to recover and ascertain the rights of many charities which were alienated from the poor of that place.

DUNSTER, REV. CHARLES, M.A. He is the son of the Rev. Charles Dunster, the translator of Horace, and was educated at Trinity College, Oxford, where he proceeded to his master's degree June 27, 1775. To the list of his publications should be added,

A Letter to Granville Sharp, Esq. respecting his Remarks on the two last Petitions in the Lord's Prayer, 12mo. 1807.

DUPPA, RICHARD, LL.B. Barrister at Law of the Inner Temple. Besides the works already mentioned he has printed Observations on the Price of Corn, as connected with the Commerce of the Country and the Public Revenue, 8vo. 1815.

E

EATON, DANIEL ISAAC, after many vicissitudes died at Deptford in September 1814. He stood two or three times in the pillory for different offences, and to avoid a heavier punishment emigrated to America, from whence he returned when he fancied that no prosecution was to be dreaded. Falling again into his old practices he was pilloried opposite Newgate for a blasphemous publication. During his confinement his business was carried on by a female, and a scandalous pamphlet again calling for the notice of the government he was brought up for judgment, but on delivering up the author he was released, and died soon afterwards in poverty and contempt.

ELLIOTT, RICHARD, A.B. formerly of Bene't College, Cambridge. He died suddenly in the pulpit of the meeting house in Glass-house Yard, Aldersgate Street, Dec. 28. 1788. He was a native of Kingsbridge, Devon; and on entering into orders became a zealous Calvinist, but afterwards he turned Arian and seceded from the church. He was the author of many sermons and controversial pieces.

ELLIS, GEORGE, Esq. F.R.S. F.S.A. This elegant scholar died in Connaught Place, April 10, 1815, aged 70. Mr. Ellis was one of the writers of the Rolliad, in which he drew a very severe and unjust character of Mr. Pitt, but this did not hinder that great man from honoring him with his friendship. In 1797 he accompanied Lord Malmsbury to Lisle, and from that period he became a zealous admirer of administration, being convinced that their measures were calculated to save this country at least from that ruin which threatened the rest of Europe. He was an occasional writer in the Antijacobin, and at the time of his decease he was engaged in a life of the late Mr. Windham.

ETHERINGTON, REV. THOMAS, M. A. This clergyman died at Stockwell in August 1815.

EUSTACE, REV. JOHN CHETWODE. He died at Naples of a fever in the summer of 1815. A few months before his death he added to his literary reputation by the publication of a letter on the state of Paris, addressed to George Petre, Esq. 8vo. In this performance he discovered the same classical taste and judgment with respect to works of art which had distinguished his splendid volumes on Italy. Mr. Eustace had made considerable progress in a didactic poem on the subject of Education, which nothing but a modest diffidence prevented him from completing and sending to the press.

EVLEIGH, JOHN, D.D. died at Oxford, Dec. 10, 1814, aged 67. He was a native of Devonshire, and educated first at Exeter school and next at Oriel College, where he proceeded M.A. in 1772; and on being elected to the provostship in 1781 he took the degrees of B. and D.D. His remains were interred in St. Mary's Church, followed by his nearest relations and the members of the college over which he had presided thirty-three years with the greatest credit. He had been for some time in a declining state, and resided the whole of the preceding summer at Brighton, where however he seldom appeared but on his poney either upon the cliffs or the downs. He left an only daughter who married, in 1813, the Rev. John Heathcote Wyndham, of Wadhams College.

EWING, ARCHIBALD, a school-master of Edinburgh, and author of some practical mathematical treatises, died in that city in 1804.

F

FAITHORN, JOHN, Surgeon in Berners Street, and formerly in the East India Company's Marine Service. He is the author of a useful practical treatise entitled, Facts and Observations on Liver Complaints and Bilious Disorders in general, 8vo. 1814. 2d edit. 1815.

FARISH, REV. WILLIAM, M.A. Jacksonian Professor of Chemistry at Cambridge. His father was a clergyman of Carlisle, at the grammar school of which city the son received his education preparatory to his removal to the University of Cambridge, where at the age of 16 he was entered a sizar of Magdalen College. When he took his bachelor's degree, owing to his unassuming manner, he was in danger of being placed in a situation below his merit; perceiving which he challenged the whole senate house to a trial of mathematical skill, and by this expedient he attained the honor of being senior wrangler. This was in 1778, and shortly afterwards he was chosen fellow and tutor of his college. In 1792 he served the office of senior proctor, in which capacity he set an example of strict discipline. Of this a remarkable story is told; that once in his nightly rounds he observed three gownsmen enter a house of ill repute which he immediately besieged with his attendants in such a manner that escape was impossible. An out-house seemed to be the only place of security, and thither the prisoners fled. In the mean time the proctor entered and pursued his search till he came to the place where the fugitives actually lay perdu, though their retreat could not at first be discovered. A tub in one corner reversed and a recent inundation of water created suspicion. The proctor no sooner began to restore the tub to its natural position than the successor to its former contents appeared underneath with all his dripping honors thick about him. The other two culprits were discovered at last perched quietly as two fowls at midnight roosting on a beam across the roof. But strict as Mr. Farish was in his office he shone more splendidly in the character of a lecturer. On his election in 1794 to the professorship, he resolved to apply chemistry to an illustration of the arts and manufactures: accordingly after making personal observations in various places, he provided himself with a number of brass wheels of all forms and sizes, so that any two of them might work together, the cogwheels being all equal; and also with a variety of axles, bars, screws, clamps, &c. all of which were easily brought to form working models of almost every kind of machine. These he put in motion by a water wheel or a steam engine, in such a way as to make them perform the actual work of the real machines on a small scale; the professor at the same time explaining the mechanical and philosophical principles on which depend the various processes of the arts exhibited. In the course of these lectures, says the published syllabus, are explained the theory and practice of mining and of smelting metallic ores, of bringing them to nature, of converting, purifying, compounding, and separating the metals; and the numerous and various manufactures which depend upon them as well as the arts; which are more remotely connected with them, such as etching and engraving. The lecturer exhibits the methods of obtaining coal and other minerals—the processes by which sulphur, alum, common salt, acids, alkalies, nitre, and other saline substances are obtained, and in which they are used—the mechanical process in the formation of gunpowder, as well as its theory and effects. He shews also the arts of procuring and working animal and vegetable substances; the great staple manufactures of the country in wool, cotton, linen, and silk; together with the various chemical arts of bleaching, of preparing cloth, of printing it, of using adjective and substantive colors, and mordants or intermediates in dying. He explains in general the nature of machinery, the moving powers, such as water-wheels, wind-mills, and particularly the agency of steam, which is the great cause of the modern improvement and extension of manufactures. He treats likewise on subjects which relate to the carrying on, or facilitating the commerce of the country, such as inland navigation, the construction of bridges, aqueducts, locks, inclined planes, and other contrivances, by which vessels are raised or lowered from one level to another; of ships, docks, harbours, and naval architecture. On the whole, it is the great design of these lectures to excite the attention of persons already acquainted with the principles of mathematics, philosophy, and chemistry to real practice; and by drawing their minds to the consideration of the most useful inventions of ingenious men, in all parts of the kingdom, to enlarge their sphere of amusement and instruction, and to promote the improvement and progress of the arts. In 1792 Mr. Farish stood candidate for the professorship of natural and experimental philosophy, but the election was gained by Mr. Wollaston. The late Dr. Waring was so sensible of the profound scientific knowledge of Mr. Farish, that he paid but an ill compliment to the other members of the university, when he said that he was the only person who understood his writings. His modesty however exceeds his talents; of which the following is an instance. At a learned discussion which took place among some of the heads of Cambridge they all spoke except Mr. Farish. One of the company equally celebrated for his wit and his learning, at length said, "We have been talking for this hour in vain; and Farish, who knows more about the matter than all of us put together, has not uttered a word." He holds the rectory of Clifton in Northamptonshire, and as his academical avocations hinder him from residence, he holds a curacy near Cambridge which he regularly attends every Sunday.

FARMER, RICHARD, author of the poem entitled "The Soldiers;" and "An Analysis of the Spring discovered near Stow in Gloucestershire," was the same person. He was a linen draper at Stow on the Wold, where he died aged 49, April 27, 1814.

FARRE, JOHN RICHARD, M.D. was born at Barbadoes, Jan. 31, 1775. He studied under his father, who was also of the medical profession, and was brought by him to England in 1792 for improvement at Guy's and St. Thomas's Hospitals. There he continued under Mr. Forster two years, and then was passed at Surgeon's Hall with a view of accompanying Lord Moira in the expedition to France, instead of which he went in 1795 to Barbadoes. In 1797 he returned to London, married, and then went back to his native island, where he practised after the death of his father, but in 1800 he again came to England, and became intimately acquainted with the late Mr. Saunders, demonstrator of anatomy at St. Thomas's Hospital. In 1802 he graduated at Glasgow, and then went to Edinburgh to qualify himself according to the regulations of the royal college of London. In 1804 he commenced practice in the metropolis, and materially assisted his friend Saunders in establishing the infirmary for diseases of the eye. In 1806 he was admitted a licentiate, and in 1810 he was appointed physician to the London Dispensary. To the works mentioned before, should be added these productions;

Cases of Hydrocele, in the Medical Records and Researches, 8vo. 1798.—Cases of Cynanche, in the Medico-Chirurgical Transactions for 1812.—First part of the Order of Tumours in the Morbid Anatomy of the Liver, 4to. 1814.—Essay on Malconformation of the Heart, with plates, 8vo. 1815.—Second part of the Order of Tumours of the Morbid Anatomy of the Liver, 4to. 1815.

FARRE, SAMUEL, M.D. of Bristol. Elements of Medical Jurisprudence, 2d edit. 12mo. 1815.

FARRER, REV. JOHN, M.A. Rector of the united parishes of St. Clement, East Cheap, and St. Martin Orgars, London.

He is a native of Westmorland, and received his education at Queen's College, Oxford, where he proceeded to his Master's degree in 1797. His publications are these, Sermons on the Mission and Character of Christ, and on the Beatitudes; preached at the Bampton Lecture, 8vo. 1804.—Sermons on the Parables, 8vo. 1809.

FELL, RALPH, a native of Yorkshire, who came to London as a literary adventurer in 1802, died Feb. 26, 1814. Besides the works already mentioned he edited a pocket-sized impression of Hudibras with copious notes from Grey and others, 2 vols. 18mo.

FELLOWS, JOHN, the author of some poetical pieces, was a baptist teacher, and died many years ago.

FERRIAR, JOHN, M.D. died at Manchester in February 1815, aged 51. He was a native of Chester, and graduated at Edinburgh; after which he settled at Manchester, where he materially contributed to the establishment of the literary society, whose transactions he enriched by many valuable communications, one of which, on the plagiarisms of Sterne, attracted so much notice, as to be printed in a separate form with additions. Dr. Ferriar in the line of his possession called the attention of his brethren to a powerful remedy for the dropsy, of which he published an account in a pamphlet entitled,

On the Medical Properties of the Digitalis Purpurea, 8vo. Fox Glove, 8vo.

FESSENDEN, THOMAS GREEN, M. A. a native of Boston, where he now resides. The account of his poem on Tractoration is incorrect, for the truth is, he published that work with the express intention of ridiculing the opponents of that practice. On his return to America, Mr. Fessenden settled at Boston, where he distinguished himself more laudably in endeavouring to check the progress of political quackery, by publishing a paper, and also a humorous poem in hudiabastic measure, entitled, Democracy Unveiled, 12mo. 1806.

FILKES, Rev. JOHN, B.D. vicar of Navestock, and late Fellow of Trinity College, Oxford, where he took the degree of M.A. in 1773, and that of B.D. in 1783. He has printed,

A Loyal Tribute to our Sovereign, a sermon preached before the Volunteers, 8vo. 1803.—A Sermon on behalf of those useful Institutions called Friendly Societies, 2d edit. 8vo. 1804.

FINDLAY, ROBERT, D.D. Professor of Divinity at Glasgow, was born March 22, 1721, and was entered as a student of the University of Glasgow in 1734, after which he went to Leyden, and on his return prosecuted his studies at London and Edinburgh, with a view to the medical profession; but he soon relinquished that intention for the church, and was ordained in 1744 as minister of the parish of Stevenston, from whence he was removed to Galston in 1745. After passing nine years there; and two more at Paisley, he was appointed minister of the North West parish of Glasgow, where finally he obtained the divinity chair in 1782. Dr. Findlay died at Glasgow in his 94th year, June 15, 1814, and had he lived three months longer he would have been 70 years' an ordained minister, and 32 years professor of divinity.

FLY, Rev. HENRY, D. D. Rector of the parish of the Holy Trinity, in the Minories. He was formerly Fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford, M.A. July 1, 1773; B. and D.D. April 6, 1797. Dr. Fly has several curious articles in the Transactions of the Society of Antiquaries, of which he is a member, and he has published separately these discourses:

A Sermon at the Trinity Church on the Fast Day, 4to. 1791.—A Sermon in the same Church before the Volunteers, 4to. 1798.

FOCO, A. Surgeon at Newcastle, and not Fogg as erroneously spelt in the notice of his publication, besides which he has some interesting cases in the Medical and Physical Journal.

FOOTE, E. J. Esq. Rear Admiral of the Blue; commanded the Seahorse frigate under the orders of Lord Nelson in 1799. While employed in the blockade of Naples he concurred with Cardinal Ruffo, the Sicilian minister, in signing a treaty with the insurgents, but which was annulled on the part of the English Admiral, who also caused Caraccioli the Neapolitan Admiral to be tried and executed at the yard-arm in express violation of that treaty. On this account Captain Foote was grossly abused by a fellow named Harrison in a pretended Memoir of Lord Nelson; and for which the author was obliged to make an apology. The narrative which this gallant officer afterwards published on the subject does great credit to his talents and integrity.

FORBY, Rev. ROBERT, M.A. Rector of Fincham in Norfolk. This spirited and respectable divine, conceiving that his diocesan had acted unjustly towards those of his clergy who could not associate with dissenters, published an admirable remonstrance with this title,

A Letter to the Bishop of Norwich on some passages in the Reports of two Speeches said to have been addressed by his Lordship to the Church Missionary Association and the Bible Society, 8vo. 1815.

FORBE, BROWNLOW, a native of Ireland, who studied medicine under professor Cleghorn, after which he joined a company of strolling players, and closed his career by taking orders. It is said however that he retained so strong an inclination for his former profession as to play Scrub in the evening after having read prayers at church. He published at Newry in 1771 a farce altered from Cibber, called the Miraculous Cure, or the Citizen outwitted, 12mo. A person of both his names succeeded Mr. Villette as ordinary of Newgate, but was dismissed from that office in 1814.

FOSBEROKE, REV. THOMAS DUDLEY, M.A. F.A.S. This gentleman took his degree of M.A. May 11, 1792. He has displayed considerable talents as a topographer and an antiquary, and a few years since he completed an Archæological Dictionary, which, when for the most part printed, was stopped by the failure of the publisher. His letter to Mr. Canning on the case of the Duke of York, was not, as represented, a censure upon that gentleman, but upon the opposition. Of this pamphlet there were only fifty copies printed. The author has since published,

A Key to the New Testament, or Whitby's Commentary abridged, 8vo. 1815.

FREEPORT, ANDREW, Esq. This is merely a fictitious name adopted by a merchant in the city, who endeavoured to form an institution on enlarged principles with a considerable capital and protected by a charter, for the security of the shipping interest.

FREETH, JOHN. This person, who died at the age of 78 in October 1808, was the proprietor of a coffee house in Bell Street, Birmingham, which was much frequented by natives of the town and strangers for the sake of the songs which the poetical landlord, as he was called, used to entertain his company with every evening.

FRERE, JAMES HATLEY, Esq. This gentleman, after studying the prophecies seventeen years, discovered the application of several of them to Buonaparte, on which he published,

A combined View of the Prophecies of Daniel, Esdras and St. John, 8vo. 1815.

FULLER, REV. ANDREW, Baptist minister at Kettering, died there May 7, 1815. This learned and indefatigable divine was originally a weaver, and almost wholly destitute of an education. By perseverance however he became thoroughly acquainted with English literature; after which he studied the Latin with such success as to be stimulated to pursue his philological researches into the Greek, Hebrew and other languages. Being of a very serious disposition he was prevailed upon to enter into the ministry among the particular baptists, which society he adorned by his life, and edified by his writings. Mr. Fuller published "Memoirs of the Rev. Samuel Pearce, of Birmingham," 8vo. 1800; and a volume of Sermons on various subjects, 8vo. 1814.

FYNES, REV. CHARLES, LL.D. Prebendary of Westminster, and minister of St. Margaret's. He was formerly of Oriel College, Oxford; B.C.L. May 3, 1776; and D.C.L. April 26, 1783. He has published,

A Sermon at St. Margaret's Church before the Volunteers of that parish and St. John's, on the Consecration of their Colors, 8vo. 1798.

G

GANDOLPHY, REV. PETER. This gentleman, though affected by a distortion of the neck, has obtained great celebrity as a preacher at the Catholic Chapel near Manchester Square. Having translated the prayers of his church into English, he applied for a license to permit the use of them among the members of his communion, but was refused by Bishop Poynter, on which he repaired to Rome to gain the papal sanction; though the result is not yet known.

GARNETT, REV. JOHN, M.A. Prebendary of Winchester, chaplain in ordinary to his Majesty, and late Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. He has published, A Sermon preached in the Chapel at Lambeth on occasion of the Consecration of the Hon. and Rev. George Pelham, D.D. to the Bishopric of Bristol, 4to. 1803.—A Sermon preached at the Cathedral of Winchester on the General Thanksgiving for the Restoration of Peace, 4to. 1802.

GARROW, REV. DAVID WILLIAM, B.D. preacher at Gray's Inn, son of Sir William Garrow, and author of a Sermon preached at the anniversary meeting of the Royal Humane Society, was presented by the Lord Chancellor in 1815 to the Rectory of East Barnet, on the death of the Rev. Benjamin Underwood.

GASKIN, GEORGE, D.D. Rector of Stoke Newington, Middlesex, &c. This respectable divine was originally bred to trade, but quitted it early in life, and became a student of Trinity College, Oxford, where he took the degree of M.A. in 1779; and proceeded B. and D.D. in 1788. He was the intimate friend of the late learned and exemplary William Jones of Nayland; and has been lecturer of Islington above forty years.

Catechetical Instruction enforced in a Sermon preached at Manchester for the benefit of the National School established there, 8vo. 1814.

GENLIS, BRULART DE SILLERY, COUNTESS DE, late governess to the children of the Duke of Orleans; sister to the marquis Ducrest; and wife to the Count de Sillery who was also attached to the household of that Prince. She is the author of numerous works amounting to near forty volumes, many of which have been published in England. Madame de Genlis, who was noticed from her first entrance into the world for agreeable accomplishments, a cultivated mind and an agreeable person, married young. She left France in 1792, and resided abroad till the establishment of Buonaparte, from whom in 1805, she enjoyed a pension. The following works by this lady have appeared in England, Sacred Drama's, 8vo, 1786.—Tales of the Castle, 5 v. 12mo. several editions.—Adelaide and Theodore, 3 v. 15mo.—Alphonse, or Maternal Affection, 3 v. 12mo.—The Rival Mothers, 4 v.—The Duchess de la Valliere, a romance, 2 v. 12mo.—Madame de Maintenon, romance, 2 v. 12mo.—The Earl of Cork, Hist. Rom. 2 v. 12mo.—Belisarius, Rom. 2 v. 12mo.—Recollections of Felicia, 2 v.—St. Clair, or the Victim of the Arts and Sciences, 12mo, 1808.—Botany applied to History and Literature, 2 v. 12mo, 1811.—Lives of celebrated Women of France, 2 v. 12mo. 1811.—La Feuille des Gens du Monde, an imaginary journal, 8vo. 1813.—Petits Romans et Contes moraux, 7 v. 12mo.—Mademoiselle de la Fayette, Hist. Rom. 2 v. 12mo, 1813. Henri le Grand, ditto, 3 v. 12mo. 1815. An edition of her choice performances has also appeared with the life of the author under the title of Œuvres Choies, 14 v. 12mo.

GERARD, DR. GILBERT, Regius Professor of Divinity in King's College, Aberdeen, was the son of Dr. Alexander, Professor of Divinity in the same University. After officiating several years as minister to the English Church at Amsterdam, he was elected Greek Professor in King's College, where he succeeded his father in the Theological chair. A few years before his death he was appointed one of the ministers of Old Aberdeen, where he died rather suddenly, Sept. 28, 1815.

GILCHRIST, JOHN.

A Collection of Ancient and Modern Scottish Ballads, Tales, and Songs, with notes and observations, 2 v. 12mo. 1814.

GILMOUR, ROBERT.

Lothaire, a Romance in six Cantos, with notes, small 8vo. 1815.

GLADWIN, FRANCIS, ESQ. A gentleman who has long resided in India, and on the first institution of the college of Fort William, he undertook in conjunction with two other distinguished orientlists, at the request of the Marquis Wellesley, the temporary superintendence of the Persian department; on which occasion he formed the resolution of preparing for the use of the students correct editions of several classics in that language, with notes and indices. During a retirement of four years at Patua, he prepared for the press, besides the Gulistan of Sady, and Bostan of the same poet, the Beharistan of Jamy, the Uklak ul Mushiree of Cashefy, with the Tyar, and Darnish, and three volumes of Letters by Abulfuzl. It was his intention to have published these works in 8 vols. 4to. either in Calcutta or England: and accordingly the first volume comprizing the Gulistan appeared at the former place in 1806. His other publications are

The Persian Moonshie, Persian and English, 4to.—Tales of a Parrot, Persian and English, 4to.—Dissertation on the Rhetoric of the Persians, 4to.

GLEIG, Right Rev. GEORGE, LL.D. Bishop of the Scotch Episcopal Church. He has been a frequent contributor to the British Critic and the Anti-Jacobin Review. The late bishop Horsley and Dr. Robison of Edinburgh had a high opinion of Dr. Gleig's scientific talents, and the posthumous works of both have been conducted through the press by his care. To his works is to be added, Buonaparte and Buhadad delineated in two Sermons preached at the Episcopal Chapel in Stirling, 8vo. 1814.

GODDARD, WILLIAM STANLEY, D.D. He was formerly of Merton College, Oxford, where he took the degree of M.A. Dec. 17, 1783; and accumulated those of B. and D.D. Jan. 19, 1795. He has published

A Sermon preached in the chapel of Lambeth at the consecration of the Rt. Rev. William Howley, D.D. Lord Bp. of London, 4to. 1813.

GODWIN, WILLIAM. He has also published some elementary books under the name of Edward Baldwin, Esq., and avowedly the following:

The Lives of Edward and John Phillips, nephews and pupils of John Milton, 4to. 1815.

GOODE, REV. WILLIAM, M.A. He took his degree at Magdalen Hall, Oxford, July 10, 1787; and it is honourable to his character to record that, upon the death of his venerable predecessor, the parish-lopers unanimously signed a petition in his favour to the Lord Chancellor, Loughborough, who immediately gave him the presentation. He has published

A Sermon on the Death of the Rev. William Romaine, M.A. 8vo. 1795.

GOODLAD, WILLIAM, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, and at present in considerable practice at Bury, in Lancashire. He is the author of An Essay on the Diseases of the Vessels and Glands of the Absorbent System: which obtained the Prize offered by the College of Surgeons, 8vo. 1814.

GORDON, REV. SIR ADAM, M.A. Prebendary of Bristol. This divine, who is the representative of an ancient family in North Britain, was educated at Westminster, and afterwards at Christ Church, Oxford, where he took his degree, March 21, 1777. Besides the works already enumerated, he has published

Two Sermons on the Thanksgiving Day, Jan. 13, 1814, 8vo.—Four Discourses on the Collects for the Four Sundays in Advent, 8vo. 1814.

GRAVES, REV. RICHARD, D.D. This ingenious divine was promoted to the Deanry of Ardagh, on the elevation of the Hon. and Rev. Richard Bourke to the Bishopric of Waterford in 1813.

GREATHEED, REV. SAMUEL, of Bedford. He was educated under Mr. Bull, of Newport Pagnell, to whom he became assistant in 1786, and in 1789 he removed to his present situation. While at the former place, he married the only daughter of Mr. Hamilton, a considerable dealer in lace at that town, with whom he obtained a considerable fortune on the death of her brother. She died in 1807, aged 49. Mr. Greatheed has published a Sermon preached before the London Missionary Society; another, in support of what is called the Bedford Union, an association to promote Nonconformity; and a Funeral Sermon for William Cowper the Poet, with whom he was very intimate. This last was preached at Olney in 1800, and came to a second edition the year following.

GRAVES, SAMUEL COLLETON, born at Hembury Fort, in the county of Devon, 27th June 1788. He is the only son of Rear-Admiral Richard Graves, and of Louisa Carolina, daughter and sole heiress of Sir John Colleton, Bart. of Fairdown, in South Carolina, whose lineal ancestor Sir John Colleton received from King Charles the Second, grants of the two Carolinas, Georgia and the Bahama Islands as proprietary sovereign, in recompence for expenses incurred and property lost through his ardent attachment to the cause of Charles the First.

After being some years at school in Exeter near his parents, and under their observation, which was rendered necessary by his delicate state of health, he was in 1803 removed to Westminster, where he remained till the year 1806, when he went to Cambridge and was admitted a Fellow Commoner of Trinity College: there he remained till the end of 1807, and in 1808 went to the United States of America with his father Rear-Admiral Graves to visit the possessions of his mother in Carolina.

Being charged with dispatches for the American Government, he went to Washington, where he was most kindly entertained by Mr. Jefferson, then President of the United States, by Mr. Madison, the then Secretary of State, and by various other gentlemen of distinction. While in America he made a tour through the Atlantic States, from Moine to Georgia, and went into Upper Canada to visit the falls of Niagara, and returned to England in July 1809. He then again took up his residence at Cambridge, and remained there for some months, but has never yet taken any degree.

In the year 1810 he went to Sweden, and arrived at Stockholm during the disturbed state of that country, preceding the election of Bernadotte as Crown-Prince, when Count Ferson was murdered, but remained only a short time and returned to England. He then went to the Middle Temple to study the laws of his country, having been admitted a member of that society at a very early period.

In the year 1811 he was appointed Major in the West Norfolk Regiment of Local Militia, and in the same year was promoted to be Lieutenant-Colonel of it.

In the year 1812 he canvassed and contested the Borough of Taunton at the last general election, but being thrown out after a severe contest, he became a candidate for the representation of the county of Devon, when after a contest of three days he declined any further opposition.

In the year 1814 he published, under the signature of Ulysses, a small pamphlet entitled "The White Rose," on the departure of the Princess of Wales from England, and soon after, under the same signature, a letter to Mr. Canning on the Origin and continuation of the War with America. These were followed by another from Ulysses, to the Earl of Liverpool, on the Treaty of Paris and on the circumstances that caused the abdication of Napoleon: to this work his name was affixed as the author. Some other works have since been announced by him as intended for publication, particularly a History of the Wars against Democracy.

GREAVES, WILLIAM, of Sheffield.

Treatise on Natural and Practical Agriculture, 8vo. 1804.

GREGOR, FRANCIS, Esq. This gentleman who died at the age of 55, in July 1815, was descended of a very ancient family in Cornwall, which county he represented in parliament several times after a very hard contest with the late Colonel Rodd and Sir John St. Aubyn.

GRENFELL, JOHN, Esq.

Observations on the Expediency and Facility of the Copper Coinage of Uniform Weight, and a Standard Value according with the Mint Prices of Gold and Silver Bullion, 8vo. 1814.

GRINFIELD, THOMAS, of Trinity College Cambridge.

Epistles and Miscellaneous Poems, 8vo. 1815.

GRIMSTON, HENRY, Esq. is a native of Yorkshire, and an active member of several philanthropic societies. He has published many useful tracts, and among the rest one entitled

A Short Account of various Charitable Institutions in Great Britain for the benefit of the Poor and Infirm, 8vo. 1794.

GROSE, SIR NASH, Knt. late one of the Justices of the Court of King's Bench, died suddenly at Petersfield in his journey to his seat in the Isle of Wight, May 21, 1814, aged 74.

GUNN, JOHN, F.S.A. of Edinburgh. To the works already mentioned by this gentleman, should be added the following: An Historical Inquiry respecting the Performance on the Harp in the Highlands of Scotland, 4to. 1807.

GUTHRIE, G. J. Surgeon.

On Gun-shot Wounds of the extremities requiring the different operations of Amputation, with their after-treatment, 8vo. 1815.

H:

HALDANE, ROBERT, Esq. This gentleman, who is a native of Scotland, was for many years in the East India Marine Service, by which he realized a handsome fortune. He had been long a Deist, and was confirmed in his scepticism by Paine's Age of Reason, till upon serious reflection he thought himself wrong in having neglected inquiry before he had made up his mind against revelation. The consequence was, a diligent investigation of the evidences of religion, and a confirmed conviction of the certainty of that faith which he had opposed. On settling in his own country, his conversion took an active turn and became tinged with no small portion of enthusiasm. He and his brother founded a new sect in Scotland at a considerable expense, and which has gained great increase from among the high Calvinists and the Methodists.

HALFORD, SIR HENRY, Bart. M.D. He is the son of Dr. John Vaughan, physician, at Leicester, by Hester, second daughter of the late Alderman Smalley of that place, and grand-daughter of Sir Richard Halford. On the death of Sir Charles Halford, the present baronet succeeded to his estate, but was enjoined by the will of the deceased to take the name of Halford.

HALLIDAY, DR. ALEXANDER, was educated for the church, in which he took orders, but afterwards changed that profession for the practice of physic. He then travelled through Russia and Tartary, almost to the great wall of China; and on his return to England, settled at Birmingham. Besides the works already mentioned, he has printed

A Translation of Professor Franck's Exposition on the Causes of Diseases, 8vo. 1813.

HANGER, GEORGE. This eccentric personage succeeded to the Coleraine title and estates on the death of his brother in 1814; but he neither put on any mourning on that occasion, nor suffers his servants and acquaintance to salute him according to his rank. He was formerly Major in the British Cavalry, and afterwards Colonel in the Hessian Service. He has recently advertised Receipts for Destroying Rats and other Vermin, in a pamphlet addressed to Sportsmen and Farmers.

HANKEN, REV. EDWARD, M.D. rector of West Chillingham, in Sussex. He has lately published

A Letter to the Earl of Liverpool, on the Licentiousness of the Press, 8vo. 1815.—Political Reflexions on the Re-entry of Napoleon Buonaparte into France, 8vo. 1815.

HARDINGE, GEORGE, Esq. This excellent Judge is the son of Nicholas H. Esq. Clerk of the House of Commons, by a sister of the great Earl Camden. Mr. Justice Hardinge was educated at Eton and King's College, Cambridge; after which he entered at one of the Inns of the Court, and became eminent as a Counsel. He has published, The Russian Chiefs, an Ode, 4to. 1814.

HARDY, PHILIP DIXON, Esq. of Dublin.

Wellington, a Poem, in Three Cantos; with Notes, 4to. 1814.

HARRISON, JAMES. This person was formerly a bookseller in Paternoster Row, and afterwards in Fleet-Street, in both which places he failed in business. He projected some works of merit which were very popular, particularly the Novelist's Magazine, and the Poetical Magazine. Becoming acquainted with Lady Hamilton, she took him into her house with his family, and employed him in compiling a work entitled,

The Life of Lord Nelson, 2 vols. 8vo. 1806. He has been considered, however, as the editor of the Correspondence between his Lordship and that Lady, published in 2 vols. 8vo. 1813; and which Letters he obtained while editing the former publication.

HARTLEY, THOMAS, M.A. Rector of Winwick, has been dead many years. He was one of the first methodists, and the intimate friend of Mr. James Hervey. Mr. Hartley published a volume of Sermons, and a Treatise on the Millennium, under the title of "Paradise Restored," in one volume octavo. From Calvinism he went over to Behmenism, and latterly became an enthusiastic admirer of the Baron Swedenborg.

HARVEY, GEORGE, Esq.
Ossian's Ruins, rendered into English Verse, 8vo. 1814.

HARWOOD, SIR BUSICK, Knt. M.D. He was born at Newmarket, and served his apprenticeship to an apothecary, after which he went to London, where he passed at Surgeon's Hall, and obtained an appointment in the East Indies. There he met his eldest brother who held a lucrative office in that country. One of the native Princes having received a severe wound, was cured effectually by Mr. Harwood, who in consequence obtained a liberal reward and an extensive practice. But the fatigue he underwent affected his health, and he was under the necessity of returning to England, where he entered of Christ's College, Cambridge. In 1783 he was elected F.A.S., and the year following admitted a Member of the Royal Society. In 1785 he took the degree of M.B., and about the same time left Christ's College for Emmanuel, where he enjoyed the friendship of the master Dr. Farmer. On the death of Colignon, in 1785, he was chosen Anatomical Professor, and in 1790 he took the degree of M.D. In 1800 he was appointed Professor of Domestic Medicine, in Downing College. In 1798 he married Miss Peshall, and in 1806 received the honour of Knighthood. He died Nov. 10, 1814.

HATT, RICHARD, was born August 18, 1785, at All Saints, West Ham, in Essex. His Poems have reached the third edition in 2 vols. 12mo.; and they are characterized as evincing considerable taste and harmony. He is also said to be the author of several miscellaneous pieces in prose and verse, which have been published anonymously.

HAWKINS, HENRY, second son of the late Sir John Hawkins, Knt. the friend and biographer of Dr. Johnson. In conjunction with his sister, Miss Letitia Hawkins, he has published Sermonets, addressed to those who have not yet acquired, or who may have lost the inclination to apply the power of attention to compositions of a higher kind, 8vo. 1814.

HAWKINS, JOHN, Esq.
A Treatise on the Second Chapter of the Prophet Daniel, tending to show that Britain is the kingdom which Daniel declares the great God of Heaven will set up, and that it is the kingdom of God, 8vo. 1815.

HAYGARTH, WILLIAM, Esq. son of Dr. Haygarth, of Bath, and educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, of which society he became travelling fellow. The result of his observations has appeared in a splendid volume, entitled Greece, a poem, in three parts, with Notes, classical illustrations, and sketches of the scenery, 4to. 1814.

HEAD, MICHAEL, Esq.
Azora, a metrical romance, 8vo. 1814.

HEDGECOCK, THOMAS, a Master in the Royal Navy, resident at Deal.
A New Method of finding the Longitude from an Altitude of the Moon, fol. 1815.

HENLEY, SAMUEL, D.D. He was sometime Professor of Moral Philosophy in the College of Williamsburg, in Virginia, and afterwards one of the Assistants at Harrow School. In 1778 he was chosen a Member of the Society of Antiquaries; presented about the same time to the Rectory of Rendlesham, and in 1805 appointed Principal of the East India College at Hertford. Besides the works already mentioned, he has published

Three Sermons, preached in America, the first at Williamsburg, in 1771; for the benefit of a fund to support the poor widows and orphans of clergymen in Virginia, 8vo.: 2. The distinct claims of government and religion considered before the House of Burgesses at Williamsburg, 8vo. 1772: 3. On the anniversary of the foundation of the college, 8vo. 1776. Dr. Henley was also the editor of the history of the Caliph Vathek, from an unpublished manuscript by William Beckford, Esq. with notes, 8vo. 1786. Some of his papers are in the Archaeologia and in the Monthly Magazine, particularly one on the Zodiac in the Temple of Dendera.

HERBERT, Hon. WILLIAM. This gentleman, who is equally distinguished for his knowledge of the Northern languages and his elegant taste in poetry, has evinced both in a very beautiful poem, entitled Helga, in seven cantos, with Notes, 8vo. 1815.

HEWLETT, JOHN, B.D. Chaplain to his Royal Highness the Prince Regent. His father was a clergyman in Dorsetshire, under whom he received his education; after which he became Classical Assistant in the Academy of a Dissenting Minister at Ware. On taking orders he obtained a Lectureship in the city, and the situation of Preacher to the Foundling Hospital, where he has given so much satisfaction that the Governors, some years since, built a house for him on their estate. He has published

A Manual of Instruction and Devotion on the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper, 12mo. 1815.

HEY, Rev. JOHN, D.D. This venerable divine died in Seymour Place, Marylebone, March 17, 1815. He was born in July, 1734, and admitted of Catherine Hall in 1751. He continued a Member of that College till 1758, when he removed to a Fellowship in Sidney; of which society he continued a member till he quitted the University in 1795. He took his degree of B.A. in 1755; M.A. in 1758; B.D. in 1765; and D.D. in 1780. He was a Tutor of Sidney from 1760 to 1779, and was one of the Preachers of his Majesty's Chapel at Whitehall. His fellowship became vacant by his accepting from Lord Maynard the Rectory of Passenham, in Northamptonshire; and not long afterwards he obtained that of Calverton, in exchange for a distant living, offered him by the late Earl of Clarendon. In 1780 he was elected the first Norrisian Professor of Divinity in the University of Cambridge, which situation he quitted in 1795. When Tutor in Sidney College he gave lectures on morality, which were attended by several persons voluntarily, among whom was Mr. Pitt. These lectures have not been printed. In 1814 he relinquished the whole of his ecclesiastical preferment, and removed to London where he resided till his death. His remains were interred in the burying-ground of St. John's Chapel, Marylebone. Besides the works already mentioned, he was the author of Seven Sermons, preached on several occasions, 8vo.—Discourses on the Malevolent Sentiments, 8vo. 1801.

General Observations on the Writings of St. Paul, 8vo. 1811.—and Letters on Patronage, in the Orthodox Churchman's Magazine.

HEY, RICHARD, LL.D. To the works of this respectable writer should be added the following:

Some Principles of Civilization, with detached Thoughts on the Promotion of Christianity in British India, 8vo. 1814.

HEYNE, BENJAMIN, M.D. F.L.S. Member of the Asiatic Society at Calcutta, and Surgeon and Naturalist on the Establishment of Port St. George. He is a native of Germany, and has resided a considerable time in the East, where he has explored the country with great diligence; as appears in a work entitled, Tracts, historical and statistical, on India; with Journals of several Tours through various parts of the Peninsula, 4to. 1814.

HIGGINS, GODFREY, Esq.

A Letter to Earl Fitzwilliam on the Abuses in the York Lunatic Asylum, 8vo. 1814.

HIGHMORE, NATHANIEL.

Case of a Fetus found in the Abdomen of a young man at Sherborne, in Dorsetshire, 8vo. 1815.

HILL, GEORGE NESSE, Surgeon to the Benevolent Institution for delivering poor married Women at Chester.

Essay on the Prevention and Cure of Insanity; with Observations on the Rules for the Detection of Pretenders to Madness, 8vo. 1814.

HILL, JOHN, merchant at Hull. He is the author of Reflections on the late Proceedings and Discussions concerning the Roman Catholics, 8vo. 1807.

HILL, ROWLAND, M.A. This gentleman was not of Edmund Hall, Oxford, as erroneously stated, consequently he could not have been expelled from that University. The persons who were ejected from thence in 1768, for preaching publicly without being in orders, were Benjamin Kay, James Mathews, Thomas Jones, Thomas Grove, Erasmus Middleton, Benjamin Blatch, and Joseph Shipman. Mr. Hill, though of the same principles and equally irregular, took his degrees at St. John's College, Cambridge, after which he obtained deacon's orders, on a title in the diocese of Bath and Wells, but never proceeded to the priesthood. His Calvinistic zeal was manifested with uncommon warmth against the late Mr. Wesley; but some years ago, to the surprise of all parties, he appeared in the pulpit of that class of Methodists in the City Road. Besides the works already enumerated he has printed several tracts, and

A Sermon on the death of the Rev. James Rouquet, of Bristol, 8vo. 1778.

HINCKLEY, JOHN, F.S.A. This gentleman, who was a man of singularly puerile habits, having been missing from his chambers in Gray's Inn several weeks, the porters of the Inn, by means of a ladder, made an entry, and found him dead in his bed much shrivelled up and decayed. This happened in November, 1814, and the Jury brought in a verdict, died by the visitation of God.

HITCHINS, FORTESCUE, son of the Rev. Malachi Hitchins, an eminent mathematician, of St. Hilary, Cornwall, was a solicitor of that place, and distinguished not only by his ability in his profession, but also by his poetical genius. He died in the prime of life in the spring of 1814.

HOARE, Sir RICHARD COLT, Bart. succeeded his father the first Baronet in 1787. By his lady who died in 1785 he has a son, Henry, married to Charlotte, only daughter of Sir Edward Dering, of Surringdon, in Kent. The present Baronet has published, besides the works already mentioned, Via Appia Illustrata ab Urbe Roma ad Capuam, fol. 1794.—A Tour through the Island of Elba, 4to. 1814.—Hints to Travellers in Italy, foolscap 8vo. 1815.—To this gentleman report has also assigned, Memoirs of an Old Wig, 8vo. 1815.

HODGSON, Rev. JOHN, of Dorchester. Poems on Miscellaneous Subjects, 8vo. 1807.

HODGSON, JOSEPH, of the Royal College of Surgeons.

Treatise on the Diseases of the Arteries and Veins, 8vo. 1815.—Engravings intended to illustrate some of the Diseases of the Arteries, 4to. 1815.

HOGG, JAMES, the Ettrick Shepherd, has since published,

The Pilgrims of the Suo, a poem, 8vo. 1815.

HOLFORD, GEORGE, Esq. M.P.

The Substance of a Speech in the House of Commons on the Bill to amend the Laws relative to the Transportation of Offenders, 8vo. 1815.

HOLLAND, HENRY, M.D. F.R.S. and Physician to the Princess of Wales, whom he accompanied to Italy. He extended his travels to Greece and the neighbouring countries, where he had an opportunity of becoming personally acquainted with the celebrated Ali Pacha, of whom he has given a very interesting account in his work, entitled Travels in the Ionian Isles, Albania, Thessaly, and Greece, 4to. 1815.

HOLEAND, Rev. SAMUEL, M.D. Rector of Poynings, Sussex. He was originally a Physician, but happening to marry into the family of Lord Erskine, while that nobleman held the Great Seal, he was induced to take orders for the sake of some valuable church preferment. He has published a visitation sermon with this title:

The Imputation upon the regular Clergy of not Preaching the Gospel briefly considered, 8vo. 1814.

HOLMES, Rev. JAMES IVORY, M.A. late of Trinity College, Cambridge. The Revelation of St. John the Divine elucidated, 2 v. 8vo. 1815.

HOPKINS, DAVID, Surgeon on the Medical Establishment, was also Superintendent-General of the Teak forests in the Island of Java, where he died at Samarang, in 1814.

HOWARD, DANIEL, solicitor.

A Treatise of Summary Proceedings before Magistrates, 8vo. 1814.

HUNTER, Mrs. RACHAEL, of the city of Norwich, was the widow of John Hunter, Esq. a merchant at Lisbon. She was an excellent woman, and all her publications were of a strictly moral tendency. She died at Norwich in 1813.

HUTTON, JAMES, M.D. and F.R.S. celebrated as a mineralogist, and for establishing a new theory concerning the origin of the earth, his system on which has been explained and vindicated by Professor Playfair. Dr. Hutton has been dead some years.

HUTTON, WILLIAM, F.A.S. This respectable writer and worthy man died at Bennet's Hill, near Birmingham, in October 1815, aged 92. He began the world with three guineas and a half, which he borrowed of his sister, and a chest of old books which were sold to him on unlimited credit. Talents, industry, and economy made his fortune. He had retired from business twenty-two years; but after he had ceased to receive any emolument from the concern, he attended it with the same regularity, first for his son, and afterwards for his grand-nephew to whom it was successively given. Six days in the week he walked to the scene of his old employment and back again, though the distance was four miles and a half; and this he did to a very advanced age. One day, when he wanted but five of completing his 90th year, his strength failed before he reached his house, and he was carried home in a chair. He has left behind him the History of his Life, which is intended for publication.

INESON, WILLIAM, Esq. Writer to the Signet at Edinburgh.

A Letter to Lord Melville on the Constitution and Usages of the Court of Session, 8vo. 1815.

INGRAM, HENRY.

The Flowers of Wye, a poem, in six cantos, 8vo. 1815.

JACOB, WILLIAM, Esq. F.R.S.

Considerations on the Protection required by British Agriculture, 8vo. 1815.

JAMIESON, ALEXANDER, mathematician at Edinburgh.

A Treatise on the Construction of Maps, 8vo. 1815.

JARDINE, WILLIAM, Surgeon in the Royal Navy.

An Essay towards the Improvement of Surgical Instruments, 8vo. 1815.

JEBB, REV. JOHN, M.A. Rector of Abington in Ireland, and late of Trinity College, Dublin.

Sermons on Subjects chiefly Practical, 8vo. 1815.

JERDAN, WILLIAM, Esq. This gentleman, who has been long devoted to literary pursuits, was for some time proprietor and conductor of the Satirist. Afterwards he became a partner in the Sun evening paper, of which he is also the joint editor with Mr. Taylor. He has recently published

The Paris Spectator, 3 v. 12mo, a translation from the celebrated French work of M. Jouy, entitled 'L'hermite de la Chausse d'Antin.'

JESSE, REV. WILLIAM, M.A. perpetual Curate and Lecturer of West Bromwich, Rector of Dowles and of Ribblesford, in the county of Worcester, and Chaplain to the Earl of Glasgow. This pious and exemplary divine, died after a few days illness, Dec. 30, 1814, aged 77, and was buried in the parish church of West Bromwich.

JOHNS, WILLIAM, of the Royal College of Surgeons, and late an acting Surgeon at Serampore; from whence he was obliged to remove on account of his discharging also the office of a missionary. He in consequence published an account of his case entitled,

Correspondence between the Supreme Government of Bengal, and the Missionaries of Serampore, relative to Messrs. Johns and Lawann, which terminated in the expulsion of the former from India, for having gone thither without leave, 8vo. 1814.

JOHNSTON, ELIAS, teacher of the mathematics at Edinburgh. He has published,

A short and easy method of learning to calculate, translated from a posthumous work of Condorcet, 12mo. 1814.

JONES, EDWARD GODDEN, M.D. He is a native of Hampshire, and studied at Edinburgh, where he took his degree. After this, he became domestic physician to a wealthy invalid, named Crawford, with whom he travelled, in the course of which he met with the eau medicinale, celebrated as an infallible remedy for the gout. This he recommended at his return with great success, and has thereby increased his popularity, and benefited his circumstances.

JONES, THOMAS, a dramatic and miscellaneous writer, was born in London, Oct. 28, 1777. His father was a perfumer and hairdresser, who gave his eldest son a plain education, which he considerably improved by his assiduity. At the age of thirteen he was placed in the office of an attorney, but the want of means to provide the requisite premium to be applied, occasioned a change of pursuits, and our author was apprenticed to Mr. Bleaden at the London Tavern, in which unpromising situation he contrived to improve his mind and to cultivate a taste for letters, though very much against the will of his master. On leaving the tavern, he entered into the service of an eminent wine-merchant at Norwich, with whom he continued about two years, and then obtained employment as book-keeper to the present Sir Robert Wigram, in which capacity he still continues. Soon after this he published a volume of poems consisting of Elegies, Sonnets, and a farce entitled "Phantomis, or the Irishman in England," 8vo. He next printed a farce entitled "Confined in Vain," 8vo; after which appeared "The Sons or Family Fends," 8vo; the liberality of his patron, Sir Robert Wigram, was celebrated by him in a poem called "Soldier's Fare, or Patriotism and hospitality," the occasion of which was an entertainment given by Sir Robert, to the 6th regiment of London Volunteers, of which he was colonel, at his seat at Walthamstow for three days. The last of our author's publications was a small piece called "Rambles in Verse, or Parnassian Wild Flowers," 12mo.

K

KENDALL, JOHN, a respectable member of the Society of Friends, who died at Colchester, aged 89, in 1814. Besides the Abstract of the Old and New Testament already mentioned, he published the following,

An Essay on the bad effects of Stage entertainments, 8vo.—Extracts from the works of Fenelon, 12mo.—Letters on Religious subjects, 2 v. 12mo.—Poems on Moral and Religious subjects from various authors, 12mo.—Extracts from Thomas a Kempis, 12mo.—Life of Thomas Story, a Quaker preacher, 12mo.—Precepts of the Christian Religion in question and answer, 12mo.

KENNEY, JAMES, a dramatic writer of some celebrity. To his performances should be added, Debtor and Creditor, a Comedy in five acts, 8vo. 1814.

KENNY, ROBERT, Esq.

The History of Jamaica, with observations on its climate, trade, and productions, 4to. 1807.

KENTISH, EDWARD, M.D. To his works is to be added the following.

An account of Baths, and of Madeira-House at Bristol, with the description of a pulmometer and cases, shewing its utility in ascertaining the state of the lungs in diseases of the chest, 8vo. 1814.

KERR, ROBERT, surgeon, of Edinburgh, and F.R.S. of that city, where he died in May, 1814. He was an excellent naturalist, and had just completed at the time of his death, a translation of, Cuvier's Essay on the Theory of the Earth, which has been published with an Introduction and Notes, by Professor Jamieson, 8vo. 1815.

KERSEY, JESSE, a Quaker, who has published,

A Treatise on the Fundamental doctrines of the Christian Religion, as professed by the Society of Friends, 8vo. 1815.

KIRBY, Rev. WILLIAM, M.A. F.L.S. and Rector of Barham, in Suffolk. This ingenious naturalist has published the first volume of,

An Introduction to Entomology, or Elements of the Natural history of Insects, 8vo. 1815.

KITE, CHARLES, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, died at Gravesend about five years ago.

KNOX, WILLIAM, Esq. formerly secretary to Lord George Germaine, and the author of several political pamphlets, has been dead many years.

L

LACEY, HENRY, a dissenting minister, and the author of a volume entitled The principal events in the Life of Moses, and in the journey of the Israelites from Egypt to Canaan, 12mo. 1815.

LAKE, JOHN.

The Golden Glove; or the Farmer's soo, a Comedy in five acts, with poetical sketches on occasional subjects, 8vo. 1815.

LANGSDORFF, GEORGE VON, eldest son of the Vice-Chancellor of that name, in the service of the Grand Duke of Baden, was born in 1774, at Lake, in the circle of Suabia, and after going through the usual academical courses at Buchsweiler, he entered as a student in the University of Gottingen, where he devoted himself to medical science and natural history. Botany and mineralogy became early the objects of his favourite pursuit, and in these departments of knowledge he particularly acquired an intimate acquaintance. Having taken the degree of doctor in medicine, he accompanied Prince Waldeck as physician to Lisbon, and on the death of that Prince, he returned to Germany by the way of England. After this, he was desired to accompany the Russian Captain Von Krusenstern, in his voyage of discovery. During his stay at Kamtschatka, he rendered himself very useful to the Russian government by suggesting various improvements, for which the Emperor Alexander conferred on him the order of St. Anne of the second class, made him an Aulic Counsellor, and appointed him his Consul General at Rio Janeiro, where he at present resides. The following valuable work, which is equally rich in entertainment and information, has appeared in English.

Voyages and Travels in various parts of the World, during the years 1803, 4, 5, 6, and 7, 2 v. 4to. with 51 engravings and a map; vol. 1. contains the voyage to Brazil, the South Sea, Kamtschatka, and Japan; v. 2. the voyage to the Aleutian Islands and north-west coast of America, and return by land over the north-east parts of Asia, through Siberia to Petersburg, a route never before performed.

LAUDERDALE, the Earl of. To the works of this nobleman should be added the following tract, Letter on the Corn Laws, 8vo. 1814.

LAURENCE, RICHARD, D.D. This excellent scholar and sound divine succeeded to the Hebrew Professorship and the canonry of Christ Church, on the death of Dr. Joseph White. He has since published,

The Doctrine of Baptismal Regeneration, contrasted with the tenets of Calvin, in a Sermon preached before the University of Oxford, 8vo. 1815.

LAWTON, HUGH, Esq.

Poems on various subjects, 4to. 1815.

LEFROY, CHRISTOPHER EDWARD, Esq. an active member of the Bible Society, who, with Mr. Blair, took considerable pains to procure the circulation of the Scriptures among the Roman Catholics; but being opposed by the leading persons of that communion, he published some interesting particulars concerning their practices in

A Review of Mr. Gandolphy's letter to Dr. Marsh, and the reply of the latter, including some dispassionate remarks on the great question now before the public, of Catholic Emancipation, 8vo. 1814.

LE GRICE, REV. CHARLES VALENTINE, M.A. He is now perpetual curate of Penzance, where he has distinguished himself as one of the founders of the Geological Society; also in opposing the fanaticism of the methodists, which in that place and the neighbourhood has been recently carried to a most extravagant length. He has published the following in addition to what have been already mentioned,

The Proofs of the Spirit, or Considerations on Revivalism, a Sermon, 8vo. 1814. The occasion of this discourse was an extraordinary convulsion among the Methodists, whose converts fell into fits and were encouraged in them by the Preachers.

LETTSON, JOHN COAKLEY, M.D. This respectable practitioner died at his house in Sambrook Court, London, Nov. 1, 1815. He was born on a small isle called The Little Van Dyke, near Tortola, in 1744. His ancestors, by the father's side, emigrated to the West Indies during the civil wars; and his mother was related to the ancient family of Coakley, in Ireland, a branch of which settled at Barbadoes above a century since. At the age of six years, young Lettson was sent to England for education, and placed under Mr. Thompson, a respectable schoolmaster at Warrington; after which he was entrusted to the care of Dr. Sutcliffe. He then pursued his medical studies some time in London, but was obliged to return to the West Indies, to take possession of an estate, where he generously gave freedom to all his negroes. In his 23d year he came again to Europe, and completed his medical pursuits at Edinburgh, Leyden, and Paris. At the latter place he obtained the friendship of Professor Dubourg; to whom he was recommended by Dr. Franklin, and whose character he afterwards drew in the first volume of the Memoirs of the Medical Society. On settling in London he soon obtained a most extensive practice, through the friendship of Dr. John Rothergill, and the interest of the sect to which he then belonged, but in whose favour he declined some years before his death, owing to his want of conformity to all their peculiarities. Dr. Lettson, some years since, lost his only son, a very promising young man, in the same profession. His seat of Grove Hill, near Camberwell, has been celebrated in a distinct poem, having that title, written by Mr. Maurice; and the beauties of that spot, with the virtues of the owner, have also been well described by John Scott, of Amwell, and James Boswell.

LEVIZAC, M. DE, a French ecclesiastic, who resided several years in London, and published some useful books for the benefit of students, died before the change of affairs in his native country.

LINGARD, REV. JOHN. This gentleman, who has great zeal for the catholic communion to which he belongs, has lately been attacked in a very uncommon manner by Dr. Kipling, Dean of Peterborough, for having called the Church of England a modern church as compared with that of Rome. The dean in consequence has threatened him, that if he does not prove his assertion, he shall institute a process against him in Westminster Hall! The publication in which Mr. Lingard gave this offence is intitled Strictures on Dr. Marsh's comparative view of the Churches of England and Rome, 8vo. 1815.

LINN, REV. JOHN BLAIR, M.A. and pastor of the first Presbyterian Church at Philadelphia, died there in consequence of rupturing a blood vessel, in 1805, aged only 27.

LITTLE, JOHN.

Practical Observations on the Improvement and Management of Mountain Sheep, and Sheep Farms; also Remarks on Stock of various kinds, 8vo. 1815.

LITTLEHALES, REV. RICHARD.

LLOYD, CHARLES. This gentleman is a native of Bristol, where his family were members of the Society of Friends. He now resides in the North of England, and has recently published

The Tragedies of Vittorio Count Alfieri. Translated from the Italian, 3 vols. 12mo. 1815.

LLOYD, HANNIBAL EVANS, Esq. lately a resident merchant at Hamburgh, who has published an interesting pamphlet, bearing this title, Hamburgh, or a particular account of Transactions in that city in 1813, 8vo. 1814.

LOCAS, JAMES, Esq. member of the Royal College of Surgeons, died at West House, near Ripon, in Yorkshire, aged 72, in December, 1814. He was a native of Leeds, where he spent the greatest portion of his life, and became distinguished for his virtues as well as for his professional abilities. He had been surgeon to the General Infirmary of that town ever since its establishment in 1794.

LUNAN, JOHN, of the Island of Jamaica. This gentleman has rendered a service to natural history by a publication intitled Hortus Jamalensis; or a Botanical Description of indigenous Plants and Exotics, growing in that Island, 2 vols. 4to. 1814.

LYON, Rev. C. J. B.A.

A Sermon preached at Christ Church, Macclesfield, for the benefit of the Manchester Infirmary, 8vo. 1814.

MADDOCK, HENRY, E-q. M.P. for Boston, and a Barrister at Law, is the author of A Treatise on the Principles and Practice of the Court of Chancery, 2 vols. royal 8vo. 1815.

MALCOLM, JAMES PELLER, F.S.A. This ingenious man died in Gee Street, Somers Town, April 5, 1815. His great grandfather, on the mother's side, went with the celebrated Penn to America, and settled on the banks of the Delaware, about the year 1689. The grandfather of Mr. Malcolm quitted the society of Quakers, and conformed to the Church of England, in which profession also our author was baptised and educated, at Philadelphia. When the rebellion broke out, being then about eight years old, he was removed to England, and returned to his native city after the peace of 1783. Having a great turn for the fine arts, he was sent to London, and became a student at the Royal Academy, under the patronage of Mr. West. He next applied himself to engraving, particularly of topographical subjects, and travelled over many parts of England, taking sketches, which he afterwards engraved. At length he was rendered incapable of following his favourite pursuits, by a white swelling in the knee, of which he died, at the age of 47, leaving a wife and an aged mother in the greatest distress. Mr. Malcolm enriched the Gentleman's Magazine with many articles from his pen and graver, and he compiled the index to the History of Leicestershire.

MALTBY, EDWARD, D.D. This learned divine has published, within the present year, a new edition of Lexicon Græco Prosodiacum Auctore T. Morell, S. T. P. blim vulgatum Typis denuo mandavit, per multis in locis correxit, Exemplis usu ablati, et animadversionibus illustravit verbis a Morello, &c. &c. 2 tom. 4to.

MALTHUS, Rev. T. R. M.A. To his works is to be added the following:

An Inquiry into the nature and progress of Rent, and the principles by which it is regulated, 8vo. 1815.

MANDELL, Rev. WILLIAM, M.A. Fellow and Tutor of Queen's College, Cambridge. The Duty of promoting Christian Missions, as connected with the peculiar character of the present times; a Sermon preached before the University, 8vo. 1815.

Lit. Cal.

MANGIN, Rev. EDWARD, M.A. To his works is to be added the following:

A View of the pleasures arising from the Love of Books, in a Series of Letters to a Lady. 12mo. 1814.

MANT, Rev. RICHARD, Vicar of Great Coggeshall, and Chaplain to the Abp. of Canterbury. This gentleman has been presented to the valuable rectory of St. Botolph, Bishopsgate, void by the death of Dr. William Conybeare, on which occasion he took the degree of D.D. He has recently published

A third volume of Sermons for parochial and domestic use, 8vo.

MARSH, HERBERT, D.D. Lady Margaret's Professor of Divinity at Cambridge. This very learned and indefatigable divine has published the commencement of a philological and archæological work, which promises to be of inestimable value. It is intitled Horæ Pelasgicæ, containing an Inquiry into the Origin and Language of the Pelasgi, or the ancient inhabitants of Greece, 8vo. 1815.

MARSHALL, CHARLES, Esq. Barrister at Law, of the Inner Temple.

Reports of Cases in the Court of Common Pleas, 8vo. 1814.

MARSHALL, WILLIAM, Esq. the celebrated agricultural writer, has recently published

A Review and complete abstract of the Reports to the Board of Agriculture from the midland department of England, 8vo. 1815.

MASON, HENRY, Esq.

MATHISON, JOHN, Esq. of the India House, and one of the Editors of the East India Calendar, died at Clapham-Rise, aged 38, in Jan. 1815.

MATTHEW, Rev. GEORGE, M.A. Vicar of Greenwich, and lately a very popular Preacher at the Foundling Hospital. He has published,

The Benevolence and Wisdom of National Institutions for the Instruction of the Infant Poor. A Sermon, 8vo. 1814.—The State of Religion in the Country considered, as it regards the Character of the Clergy. A Visitation Sermon, preached at Dartford, 8vo. 1815.

MEEN, REV. HENRY, R.D. sometime Fellow of Emmanuel College, Cambridge, and now rector of St. Nicholas Cole Abbey, London. This learned divine completed Fawkes's translation of the Argonautics of Apollonius Rhodius, 8vo. 1780. He is also the translator of "Coluthus Lycopolitus," in Dr. Anderson's edition of Translations, where C., denoting Coadjutor, stands for Mr. Meen.

MEESTON, WILLIAM, M.A.

The Harmonies of Nature, translated from the French of St. Pierre, 3 v. 8vo. 1815.

MERIVALE, J. H.

Orlando in Roncesvalles, a poem, in five cantos, cr. 8vo. 1814.—An Ode on the Delivery of Europe, 8vo. 1815.

MERRIMAN, SAMUEL, M.D. He was born at Marlborough, where his father carried on the business of a brewer; and his mother was niece to that upright judge, Sir Michael Foster. After receiving a liberal education at his native town, he was taken under the care and instruction of his uncle, who was a respectable physician in Queen Street, May Fair, and whose daughter our author married. After practising some years as a surgeon and apothecary, he obtained the degree of M.D. at Aberdeen, in 1807; soon after which he was elected Physician to the Westminster General Dispensary, and in 1809, on the death of Dr. Poignand, to Middlesex Hospital. To the list of his works should be added the following:

A Synopsis of the various Kinds of Difficult Parturition, 12mo. 1814.

MIDDLETON, JOHN WHITE, M.A. formerly of Trinity College, Oxford, and now Curate of Norton under Ham, Somerset. The Saints' Day Catechism, or Practical Improvement of the Festivals, for Young People, 12mo. 1815.

MILLMAN, H. H. B.A. Fellow of Brasenose College, Oxford.

Fazio, a Tragedy, 8vo. 1815.

MILNE, REV. COLIN, LL.D. and D.D. F.L.S. This respectable naturalist and divine died at Deptford in October 1815, aged 71. The following anecdote of him is related by one Saunders, a noted book-maker in London, who was employed in compiling Family Bibles and Histories of England. When he had put together the commentary which bears the name of Herries, he went to get Dr. Milne to sanction it by his popularity, as the author. "I went twice to Deptford," says he, "to solicit the Doctor for his name, but he honestly told me, that although he had no doubts concerning my abilities, yet he would not have his name to what he was not to write." This was in 1773, on which Saunders applied to poor Dr. Dodd, who asked one hundred guineas for the allowance of his name, but this was thought too extravagant; and then Herries granted his name for twenty pounds. Dr. Milne is also the author of The Boldness and Freedom of Apostolical Evidence, recommended to the Imitation of Ministers.—A Sermon preached on the death of the Reverend and learned James Bate, M.A., late Rector of St. Paul's, Deptford, 8vo. 1775.

MINCHIN, W. R. Esq. Barrister at Law, of Hare-Court, in the Temple. This respectable gentleman has distinguished himself by his efforts to relieve the poor and distressed, especially those who are deprived of their rights or are in want of legal assistance. Besides the works already mentioned, he has published a useful piece entitled

An Essay to illustrate the Rights of the Poor by Law; being a Commentary on the Statute of Henry VII, Cap. 12. with Observations on the Practice of Suing and Defending in Forma Pauperis, 8vo. 1815.

MONTAGU, GEORGE, Esq. F.L.S. This distinguished naturalist died at Knowle near Kingsbridge in Devonshire in July 1815.

MONTAGU, M. Esq. Lieutenant in the Royal Navy.

Tributary Verses in honor of the Capture of the Chesapeake, by H. M. S. the Shannon; respectfully addressed to Sir Philip Broke, 4to. 1814.

MOORE, JAMES, Esq. This gentleman, who is one of the ablest defenders of Vaccination, is also the author of

The History of the Small Pox, 8vo. 1815. and is at present engaged in writing the History of the Vaccine.

MORGAN, REV. THOMAS, LL.D.

A Sermon preached in the Parish Church of Watford, for the benefit of the widow and ten children of the Rev. J. Dennis, late Curate of Overton, 4to. 1815.

MORLEY, REV. JOHN, Rector of Bradfield cum Bust, and Curate of St. Clement's with St. Helen's, Ipswich.

Discourses, Devotional and Practical, 8vo. 1815.

MORRICE, REV. JAMES, A.M. Rector of Betshanger, Kent, and thirty-eight years Vicar of Flower, in Northamptonshire; died at the former place Jan. 9, 1815, aged 76.

MORRIS, EDWARD, Esq. M.P. and Master in Chancery; married Mary, the daughter of Lord Erskine. He died at his house in Oxford-Street, April 13, 1815, leaving a widow and four infant children to lament his loss.

MYLNE, REV. JAMES, Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of Glasgow. A Statement of Facts connected with a Precognition taken in the College of Glasgow, 8vo. 1815.

The Writings of a Person in Obscurity, 12mo. 1806.

O.

O'BRIEN, WILLIAM, Esq., died at Strisford-House in Dorsetshire, in September 1815. His father was a fencing-master, and the son practised in the same line till he was encouraged to make his appearance on the stage, in 1758. His first character was that of Captain Brazen in the Recruiting Officer, and he soon acquired a great reputation as the performer of genteel comedy. He withdrew from the boards on his marriage with Lady Strangeways, who survives him at a very advanced age. Not long after his marriage Mr. O'Brien obtained a lucrative place in North America, from whence he returned on the commencement of the rebellion in that country. There is a mezzotinto likeness of him in character engraved by J. Watson, from a picture by Cotes.

O'DONOVAN, P.M. Esq.

Sir Proteus; a Satirical Ballad, 12mo. 1814.

OGBOURNE, ELIZABETH. This lady has the honour of being the first of her sex to undertake the laborious task of writing a County Survey: and the specimen which she has given is creditable to her talents. This work is

A History of Essex, from the earliest period to the present time. Part 1. 4to. 1814.

OGLIVIE, JOHN, D.D., Minister of Midmar, died at Aberdeen at the beginning of 1814, aged 81, and the 55th year of his ministry. He was almost the only survivor of a number of literary characters among the Scotch Clergy, whose fame commenced with the accession of his present Majesty, and adorned his very long and eventful reign.

OKES, THOMAS VERNEY, Surgeon to Addenbrooke's Hospital at Cambridge.

OWEN, REV. THOMAS EDWARD, M.A. Rector of Llandyfrydog, in Anglesea, of which county he was for many years an active and upright magistrate, died at Beaumaris, in Dec. 1814.

P.

PALMER, ALCIA TYNDAL. This lady, who is grand-daughter of the celebrated Mrs. Pritchard, has also published, Authentic Memoirs of the Life of John Sobieski, King of Poland, 8vo. 1815.

PARKER, REV. WILLIAM, B.D. Rector of St. Ethelburgh, in the city of London. A Sermon preached in the Church of the United Parishes of St. Mary Aldermary and St. Thomas the Apostle, in aid of the Subscription for the Sufferers at Waterloo, 8vo. 1815.

PARKES, SAMUEL, F.L.S. To the works of this ingenious writer should be added, Chemical Essays on various Subjects, 5v. 12mo. 1815.

PARRY, CALEB HILLIER, M.D. of Bath. He has published, in addition to the works already mentioned, Elements of Pathology and Therapeutics, vol. I. 8vo. 1815.

PARSEY, ARTHUR. The Deserted Village restored; the Blind Beggar of Bethnal Green; two Pastorals, 12mo. 1815.

PATRICK, REV. RICHARD, M.A. Vicar of Sculcoates, in Yorkshire, and Chaplain to the Marchioness Townshend; died at Hull, in Feb. 1815, aged 45.

PATTESON, REV. EDWARD, M.A. He has published, A Sermon, delivered in the Parish Church of Richmond, Surry, on Sunday, July 30, 1815, for the Subscription in Behalf of the Sufferers at Waterloo, 8vo. 1815.

PEARSON, GEORGE, M.D. F.R.S. was born at the family seat of Mosborough Hall, in Derbyshire, where he was educated under his father, who was also of the medical profession, but retired from practice many years before he died, and lived as a country gentleman. The son went to Edinburgh, in 1770, and studied with such diligence as to be admitted a member of the Royal Medical Society, for the Presidentship of which he stood candidate against the celebrated Dr. John Brown, and lost the chair by one vote. In 1773 he took his doctor's degree, and his thesis on that occasion, De Putredine, was inserted in the first volume of the Edinburgh Medical Commentaries. During his stay in the University, he attended the lectures of Dr. Adam Ferguson, whose esteem he acquired by writing a dissertation on moral approbation, and which he submitted to his perusal. In 1774 he quitted Edinburgh and came to London, where he became a student under Dr. Fordyce, at St. Thomas's Hospital. The year following he went abroad, and travelled through France, Germany, and Holland, returning to England, in 1777, by the way of Hamburg. He first settled as a physician at Doncaster, where he resided about six years, and then came to London, which has continued to be his abode above thirty years. It is to be lamented that the Doctor, when the Parliament deliberated about the remuneration to be granted to Dr. Jenner, should have endeavoured, in his evidence, to set up his merits as a vaccinator above the author of the discovery. Dr. Pearson is, however, deserving of general respect as a man of science, and of general urbanity of disposition.

PENN, REV. JOHN, LL.B. of Beccles, and author of two volumes of Sermons, died there in his 71st year, in August, 1814.

PERING, THOMAS, ESQ. An Inquiry into the System of the Post Office, 8vo. 1815.

PHILLIP, ARTHUR, ESQ. Vice-Admiral of the Red, was the son of Jacob Phillip, a native of Frankfort, who settled in England, and maintained his family by teaching the languages. The son was born in London in 1738, and entered the naval service in 1755. In 1762 he was made a Lieutenant; and during the peace that occurred the next year he went into the Portuguese service, which he quitted in 1778. The year following he was made Master and Commander; and Post in 1781, when he was appointed to the Europe of 60 guns, in which ship he was actively employed in the Indian Seas. On his return to England, he was made Commander of a small squadron for the purpose of conveying convicts to New South Wales, of which settlement he was the first Governor, and remained there till 1795. After his return he resided chiefly at Lymington, but the latter years of his life were spent at Bath, where he died without issue, in November 1814.

PHILLIPS, THOMAS, author of the History of Shrewsbury, died in that town in March, 1815.

PHILLIPS, WILLIAM, a Quaker and bookseller in George Yard, Lombard Street. He is a Member of the Geological Society, and has published a useful little book, entitled

An Outline of Mineralogy and Geology, 8vo. 1815.

PICTON, SIR THOMAS. This gallant officer was a native of Wales, and a few months before his death he succeeded his uncle in the possession of Picton Castle with the family estate. On the 11th of June he left London to join the Duke of Wellington in Flanders; and on that day week he terminated his career gloriously in the battle of Waterloo. His remains being conveyed to England, were interred, on the 3d of July, in the burial ground of St. George's, Hanover Square, in the Uxbridge Road.

PINCKNEY, Lieut.-Colonel of the North American Rangers.

Travels in the South of France and in the Interior of the Provinces of Provence and Languedoc, 2d edit. 8vo. 1814.

PLAYFAIR, JAMES, D.D. F.R.S. F.A.S. Edin. He was born in the parish of Bendochie, in the county of Angus, about the year 1740. After the common course of education he went to St. Andrew's, where he studied with great diligence, and was licensed as a Preacher by the Presbytery of Meigle. He was next presented to the living of New Tile by Mr. Stewart Mackenzie, after which he obtained that of Meigle, near the seat of the same gentleman. This naturally introduced him to the patronage of the family of Rute, which led to his appointment as Principal of the United College of St. Salvador and St. Leonard, in the University of St. Andrew's. He is the author of a laborious and valuable System of Chronology, comprised in eight parts, fol. 1784.

POCOCK, WILLIAM INNES, lieutenant in the Royal Navy.

ROXBURGH, WILLIAM, M.D. F.L.S. chief botanist to the East India Company, surgeon for many years on the Madras Establishment, and superintendent of the company's garden at Calcutta. He was the friend and pupil of the celebrated naturalist Koenig, and was also much esteemed by Sir William Jones, Mr. Hastings, and Lord Teignmouth. He died at Edinburgh in the spring of 1814.

RUDGE, Rev. JAMES, A.M. F.R.S. curate of Lime House. This gentleman went to the Continent after the battle of Waterloo, of which interesting scene he has given a most lively and curious description in an appendix to a sermon preached at Lime House, on the thanksgiving day, and entitled,
The Peace Offering, 8vo. 1815.

RYDER, the Hon. and Rev. HENRY, D.D. This excellent divine has been recently elevated to the see of Gloucester, on the translation of Dr. Huntingford to the neighbouring Bishopric of Hereford, from which Dr. Luxmoore was removed to the see of St. Asaph.

RYE, PETER, Esq. Captain in the Royal Navy. This gentleman many years ago distinguished himself by a journey up the Peak of Teneriffe, of which he published an elaborate account in a small quarto volume.

S.

SALTER, T. F. This person, who was for many years a tradesman in the Strand, now resides at Hackney, and has lately printed a useful work entitled,
The Angler's Guide, being a Complete Practical Treatise on Angling, founded on Forty Years' Practice and Observations, 8vo. 1815.

SALVIN, Rev. HUGH.
The Downfall of Napoleon, considered in a Sermon preached at St. Mary's Gateshead, 8vo. 1814.

SAVERY, Rev. SERVINGTON, M.A. chaplain to St. Thomas's Hospital, and Vicar of Sutton Benger in the county of Wilts, which last living he obtained in exchange with Mr. Kett, for the perpetual curacy of North Higham, in Lincolnshire. He has published,

A Sermon for the Magdalen Charity, 4to. 1785.—A Sermon at the Anniversary of the Humane Society, 8vo. 1786.

SCHULTES, HENRY, Esq. late librarian to the first Marquis of Lansdowne.

Reflections on the Progressive Decline of the British Empire, and the Necessity of Public Reform, 8vo. 1815.

SCOTT, WALTER, Esq. To the list of works by this distinguished poet must now be added,

The Field of Waterloo, 8vo. 1815.

SCOTT, Lieut. General.
Authentic Narrative, containing every Particular relating to the Severe Conflict on the Plain of Waterloo, 8vo. 1815.

SELLON, MARTHA ANNE.
Individuality, or the Causes of Reciprocal Misrepresentation, a poem, in six books, 8vo. 1814.

SEMPLE, ANTHONY, Esq. M.R.I.A. and formerly in the East India Company's service.

The Voyage, and other Poems, 12mo. 1815.

SHIRREF, JOHN.
General View of the Agriculture of the Orkney Islands, 8vo. 1814.

SHUTTLEWORTH, ROBERT, Esq. of the Inner Temple.

A Manual for the Assistance of Magistrates, 8vo. 1815.

SIMS, JOHN, M.D. F.R.S. and also an active member of the Linnæan Society. He was born at Canterbury; but his father was a resident physician sixty years at Dunmow in Essex. The son received his education at Burford School, and at the age of twenty-one he went to Edinburgh, and thence to Leyden, where he took his doctor's degree, in 1774, on which occasion he published his thesis, the subject of which was the virtue of warm water taken internally. In 1776 he settled in London, and became physician to the Surry Dispensary, and also to the Charity for Lying-in Women. The Doctor, at the first announcement of the vaccine discovery, declared himself a sceptic as to its alledged efficacy, but afterwards, much to his honor, published his conviction of the utility of that practice. He has contributed many papers to various publications, and was the editor of the Botanical Magazine from the 14th to the 42nd volume.

SKEFFINGTON, Sir LUMLEY, Bart. The dramatic works of this gentleman, which have been performed, but not published, are, we believe, as follows:
The Word of Honor, com. 1802.—The High Road to Marriage, com. 1803.—The Sleeping Beauty, mel.

dram. 1805.—Maidens and Bachelors, com. 1806.—The Mysterious Bride, 1808.—The Magic Bride, dram. rom. 1811.—Lose no Time, com. 1813.

SMITH, WILLIAM.

British Heroism exemplified in the Character of the Duke of Wellington, and the Brave Officers serving under his Command, 8vo. 1815.

STAIR, JOHN DALRYMPLE, Earl of Stair; the author of the political tracts on finance, died in 1789.

STANLEY, REV. EDWARD, M.A. Rector of Alderly, Cheshire.

A Series of Questions on the Bible, 12mo. 1815.

STEVENS, REV. BROOKE BRIDGES, B.A. of Jesus College, Cambridge, and late curate of Great Coggeshall, in Essex.

A Sermon preached at Great Coggeshall, for the Benefit of the National Schools, 8vo. 1815.

STEVENSON, WILLIAM, Esq.

A new edition of Campbell's Lives of the Admirals, with Additions, 6 v. 8vo. 1815.

STEWART, REV. CHARLES EDWARD, M.A. of Wakes' Colne, in Essex.

The Aliad, an Heroic Epistle to Cloots Redivivus, 8vo. 1815.

STEWART, DAVID.

The Historical Remembrancer, or an Epitome of Universal History, 12mo. 1815.

STOKER, WILLIAM, M.D. physician to the Fever Hospital, Dublin.

A Treatise on Fever, 8vo. 1815.

STONE, THOMAS, lately surveyor and land agent to the Duke of Bedford and other noblemen. This man resided many years in the East Indies, and on his return to England, contrived to lead many persons of distinction to believe that he possessed superior talents in the management of estates. After publishing some books on agriculture, and making a great parade on supposed improvements, he suddenly eloped with twelve thousand pounds belonging to one of his noble employers, and various smaller sums. He died in poverty at Paris, in October, 1815, leaving his wife and family in great distress.

SUTCLIFFE, ROBERT.

Travels in some Parts of North America, 8vo. 1815.

SWIFT, THEOPHILUS, Esq. This gentleman, who inherited much of the eccentricities of his celebrated relative, the Dean of St. Patrick's, was wounded in a duel, by the present Duke of Richmond, then Colonel Lenox, in July, 1789. The cause of the dispute was some offensive language reflecting upon the Colonel, in Mr. Swift's pamphlet entitled "A Letter to the King." Mr. Swift died in Ireland, in the summer of 1815.

T.

THOREAU, T. an Accomptant, who has published

A New and Practical Course of Book-keeping, 4to. 1815.

THORNTON, REV. JOHN.

Sermons on the most important doctrines of the Gospel, 12mo. 1815.

THORP, ROBERT, D.D. late Archdeacon of Northumberland, died in 1812 at the age of 76.

THORPE, ROBERT, LL.D. It is but justice to observe that this gentleman, who was formerly Judge of the Admiralty Court at Quebec, has completely vindicated himself and his conduct from the reflections thrown out in the Report of the African Society. Dr. Thorpe's second pamphlet exhibits many stubborn facts and serious charges against the managers of that Institution, and particularly with regard to the internal state of their settlement at Sierra Leone. His publication is entitled

A Reply, Point by Point, to the Special Report of the Directors of the African Institution, 8vo. 1815.

THURSTON, REV. FREDERIC, M.A.

A View of the Night of Treason, showing in this night when the rebellious Jews rejected the truth that Pilate was a traitor to Caesar, Judas guilty of complicated treachery; and that Peter, after the three denials, according to a distinct prediction, three times apostatized, 8vo. 1815.

TOOKE, REV. WILLIAM, F.R.S. In 1814 this respectable divine acted as Chaplain to Sir William Domville, in which capacity he preached some sermons which, according to custom, were printed for the use and at the expense of the corporation. He also published another preached at St. Luke's for the benefit of the Royal Institution, for the education of the children of the poor, 8vo. 1814.

TOULMIN, JOSHUA, D.D. This gentleman was a native of London, and nearly related to Dr. Samuel Morton Savage, whose life and sermons he published in one volume. The eldest son of Dr. Toulmin was also educated for the ministry, and officiated some years to a congregation of Baptists at Chewbent in Lancashire, but being infected by the revolutionary mania, he sold his property and went to America with his family. Dr. Toulmin died at Birmingham in August 1815, aged 73.

TRUSLER, JOHN, LL.D., after a long and versatile life, the particulars of which would furnish much amusement, this remarkable person closed his career in the course of the present year.

TUCKEY, JAMES HINGSTON, Esq., Captain in the Royal Navy. During this gentleman's confinement in France, which was attended with peculiar severity, his wife and child died in England. He is now engaged in preparations for a journey of discovery into the interior of Africa, by exploring the course of the Niger, in a steam-boat, in which undertaking we hope he will have better success than the enterprising and ingenious Mungo Park.

TUKE, HENRY, died at York, aged 59, in August 1814.

TURTON, SIR THOMAS, Bart. He was born in 1764, being the son of William Turton, Esq. of Nettlebed in Oxfordshire, and of Kingston Lisle in the county of Bucks. The son was bred to the bar, and practised some years in Chancery. He married Mary, daughter and heiress of the Rev. John Michell, rector of Thornhill in the county of York. He was created a Baronet in 1796.

U.

UKLAŃSKI, THE BARON DE, a German Nobleman, who, after suffering much from the rapacity of the French, travelled into different countries, and came to England, where he has evinced his knowledge of our language in a very entertaining and well-written little volume entitled Travels in Poland, Austria, Saxony, Bavaria, and the Tyrol, in the years 1807 and 8, 12mo. 1815.

UNDERWOOD, REV. BENJAMIN, B.D. Prebendary of Ely, Rector of St. Mary Abchurch, and of East Barnet, in Middlesex. This venerable clergyman died at East Barnet in his 80th year, Sept. 14, 1815.

VAN MILDERT, WILLIAM, D.D. Regius Professor of Divinity, and Canon of Christ Church, Oxford. He preached the Bampton Lectures in 1814, of which he has published two editions, having this title: An Inquiry into the general Principle of Scripture Interpretation, in Eight Sermons, preached before the University of Oxford, 8vo. 1815.

W.

WEBB, F.

Panharmonicon, or an attempt to prove the Principle of Harmony, 4to. 1815.

WEYLAND, JOHN, Esq.

The principles of the English Poor Laws, 8vo. 1815.

WHITE, REV. HENRY GEORGE, M.A.

curate of All Hallows Barking, Chaplain to the Duke of Kent.

National Blessings, the source and Rule of National Beneficence, a sermon, preached in aid of the Waterloo Subscription, 8vo. 1815.

WHITTAKER, REV. GEORGE, late Master of the Grammar school at Southampton, and Chaplain to the second Marquis of Lansdowne. He has published the following esteemed school books, Latin Exercises or Exempla Propria, 12mo.—Latin Grammar, 12mo.—British Chronology, or an Epitome of the Kings of England, 18mo.—Grammatical Figures, 18mo.—Fabulæ Selectæ, 18mo.

WHITTINGHAM, SAMPFORD, a Colonel in the British army, Aid de Camp to the Prince Regent, a General in the Spanish service, and Knight of the Military Order of San Fernando. He is a native of Bristol, and greatly distinguished himself during the Peninsular war, particularly in the organizing and disciplining the cavalry. He has published,

A System of Manœuvres in two Lines, 8vo. 1815.

WILLIAMS, HELEN MARIA. This celebrated lady has recently published a volume which, if it does not completely atone for the bad qualities of her former works, will at least entitle her to respect. In this performance she has given some curious particulars of Buonaparte, of whom she was once an admirer, because he was an admirer of Ossian. The following anecdote of that man, however, indicates that she had some reason to form a different opinion of him several years ago, and before his assumption of the imperial dignity. "Buonaparte," says she, "considered the English Newspapers as good as diplomatic dispatches, and containing more accurate information of the state of Europe than the reports of his emissaries in foreign courts. His translators made such strange blunders in the transcript of names, that he often himself collated the translation with the original. In one of these surveys, my name fell under his notice, prefixed to a few verses I had written on the peace of Amiens. He enquired why they were not translated? The translator, with whom I was acquainted, answered, that this had been omitted in conformity to his orders to translate nothing of literature or poetry, in which his name was not mentioned. But could this be possible? An Ode on Peace, without any mention of the Great Pacificator! Le Grand Pacificateur! words which now resounded throughout all France; words that were engraved on marble in palaces, and stuck up below his bust, placed as a sign-post at the door of every hedge-ale-house on the highway. The Ode was translated; and if the First Consul was angry at what was omitted, he was far more irritated at what he found: this was the epithet of subject waves, applied to Britain—

"And thou lov'd Britain, my parental isle, Secure, encircled by thy subject waves."

This was touching a jarring string indeed—this was declaring myself of the faction of sea-despots. It was almost treason; but I had friends at court, and therefore escaped with a slight punishment, inflicted a few months after by the prefect of police, who arrested me and my whole family, on pretext of examining my papers; from which ordeal I came out triumphant, having been detained a prisoner only twenty four hours." See a most interesting volume by Miss Williams, entitled

A Narrative of the Events which have taken place in France from the landing of Napoleon Buonaparte, on the 1st of March 1815, till the Restoration of Louis XVIII. with an account of the present state of society and public opinion, 8vo. 1815.

WILLIAMS, JOHN AMBROSE.

Metrical Essays, 12mo. 1815.

WILMOT, JOHN EARDLEY, Esq. Barrister at Law. This gentleman who was the son of the Lord Chief Justice Wilmot, and a commissioner for settling the claims of the American loyalists, died at Tottenham aged 66, in July 1815.

WOLLASTON, FRANCIS, LL.D. F.R.S. This learned divine and able astronomer, died at his rectory of Chislehurst, in Kent, Oct. 31, 1815, aged 84.

WOODS, GEORGE.

An Account of the past and present state of the Isle of Man, 8vo. 1815.

WORDSWORTH, CHRISTOPHER, D. D. Dean and Rector of Bocking. This learned divine has recently printed by command of the Archbishop,

A Sermon preached in the Chapel of Lambeth, at the Consecration of the Hon. and Right Rev. Henry Ryder, Lord Bishop of Gloucester, 4to. 1815.
